"I suffered from kidney trouble for ten years. I felt heavy and sleepy after meals, I was always tired and nervous and I had a bitter taste in my mouth, especially in the mornings. I was often dizzy, my memory was failing, and I was very irritable. Stiffness in the joints, backache, headache, and finally rheumatism were added to my troubles.

"I finally decided to try Dodd's Kidney Pills and I took two boxes. I found them satisfactory in every way. I do not think they can be excelled."

It is well to remember that the need for the practice of thrift did not cease when the war ended. There is just as much need for personal and community thrift now as in the black days of 1918, when every thinking Canadian realized that stringent self-denial was necessary to place the people of this country in a position to meet the demands of the Government for more and yet more money with which to carry on the war. This great dread has happily been removed, but there still remains a duty to perform and it is essential that it should be faced. It is necessary to carry on public works that will aid production, in order to provide employment and wages for the laboring classes. We have also a costly legacy from the war in the form of a heavy burden of debt interest. There are also the obligations to those who wre maimed and to the dependents of those who gave their lives in the Great War. These must be discharged to the full. These serious obligations will have to be met and they can be met only by the practice of thrift and self-denial by every citizen of the Dominion.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

Seeding in Ontario has been seriously delayed this spring by the unusually wet- backward weather. On low-lying lands the farmers have found it almost impossible to get on the land and some of them have little or nothing at all sown even at this late date. Warm, sunshiny weather is needed at once if the situation is to be retrieved on this class of lands. On the lighter, drier lands, farmers are through or almost through with their seeding. It is surprising to learn that some of them finished sowing almost two weeks ago and that their grain is nearly all through the ground. This shows what energy and perseverance can accomplish even under the most unfavorable conditions. While the wet weather has retarded the spring seeding, it has benefitted the meadows and pasture lands, which are coming along nicely. The former give promise of an abundant hay crop and in these days of stock-raising plenty of good pasture constitutes one of the farmer's vital needs. The spring has also been favorable for fall wheat and rye, which wintered well and are reported uniformly good. Considering everything even the backward season does not seem to work out entirely to the farmer's disadvantage. Even if the weather is too wet to get along with the seeding as he would like, the superfluous moisture helps the grass lands and give the fall crops a good start on the way toward a bountiful harvest.

The Farmers' Sun attributes the high price of butter to the export of supplies which would in the ordinary course have been kept in Canada to meet the home demand until the cattle were again on the grass. Exports of butter for the year ending March 31st, 1919, were more than treble the exports for the previous year. The heavy exports caused a shortage, which naturally resulted in a sharp advance in prices. Of the butter exported more than four million dollars worth was sent to Europe by command of Food Controller Thompson, who commandeered stocks at fixed price. The Sun is by no means enthusiastic over the effects of government interference in business matters. It suggests that it was the Fuel Controllers in Canada and the United States who really raised the price of coal and points out that under government control the railways of the United States made a loss of 192 millions of dollars in the first three months of the present year. Conditions have of course been exceptional on account of the war, the abnormal demands created by the war and the world shortage in foodstuffs resulting from the decrease in production owing to the withdrawal of millions of able-bodied men from productive occupations. These have had much to do with the increase in prices, but it is nevertheless a fact that nearly every attempt by the government to regulate the price of a commodity has been followed by an advance in the price of this particular commodity. Inasmuch as excessive price was reason for governmental interferance, the further advance in price following the attempt at regulation is something hard to understand.

A. at Kingston a short time after he gave up his position here in June, 1916. He went overseas in September, 1916, and to France in December of the same year. He served with the Artillery until the armistice was signed, had the pleasure o fbeing in the march into Germany and arrived home about six weeks ago. He returned to Canada on the Olympic, which sailed from Southampton on May 10th and reached Halifax six days later.

The following night a big reception was held in his honor at the home of Mr John Bryan, when the young people of the neighborhood all enjoyed a good night in music, dancing and other amusements, the merrymaking continuing until the wee hours of the morning. The house was attractively decorated in red, white and blue and union jacks. Pte. Hoptrough has made his home with Mr Bryan since he was a mere lad, being only twelve years of age when he came out from England. He went overseas with the 164th Batt. and has therefore spent about three years in khaki. He took part in a lot of hard fighting, crossed the Rhine with the victorious Canadians and has the good fortune to return home safe and sound. He will be returning to his old home in England in a short time. His friends here join in wishing him every success in the future.

S. Q. M. S. Albert Clarke, whose welcome home on Tuesday night of last week, was reported in last week's issue of The Banner, was living in the West when the war commenced. Ten days after Great Britain's declaration of war he enlisted with the 19th Dragoons at Edmonton. He was rushed overseas the same month and trained at the well remembered Salisbury Plains camp. He reached France on May 4th, 1915, and received his baptism of fire in the battle of Festubert on May 24th., Victoria Day back in Canada. Sergt. Clarke saw some strenuous service in the early years of the war, when the odds in men and heavy guns and general fighting equipment were all against the Allies, but he had the satisfaction of seeing the tables turned last year, when the Huns were outnumbered, out-gunned and out-generalled. Sergt. Clarke had the good luck to return home unhurt, save for the loss of the hearing in one ear caused by the bursting of a shell close to him in one of his numerous battles. The young soldier is a son of Mrs. John Clarke, Purple Hill. His homecoming is saddened by the death of his father, who passed away early last year after a short illness.

HOME FROM QUEBEC

County Treasurer C. R. Wheelock and Ex-Mayor Dr. G. H. Campbell arrived home on Saturday night from the Canadian Good Roads Convention held in Quebec City last week. They report the largest and best Good Roads Convention ever held in Canada. The question of Federal Aid in the construction of highways was discussed very fully and while no policy was announced there is every reason to believe that a definite pronouncement will be forthcoming in the near future. The two Orangeville delegates had the pleasure of motoring from Montreal to Quebec a distance of 180 miles over the splendid highway constructed by the municipalities with the financial assistance of the province. They frankly confess that the excellent condition of the road for the entire distance was a revelation. They say it would be hard to equal it in Ontario outside of the Hamilton highway. The autos averaged 35 miles an hour for the entire journey. The excellent roadway and the magnificent scenery along the St. Lawrence made the trip something to be remembered with pleasure. Mr. Wheelock was re-elected to the Executive of the Association.

PALE AND WEAK DESPONDENT PEOPLE

Owe Their Condition to Weak, Watery Blood—How to Regain Strength.

Every woman's health is peculiarly dependent upon the condition of her blood. Far too many women suffer with headaches, pains in the back, poor appetite, weak digestion, palpitation of the heart, a constant feeling of weariness, shortness of breath, pallor and nervousness. Of course all these symptoms may not be present in any particular case. They are merely a warning that the blood is out of order, and that it is thin and watery, and if you note any of these symptoms in your own case, you should lose no time in taking the proper steps to enrich and purify the blood. Anaemia—poverty of the blood—is a most insidious disease and if allowed to run will end in a complete breakdown of the system. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are, beyond doubt, the greatest blood-making tonic offered the public to-day. For more than a quarter of a century they have been the stand-by of hundreds of thousands of people in all parts of the world. No other medicine has ever achieved such world-wide popularity, and the reason is that this medicine does what is claimed for it, enriches and purifies the blood, thus bringing new strength to every organ and every nerve in the body. In this way Dr. Williams' Pink Pills bring new health to weak, despondent people. Among the many who speak highly of this medicine is Mrs. Louis D. Larsh, Windsor, Ont., who says:—"It would be impossible for me to recommend Dr. Williams' Pink Pills too highly. Some years ago I was very thin and pale; I suffered many of the symptoms of anaemia, and always felt tired, depressed and weak. I had tried several medicines, but they did not seem to help me. Then acting on the advice of a friend, I began taking Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. Before I had used half a dozen boxes I was actually feeling like a new person and had gained nine pounds in weight. I continued taking the pills until I had taken a dozen boxes, and from that time I have always enjoyed the best of health. I freely write you this letter in the hope that some woman in need as I was, will see it and be benefited as I have been."

Most of the troubles that affect mankind are due to impoverished blood and will promptly disappear if the blood is built up and renewed. If you are ailing, give this greatest of tonic medicines a fair trial and it will not disappoint you. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills can be procured through any dealer in medicines, or will be sent by mail at 50c. a box or six boxes for $2.50 by writing The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

VICTORIA DAY LACROSSE

The Dufferins sent a team down to Streetsville on Victoria Day to play an exhibition engagement with the Brampton Excelsiors. The oldtime rivals put up a fast, snappy game considering the limited opportunities they have had for practice. Most of the players found the pace trying and some of them were flying distress signals before the game was over. A number of substitutes were used, giving the managers of the two teams an excellent opportunity to get a line on the merits of their men. Brampton excelled in the scoring department and won the game by 8 goals to 4. The play was more even than the score would indicate and with a little more seasoning the green shirts think they can just about turn the tables on the Peel capital bunch. The Orangeville players were:—goal, H. Firth (B. Booth); Point, D. Densmore; coverpoint, Stan. Cranston; 1st def., V. Dedrick (W. H. Hunter); 2nd def., Earl Densmore (Jack Rooney); centre, Earl Stevenson (Jimmie Dawson); 2nd home, Hutch Keith; 1st home, Ross Curry; outside, Gil Vanwyck; inside, Fred Golden. Charlie Morrison performed the duties of referee in an acceptable manner.

DIED IN AUTO

Mr. C. S. Wood, Stricken by Heart Disease, Near Brampton.

Yesterday evening, Charles Stephen Wood, of Tiverton, died in an automobile when about seven miles north of Brampton on the Centre Road.

Mr. Wood and his son, who was driving, and his brother, Mr. George Wood, of Vancouver, B.C., were going from Tiverton to Toronto where they had business in connection with an estate.

Mr. Wood had been chatting with his brother and then fell silent, his body inclining against the shoulder of the brother. Thus he died and without the brother knowing it. It was only when the son, in the driver's seat, turned about and looking at his father noticed something in the attitude of the body that struck him as peculiar and the attention of the brother was called to it. It was a shock to find that the man whom he had thought only tired, when he reclined against his shoulder, was really dead.

After the discovery of the father's death the son turned about and brought the body to Torrance's undertaking rooms, where Coroner Lawson viewed it and gave a certificate of death.

Mr. Wood was a strong, big man, who weighed two hundred and forty pounds. He was a native of Devonshire, Eng., and had long been a resident of Tiverton neighborhood where he was a contracting mason and latterly a farmer. He was seventy-three years of age and is survived by his wife, three sons and two daughters. The body was shipped to his old home today by train.—Peel Banner.

ILL PAID TEACHERS

Members of the Profession Compare Their Salaries With Those Paid Stenographers.

The Banner has been asked to reproduce the following letter which appeared in the Toronto Globe a short time ago:—

To the Editor of The Globe: There are many vacant rural schools in Ontario at the present time. One Inspector in Southern Ontario has ten schools closed in his inspectorate alone because teachers cannot be had.

Certainly the cause of this is the poor salary paid to the public school teacher. Unfortunately for the majority of school sections teachers cannot hibernate for the two summer months—they must eat and dress—and as their salary is not sufficient they leave the teaching profession and find some other occupation with better pay.

How many parents will educate their children with the prospects that are before the teacher? A student teacher must put in at least five years' training after her Entrance, while a student-stenographer attends a business college for one year and then she is out earning her own living. The student teacher is an expense to her parents for four years longer, and then when she finally emerges a full-fledged school teacher she is given a salary of six hundred or six hundred and fifty a year.

Meanwhile her young stenographic friend, who started on a salary of sixty dollars a month four years ago, at the age of twenty is earning anywhere from eighty-five to one hundred dollars a month, a yearly salary of ten hundred and twenty to twelve hundred dollars a year. Why should school teachers who require more education receive less salary than stenographers, bookkeepers, railroad employees, civil servants and the business world's employees in general?

There is an association that pretends to look after the teachers' interests. This association is not doing its duty. It could raise the salaries if it were so disposed. Did it not push superannuation through when it cared to do so? Unless teachers get together and organize themselves into an association that will have the teachers' interests at heart there will always be a lack of teachers, and the very kind of teachers we need for our boys and girls will leave the profession.

We want the teacher with some initiative and snap about her, and we cannot coax that kind of person into the profession permanently with such an alluring bait as sixty-five dollars a month, with a maximum of eight hundred dollars a year after five and six years of hard toil.

ALTON.

Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Chantler and family motored to Beeton for the holiday.

Mr. N. Dilman, who sold his business to W. F. Tennyson and Son of Inglewood, a couple of months ago, has bought a business in Erin and will move his family to that village shortly.

Mr. Amos Mason and a party of friends motored to Toronto for the baseball game on Saturday.

Dr. King, who has just returned from Siberia, spent the week-end with Mr. and Mrs. Amos Mason.

Citizens who stayed at home for the holiday, had the pleasure of witnessing a good baseball game between Alton and Brampton teams. The local team won rather easily.

Miss Marie Teeter had one of her legs broken in two places in an unfortunate runaway accident on Saturday afternoon. We sympathize with the young lady in her mishap.

The Barber Carriage Co. is doing a big business this spring repainting automobiles. The Company is turning out first class work, and has filled a large number of outside orders.

Mrs. W. A. Dorrington has gone to Worcester, Mass. to visit her sister for a month.

The Department of Agriculture is introducing a two weeks' Physical Culture Course into a number of rural communities through the agency of the Women's Institute Branches. Following the wishes of the late J. W. Stark, District Representative for the county, the first of these is to be tried out in Alton. This Course, taught by Miss Hazel Startup, of Toronto, will commence in the Town Hall at 8 o'clock on the evening of June 2nd. and will run until June 13th., when a Demonstration Concert will be given illustrating the teaching. A lecturer on the subject has been secured and some good musical talent will also contribute to the programme. Proceeds will go to the Town Hall Fund. Watch for further particulars. Anyone in Alton or vicinity wishing to take advantage of this privilege should communicate with Miss E. Dowswell, Secretary of the Women's Institute, Alton. The Course costs 25 cents to Institute members and 50 cents to others.

LAUREL

Dr. R. Belfry and wife, of Toronto, visited friends in this vicinity over the 24th.

The Laurel Creamery is running at top notch capacity under the capable supervision of the genial manager, Mr. J. A. Hughes.

We are sorry to learn of the continued illness of Mr. John W. Gordon, but all hope that he will soon be on the road toward recovery.

Our baseball team wended their way over to the Mono Rocks on the holiday and played a friendly game with the Rocktown team. Our boys had the better of the argument, winning the game by a score of 11 to 2. The Laurel players were W. R. Grosskurth, E. Richardson, W. Langtree, Oliver Ewing, A. Richardson, R. Querrie, C. Grosskurth, W. B. Grosskurth and A. Harrison.

The roads hereabouts are very bad for motoring. The steady rainy weather has created a lot of bad holes and ruts.

We do not hear anything of late about the memorial that was to be erected in honor of the boys who sacrificed their lives in the Great War and others who ran a big chance of doing the same by going to the front and venturing all for King and Country. We hope that some leading man or men of the community will take hold of the matter. We should not forget now that the danger is over what it meant to the boys to risk their lives. Even supposing the north end of the township is not in favor of doing anything, why should we let that worry? We hope to hear of something being done in the near future.

BALLYCROY

A very pleasant evening was spent at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Jos. H. Pettit, when Pte. William Phillips, recently returned from France, was presented with an address and made the recipient of a club bag by a number of friends and neighbors. Mr. Wm. Donnan made the presentation and Mr. Wilson Rawn read the address, which was worded as follows:—

To Pte. William Phillips:

We, your friends, are gathered here this evening to welcome you back as one who has experienced many of the hardships occasioned by war. You first came to our midst a strange boy in a strange land and little did we then think that you would be one of our representatives in the Great War. We sincerely hope that the experiences through which you have passed will make you a citizen better fitted to make this Canada of ours a better place in which to live. You have passed through seasons of loneliness, have known what it meant to be wounded, and we are pleased to be able to welcome you back recovered. Now that all that is past you can look back with pride upon the achievements of the past three years and feel with us that three years of your life have been devoted to the highest service, that of God, King and Country. We feel that words are small things with which to express the gratitude we owe to one who has risked his life for us. Therefore to show our appreciation of your services in helping to maintain our freedom in the recent struggle for liberty, we ask you to accept this club bag as a token from your many friends, and may every blessing attend you.

CHILDHOOD CONSTIPATION

Constipated children can find prompt relief through the use of Baby's Own Tablets. The Tablets are a mild but thorough laxative which never fail to regulate the bowels and stomach, thus driving out constipation and indigestion; colds and simple fevers. Concerning them Mrs. Gaspard Daigle, Demain, Quebec, writes: "Baby's Own Tablets have been of great benefit to my little boy, who was suffering from constipation and indigestion. They quickly relieved him and now he is in the best of health." The Tablets are sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 25c. a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

MONO COLLEGE INSTITUTE

The annual meeting of the Mono College Women's Institute was held at the home of Mrs. M. J. Leighton, First Ave., Orangeville, on the afternoon of May 1st. Owing to inclement weather a number of the members were unable to attend, but the usual business was disposed of. The following officers were elected:—

President—Mrs. A. E. Porterfield.
Vice-Pres.—Mrs. R. E. Jackson.
Sec.-Treas.—Edith L. Anderson
Organist—Miss Gertrude Jackson.
Auditors—Mrs. W. J. McKitrick,
—Mrs. W. J. Cruickshank,

A short musical programme consisting of solos by Mrs. R. E. Jackson and Miss Bernice Leighton and a piano duet by Misses Birdie Leighton and Edith Anderson followed. The hostess then served a dainty lunch and a very enjoyable social hour was spent by all.

The next meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Oliver Sproule, Centre Road, on Thursday afternoon, June 5th. All the members are urgently requested to attend as there is important business to be discussed.

NOT ONLY LATE SPRING

Farmers, who are disposed to get down-hearted because of the late seeding, should bear in mind that this is not the latest spring that Ontario has had. They should also find some comfort in the fact that other late springs have been followed by normal summers and good crops. In 1907 for instance the weather was wretchedly cold and there was a heavy snowfall on May 27th. There was very little growth during May and the average snowfall in the Province was 2.8 inches during the month. The abnormally cold weather caused some people to fear that the country was in for a "summerless year." The season was very unusual in other respects. The rainfall in April was 2.27 inches as compared with a 26 year average of 1.64 inches. On May 16th, correspondents of the Bureau of Industries reported vegetation two weeks late, with much seeding to be done and only the earliest trees starting to leaf out. Notwithstanding these unfavorable spring conditions it is a matter of encouragement to learn that crop returns were satisfactory in Ontario in 1907. Fall wheat averaged 23 bushels per acre against a 26 year average of 20.6 bushels; spring wheat 17.1 bushels against an average of 15.9; barley 28.3, against 27.7 and oats 28.5 against 35.8. It will be noted that the last named crop is the only one that fell below the 26 year average.

GLENCROSS.

The heartfelt sympathy of the whole community goes out to Miss Bebecca Little, lot 16, Con. 5, east, Mono, in the severe bereavement she has suffered through the death of her brother, James, who passed away on Tuesday, May 20th. from the effects of a paralytic stroke. Deceased, who was 63 years of age, had been in ill-health for the past eight months or longer. The late Mr. Little was of a kindly and cheerful disposition and was held in genuine esteem by a wide circle of neighbors and friends. His was a warm, sympathetic nature and he was always willing and ready to give a helping hand to any in need of assistance. Beside his sister at home, he is survived by a married sister, Mrs. Jas. Hackett, of Orangeville, and one brother, John Little, who came home from Oregon to visit his brother five weeks ago after an absence of thirty-five years. The funeral was held from his late residence to Relessey cemetery on Friday afternoon and was largely attended, there being upwards of one hundred vehicles in the solemn procession that slowly wended its way from the stricken home to the place of burial. Rev. P. C. Howard, rector of Mono West Parish, officiated at the house and grave and was assisted by Rev. A. C. McCallum, rector of Mono East. The pallbearers were Messrs. Robt. McKenna, Gilbert Hackett, Arthur Avison, W. J. Stinson, W. J. Coleman and R. J. Anderson. There were a number of beautiful floral tributes, among them being a sheaf of wheat from the brother and sisters and a spray from Lloyd Pearson. Friends from Shelburne, Orangeville, Adjala, and other outside points attended the obsequies.

DUFFS IN TWO SERIES

The final grouping of the teams that will likely compete in the O. A. L. A. series this season was made in Toronto on Thursday night. The Dufferins are entered in two series, the grouping being as follows:—

Intermediate—Group No. 1—Owen Sound, Orangeville, Hanover, Durham, Mt. Forest. Convener, Bert Booth, Orangeville.

Junior—Group No. 3—Shelburne, Orangeville, Hanover and Walkerton.

Bert Booth has called a meeting of representatives of the intermediate teams in Dundalk for the purpose of drafting the district schedule.

DEATH OF DANIEL MAY.

The death of Mr. Daniel May, a former citizen of Orangeville, took place at his home in Orillia on Monday after a severe illness. Deceased, who was 79 years of age, had spent the most of his lifetime in and near Orangeville. He was at one time employed with the late Wm. Daniels and subsequently with the firm of Gilchrist and Kent. He was also engaged as clerk in the Orangeville Registry Office for a number of years. Deceased was a quiet, industrious man and a good citizen, whose demise will be keenly regretted by many old friends of the family in and around Orangeville. He is survived by a widow, who is a sister of Nightwatchman Thos. Dawson, and a family of two sons and two daughters. The family are Dawson May, of Chicago, George May, of Edmonton, Mrs. Lane, of Detroit, and Mrs. Mott, of Orillia. The remains were brought to Orangeville for burial, the funeral taking place from the home of his brother-in-law, Mr. Thos. Dawson, to Greenwood cemetery at 2.30 o'clock yesterday afternoon. Rev. Mr. Dumas, who is at present taking the services in St. Mark's church, conducted the services.

THE LATE ALF. MAGUIRE

As briefly noted in last week's Banner the death of Mr. Alfred Maguire a widely known Mono man, took place at his late home, lot 23, 7th. line, in that township, on Wednesday, May 21st after a comparatively short illness. Deceased had not been any too well for a considerable time, but was not taken seriously ill until about two weeks before his demise and was bedfast only three days. Deceased was unmarried and had lived alone on his farm for the past twenty years. Relatives and neighbors gave him every care and attention during his last illness. A brother-in-law, Mr. George Lee, came and stayed with him until the end. Deceased was a genial, good-natured man, who had many warm friends. He was the owner of a three hundred acre farm in Mono, and also owned at least a half section of Western farm land. He was the youngest son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Maguire, old residents of Mono. John Maguire, of Minneapolis, Alexander and William Maguire, of Chicago, and James Maguire, of Cranbrook, B.C., are the surviving brothers. Mrs. Geo. Lee, of Adjala, is the only sister. The funeral, which was largely attended, was held to St. John's church cemetery, 7th line, Mono, on Friday afternoon, Rev. A. C. McCallum conducting the services at the house and grave. The pallbearers were Messrs. Ben Anderson, Jas. Colwell, W. J. Bower, Sam. Rawn, Geo. Patterson and Joseph Quinn. Two of the brothers, John, of Minneapolis, and William, of Chicago, and a sister-in-law, Mrs. Alex. Maguire, of Chicago, were here for the funeral. The late Mr. Maguire was 52 years of age.

MRS. HUGH HALEY

The death of Mrs. Hugh Haley, one of the early residents of Orangeville, took place at the home of her son-in-law, Mr. Sydney Murch, 5712 Kenmore Ave., Chicago, on Thursday last, May 22nd. Deceased had made her home with Mr. and Mrs. Murch since the death of her husband in February 1918. She was 85 years of age, but notwithstanding her advanced years was bright active and in the enjoyment of good health until a short time before her demise. The late Mrs. Haley, whose maiden name was Margaret Simpson, was born in Guelph and lived in that city until her marriage to Mr. Haley in 1861. Her husband was a builder and contractor and did an extensive business in the early days when the building trade was brisk in town and the surrounding district. He erected the High and Public Schools, the Town Hall, St. Andrew's, St. Mark's and the Baptist churches and a number of the fine business blocks on Broadway. Mrs. Haley was an active member of the Methodist church and always took a warm interest in the activities of the church. She was a devoted wife and mother and was held in the highest esteem as a neighbor and an exemplary Christian woman. She is survived by two sons, John S. and Chas. Haley, of Toronto, and one daughter, Mrs. Murch in Chicago. An interesting coincidence in connection with her death is the death of her sister, Mrs. Fleming, who passed away at her home in Pittsburg on Wednesday evening of last week at 7 o'clock. Mrs. Haley died at 6.30 o'clock on the following morning. The two sisters were the last surviving members of their family. Mr. and Mrs. Murch accompanied the remains of their mother to Orangeville arriving here on Monday morning. The funeral was held from the C. P. R. station to the Forest Lawn Cemetery immediately after the arrival of the train, Rev. E. R. Young conducting the service at the grave. The pallbearers were Messrs. Thos. Wright, W. M. Green, R. H. Robinson, Geo. Perfect, E. C. Clark and Robert Allen.

THE METHODIST CHURCH

In the midst of the flowers of spring six children were baptized last Sunday morning and three candidates for membership were received.

In the evening a patriotic service was held. Even after being dead nearly twenty years the influence of Queen Victoria is great today. In the times of crisis and of expansion of the British Empire her power was great and her weight was always on the moral side. She was loved because of her personal goodness and became in life that bound together the scattered elements of the British Empire. These ties of love, loyalty and liberty outsiders could not understand. The German war-lords thought them ropes of sand but found them ropes of steel. Historians will always turn to the "Victorian Era" as one of the brightest in the history of the British Empire. The worth of Queen Victoria was moral. It was because goodness was at the centre of the British Empire that there went out gracious influences of helpfulness, kindness and confidence to the ends of the Empire. May her name long be treasured and her goodness be ever known and be ever an inspiration to the people of the British Empire.

There was a large attendance at the Epworth League last Monday evening. Mr. Elmer Still was in the chair. Mr. William Haslam gave a violin solo which was so much appreciated that an encore was called for. Miss Annis gave two readings that were much enjoyed. The popular choir-leader, Mr. Jessop, sang and he was also encored. Mr. Jack Aiken gave an address on the Great War. He confined his remarks to a description of the battle of Vimy Ridge, one of the most glorious pages in the history of the service of our Canadian troops.

300,000 Persons Who Value a Dollar Drive a Maxwell

ONE reason—and the main one—why persons change from one car to another after a year's use is this: the cost is too much to keep it running.

A Maxwell possesses the prized virtue of staying out of the repair shop and running and running and running. This is why:

Raw materials are purchased in large quantities and for cash. Economy No. 1.

There are no engineering knick-knacks in a Maxwell. Economy No. 2.

The road testing engineer who spends 12 months a year testing Maxwell cars for weaknesses, and who has driven a motor car further than any living man finds the "mistakes" before they get into production and are therefore not passed on to you. Economy No. 3.

Maxwell cars are built on the original chassis plan laid down 5 years ago 300,000 have been built to date. Doing one thing always results in doing it well. Economy No. 4.

All "temperament" is taken out of the car by the engineering department so that it is well nigh impossible to find a Maxwell with an "uneven disposition." Economy No. 5.

There are 25 others. These fortify you against after-trouble in a Maxwell. That is why you can be doubly sure on a Maxwell if you value highly a thrifty dollar. Most persons do, and 300,000 of them drive Maxwells.

Honest Opinion Doctor Gave His Patient

Bedford, Ohio.—"I was in a pitiful condition, weak, nervous and run down so I could not do my housework. I had doctored for years and tried everything under the sun. A friend told me about Vinol. I asked my doctor about it, and he replied, 'It certainly is the best medicine that can be had today. I couldn't give you any better.' I took it, and today I am as well and strong as any woman could wish to be, and it was Vinol that saved me."—Mrs. Frank A. Horkey, Ash St., Bedford, Ohio.

IN MEMORIAM

In sad memory of our dear boy, Joseph E. Legate, who departed this life February 21st., 1919:

Three months have passed and gone,
Since one we loved so well,
Was taken from his home on earth
With Jesus Christ to dwell.

His memory is as dear to-day,
As the hour he passed away;
When days are dark and friends are few,
Dear boy, how we long for you.

Home to Jesus, Home to Glory;
Every wave of trouble o'er;
Thou art now, with other loved ones,
On that Happy, golden shore.

Father, Mother and Sisters.
Orangeville, May 19th.

IN MEMORIAM.

DUKE—In ever loving memory of William George Duke, who died Dec. 5th, 1918.

Could I have held his dying head or heard his last farewell,
The blow might not have been so hard for one he loved so well.
He was one of the best that God could lend,
A dutiful husband, a faithful friend
Aloving father, true and kind,

Wife and little Son.

ALL SERVICE FREE TO SOLDIER SETTLER

Chairman of the Soldier Settlement Board Denies Statement Recently Published.

That the majority of the provincial offices of the Soldier Settlement Board are up to date with their land inspections was the statement made by Chairman W. J. Black. Unfortunately, weather conditions in the early spring in some provinces retarded field operations. While endeavoring to prevent undue expense in cost of inspections, the Board, by the employment of a number of temporary inspectors, did everything possible to expedite the early settlement of the men on the land, and there are very few old applications now awaiting decision by the loan advisory committees. Mr. Black emphatically denied a statement that had been published that excessive expenses in connection with loans are being charged soldier settlers.

"No expenses are chargeable to the soldier settler in connection with his loan for land purchase," he said. "The Board pays all costs of administration (office expenses and cost of inspections), and this is not charged against the settler's loan. In fact, all service is supplied free and the soldier pays only the actual cost of his land."

Keeping the Domestic

Every woman knows how hard it is to get and keep a really good domestic.

One chief reason why many domestics leave otherwise pleasant positions is because of the strain of "wash day." The tub, washboard and hand wringer are too much for them.

You can overcome all this and keep a good domestic, if you have one, or get one if you haven't, by placing in your home a the wonderful time, money and labor-saving washer that is made in Toronto, and absolutely guaranteed in every respect. It does all the washing and wringing in less than half the usual time, really DOES ALL the hard work BETTER than YOU can—YOU merely put the clothes in the cylinder and switch the electric button. The "1900" is so simple a child can operate it without possibility of accident. Don't let another wash-day go by without seeing it for yourself.

"1900" Electric Washer

SPECIAL DEMONSTRATIONS

In order that everyone may see an electric washer in actual operation and realize what a great labor-saving appliance it is, we will give a special demonstration in your own home. We will show you how easy and economical it is to do all your household washing with a "1900."

MRS. NEWHALL ON VERGE OF DESPAIR

"Tanlac was the only thing that gave me any relief, and I am convinced that it is the right medicine for people in the condition I was in," said Mrs. Elizabeth Newhall of Oshawa, Ont., recently.

'I had been in a general rundown condition for over a year," she continued, "was extremely nervous, had no strength nor energy and the least little exertion would so exhaust me that I would feel real faint, I ached all over and felt half dead all the time. I had no appetite and would skip meal after meal. Nervous, blinding headaches would almost drive me distracted; my nerves were shattered so that the least little thing would upset me and I'd get up in the morning feeling so miserable I could hardly keep on my feet.

"After taking Tanlac a few days I began to feel better. My appetite is now splendid and nothing I eat hurts me at all. Those terrible headaches are all gone, I have more life and energy and my work is a real pleasure to me."

"Tanlac is sold in Orangeville by C. V. Jeffers, in Grand Valley by G. E. Morrow, in Shelburne by J. E. A. White, and in Grand Valley by W. T. Edmonson."

JOHN M'QUARRIE

Prominent Owen Sound Man Died En Route to Hospital.

The death of Mr. Jonn McQuarrie, 8th St. E., occurred on Monday morning under most distressing circumstances, while being brought to Owen Sound from Hope Bay. He left here on Friday morning with about 75 head of cattle which he was putting on his 1000 acre pasture farm at Hope Bay. A telephone message on Saturday told of his illness and Dr. Danard and Mrs. McQuarrie hurried to his side. It was thought best to get him to the hospital here and he was being driven to Wiarton yesterday morning when he expired. The body was brought on the G. T. R. train yesterday. He was one of the most widely known residents of the town and a man of sterling character and worth. His death is a great loss to the community. The late Mr. McQuarrie was born in Egremont Twp., fifty-two years ago, the son of the late John McQuarrie and Mrs. McQuarrie, who now resides at Shrigley. Twenty-five years ago last March he married Miss Elizabeth Parr of Shrigley who survives him. Seventeen years ago he went to Alberta and then they lived in Dundalk for over a year, coming to Owen Sound twelve years ago, where Mr. McQuarrie had charge of different building operations. Although a Reformer in politics, Mr. McQuarrie took only a quiet interest in affairs of government reserving a more active interest for Temperance problems to which he was always keenly attentive.

Besides his sorrowing widow, Mr. McQuarrie is survived by one daughter, Ida, and a son, Mervin, of the Union Bank staff, both at home; his mother, Mrs. Jno. McQuarrie of Shrigley; four sisters and one brother, Mrs. George Bailey and Miss Sarah McQuarrie of Shrigley; Mrs. Cole, of Collingwood; Mrs. Neil McClean, of Eyebrow, Sask., and Mr. Lauchlan McQuarrie, of Shrigley. The funeral takes place tomorrow at 3 o'clock from the family residence on 8th street, to Greenwood Cemetery, Rev. T. G. McAteer of First Methodist church conducting the services. The pall bearers will be Messrs. A. A. Parks, J. Kellestine, W. P. Evans, S. J. Kearns, James Hutchison and Jos. Thompson. A number of beautiful floral tributes testified to the esteem in which the deceased was held. The bereaved family have the sympathy of the community in their sorrow.—Owen Sound Sun-Times.

PRIMITIVE SETTLEMENT.

Early Privations—Carding and Spinning in the Backwoods—Profitable Ventures.

By Thomas McLaughlin.
(Third Letter.)

As the pioneer miller at Mono on the Humber had surmised, the opening for business of the grist mill there in 1825 speeded up settlement in the neighborhood. Some gave up their little homes, already under way at a distance, and moved nearer the mill, for the double purpose of being near the source of food supply, and because they were sure of work when they could spare time from their homesteads. A general store was opened, and although the stock of goods was small, it was "general" enough to serve the wants of the district.

Profitable Ventures.

In a few years' time a sawmill, an oatmeal mill, a carding mill (for wool) and then another bigger and better flour mill followed. All were kept busy by the ever-increasing products of the townships, and were very profitable ventures for the owner, who thus provided flour and oatmeal and groceries to eat, lumber to build with, and whose carding mill materially lightened the labor of the women folk in all the country around.

Carding the Wool.

Up to the time of its establishment, the wool taken from the sheep's back, after washing, had to be manufactured into yarn, entirely by the work of the farmer's wife and daughters. The first process—that of carding—was done by hand cards, really a pair of wire brushes, between which the raw wool was pulled and repulled until it was loosened up and shaped into a long roll ready for spinning. It was then spun into yarn on the spinning wheel, which every house boasted and which, in those early days, was an article of necessary utility and not the ribbon-bedecked show-piece found occasionally among the "antiques" of some city dwellers of the present day.

Weaving the Yarn.

After spinning, the yarn was taken to the local weaver. The weaver was generally a man lacking the vigor necessary for clearing woods and the other strenuous work of the settler. He was often "a bit of a scholar," too, and although he worked long hours and continuously, it was seldom he ever made any progress. If he owned a farm, it was neglected and did not increase in value through being improved, as did the farms of his neighbors. But nothwithstanding his unprogressiveness in a general way, he supplied a real need to the community, and the wool that left the farmer's home as yarn was brought back a web of real cloth to cover the family, from the oldest to the youngest.

A Tedious Process.

Carding the wool by hand was the most tedious of all the different processes in its manufacture into cloth, so when a carding mill was established at Mono Mills, in a building all its own, and driven by a large wheel turned by the water of the good old Humber river, a load was lifted from the shoulders of the wives and daughters dwelling for miles in all directions, a load represented by weeks and weeks of weary work for each and all. (Incidentally, there is a man in charge of an office building in this city who "ran" that same carding mill in Mono Mills for the owner nearly sixty years ago, when a youth of 20).

Old Grist Mill on Humber River at Mono Mills.

NOW IS THE TIME TO WAGE WAR ON FLIES

Certain authorities are predicting more than usual trouble with flies during the coming summer, owing largely to the comparatively mild winter. Whether or not the theory is correct, no chances should be taken. The common housefly is one of man's most dangerous enemies. As a means of spreading a number of serious diseases such as typhoid fever, dysentery and tuberculosis the fly plays a sinister role. Its ability to reproduce itself is amazing, the descendants of less expenditure of effort than at any other season of the year.

a single pair numbering millions in a season under ordinary favorable conditions. Such conditions exist where rubbish, filth and manure are left unprotected so that flies may lay their eggs therein. Consequently, the first principle in exterminating the pests is rigid cleanliness and then more cleanliness. The fly avoids cleanly conditions as men avoid the plague. Dirt and disorder are its natural habitat. It is of prime importance that every individual and every community should see that the winter's accumulation of dirt and rubbish should be carefully collected and destroyed. Manure should be so handled, either in fly-proof pits, or bins with maggot traps, as to prevent flies breeding. It is important also that garbage be carefully gathered and disposed of, for it too provides a sanctuary for flies.

Liver Was All Upset and There Was Pain Under the Shoulder-blade — Two Interesting Letters.

So many people suffer from derangements of the liver that we feel sure these two reports, just recently received, will prove interesting reading and valuable information to many readers of this paper.

Mrs. F. L. Harris, Keatley P.O., Sask., writes: "I was suffering from liver trouble—had a heavy pain under one shoulder blade all the time, and was nearly as black as dirt around the eyes, so I concluded to try some of Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills. I did so, and before I had taken one 25c box the pain had left me and I commenced to gain in flesh, and by the time I had taken two boxes I was completely cured and felt like a new person. My trouble was caused by heavy work out-of-doors, and, of course, heavy eating and constipation. I would advise anyone suffering from kidney or liver trouble to give Dr. Chase's Pills a trial."

Mrs. Charles Terry, Tweed, Ont., writes: "Before I was married I was troubled with enlargement of the liver. My liver became so enlarged that you could detect the swellings on either side, and it was only with difficulty that I could get my clothes on. A friend advised me to get Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills and take them. I commenced this treatment, and used nine boxes, which cured me at that time. Then, about two or three years afterward I was troubled again with the swelling, but only on my right side. I secured some more Kidney-Liver Pills, and took them, which finally cured me. I have not been troubled in this way since. I can cheerfully recommend Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills to anyone having kidney or liver trouble.

"We have also found Dr. Chase's Linseed and Turpentine excellent for coughs and colds. In fact, any of Dr. Chase's medicines which we have used have been good."

Nervous, blinding headaches would almost drive me distracted; my nerves were shattered so that the least little thing would upset me and I'd get up in the morning feeling so miserable I could hardly keep on my feet.

"After taking Tanlac a few days I began to feel better. My appetite is now splendid and nothing I eat hurts me at all. Those terrible headaches are all gone, I have more life and energy and my work is a real pleasure to me."

JOHN M'QUARRIE

Prominent Owen Sound Man Died En Route to Hospital.

The death of Mr. Jonn McQuarrie, 8th St. E., occurred on Monday morning under most distressing circumstances, while being brought to Owen Sound from Hope Bay. He left here on Friday morning with about 75 head of cattle which he was putting on his 1000 acre pasture farm at Hope Bay. A telephone message on Saturday told of his illness and Dr. Danard and Mrs. McQuarrie hurried to his side. It was thought best to get him to the hospital here and he was being driven to Wiarton yesterday morning when he expired. The body was brought on the G. T. R. train yesterday. He was one of the most widely known residents of the town and a man of sterling character and worth. His death is a great loss to the community. The late Mr. McQuarrie was born in Egremont Twp., fifty-two years ago, the son of the late John McQuarrie and Mrs. McQuarrie, who now resides at Shrigley. Twenty-five years ago last March he married Miss Elizabeth Parr of Shrigley who survives him. Seventeen years ago he went to Alberta and then they lived in Dundalk for over a year, coming to Owen Sound twelve years ago, where Mr. McQuarrie had charge of different building operations. Although a Reformer in politics, Mr. McQuarrie took only a quiet interest in affairs of government reserving a more active interest for Temperance problems to which he was always keenly attentive.

Besides his sorrowing widow, Mr. McQuarrie is survived by one daughter, Ida, and a son, Mervin, of the Union Bank staff, both at home; his mother, Mrs. Jno. McQuarrie of Shrigley; four sisters and one brother, Mrs. George Bailey and Miss Sarah McQuarrie of Shrigley; Mrs. Cole, of Collingwood; Mrs. Neil McClean, of Eyebrow, Sask., and Mr. Lauchlan McQuarrie, of Shrigley. The funeral takes place tomorrow at 3 o'clock from the family residence on 8th street, to Greenwood Cemetery, Rev. T. G. McAteer of First Methodist church conducting the services. The pall bearers will be Messrs. A. A. Parks, J. Kellestine, W. P. Evans, S. J. Kearns, James Hutchison and Jos. Thompson. A number of beautiful floral tributes testified to the esteem in which the deceased was held. The bereaved family have the sympathy of the community in their sorrow.—Owen Sound Sun-Times.

PRIMITIVE SETTLEMENT.

Early Privations—Carding and Spinning in the Backwoods—Profitable Ventures.

By Thomas McLaughlin.
(Third Letter.)

As the pioneer miller at Mono on the Humber had surmised, the opening for business of the grist mill there in 1825 speeded up settlement in the neighborhood. Some gave up their little homes, already under way at a distance, and moved nearer the mill, for the double purpose of being near the source of food supply, and because they were sure of work when they could spare time from their homesteads. A general store was opened, and although the stock of goods was small, it was "general" enough to serve the wants of the district.

Profitable Ventures.

In a few years' time a sawmill, an oatmeal mill, a carding mill (for wool) and then another bigger and better flour mill followed. All were kept busy by the ever-increasing products of the townships, and were very profitable ventures for the owner, who thus provided flour and oatmeal and groceries to eat, lumber to build with, and whose carding mill materially lightened the labor of the women folk in all the country around.

Carding the Wool.

Up to the time of its establishment, the wool taken from the sheep's back, after washing, had to be manufactured into yarn, entirely by the work of the farmer's wife and daughters. The first process—that of carding—was done by hand cards, really a pair of wire brushes, between which the raw wool was pulled and repulled until it was loosened up and shaped into a long roll ready for spinning. It was then spun into yarn on the spinning wheel, which every house boasted and which, in those early days, was an article of necessary utility and not the ribbon-bedecked show-piece found occasionally among the "antiques" of some city dwellers of the present day.

Weaving the Yarn.

After spinning, the yarn was taken to the local weaver. The weaver was generally a man lacking the vigor necessary for clearing woods and the other strenuous work of the settler. He was often "a bit of a scholar," too, and although he worked long hours and continuously, it was seldom he ever made any progress. If he owned a farm, it was neglected and did not increase in value through being improved, as did the farms of his neighbors. But nothwithstanding his unprogressiveness in a general way, he supplied a real need to the community, and the wool that left the farmer's home as yarn was brought back a web of real cloth to cover the family, from the oldest to the youngest.

A Tedious Process.

Carding the wool by hand was the most tedious of all the different processes in its manufacture into cloth, so when a carding mill was established at Mono Mills, in a building all its own, and driven by a large wheel turned by the water of the good old Humber river, a load was lifted from the shoulders of the wives and daughters dwelling for miles in all directions, a load represented by weeks and weeks of weary work for each and all. (Incidentally, there is a man in charge of an office building in this city who "ran" that same carding mill in Mono Mills for the owner nearly sixty years ago, when a youth of 20).

NOW IS THE TIME TO WAGE WAR ON FLIES

Certain authorities are predicting more than usual trouble with flies during the coming summer, owing largely to the comparatively mild winter. Whether or not the theory is correct, no chances should be taken. The common housefly is one of man's most dangerous enemies. As a means of spreading a number of serious diseases such as typhoid fever, dysentery and tuberculosis the fly plays a sinister role. Its ability to reproduce itself is amazing, the descendants of less expenditure of effort than at any other season of the year. a single pair numbering millions in a season under ordinary favorable conditions. Such conditions exist where rubbish, filth and manure are left unprotected so that flies may lay their eggs therein. Consequently, the first principle in exterminating the pests is rigid cleanliness and then more cleanliness. The fly avoids cleanly conditions as men avoid the plague. Dirt and disorder are its natural habitat. It is of prime importance that every individual and every community should see that the winter's accumulation of dirt and rubbish should be carefully collected and destroyed. Manure should be so handled, either in fly-proof pits, or bins with magged traps, as to prevent flies breeding. It is important also that garbage be carefully gathered and disposed of, for it too provides sanctuary for flies.

In addition to combatting them in their breeding places, flies should be killed by any and every means available, especially early in the season.

Further, it is essential that food products be kept properly screened from flies. Civic authorities should assist on shopkeepers so protecting their wares and endeavor by every possible mean to have householders take like precautions. The time to begin is now. STORE BURNED

A fire of mysterious origin completely destroyed the general store of Beatty Moore at Black's Corners about noon on Thursday of last week. The fire had gained considerable headway before being discovered and very little of the contents of the building were saved. Moore was preparing an early dinner and had been in the front part of the store for about an hour when the fire was first noticed. Mr. Moore was in Shelburne when the fire started and was not aware of the conflagration until his arrival home. Willing hands ably assisted in saving some of the contents of the store and the outbuildings, but an estimate of the loss cannot yet be arrived at. There was insurance on the building of $1000 and a small amount on the stock.—Free Press.

EX-CAPTIVE OF TURKS MEDITATES VENGEANCE

Man With Spider of Death Tattooed on Brow Relates Sufferings While A Slave of Pasha.

Following is the experience of A. Roughton, a soldier in the British army, who was captured and tortured by the Turks. He is seeking revenge for the brutalties that he was compelled to suffer. This ex-captive of the Turks has two cartridges reserved for his former oppressors. The story as told by Annie Morton Lane is as follows:

"What do I want to do?—Why go back there?—What for?"—And the man thrust gnarled and scarred fingers into a leathern wallet hanging from his waist and after clumsy fumbling brought out two cartridges, one short and snub-nosed, the other long and tapering. "For satisfaction. To put these into the vital parts of two men."

Imagine a figure bowed at the knees and back, clad in khaki regimental breeches and puttees. Had he been upright, he would have stood considerably over six feet, but the huge shoulders were bent and it seemed almost impossible for him to straighten his muscular limbs.

I invited him to come in. Then he removed his hat and with difficulty I repressed a nervous shudder, for I was looking at a disfigurement that seems almost unbelievable in these days of so called "civilization". This man's natural high fine forehead gives plenty of room for the sinister sign that stretches from temple to temple and from the arch of each eyebrow to the edge of the scalp. It is a heavily tattooed design of a huge crab-like creature which is called in the country where it was made 'The Spider of Death,' or 'The Scorpion.' This creature, which is pricked in blue, red and green inks upon his forehead, has three great bodies. One lies over the other, and each outline is clearly visible—it shows first the shield of Bulgaria, above that the military drum of Germany, and super-imposed upon these the fez, the star and the crescent of Turkey. On either side stretch eight human, booted legs, while from the middle or head of this horror hangs a ring showing that the man branded thus is the property of the Turks for Eternity.

"Yes, that is what I have to show for my share in the great war," the branded man told me. "I have seen a lot in my life—I was born 57 years ago in Chicago, and I guess there are a good many men there yet who remember the name of Roughton, who was famous for feats of strength and physical endurance right through from Maine to California. I was with Stanley in '79 when he was on his great African expedition, and we rescued Dr. Livingstone. I was with Captain Peary in 1906, when he tried to get to the North Pole. I have been 'strong man' and an acrobat in circusses. I have circled the world with a heard of Esquimaux dogs. I have been mixed up in British wars for the last twenty years. I fought in the Soudan, in the Boer war and now in this greatest war. I joined up with a regiment of Royal Engineers that was being recruited in the States. Over I came with the sappers laid mines and built bridges and put down barbed wire in France for a spell. I was at Mons, and I got the ribbon right here. I was moved on to Salonica and then to Mesopotamia, and that's where I got caught. And that's where I met the 'Spider of Death'. It was while I was doing some work with barbed wire one night alone out under the stars of Mesopotamia that I got done in. They got me, the devils, but it took a lot of them to do it, and I accounted for a fair number before I was bound and tortured and smashed into unconsciousness. I was put to work and I tried to escape, and I was caught and put through more tortures, and then I lay low and was cunning and they became afraid of me. I have no education but I have brains, and they knew that I was to be feared. And so one day a Turk under the direction of a German officer put this upon me," and the man smote his forehead with a terrible gesture "I was put to work at pulling a plow and I dragged this plow across the land, and when I didn't cover enough ground or the furrows that I made were crooked I was beaten with a leather cat-o'-nine-tails that had nails at the end of each thong. On my back are the deep marks and unhealed scars of 42 stripes that were made when I was a beast of burden in Turkey. Then the great potentate for whom I worked seemed to realize that he was wasting good material in rough, unskilled labor. He placed me as the guardian of his harem. Among the many women slaves in this place there was a young Arabian girl who had been stolen and sold to the man who was our master. She was unhappy to the verge of madness, and the horrors through which she went nearly drove me mad as well. I witnessed things done to women that are past belief, and I was helpless, a branded prisoner with a price upon his head. By methods that are too long to tell you, this Arabian girl and myself plotted and planned together and succeeded in escaping. I killed two of the brutal attendants of the inner courts of the harem before we got away. Finally we got across the border into her native land and there I rested for a time and had my wounds attended to, and finally managed to get in touch with British troops. I have seen women crucified and children torn limb from limb while still alive. I have had to be one of a band of workers to dig what these fiends call a 'pit of pleasure.' This is a hole dug in the ground eight or ten feet deep by six in diameter, where animals are put and then women and children and prisoners are thrown in and left until the end. I've seen tortures and mutilations that I could not talk to you about. Somebody asked me the other day what should be done to the kaiser and his son. I said, send them to Turkey. Let them be crucified alive after being bastinadoed as I have been; then let a Turkish artist put upon their heads this sign of the "Spider of Death," and let them wait till death comes."

METHODISTS MEET

Annual Meeting of the Orangeville District Held in Caledon East Last Week.

The annual meeting of the Orangeville District of the Methodist Church was held in Caledon East last Friday. Rev. E. R. Young, B.A., Chairman, presided and the Rev. Garnet Lynd was elected journal secretary; the Rev. T. R. White, financial secretary and Rev. Alfred Laycock, statistical secretary. While the ministers were in session, examining character and trying probationers, the laymen held their own session and elected the district lay delegates to the coming session of Toronto Conference. There was a full attendance of both ministers and laymen and a most interesting session was held. The laymen brought in a strong protest against the action of the recent General Conference at Hamilton for over-riding the expressed wishes of the official laymen of the Church in endeavoring to set aside the itinerant system of stationing ministers and they demanded that the objectionable clause: (Paragraph 156, sec. 5, dealing with the work of the Stationing Committee,) "and to such churches and institutions as any Annual Conference on the recommendation of a two-thirds majority vote of the Stationing Committee may set apart year by year; and missionaries working under local City Mission Boards upon the request of the Board concerned; etc." shall be struck out as soon as possible and in the meantime they appeal to the Stationing Committee to see that no action is taken to make use of the objectionable clause to set aside the present four-year term of the ministrs during the coming year until the next General Conference can eliminate the clause.

The Laymen also brought in a resolution demanding the holding of the annual sessions in central points as Orangeville and Shelburne, where there is good hotel accomodation and that private billetting be abolished.

The following lay delegates were elected to attend the coming session of Toronto Conference: Edw. Richardson, Laurel; D. E. Dean, Shelburne; Thos. Broughton, Corbetton; James Thomas, Horning's Mills; W. H. Ireland, Mansfield; W. J. Bower, Rosemont; Lawrence Kee, Caledon East; E. D. Barber, Alton; William Gott, Caledon East; Isaac Steel, Bolton, R.R.; W. R. Campbell, Honeywood; Dr. W. J. Price, Orangeville; D. Henderson, Shelburne; Alternates are: E. M. Still, R. Mason, R. H. Wansborough, J. M. Dodds.

The following resolution was unanimously and heartily adopted:—Moved by W. R. Liddy, seconded by E. D. Barber, and resolved that the following telegram be sent to the Acting Premier of Canada, Ottawa, viz: "The Orangeville Methodist Meeting in session assembled commend your Government for continuing Prohibition Law in Canada for another twelve months."

Mr. W. L. Cullis, B.A., passed a creditable examination and was recommended to be continued on probation and be sent to college.

The readjustment of the Mansfield-Everett circuit was recommended. Elm Grove is added to the same and the Stationing Committee is asked to appoint an assistant to the minister on this new six appointment circuit.

The financial returns of the District show a healthy condition and some of them a remarkable increase: For Missions there were raised $5535 an increase of $731.; For Social Service $250., an increase of $146. The total for Connexional Funds this year is $9174., an increase of $1404. Last year there were raised for all purposes $14,531. This year the grand total is $37,145.

A most encouraging report was presented by Mrs. George Burry of the Woman's Missionary Society. There was an increase in membership of 21½ p.c. and the givings had increased 46 p.c. The money raised was $812., and the value of bales and work sent to mission stations or hospitals $180.

Rev. W. F. Roach, B.A. was elected to the Stationing Committee and Rev. W. W. Wallace, B.D., alternate.

To the Members, Present and Prospective

OF

Caledon Agricultural Society

Last year a number of changes were made in connection with our prize list, some of them being quite radical. Some were heartily approved while others were considered unsatisfactory.

Now we believe that if the rural fall fair is to serve the best interests of the community, there must be a greater co-operation of the members and exhibitors with the board of directors.

Therefore we are asking you, who contribute largely to the success of the fair, for suggestions as to its improvement. Or if you have a "kick" not yet delivered, let us have it so that we may remedy the matter.

Kindly let us have your ideas in time for the next meeting, May the 31st.

CALEDON AGRICULTURAL SOCIETY,

E. E. WILSON, Pres. W. J. ATKINSON, Sec., Caledon P. O.

Every Wage Earner An Investor

Every wage earner can be an investor in gilt-edged securities bearing a high rate of interest without sacrifice or worry.

The plan is so simple and secure that it commends itself to everybody.

All of us spend a portion of our earnings thoughtlessly. It is human nature. Yet most of us would be glad if someone would take the money we fritter away and save it for us, because we find it difficult to save it ourselves.

Make your employer do it by means of War Savings Stamps. Say to him: "I want you to take five per cent. of the money in my pay envelope each week and buy me Thrift Stamps. Then with each $4.00 worth of Thrift Stamps buy me a War Savings Stamp. When you have bought each War Savings Stamp, put it in my envelope. Go on doing that for a year."

In May W.S.S. Cost $4.04

In June W.S.S. Cost $4.05

That is all. Your mind is free. You will not miss that 75 cents or that dollar which you have hitherto squandered on trifles.

But at the end of the year you will have a little package of War Savings Stamps, each bearing the $5.00 mark, but which have cost you but a few cents over $4.00 each. These Canada will redeem in 1924.

REV. DR. BARTLEY

Methodist Church Loses One of Its Best Loved Ministers.

Sudden Death of Former Pastor of Orangeville Methodist Church.

Rev. T. W. Bartley, of 441 Broadview avenue, Toronto, pastor of Woodgreen Methodist Tabernacle, died very suddenly Tuesday night of last week. He had not been well for a few days, but Tuesday afternoon he had been calling on members of his congregation, and when he came home in the evening he complained of feeling ill. The illness proved to be fatal, for he passed away at ten o'clock. For the last three or four years Dr. Bartley had not been in the best of health, but he had been able to attend to his pastoral duties, and had shown a great interest in the work of the Conference in Toronto. "It was his intense passion for his work that probably shortened his life," said Rev. R. J. D. Simpson, president of the Conference, Wednesday morning.

Dr. Briggs, head of the Methodist publications, said of Dr. Bartley that he was one of the best-loved pastors in Toronto, and was the soul of honor. Dr. Crews, Rev. J. C. Speer and the recording steward of Woodgreen Church also spoke in the highest terms of deceased.

A native of Ireland, Mr. Bartley came to Canada when a young man. Here he studied for the ministry, and was given his first church at Dovercourt, Ont. He later filled the pulpits at Davisville, Simpson Ave. Methodist Church, Barrie and Orangeville. After leaving the church at Orangeville about twelve years ago he again came to Toronto, this time being in charge of the Elm St. Methodist Church. This position he resigned to become field secretary of the Methodist Union, a post which he held for over seven years. He was just completing his four years' pastorate at Woodgreen Tabernacle when he died.

Rev. Dr. Bartley is survived by his widow, one son, Thomas H., of Ottawa, and two daughters, the Misses Gladys and Kathleen, both at home.

Interment took place in Park Lawn Cemetery on Friday afternoon. An impressive funeral service was held in Woodgreen Methodist Church. The service, which was attended by representatives of the Methodist and other churches, was conducted by Rev. R. J. D. Simpson, President of the Toronto Conference. An address was delivered by Rev. Dr. Speer, and by Mr. W. H. Vaughan representing the officials of the church. Rev. T. W. Neal, Rev. Dr. William Briggs and Rev. Dr. J. McP. Scott also took part in the service.

SLEEPLESS NIGHTS WITH ECZEMA

Mrs. Link, 12 Walker street, Halifax, N.S., states—"After three years of miserable torture and sleepless nights with terrible eczema, and after trying over a dozen remedies without obtaining anything but temporary relief, I have been perfectly and entirely cured by using Dr. Chase's Ointment. After the third or fourth application of this grand ointment I obtained relief, and a few boxes were sufficient to make a thorough cure.

QUARANTINED OVER ELECTION DAY

A. L. Patterson, a Halton County Conservative, was so hot because the Trafalgar township Board of Health kept him in quarantine over the last Dominion Election day that he sued the Board for damages. The case was tried before Judge Elliott, of Milton, last April. The other day the Judge handed out his decision, which awarded Patterson $75 and costs. Patterson's house was placarded and placed under quarantine for scarlet fever. Instead of removing the quarantine in six weeks, the customary time, the local Health Officer allowed the restriction to stand a week or so longer until after the election. The day after the election he came along, removed the placards and told Patterson he and his family were free to go abroad again. Patterson thought he smelled election dodge and brought action for damages. Mr. C. R. McKeown handled the plaintiff's case.

STORY OF SUCCESS

Marvellous Expansion in the Sale of Tanlac.

(By Harrison Vaughn.)

Atlanta, Ga., May 17th., 1919.—(Special Correspondence)—This is a story of Success—the kind everybody likes to read. Surpassing interest always attends the telling of how a great business has been built. This city presents a very striking instance of remarkable business success, which has been achieved in a very short space of time.

The announcement has just been made here that Tanlac, the well-known medicine, which readers of this paper have often seen mentioned in the advertising columns, is today the most largely sold medicine of its kind on the American market; that in little more than four years' time it has attained a definite position of pre-eminence among proprietary medicines. Without doubt this statement will be read with the keenest interest, not only by druggists but by the general public as well.

Briefly summarized, the outstanding incidents in this story of success are: The discovery of Tanlac; the perfection of its formula by painstaking study, extensive research and exhaustive tests; the beginning of its manufacture in a small way; the instant demand for the product created by successful use, and finally, the establishment of the large and magnificent laboratories at Dayton, Ohio, occupying more than 60,000 square feet of floor space, to supply the ever-increasing demand for Tanlac. The daily capacity of 30,000 bottles at this plant has at times, in fact, been found insufficient to supply the trade requirements. A branch laboratory with 8,000 bottles daily capacity has been established at Windsor, Canada, in order to supply the Canadian demand.

The marvellous expansion of this business will easily stand comparison with any of the remarkable business achievements of recent times. As one of the largest drug jobbers of the United States said recently, it requires some effort of the imagination to realize the amount of business that is now being done by this concern, adding his belief that the nation-wide popularity of Tanlac gained in such a short time is nothing less than phenomenal.

This latter statement was made following the announcement in the daily papers that over twelve million bottles of Tanlac had been sold in four years, up to Jan. 1st, 1919, and that during the first ten weeks of the present year over one million bottles had been distributed—thereby establishing a record which has perhaps never before been equalled in the history of the drug trade.

The statement that Tanlac is now the most popular preparation and the biggest seller among all ready-made medicines is declared to be neither a surmise nor an estimate, but is based upon careful investigation and is supported by the signed statements of scores of the largest drug jobbers of the United States and Canada. This now famous remedy has become just as well known across the International boundary line as it is throughout the United States.

The broad and progressive policies and the splendid selling organization originated and perfected by Mr. G. F. Willis, international distributor of Tanlac, are among the best examples of method and system yet produced in business and they have been closely followed by many other enterprising and successful concerns.

The Tanlac people have always maintained that the best advertisement is a satisfied customer, and to that end have always sought to make customers—not mere sales—and to build up that character of public confidence which means business integrity and spells lasting success. Yet like all concerns doing a nation-wide business, they have also recognized the value and necessity of a general presentation of their preparation by the use of clean, reliable newspaper advertising.

But Tanlac advertising "copy" is essentially different from most others. It consists almost wholly of the direct, signed statements of those who have used the medicine. These people are distinctly identified by name and address. They tell very plainly what was the matter with them and what Tanlac has done for them. Tanlac advertising has been happily free from the "cure-all" exaggeration. Instead of advancing extravagant claims as to what their preparation "will do," its manufacturers and distributors prefer to let those who have used Tanlac tell in their own way what it has done.

Their sensible business philosophy was briefly but forcefully stated by one of the Tanlac executives recently when he said: "With all due regard to the value of newspaper space publicity alone would not create nor maintain the lasting strength and popularity of this preparation. Tanlac undoubtedly has merit and extraordinary power as a medicine, which have confirmed its value in the minds of the people. No matter where you go Tanlac is a household word and is one of the most widely talked of medicines in the world today."

MRS. D. M'VANNEL

Wife of Shelburne's Postmaster Passed Away After Nine Weeks' Illness last Saturday.

After an illness of nine weeks duration, Mrs. McVannel, wife of Postmaster D. McVannel of Shelburne, passed away on Saturday evening last at her home, First Ave., in her 49th year. Deceased, whose maiden name was Sarah Elizabeth Cameron, was the only daughter of James Cameron, for many years foreman of The Free Press, and was well and favorably known by the whole countryside. Acting at times, as she did, as assistant to her husband in the postoffice, she came into personal favor with young and old, and her bright and happy disposition, full of kindness and thoughtfulness for others, endeared her to a host of friends. Her untimely taking off is felt as a keen personal loss by a wide circle of friends and the greatest sympathy is felt for Mr. McVanel in the irreparable loss he has sustained. In the home circle her life was ideal, and she was a member of Knox Presbyterian church and took an active part in all church effort, was for many years Treasurer of the Woman's Missionary Society and was one of the most energetic workers in that Society. Besides her husband and father there are left to mourn their loss, three brothers, Fred Cameron of Woodnorth, Man.; James Cameron, Saskatoon, Sask., and Harry D. Cameron of Toronto, and to them the sympathy of the whole community is extended in their bereavement. The funeral took place from the family residence on Tuesday afternoon of this week, the remains being laid to rest in Shelburne cemetery. Rev. A. E. Thornley, pastor of Knox church, and the Rev. R. B. Stevenson of Stratford, formerly of Shelburne, conducted the services at the house, while the former took charge of the services at the grave. The floral offerings were beautiful and were from the following:—Husband, Chas. Yeo, Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Wattam and family, Women's Missionary Society (Presbyterian Church), Mr. and Mrs. Joa. Phillips, Mrs. Leader and Mrs. Clayton, Mr. and Mrs. H. McVannel and family, Mrs. Doney and Mrs. Johnston, Father and Brothers, Mrs. R. L. Mortimer, Misses Hazel and Ena McVannel, Mrs. A. E. Williams, Miss E. Lindsay. The pallbearers were Messrs. D. Henderson, J. R. Bates, J. R. Berwick, R. W. Brett, John Mowat, T. C. Dryden. Those from a distance who attended the funeral were: Leon. McVannel, London; Rev. R. B. and Mrs. Stevenson, Stratford; Peter Thomson, Miss Bessie Thomson, Mr. and Mrs. Ed. Nodwell and S. Huxley, Hillsburg; Duncan Graham, Erin; Mrs. James Muirhead, Toronto; Fred Cameron, Woodnorth, Man.; Mr. and Mrs. H. D. Cameron and daughter, Toronto; Mrs. John and Mrs. Wm. Johnston, Corbetton; Mrs. Wm. Leader and Mrs. Geo. Clayton, Guelph.—Free Press.

BOY'S NARROW ESCAPE

An accident occurred at Stayner a few days ago that might easily have ended fatally. Melvin Campbell, the nine-year-old son of Mr. Peter Campbell, was playing around the yard of his home looking after their horse while feeding. He tied the shank of the halter around his waist unfortunately and an incoming train started the horse, causing him to bolt. The horse jumped two fences, dragging the boy with him into Mr. A. M. Woodard's lane. The boy was swung into a wagon that was standing there, causing the rope to break. It was feared he was badly injured, but beyond some severe bodily bruises and a nasty cut in the head he was otherwise unhurt, and is now out again not much the worse for the accident.

St. David's Anglican Mission in the east end of Galt has become the beneficiary of a gift of $1,500 from A. W. Cutten, of Chicago, and a native of Guelph. The check was received by a relative in the city and this gift will enable the mission to carry out its plans to erect a Sunday School on a lot presented by a supporter of the mission.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

Financing the expenditures of Great Britain is no ordinary job since the War. The Chancellor estimates the expenditure for the current year at 1,434,019,000 pounds and the revenue at 1,159,650,000 pounds, without new taxes. Multiply these figures by 4.85 and you have the stupendous totals expressed in Canadian dollars and cents. The national debt on March 31st, 1919, was 7,435,000,000 pounds as compared with 645,000,000 pounds at the outbreak of the war. Against this, however, there are loans of 1,739,000,000 pounds due from the Allies and the Dominions. It is difficult for the mind to grasp the immensity of these totals. In view of their immensity the fact that in the fourth year of the war Great Britain was able to raise 34.4 per cent of the total expenditure by taxation may well be described as a most remarkable feat. It is a feat that has not been equalled by any other belligerent country, and speaks volumes for the wealth of the United Kingdom and the whole-souled manner in which its citizens have submitted themselves to the severe financial ordeal of the war.

In these days of Yankee-doodle-do it is refreshing to learn that there are some newspapers in the United States honest enough and fair enough to give Great Britain her mead of credit for the great part she had in winning the war. Life, the humorous New York weekly, has been earnest and persistent in its efforts to make the people of the United States understand what the world owes to Great Britain. The following is taken from a recent issue —

"One hears that a tenth of the standing timber in France was destroyed in the war, but that in England one half of the standing timber was cut down for war uses. Kipling speaks of England as

"The Bank of the Open Credit,
"The Powerhouse of the Line."

"So she was. "The Powerhouse of the Line" is about right. She put out money and power in quantity so vast that people still have the impression that she is an immense reservoir of might, and there is vicious talk in some papers of her pulling the leg of the United States in the Peace Congress and planning to use American power to rivet her dominion on the earth.

"But that is either propaganda or nonsense. England has spent her very life-blood. If she is an obstacle to human welfare, now is the time to kill her off. If she is a great asset of civilization, now is the time to help her."

The strikes that are of almost daily occurrence in Canada and elsewhere are attributable in part to the general unrest that has followed in the wake of the war. They are also attributable in part to the discontent resulting from the high cost of living. This discontent is more deeply seated in the large centres, because it is in the cities that the ill effects of high prices are most seriously felt. The worker may get high wages and shorter hours, but these do not benefit him if the cost of living is advancing more rapidly than his rate of wages. When we reflect that 46 cents represents the purchasing power of a dollar at the present time as compared with its purchasing power six years ago it is apparent that the city workman has not bettered his position very much, if at all, even if he is earning double or practically double the wages he received a few years ago. Profiteering and exorbitant manufacturing profits are also responsible for much of the discontent that is finding its expression in strikes. The problem of a satisfactory adjustment of the differences that have arisen between capital and labor is a serious one and its solution is a matter that will require careful study and wise action. It is unfortunate that such serious disturbances should occur at the present time. They are bound to seriously delay the work of readjustment and reorganization that is necessary before Canada will be in a position to receive her full share of the benefits from the resumption of world trade following the war.

KENNEDY, THE CANDIDATE

Upwards of three hundred delegates attended the Liberal Conservative Convention held in Brampton on Saturday afternoon for the purpose of nominating a candidate to contest the riding at the next Ontario elections. Owing to the intense heat the large gathering simply sweltered throughout the proceedings. The meeting was held in the Concert Hall. At least two-fifths of the audience was composed of women, who for the first time were to have a voice in the nomination of the candidate.

Darius McClure, of Huttonville, president of the convention, whose name was mentioned as a possible candidate, vacated the chair in favor of Anson McCabe, of Albion. Along with him on the platform were Senator Blain, Hon. W. D. McPherson, Canon Walsh, Major J. L. Kennedy, of Islington; Capt. Jno. Graham and Lieut. Dan McCaughrin, of Mono Road; Edward Burns and J. J. Foy, of Port Credit; T. W. Duggan, of Brampton; D. H. McCaugherty, of Streetsville; Mrs. John Cumberland; Mrs. M. C. Sackrider, of Brampton; Mrs. Darius McClure, of Huttonville; and Mrs. Dennison, of Churchville.

A large number of short addresses were made by men who had been approached on the possibility of their candidacy, and when the meeting was ready for the ballot six names stood—T. W. Duggan, Brampton; D. H. McCaugherty, Streetsville; Major Kennedy, Islington; Ed. Burns, Port Credit; and Capt. Graham and Anson McCabe, Albion. The choice fell upon Major Kennedy who beat out McCabe by ten votes. The general feeling is that the selection is a good one. Peel seems to desire a farmer as representative, a qualification possessed by Major Kennedy. He bears the marks of overseas service ineradicably written upon his face. He is an alert, has individuality and naturally the Conservatives feel that he should make a good showing whenever the election takes place.

MORE SOLDIERS HOME

Four more Orangeville Great War veterans have arrived home since last week's issue of The Banner. On Friday night Gunner Will Henderson, younger son of Ex-Mayor and Mrs. Thos. Henderson, gave his parents a glad surprise by arriving home unexpectedly by motor from Toronto. It was known that his Battery had reached Canada, but through some oversight his name did not appear in the list of returned men. Henderson enlisted in the 17th Battery on Sept. 1st, 1916, went overseas the same month and to France the following year. He went through the Show without receiving any injury and is looking fine. An older brother, Lt. Clifford Henderson was killed last September during the breaching of the famous Quenant-Drocourt line. Monday Mr. T. J. Robinson motored Mr and Mrs. J. J. Laverty to Brampton to meet and convey home their son, Gunner Hugh Laverty, who had reached Toronto a few minutes too late to catch the C. P. R. for Orangeville. Gunner Laverty enlisted in the 53rd Battery at Guelph in February 1916 and went overseas in May of the same year. He was on active service at the front for upwards of two years and had also the good fortune to get through without injury. He is heavier and much stronger looking than when he left Canada. Pte. Lou Burrows, a 164th Batt. man, came in by train on Monday night and was given the usual warm reception by the Citizens Band, the local Reception Committee and citizens generally. Pte. Burrows, who formerly lived with Mr. G. A. Canning, of Camilla, went overseas with his battalion and served in France with the 116th. He received a severe wound in the lower part of the body, but is pretty well over the effects of his injuries. He is visiting friends in Camilla for a few days before reporting back to the military authorities. Driver Ralph Endacott, the youngest of the three soldier sons of Sheriff and Mrs. H. Endacott, arrived home on Saturday night and was given a hearty welcome by his many friends and former comrades in town as soon as they learned of his arrival. Driver Endacott first enlisted in the First Contingent, but after he had trained at Valcartier for a time was returned home on account of his youth. Three and a half years ago he signed up with the Canadian Engineers at Ottawa and went overseas a few months later. He has served in France since March 1918 as a driver in the 6th Batt. Canadian Engineers and took part in the big allied push last summer. He was through the terrific fights at Amiens, Cambrai and other places and was in the triumphal march into Germany following the signing of the armistice. He escaped injury and returns home looking hale and vigorous. He made the home voyage on the Cedric, which reached Halifax on May 27th. His oldest brother, Capt. George M. Endacott, arrived home a few weeks ago. The other brother, Quartermaster Douglas Endacott is engaged in demobilization work in England.

MILITARY NOTES.

Cecil M. Patmore, an Elora soldier, who enlisted in the early days of the war, arrived home a few nights ago and was given a rousing reception by the citizens of his home town. Patmore is a brother of Mrs. J. A. Aitchison, formerly of this town.

Capt. Douglas A. McAlister, son of Auctioneer Geo. McAlister, arrived home from overseas last week.

Pte. Lorne Looby of Amaranth reached home the early part of last week. He was a member of the 164th Battalion and served for 14 months in France with the Forestry Corps.

A reception was held in the basement of Waldemar Presbyterian Church on Thursday evening May 22, for Lieut. John Keast, son of Mrs. Robert Keast, who has returned from overseas. Mr. Thos. Reid was chairman for the evening. Lieut. Keast gave an interesting account of his trip to Ireland and Scotland. Lunch was served and an enjoyable evening spent.

Pte. Ernest Wisdom, who went overseas with Shelburne Company, 164th Battalion, and later served in France with the 116th Battalion, arrived home about ten days ago. He was wounded three times, his latest wound confining him to hospital for some months. Wisdom is a nephew of Messrs. Jas. and Arch. Irwin of this town.

Gunner Ernest Irvine, son of Mr. John Irvine, East Garafraxa, arrived home a few nights ago, and was met at Grand Valley by quite a number of his old friends. Acting Reeve Wm. McClelland welcomed him back and addresses were given by Revs. S. Lundie and R. W. Stevenson. Gunner Irvine has some farm interests in the West, but dropped them temporarily to do his bit, going overseas with the 4th Battery in 1916. Beyond getting a little gas, he received no injuries.

Flight-Lieut. Errol Sydie, who was made a prisoner in Germany for a year or longer during the war, motored to town from Tottenham on Tuesday with his cousin, Mr. Potter, of that town, and spent the afternoon looking up relatives and former friends in his home town. Lieut. Sydie, who reached Canada from overseas about ten days ago, is looking in the best of health and is an exceptionally fine looking soldier. He will visit in Ontario for a short time before leaving for his home in the West. His parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Sydie, are now living at Chipman, Alta.

AFTER EFFECTS OF INFLUENZA

Often as Serious as the Disease Itself—How to Get New Health.

There are a few homes in Canada that were not touched by the sorrow that trailed in the wake of the Spanish Influenza epidemic. Estimates of the loss of life caused by this epidemic show that it was almost as great as the losses caused by the war, and these take no account of the baneful after-effects which are sometimes as fatal as the disease itself.

Victims of the disease are generally left with impoverished blood and a weakened system. In this condition they are exposed to many dangers unless precautions are taken to enrich the blood and strengthen the nerves. The debility that invariably follows influenza is not a disease of any organ. It is a general condition of unfitness. It must be met by a remedy whose good results will be quickly felt throughout the entire system. In this condition Dr. Williams' Pink Pills will be found invaluable. The mission of this medicine is to enrich the blood, and this new, red blood carries renewed health and strength to every part of the body. The case of Mrs. George Louder, of Hamilton, Ont., proves the value of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills in cases of this kind. Mrs. Louder says:—"I had a very severe attack of Spanish influenza which left me pale and very weak. My appetite completely failed me and the least noise would startle me and make me cry. I was under a doctor's care, and finally he advised me to take Dr. Williams' Pink Pills and I had not been taking them long before I could tell they were helping me. I used altogether nine or ten boxes and am now feeling as well as ever I did in my life. I believe if it had not been for these pills I would have been a chronic invalid."

Such proof as this must be interesting to everyone who suffered from the attack of influenza, and who still feels in any way weakened as the result of the trouble. It points the way to new health and strength, and if you are one of the sufferers you should avail yourself of this medicine at once. You can get Dr. Williams' Pink Pills through any dealer in medicine, or by mail at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50 from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

SEMI-CENTENNIAL

Local Masons Celebrate Fiftieth Anniversary of Institution of Harris Lodge.

Members of the Craft Attended Divine Service on Sunday Afternoon.—Grand Secretary of Order Chief Speaker at Tuesday Evening's Banquet.

It is now fifty years ago since organized Freemasonry first secured a foothold in Orangeville. Early in 1869 members of the Craft then resident in Orangeville took the necessary steps to organize a Lodge, which was regularly instituted on June 1st of that year under the name of Harris Lodge. It is of interest to note that the Lodge was named after Rt. W. Bro. T. B. Harris, at that time Grand Secretary of the Grand Lodge of Canada. Rt. W. Bro. Harris and R. W. Bro. James Seymore, D.D.G.M., were both present at the formal dedication of the Lodge and the installation of its first set of officers on Sept. 9th, 1869. The early records, which appear to be somewhat fragmentary, give the names of the Charter members of the new Lodge as W. Bro. S. H. McKitrick, W.M., Br. John Flesher, S.W., Bro. Geo. Irwin, J.W., and Bros. Joseph Carbert, Robt. McKitrick, William Parsons, Daniel Milloy and Thomas Feath. To-day we understand not one of the Charter members is still living. Whether or not this is a fact, it is certain that none of them is still resident in Orangeville—a fact calculated to give food for reflection on the mutations that the passing years bring in the lives and fortunes of human beings. Names of some of the early members and candidates for initiation will have passed completely out of the recollection of most of our readers; others will recall dimming memories from the distant past. Here are a few: W. J. Middleton, John Hayes, Wm. Armstrong, Jas. S. Fead, Geo. Wilcox, Wm. Wilcox, Jacob Jenkins, Thomas Swinarton, Peter McNabb, Christopher Cullen, Jos. Foster, Geo. Switzer, Hugh Curry, William Church, Jas. K. Decatur, John Berwick and Robert Memary. In the autumn of 1869, Maitland McCarthy, Johnston Lindsay and S. S. McCormick were initiated. The two former are still residents of Orangeville and may be said to form the only living bond between the present and the original lodge. Rt. W. Bro. R. Irvine, the oldest active member of the Lodge of today, was initiated about one year later.

It was only fitting and natural that the present members of Harris Lodge should desire to celebrate in a fitting manner the passing of this important milestone in the history of their Lodge. The celebration was of a two-fold character. At 3 o'clock on Sunday afternoon the officers and members of the Lodge, accompanied by visiting Craftsmen from Lorne Lodge, Shelburne, Peel Lodge, Caledon East, and Wellington Lodge, Erin, numbering altogether about one hundred and fifty members, attended divine service in St. Andrew's Church. The service was conducted by Rev. Bro. T. R. White, of Alton, Chaplain of Harris Lodge, Rev. Bro. E. R. Young, pastor of Orangeville Methodist Church, who led in prayer, and Rev. Br. W. M. Morris, pastor of St. Andrew's, who preached an impressive sermon from the text: "For every house is builded by some man; but he that built all things is God." Heb. 3:4. A condensed report of the discourse follows:—

When the writer looked about him he saw every sort of buildings and realized that behind every wall and tower was the mind and hand of man. Some intellect contrived the building, some skilful hand constructed it. Then as he lifted his eyes from the artificial things of the world to contemplate the vast universe in which he lived with all its wisdom, order, beauty and beneficence the thought dawned on him that behind this was the Great Architect and wise Master Builder, God.

There are these two sets of realities in the world—material and spiritual. We are environed with familiar physical forces to which we adjust ourselves and have health and prosperity. These are symbolical of moral and spiritual forces with which we must co-operate for the building of character. The poet, philosopher and psalmist all speak of an unseen mighty force in the universe that makes for righteousness. By adjusting ourselves to these spiritual forces we build up ourselves and the race in holiness, faith and righteousness.

As proof that the material was intended to symbolize the moral and spiritual, we observe how the tools of the builder have been taken as emblems of the thoughts of the thinker. The square, compass and plumb-line are used in a speculative sense to apply to the building of character and the spiritual temple of humanity. Man is not to do anything that is crooked or say anything that is not straightforward. He is called to make all good things better, all right things stronger and all sacred things more sacred.

No one need to be told of the unrest in the world today. But we do need to remind ourselves that the clash of classes will not be settled in an air of hostility, but in an atmosphere of mutual recognition and respect. Men need to understand each other.

In the course of the sermon Mr. Morris defined Masonry as the activity of closely united men who, employing symbolical forms borrowed principally from the mason's trade and from architecture, work for the welfare of mankind, striving morally to enoble themselves and others and thereby to bring about a universal league of mankind which they aspire to exhibit even now on a small scale.

The Church Choir led in the service of song, which included an excellently rendered quartette by Bros. Percival Harding and Dr. W. J. Price and Messrs. F. A. Falconer and J. E. Jessop.

Tuesday night about one hundred brethren attended a most enjoyable banquet held in the Gem Theatre, which the proprietor, Bro. C. L. Pownall generously placed at the disposal of the Lodge for the evening. In view of the extremely hot weather Bro. Pownall's action was greatly appreciated by the banquetters, as the theatre is ventilated and cooled by electric fans and was therefore very much more comfortable than the refreshment hall of the lodge. Bro. Pownall also contributed still further to the entertainment of the gathering by putting on a two reel side-splitting comedy, which everyone enjoyed. The gathering was honored by the presence of R. W. Bro. W. M. Logan, of Hamilton, Grand Secretary of the Grand Lodge of Canada, who made a happy and interesting address in response to the toast to "The Grand Lodge of Canada." This toast was proposed by R. W. Bro. Robt. Irvine, the oldest living member of Harris Lodge, in an entertaining speech that brimmed with delightful reminiscenses of the early days of Masonry in Orangeville. Later in the evening W. Bro. A. A. Hughson contributed an instructive and entertaining historical review of Harris Lodge from its inception in 1869 down to recent years. The opening toast to "King and Craft" was honored by singing the National Anthem. Other toasts were "Our Empire" proposed by Bro. Alex. Firth, with response by W. Bro. C. R. McKeown, M. L. A., "Our Charter Members" proposed by Bro. D. Macpherson and honored in silence and "Our Visitors" proposed by W. Bro. A. N. Adams, with responses by Bro. Pickering, of Lorne Lodge, Shelburne, W. Bro. W. Logan Craig and Bro. Rev. S. Lundie, of Scott Lodge, Grand Valley. W. Bro. A. T. Howard, W. M. of Harris Lodge, performed the duties of toastmaster in an acceptable manner. The programme was happily varied by some delightful quartettes by Bros. Per. Harding and Dr. W. J. Price and Messrs. F. A. Falconer and J. E. Jessop. It was well along in the wee hours of the morn when the festive gathering was brought to a close with the familiar strains of Auld Lang Syne.

AN IMPROVED SERVICE

Mr. C. A. Pownall, the new proprietor of the Gem Theatre, is proving himself a live and progressive show man. Since coming to Orangeville he has made a number of improvements, calculated to add to the attractiveness of the theatre and to improve the service to its patrons. He has replaced the old picture machine with a No. 14 Motiograph, capable of handling a 2000 ft. film. Whereas the machine formerly in use had only two adjustments, the lantern of the Motiograph can be given no less than seven adjustments. Local theatregoers will appreciate Mr. Pownall's good work in the way of giving them a better service and more attractive programmes.

RELESSEY.

We wonder if Carman McKelvey still ties his horse to the fence on the 6th line.

We would like to hear from our Relessey correspondent to The Banner again. Is he still exhausted from the effects of his last effort?

We wonder what the attraction the Rosemont boys have on 6th line.

Mr. Geo. Aikens has the material on the ground for his new dwelling house.

Seeding is completed and the crops are looking well hereabouts. If we get a few good June showers there will be bumper hay, fall wheat and rye crops in this district.

We regret very much to learn of the deaths of two of our oldest residents in the persons of Mr. John Haddock and Mrs. Colwell, widow of the late Robert Colwell. They were both highly respected by the people of the whole neighborhood and sincere sympathy is felt for the bereaved relatives.

ALTON.

Our baseball team has struck a winning streak this season and is apparently too good for any of the neighboring teams. Last week the Orangeville High School team paid our burg a visit, but was obliged to return home with the small end of a 13 to 6 score. The game was a good one to watch, and created lots of enthusiasm amongst the spectators. Friday night the local nine journeyed to Inglewood and defeated the Inglewood team by a score of 10 to 5. Saturday afternoon a Brampton nine came to town to get revenge for the beating on Victoria Day. The visitors gave the local team a stiff argument, but were beaten by a score of 9 to 8. The game was very closely contested and splendid work was done by both teams.

Reeve Kannawin, Messrs. A. Mason, J. A. Lovell, and Joyce McConnell, Mrs. Amos Mason, Mrs. J. A. Lovell and Miss Eveline Thomas were the Alton delegates to the Conservative convention in Brampton on Saturday.

WHITTINGTON.

The regular meeting of the Whittington Women's Institute will be held at the home of Mrs. John Ledlow on Tuesday afternoon, June 15. Mrs. W. T. Johnston will address the meeting on, "The Moral and Physical Harm of Fault Finding." As our Institute has completed a successful year our members are looking forward for a continuation of the same. The officers for last year were re-elected as follows:—

President.....Mrs. S. J. Cruikshank
Vice Pres.....Mrs. A. White
Sec. Treas.....Gladys White

Miss Georgina Beatty spent last week end at her home near Owen Sound visiting her parents and also her brother who has recently returned from overseas after spending almost four years in service for his country.

Miss Gladys White has returned home after spending a couple of weeks with Toronto friends.

Mr. and Mrs. Norman Cruikshank of Toronto spent a few days last week visiting the former's brother, Mr. S. Cruikshank.

Mr. and Mrs. Victor Reid and family of Alberta are visiting Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Phillips and other friends in this vicinity.

We were pleased to see one of our boys, Willie Farnell, who has fought so bravely for king and country in this great European war, with us again last Sunday.

A COLT'S WANDERINGS

Mr. S. Liddy, a farmer from over near Shelburne, on Tuesday made a trip through here to Gwillimbury a short distance from Bradford. He was going to take home a three-year-old filly which had wandered all that distance in a short time. There is something singular in the trip made by this mare. A year ago when she was two years old she got out and wandered over near Bradford. It was an advertisement in The Herald which recovered the filly on that occasion. This spring when the colt got out and enquiries all through the district failed to locate her, Mr. Liddy wrote to the Gwillimbury man asking if it were possible that his mare was there again. The reply somewhat surprised him for the young animal was there and to all appearances anxious to stay. Mr. Liddy, who has a good deal of affection for the equine, cites this incident as proof of the superior intelligence of horses.—Alliston Herald.

Mr. Liddy, the owner, is a brother of Public School Inspector, W. R. Liddy.

IN MEMORIAM

Lines in loving remembrance of Mrs. David Lundy, who died Sept. 23rd., 1915

One less at home;
The charmed circle broken; a dear face
Missed day by day from its usual place,
But cleansed, saved, perfected by grace.

One more in heaven, one less on earth;
Its pain, its sorow and its toil to share;
One less the pilgrim's daily cross to bear;
One more the crown of the blessed to wear

At home in heaven;
She left the world with all its toils,
For better, brighter worlds on high;
Her faith embraced substantial joys,
Soaring beyond the starry skies.

Why should our eyes with sorrow flow;
Our bosoms heave the painful sigh?
When Jesus calls the saint must go;
'Twas her eternal gain to die.

Suffered Day and Night For Years—After Taking Tanlac Looks Like Different Child.

"My little daughter, Jean, has gained ten pounds on Tanlac and now she's the very picture of health," said Jim Snell, well known poultry and truck farmer of Raleigh, Tenn.

"When Jean was only seven years old," continued Mr. Snell, "she was taken with something like nervous stomach trouble, and there wasn't a day or night she didn't suffer, until we got Tanlac for her, and she's now fifteen years old. Her stomach was in such a bad condition she had to live on toast and eggs and milk, and she couldn't eat any kind of meats or vegetables. She complained of pains in her stomach all the time and would spit up half digested food. She was nervous and would toss and roll all night, for she couldn't sleep well at all. She was bilious and her complexion was bad, and she looked pale and sickly all the time. We gave her most every kind of medicine we could think of, but nothing helped her.

"After hearing of some of the good work Tanlac was doing, we got some for Jean, and it has done wonders for her. She actually looks and acts like a different child, and she's taken only two bottles of the medicine. She commenced picking up as soon as she started Tanlac, and she has gained ten pounds. She never has indigestion now, and eats just anything she wants—even such things as beans and other vegetable, and meats of all kinds. Why, she ate corn for dinner yesterday, and it was the first time in eight years she dared taste corn, and she eats boiled bacon that's cooked with vegetables. She's not nervous nor bilious now, and sleeps like a baby, and we never hear anything out of her from the time she goes to bed until she gets up in the mornings. Her skin has cleared up and her cheeks look fresh and rosy. You can just look at her and tell she's enjoying good health."

"Tanlac is sold in Orangeville by C. V. Jeffers, in Grand Valley by G. E. Morrow, in Shelburne by J. E. A. White, and in Grand Valley by W. T. Edmonson."

G. W. V. A.

A special meeting of the Orangeville Branch of the Great War Veterans Association was held on May 23rd., at which ten applications for membership were accepted and Pte. H. S. Marshall (Royal Can. Horse Artillery) was initiated.

The main feature of the meeting was the report of the Provincial Convention by Com. H. Ainsworth, who was the delegate from the Branch. The delegates arrived at Windsor just when the strike of the Street Railway service was called. Nevertheless they had a good time and the freedom of the city was their's. A vote of thanks was tendered Comrade Ainsworth for representing the local Branch at Windsor and for the full report of the proceedings which he brought back.

The resolution of the Calgary Branch re. increased gratuities on the scale of $2,000 to men who saw service in the actual theatre of war, $1500 to men who saw service in England and $1000 to men who saw service in Canada only was voted down. In the booklet issued by the Calgary Branch no way was suggested whereby the country is to raise the $850,000,000, which would be required to pay the increased gratuities. The only argument was that if the war had continued another year this amount of money would have been readily forthcoming.

The Secretary also read the letter of the Orangeville Bowling Club, in which returned men were invited to become honorary members, this entitling them to the privileges of the green. A vote of thanks was unanimously tendered to the Club for its kindness, and Comrade Aiken was requested to canvass the members to ascertain the number who intended to avail themselves of this privilege.

Another vote of thanks was tendered to the Dufferin Lacrosse Club for their generous offer to put on a benefit game for the Branch.

The educational regulations affecting returned men were discussed at some length, also several other matters of business.

Rev. Mackintosh, of Guelph, was appointed our representative by proxy to the Dominion Convention of the G. W. V. A. to be held in Victoria, B.C., commencing June 9th.

The meeting closed with the singing of the National Anthem.

On Friday night, June 13th., a special musical concert will be given in the Opera House under the direction of Mr. J. E. Jessop. A first class programme will be provided. Proceeds for the benefit of the local Branch of the G. W. V. A.

KING CHATTAN

The property of Robert Orr, of Mono Mills.

Will make the season of 1919 at Young's Hotel Stables in the Village of Mono Mills.

Pedigree and Description

KING CHATTAN, Imp. (8815) (12618) is a beautiful brown; with white face and four white legs. He weighs 1950 pounds and was bred by Robert Wilson, Manswraes, Bridge of Weir, Scotland, and imported by J. B. Hogate of Weston, Ont. King Chattan is a typical Clydesdale Stallion, being a large sized horse, well ribbed and round in body. He has short, strong limbs, showing an immense quantity of clean, flat bone of the finest quality. His beautiful head and fine back stamp him as a horse of the best breeding. His legs are fringed with fine, silky hair and are set on sound, strongly made feet. The royal Scotch blood that courses thro' his veins makes him step straight and true with the best of style and action. He is full of the famed Clan Chattan and Darnley blood, as is shown by his pedigree. He has proved himself one of the greatest foal breeding horses that ever came to Canada. He is a sure foal getter, having foaled as high and even higher than ninety per cent. of the mares bred to him. His sire, Clan Chattan (4224) (10527), was winner of Glasgow Stallion Show premium in February 1907; Sir Hildebrand (4024), Top Gallant (1850), one of the five colts winning the special prize at Glasgow; sired by the renowned Darnley (222), a leading prize winner; sired by Conqueror (199), Lochfergus Champion (449). 1st dam, Jeanie 2nd. Maxwell

—a car made of more brains than metal

SO much material and so much labor go into every car. And so many bookkeepers record the business done.

Have you ever stopped to consider the brain power that goes into a car?

Take the Maxwell, and note such men as these employed in its development:

1. The originator of quantity production in the automobile business and the master mind in the employment of machinery to produce quantity.
2. One of the two leading production men on the continent.
3. One of the two leading metallurgists on the continent.
4. One of the leading foundry engineers on the continent.
5. Probably the leading cost man on the continent.
6. A road testing engineer who has driven a car further than any living man.
7. An accountant who keeps a daily balance in a business that exceeds $50,000,000 a year.

These are but seven of more than thirty men of exceptional capacity who team together in the operation of the Maxwell business. The career of any one of these men furnishes a great human story.

The result is evident in the Maxwell of today —a car with a lineage of 300,000 before it. All designed and built on the original chassis program.

It is a car that grows better day by day.

STERLING BANK'S PROFITS $213,632

Directors Have Decided to Increase Dividend by One Per Cent.

The profits of the Sterling Bank of Canada, after making all necessary deductions amounted to $213,632.14 in the year ending April 30th, 1919, as compared with $186,120.72 in the previous year. The earnings for the past year were at the rate of 17.51 per cent. on the average paid-up capital, so that after paying a dividend of 6 per cent., amounting to $73,-[illegible] and placing the sum of $50,-[illegible] to the reserve fund, (bringing it up to $400,000), there was [illegible] a substantial amount to follow out the bank's usual policy of writing down its assets in a conservative way. For this purpose the sum of $70,000 was set aside—$50,000 of which will be used for general depreciation and $20,000 for reduction of bank premises account, which this year stands at $374,471.83. This left a balance of $40,909.97 in profit and loss to carry forward.

The directors feeling that the results of the past year's business warranted some recognition being now given to the shareholders, it has been decided to increase the dividend on the capital stock by 1 per cent. making it 7 per cent. to date from May 1st, 1919.

"Our total assets," said Mr. G. F. Somers, the president, in his remarks to the shareholders, "now stand at $19,430,884.52, and have been actively but conservatively employed. In this connection I want you to observe our cash assets, which amount to $3,-730,579.85 equal to 21 per cent. of our liabilities to the public.

"Our total readily available reserves stand at $12,354,919.98 or 75.48 per cent. of our deposits and more than 63 per cent. of our total liabilities, including our capital and reserve, a position of strength and stability which induces confidence and to which I attribute the successful position we find ourselves in to-day.

"Amongst these assets we hold the large sum of $8,103,906.16 in bonds, of which $6,863,258.45 are bonds of the Dominion, Provincial and British Governments; the balance being almost entirely Canadian Municipal Bonds. A large proportion of these are of the War Loan Issues, and at present prices would provide a very substantial profit. I look for a further advance in the value of these securities.

"Our total current loans amount to $6,486,849.15, a little higher than last year. This is not due to reluctance on our part to make advances, as we have sought to encourage loans for productive purposes, but rather to the general prosperity. Our surplus funds have therefore been invested in first class and easily marketable bonds, and we now find ourselves in the excellent position of being ready to take advantage of new business offering, as conditions readjust themselves.

"I need hardly point out that as these moneys become employed in this way the yield on our funds will materially increase.

"Our deposits have increased by more than $3,000,000; $1,000,000 consists of savings bank accounts. This is remarkable in view of the heavy withdrawals made for subscriptions to the Victory Loans. These withdrawals have all been made up and the deposits stand higher than ever."

NEWS NOTES

The many friends of Mr. and Mrs. Thos. Fines, Town Line, Erin and Caledon, will be pleased to know that their son, Master Carman, who has been so seriously ill, for the past seven weeks, is improving under skilful medical care.

Goderich is somewhat excited over the prospect of having a big steel manufacturing plant located there. The company is to be capitalized at $15,000,000 and 4,000 men are to be employed. Time will tell whether this is a tangible proposition or an airy dream.

Gravenhurst is taking action to have the name of the town changed. As the change can only be made by an Act of Parliament, action cannot be taken until next year as the matter was brought before the Ontario Legislature too late to carry the matter through this year.

Adam Holley, a farmer living on the town line Glenelg and Holland, was tried in a magistrate's court at Markdale and committed for trial on a serious charge. It is alleged that he cut a large quantityof wire fencing belonging to a neighbor, one English, and also remained monies belonging to his sons.

Black Peer (13806) (16479) is a handsome black horse of the very best breeding and has made a splendid record as a sire. Baron's Pride was sire in one season of the Cawdor Cup champion mare, the Glasgow Aged Premium horse, the male champions at Kilmarnoch, Ayr, Glasgow, Edinburgh the Royal and the Highland and the female champions at the Royal, Ayr and Edinburgh. Farmers of the Adjala district are fortunate to have a horse of Black Peer's breeding and outstanding qualities at their service for breeding purposes.

INVESTING FOR CHILDREN

If heads of families drawing interest from Victory Bonds do not consider the amount large enough to invest on their own account, they might well put it into War Savings Stamps for their children.

The holder of a $100 Victory Bond received $5.50 a year, which, if put into War Savings Stamps for a child, would mean a saving of 10c. a week on which an amount equal to about 5 p.c. simple interest is paid.

A $200 Victory Bond annually bears $11 interest, which, put into War Savings Stamps, would mean the saving of a little over 20c. a week, drawing about 5 p.c. simple interest.

A $500 Bond pays $27.50 a year in interest, which, invested in War Savings Stamps, would mean the saving of 51c. a week, or 7½c. a day, for every day in the year, and constitutes a very considerable sum.

So if the amount paid in Victory Bond interest is too small for the parent to put into War Savings Stamps, it should at least make a fine start for a child.

PILES Do not suffer another day with Itching, Bleeding, or Protruding Piles. No surgical operation required. IN THE EARLY DAYS AT MONO MILLS

The Passing of the Grist Mill—Old Ways of Milling—A True Maker of Canada.

By Thomas McLaughlin.
(Fourth Letter).

Mono Mills was a place that for half a century was very much on the map in a local way. It was a sort of half-way stop between Lake Ontario and Georgian Bay ports, on the way to the "gravel road" that ran through the swamps of Proton and Melancthon leading to the "Quenn's Bush" and Owen Sound. The flour that fed the people of several townships was made there, and the cloth that covered them was, in part, manufactured there. A string of sleighs a mile long waiting to have their grists of wheat turned into flour was no uncommon sight. For the exchange of wheat by the farmer for its equivalent in flour, bran and shorts would not be entertained in those days. Every grist was milled separately, and the product, less the miller's toll, was re-bagged and handed to the waiting owner.

A Weary Trip.

From far and near they came. The writer received a letter from a resident of Markdale (forty miles west of Mono Mills) about five years ago. Her father had been a pioneer in the Markdale district and she wrote: "I remember well the good loaves made from the flour brought from Mono Mills." It must have been a long, weary trip for that settler, with his oxen and a few bags of wheat, through the swamps of Artemesia and Proton and the wilds of Melanethon and on over the hills of Mono. But it was good flour he carted back home. All the rich bone-forming, nerve-nourishing vitalizing mineral elements so necessary to perfect health were retained. It was not a question of securing whiteness and fineness at the expense of food value, as in the modern systems of milling. So for several decades the waters of the Humber, fresh and clear from their source on the Mono hillside, furnished power to make the mills the Mecca of the district.

Decline of Mono Mills.

But the opening of the Narrow Gauge Railway from Toronto to Owen Sound in 1871 side-tracked Mono Mills, and it may be said that thereafter the village began to lose ground until a few years later, as far as business was concerned. "Ichabod" above the thresholds became the most fitting inscription.

A Pioneer Miller.

Michael McLaughlin, the founder of Mono Mills, was a Cahtolic in religion, and a reformer of the George Brown school in politics, and, although over ninety per cent. of the community were Orangemen and Conservatives, for years he was not only the local magistrate, but was the wise counsellor of the settlers in their troubles, a splendid contrast to the faction differences in some neighborhoods, great and small.

Two sons, Michael, Forest Hill road, and Thomas, Admiral road crescent, are living, both of whom were interested in grain and milling for a considerable part of their lives. A grandson, Paul, son of the late J. F. McLaughlin, fell in battle in 1916. Lieut. Gordon McLaughlin in France, and Cadet Roy McLaughlin, R. A. F., sons of Thomas McLaughlin, represent the Michael McLaughlin descendants in present day war activities.

How to Remove Pains Caused by Kidney Trouble

It may be news to you, but it is history to thousands of persons, who have suffered from Backache, Painful Urination, Swollen Joints, Constant Headaches, etc., that Gin Pills remedy Kidney and Bladder troubles by first removing the cause.

The cause of all Kidney diseases such as Rheumatism, Lumbago, Sciatica, etc., is congested Kidneys. Kidneys that fail to perform their function of filtering the poisons and impurities from the blood. These poisons remaining in the system are the direct cause of a chain of dreaded diseases.

If you've never heard of Gin Pills before ask any of your friends about them. Gin Pills have been on the market for years; they are the old reliable remedy for Backache, etc. If you suffer from any Kidney or Bladder afflictions try Gin Pills.

Should you not care to buy them as an experiment, a sample box will be sent to you on request.

Gin Pills contain the beneficial ingredient of Gin without the slightest trace of alcohol. For many years bottled Gin was considered the ready remedy for Kidney or Bladder troubles. Scientific research proved, however, that the reason for this was due purely to the extract of Juniper it contained and nothing else. From hundreds of letters received by us we are convinced that all any sufferer of Kidney or Bladder trouble needs to do is try Gin Pills—and they will find relief at once.

MRS. THOS. JENNINGS

Early Resident of Shelburne Passes Away in Syracuse.

Mrs. Jennings, widow of the late Thos. Jennings, died at her home at Syracuse, N.Y., on Sunday evening, May 25th. Deceased suffered from a stroke of paralysis over a year ago, and although she was able to go around did not fully recover the use of one arm. It is supposed that she had had another stroke recently that proved fatal. The late Mr. and Mrs. Thos. Jennings were pioneer settlers of Shelburne, having moved here from Mulmur Corners nearly fifty years ago. They at first conducted the old Queen's Hotel that stood on the site of S. F. M. O'Flynn & Son's seed store and later moved to what was known as Jelly's Hotel, on the present site of the Mansion House and N. Fisher & Co.'s store. They resided there for many years and were in charge when the present Mansion House was opened in the fall of 1880. After leaving Shelburne some years later they moved to Markdale, then to Toronto, and later to Kincardine, where they owned and conducted the leading hotel in the town until Mr. Jennings' death. After his death Mrs. Jennings sold the hotel and purchased a beautiful home in London, where she lived until she went to Syracuse to live with her daughter. The late Mrs. Jennings was a kind and affable lady and was admired and respected by all who knew her for her many good qualities. She is survived by one son, Wm. Jennings, of Syracuse, and two daughters, Mrs. James Secord of Saskatchewan and Mrs. Clayton Bailey of Syracuse, with whom she lived. Mrs. J. C. Whitten of Shelburne is a sister. Ex-Mayor Thos. Mara of Brampton and Edward Mara of Sarnia are brothers. Her remains were taken to Kincardine and on Tuesday afternoon were laid at rest beside those of her late husband, her deceased daughter, Hattie, and son, Oliver Jennings. The bereaved family has the sympathy of a large number of old friends in Shelburne and Dufferin county.—Free Press.

Reserve Seat Plan now Open at The Banner Office.

A screen classic that critics have placed in the same category with "The Birth of a Nation" and "Hearts of the World."

"The Heart of Humanity" is a motion picture history of woman's part in the great war, depicted in story form and built around the romance of a little Canadian girl who gave her husband to fight against Prussian autocracy and then went to France herself to care for the wounded and orphaned and homeless victims of German brutality.

The closing scenes of the fighting in Flanders form the red background for action that expresses the bravery of the Red Cross in working under the very mouths of German guns, to restore to normal physical and mental health the children of France and Belgium made fatherless, motherless and homeless by war. It is amid such scenes that Nanette, the little wife of John Patricia, an aviator with the Canadian Expeditionary Forces, labors night and day, and suffers the indignities of war-maddened, lustful Huns before she is reunited with her husband and decorated by the French government for her valorous services.

Love is universal, and for that reason "The Heart of Humanity" has an undeniable appeal to everyone. There is the love of the mother for her five soldier sons. There is the love of the mother for her babe. We see the love of the sweetheart. We witness the love of the wife for her husband who has answered the call: the love of the man for the wife left behind. But greater than all is the love that prompts men to leave home and loved ones, that prompts women to leave their own children in order to help the suffering—the great love which beats in the Heart of Humanity.

DAN MAY'S FUNERAL

The funeral of the late Daniel May, whose death was reported in last week's Banner, was held from the home of his brother-in-law, Mr. Thos. Dawson, by motor to Greenwood cemetery on Wednesday afternoon of last week. Rev. Mr. Dumas, acting rector of St. Mark's church, officiated at the house and grave. The pallbearers were Messrs. Wm. Fiddes, R. J. McConnell, Walter Fairbairn, Harry Shaw, John Foley and E. C. Daniels. One son, Dawson May, of Chicago, and the two daughters, Mrs. Lane, of Buffalo, and Mrs. Mott, of Orillia, were here for the funeral.

DEATH OF JOHN LUNDY

The death of John Lundy, a son of the late David Lundy, of Mono, took place at his late home, 50 Gladstone Ave., Toronto, on Wednesday morning, May 14th., after two weeks illness from a severe cold which developed into pneumonia. Deceased who was 54 years of age, leaves a widow and one daughter, Mazel. He had been living in Toronto for a number of years. Jas. Lundy, of Toronto, Wm., David and Alex. Lundy, of Mono, and Joseph Lundy, in Michigan, are brothers. The surviving sisters are Mrs. John S. Graham, of Mono, Mrs. Robt. Wiggins, of Toronto, and Mrs. Thos. Hillock of Alton. The funeral took place in Toronto on Friday, May 16th.

MRS. A. W. WOOD

The death took place at her home in Albion recently of Annie Jane Porter, widow of the late A. W. Wood. Deceased had been in declining health for some time. The late Mrs. Wood was born at Sandhill fifty-five years ago, was a member of the Salem Methodist Church and was well and favorably known in the neighborhood. She is survived by a family of three sons and three daughters. Her surviving brothers and sister are Dr. Frank Porter, of Waubushene, James Porter, of Toronto, Thos. G. Porter, of Orangeville, and Mrs. Wm. Stubbs, of Toronto. The funeral was held to Providence cemetery on Thursday following her demise.

THE LATE JOHN HADDOCK

Mr. John Haddock, an old and widely known resident of the Relessey neighborhood, passed away quite suddenly at his home, lot 23, 6th line, east, Mono, about 9 o'clock on Tuesday night. The old gentleman, who was unusually bright and active for a man of his years, was in his usual good health right up to the very moment of his death. He was seated on the door step catching ball with his little grand-daughter, who was playing outside the door, when Mrs. Haddock noticed him gasp suddenly and fall backward. He was carried inside almost immediately, but the heart had failed to perform its all important function and life was already extinct. The late Mr. Haddock was 78 years of age and was a native of Armagh County, Ireland. He came to Canada with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Haddock, when he was about seven years of age. His mother died shortly after reaching Canada. A couple of years later his father settled on lot 25, 6th line, Mono, where the subject of our sketch spent his boyhood. Fifty three years ago he married Miss Margaret Aikens, a daughter of the late Robert Aikens, who survives her husband. The union was unusually happy and was further blessed by a family of eleven children, of whom ten are still living. The first break in the happy circle occurred last December, when a daughter, Mrs. Whitfield Jessop, of Camilla, succumbed to influenza and pneumonia. The other sons and daughters are: Wm. H., Robert and James Haddock, farmers in Mono, Jos. Haddock, of Mulmur, Sam. on the homestead, Mrs. Arch. Irwin, Orangeville, Mrs. Robt. Brinkman, Mono, Mrs. Thos. Rutledge and Mrs. Jos. Holmes, of Tecumseth, and Mrs. Cecil Holmes, of West Caledon. As a neighbor and citizen the late Mr. Haddock enjoyed the esteem and confidence of everyone in his home community. Industrious, law-abiding, strictly honorable in all his dealings and deeply attached to his home and family. The late Mr. Haddock was a splendid representative of the sturdy pioneer settlers whose arduous toil and sterling qualities laid the foundations for Ontario's present day prosperity. He was a member of the Anglican Church, a staunch Conservative and an enthusiatic Orangeman, being one of the oldest members of Relessey L.O.L. No. 1083. The funerl which was by motor to Relessey Cemetery on Sunday afternoon, was one of the largest ever witnessed in the Relessey district. It was only fitting that one of the oldest Orangemen of the district should be laid at rest with the honors of the Order he loved. Brethren of the Relessey lodge and neighboring lodges were present in full regalia and circled the grave while the beautiful burial service of the Order was read by W. Bros. W. E. and Robert McFadden. In the unavoidable absence of Rev. G. L. Gray, Rev. G. W. Lynd, pastor of Rosemont Methodist circuit, conducted the services at the house and grave. The pallbearers were Messrs. John Anderson, Richard Holmes, Peter McMullen, W. J. Stinson, Richard McFadden and Thos. W. Wilson.

MOVING TO MITCHELL

Mr. Roscoe Hill, mechanical superintendent in the Dods Knitting Co's factory here, has accepted a similar position in the town of Mitchell and is moving to that place this week. Mr. Hill has been leader of the Citizens' Band for the last two years and is quite prominent in local musical circles. He and Mrs. Hill will be greatly missed in town.

MRS. THOS. WILSON

The Mono Centre district lost one of its oldest residents last week in the death of Mrs. Wilson, widow of the late Thomas Wilson. The sad event took place at her home in Mono Centre village on Friday after an illness of only two days duration. Deceased was 89 years of age, but despite her advanced years retained the unimpaired use of her mental and physical faculties almost up to the last. On Wednesday before her death she was well enough to do some gardening. The late Mrs. Wilson, whose maiden name was Margaret Stewart, was born in Aberdeen, Scotland. When she was only six years old, her parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Stewart, came to Canada and settled near Mono Centre. Deceased was a woman of fine character and many stories are told of her kindness, and her practical way of expressing her sympathy with those visited by sickness or other misfortune. She was one of the old members of Burns' Presbyterian church at Mono Centre, and always manifested a warm and active interest in the welfare of her church. Her loss is mourned by a family of eight sons and daughters, namely Mrs. Irwin Moore, of Webb, Sask., Mrs. John McLaine and Mrs. Walter Bridgeman, of Mono Centre, Mrs. James Wallace, of Stockton, Man., Mrs. G. B. Moore, of Black's Corners, Wm. Wilson, living in Washington State, Benj. Wilson, of Owen Sound, and Peter Wilson, of Mono Centre. There was a large attendance of friends and neighbors at the funeral, which was held to Burns' Church cemetery on Sunday afternoon. Rev. G. W. Rose, of Corbetton, a former pastor, was the officiating clergyman. The pallbearers were Messrs. Benj. and Peter Wilson, Ross Wilson, Walter Bridgeman, Boyd McLaine and G. B. Moore.

BROOCH LOST

Lost in Orangeville a brooch designed with flag set in rubies and diamonds. This brooch is much valued as it was the property of a soldier's wife now deceased. Liberal reward for recovery. Finder will please leave at The Banner Office.

PRESENTED WITH A FORD

Rev. W. E. Wilson, pastor of King Street Methodist Church, had a pleasant surprise yesterday when a brand new Ford Sedan car was driven up to his door. "It is for you," said the messenger, and the popular downtown minister stared in astonishment. Later he learned that the car was donated by a well-known returned officer to enable the pastor to carry out his work with greater facility. "It will save a great deal of time and energy and contribute to more efficient work in the downtown section," said Mr. Wilson, who added that the generous giver did not wish his name known.—Toronto Times.

As many Banner readers know, Rev. Mr. Wilson is a former Caledon boy and a graduate of the Orangeville High School. It will be a pleasure to his friends here and in his native township—friends who have followed his work in the city with interest and pride—to learn that his splendid pastoral work in his own church, his whole-hearted sympathy and labors in behalf of the suffering and needy of all classes in the downtown section of the city have been so handsomely recognized by a gentleman, who until the time of the presentation was personally unknown to Mr. Wilson. We understand that the only stipulation made by the donor was that the Sedan was to be used faithfully to assist in rebuilding the overtaxed energies of the young minister, spent by constant ministrations to hundreds of flu patients in downtown Toronto during the trying months of the past winter

Had Piles For Ten Years

And Tried Nearly Everything Except a Surgical Operation Without Obtaining Relief — Tells How Complete Cure Was Effected.

There are reported here three cures of chronic cases of piles. In all three cases many treatments were tried before it was discovered that Dr. Chase's Ointment is about the only real cure for this distressing ailment.

Mrs. A. Oates, 22 Gilkinson street, Brantford, Ont., writes: "I have used Dr. Chase's Ointment as a household remedy for ever so long, and am particularly indebted to it for a cure from Piles. I had suffered from this annoying trouble for ten years, and tried nearly everything I heard of. After using Dr. Chase's Ointment a short while I was completely cured."

Mrs. Wm. Shantz, 155 Albert street, Kitchener, Ont., writes: "For several years I was troubled with bleeding piles. I tried different remedies for relief without success. I read in Dr. Chase's Almanac of the benefits other people were receiving from Dr. Chase's Ointment, so I sent to your office for a sample box. I found it gave me such relief that I went to a drug store and purchased a full-sized box. I have used several boxes since, and have derived more benefit from its use than any remedy I have ever used."

Mrs. F. Cussons, Victoria street, Ingersoll, Ont., writes: "About two years and a half ago I was suffering from Piles. I had tried many different remedies for this distressing trouble, but nothing helped me. Finally I got a box of Dr. Chase's Ointment, and after using it found that I was completely cured and have not been bothered in this way since. I can cheerfully recommend Dr. Chase's Ointment to anyone suffering as I did."

How Can I Save--With Profit?

Many wage-earners are asking themselves this question.

They do not want to put a quarter in the bank at a time, and before they know it, it is gone for trifles.

The Government has provided a simple plan to enable you to save that quarter in such a way that it will earn you more money.

Twenty-five cents buys a Thrift Stamp. Sixteen Thrift Stamps become a War Savings Stamp, for which the Government will pay you $5.00 in 1924.

In May W-S.S. Cost $4.04

In June W-S.S. Cost $4.05

If you lend the Government your savings in this way, you can make your money earn over 4½% compound interest as often as you save $4.00 odd.

This is not only easy and profitable investment, but patriotic investment, because the Government needs money for the heavy financing of the reconstruction period.

War Savings Stamps can be bought wherever this sign is displayed.

AUTO-INTOXICATION OR SELF-POISONING

"FRUIT-A-TIVES" Absolutely Prevents This Dangerous Condition.

The chief cause of poor health is our neglect of the bowels. Waste matter, instead of passing from the lower intestine regularly every day, is allowed to remain there, generating poisons which are absorbed by the blood.

In other words, a person who is habitually constipated, is poisoning himself. We know now that Auto-intoxication, due to non-action of the bowels, is directly responsible for serious Kidney and Bladder Troubles; that it upsets the Stomach, causes Indigestion, Loss of Appetite and Sleeplessness; that chronic Rheumatism, Gout, Pain In The Back, are relieved as soon as the bowels become regular; and that Pimples, Rashes, Eczema and other Skin Affections disappear when "Fruit-a-tives" are taken to correct Constipation.

"Fruit-a-tives" will protect you against Auto-intoxication because this wonderful fruit medicine acts directly on all the eliminating organs.

BARN BURNED

Fireworks Cause of Serious Blaze in Guelph on May 24th.

Two valuable horses belonging to Harry Devlin, and several vehicles were destroyed in a fire which burned up a barn in the rear of 169 London Road on Saturday night. The fire was discovered at 10.30 o'clock by Mrs. Devlin, who saw the blaze at one end of the barn from her bedroom window as she was about to retire for thenight. An alarm was at once sent in to the fire department from across the road, and the response was prompt, but by the time the brigade arrived the barn was in flames, as everything about it was of an inflammable nature. Mr. Devlin and his neighbor, Mr. Neizah, who lives opposite, went to the barn door to endeavor to get out the horses, but found it impossible owing to the dense smoke, which drove them back, and they were compelled to leave the animals to their fate. They were probably suffocated before the arrival of the firemen, for this morning they were found in their stalls, but were not burned. One of the horses was "Strathburn Prince," a fine brown stallion which Mr. Devlin prized very highly and was a very valuable and popular sire of general purpose horses. He was valued at $1,000. The other horse was a driver. In the barn were also two cutters, two carts, a bicycle sulky and a lot of good harness, feed, hay and straw, etc. This was all destroyed.

The firemen put up a good fight, but had a great deal of difficulty with the hay and straw, as it had to be forked out and then soaked with water. Two streams of water were used and the pressure was good at all times. It was 12.30 when the firemen returned to the hall.

Mr. Devlin's loss is fully covered by insurance as is also the loss sustained by Mr. McLean, of Aurora, the owner of the building. A big crowd of people were at the fire, the theatres having just closed, and the reflection in the sky attracted them to the fire. It is thought that the fire was caused by fireworks, as the rockets, etc., were all put off during the evening and children had been around the barn all day.—Guelph Herald.

$50 VICTORY BONDS

In 1917, 699,415 $50 Victory Bonds were allotted to subscribers to the Victory Loan and, in 1918, 612,744 of the same denomination were allotted. This shows how important the small investor has become to the country.

It is quite probable that during these two years $50 Victory Bonds were taken by nearly 1,000,000 people in Canada. One may be sure that very few of them ever bought a bond before. They were an addition to the number of investors in government securities.

The problem is to retain them as such. War Savings Stamps may do this, they being a Government "Baby Bond," which may be bought on easier terms than Victory Bonds were.

WHO AM I?

I AM the "Get-Together Idea."

Try me in Orangeville.

I am the source of the world's best work—the maker of individuality—the foundation of achievement.

I am the bone and sinew of accomplishment—the locomotion of promotion—the inspiration of elevation—the spur of energy—the wooer of the doer.

Failure marks the circular path of those who spurn me.

Mind-muscle and brain-brawn are born of my cultivation.

I am the synonym of progress—of a deed well done and a race well run.

I make directors of office-boys—executives of salespeople—presidents of railsplitters and deckhands.

When I am called in before action, nothing is said demanding retraction.

I cause men to act with tact—to read the creed of the days ahead—to hold the road when the going's rough—to reach the ripest peach of reward.

I force men to assay the claims on business mines, sink shafts, and delve deep for the nuggets of opportunity—for the gains of brains—the cumulative spoils of uncompromising moil and toil.

I energize defeat with renewed endeavor—turn mistakes in earning power—give the "get-back" after the setback—the strongest muscle for the longest tussle.

I am the breeder of leaders—the moulder of winners—nutrition to ambition.

Try me in Orangeville.

I am the "Get-Together" Idea.

DIED WHILE SINGING

Unusual Tragedy Near Eden Grove On a Recent Sunday Night.

Asked by some company, which had gathered at Mr. Thos. Desmond's near Eden Grove on Sunday night, to sing them a song, Mr. John Hielard, an old gardener who had been making his home for the past quarter of a century at Mr. Desmond's, and who could hardly be prevailed upon of late to sing at all, surprised the gathering by stepping up to the piano, and rendering in melodious tones his old favorite, a song on the tragedy of the Brooklyn fire, which John had witnessed himself, and from which he had helped to remove the remains of many of his friends. Notably affected as he careered along, John was vividly painting in song the ghastly tales of the terrible tragedy, which his hearers were listening to with breathless interest, when the aged songster suddenly reeled and dropped dead on the floor. Born in New York city, the deceased, who was early orphaned in life, spent the past twenty-five years around the Grove, where he worked as a gardener and was a general favorite with all. The funeral to the Chepstow cemetery on Tuesday morning was largely attended.

Erin lost a life-long resident in the person of Robert Caldwell Price, who passed away May 17th. The funeral took place from his late residence, Lot 14, 7th Line, Erin, to Coningsby Cemetery.

The County Judge at Newmarket court a few days ago decided that any person taking in cattle to pasture is liable for any losses, and gave judgment for $55.00 for an animal lost from such a pasture field two years ago.

Feeble Old People Vinol is What You Need

because it contains the very elements needed to replace weakness with strength, viz: Beef and Cod Liver Peptones, Iron and Manganese Peptonates, and Glycerophosphates, with a mild tonic wine. This is a splendid combination to restore strength, vitality and vigor. It has given ninety percent satisfaction for sixteen years. HERE IS PROOF:

Malone, N.Y.

"I am 84 years of age and got into a feeble, weak and nervous condition so I could not sleep. Vinol has not only built up my strength but it has given me a good appetite and I sleep all right now. Without doubt Vinol is the greatest strengthener for old people obtainable."—Mrs. S. B. Wells.

Winchester, Va.

"I am a farmer's wife, 75 years of age, and pneumonia left me in a weak, run-down condition, so I could hardly keep about and do my work. A neighbor brought me Vinol and it has built up my strength so fast that I think it is the best medicine I have ever taken."—Mrs. Jennie Chapman.

For all run-down, nervous, anaemic conditions, weak women, overworked men, feeble old people and delicate children, there is no remedy like Vinol.

PAINT—It's like bread; there is as much in the making as from what it is made

Take two women—your wife and your neighbor's, for example. They both use the same flour and yeast. Both bake bread in the same kind of oven for the same length of time.

Your wife's bread invariably turns out best. Why is it? It's in the making—her way of making it.

It's exactly the same with paint. The list of materials from which it is made is only half the story—hardly that.

The difference in the making, users have learned to know, is one of the big things that makes the dependable paint it is. It also has much to do with its lastingness. It is one of the main reasons for its splendid covering qualities—for its economical spreading properties.

Lowe Brothers HIGH STANDARD LIQUID · PAINT

We recommend this good paint to you because we know it will give you satisfactory service.

A BUNCH OF FOXES

Mr. Thomas Snell of Derby is running a little Zoological garden of his own. Last week says the Chatsworth News we were out in Derby and, hearing that Mr. Snell had some baby foxes, we called in to see them. There were five o fthem about a month and a half old. Mr. Snell had found a den and had dug them out and, setting a trap, had caught the old one also. The little fellows were quite tame and permitted themselves to be handled, showing neither fear nor anger. The old one which had been caught in a trap was built otherwise and gave Mr Snell a bad fifteen minutes before its soul travelled to the Foxes' happy hunting grounds where spring chickens run about unprotected by poultry netting or shot guns. The young foxes are worth about ten dollars each and the old one about eighteen dollars. Mr. Snell also has an old pair which he captured about a year ago.

THE BANNER

ORANGEVILLE, JUNE 12, 1919

MILITARY NOTES.

Gunner Russell McRoberts, son of Mr. and Mrs. C. A. McRoberts, of Sound Sound, formerly of Orangeville, arrived home from overseas early last week. Gunner McRoberts was living at Brampton, when he enlisted with the Canadian Field Artillery on January 3rd, 1917. He reached England on April 24th of the same year and after a course of training was sent to the R. C. H. A. in France on February 1st., 1918. He served with that branch of the service throughout the remainder of the war and in spite of the very heavy fighting had the good fortune to escape without injury. He was given a hearty welcome on his arrival home.

Pte. Horace McGuire, youngest son of Mr. and Mrs. B. McGuire, West Broadway, arrived in town on Friday night and spent the week-end at his home here. Pte. McGuire enlisted in the 97th battalion in Calgary early in 1916. When he came east to Toronto he transferred to the 95th., with which he went overseas in May of the same year. He trained at Shorncliffe Camp until his unit was broken up in September of 1916. As his health was not up to the standard required for service in France he was then sent to the Canadian Pay and Records Office in London, where he served for two and a half years. Pte. McGuire reached Canada on the Regina over ten days ago, but upon arrival in Toronto found that his papers had gone astray and he was therefore unable to obtain his discharge immediately. Pte. McGuire returned to the city on Sunday, but is expected home again in the course of a few days. Two older brothers, Capt. H. B. McGuire and Lieut. R. B. McGuire, were both killed in action during the war.

Lieut. Douglas W. Macpherson, a son of Mr. and Mrs. D. Macpherson, arrived in town on Monday night and is spending a few days visiting at his parental home here. He was given a rousing welcome at the C. P. R. depot, was escorted to Broadway by the Citizens Band and was subsequently conveyed to his home in an auto. Lieut. Macpherson, who has had a most creditable career overseas, enlisted at Moose Jaw and went overseas with the 46th Batt. in October, 1915. He was drafted to the 16th Batt. (Canadian Scottish) a famous fighting Regiment commanded by a famous Canadian officer in the person of Lt. Col. C. W. Peck, V.C., D.S.O who now represents a British Columbia constituency in the House of Commons. Lieut. Macpherson was wounded at Regina Trench in Oct., 1916. After leaving the hospital in England he received his commission and upon rejoining his Regiment fought with them at Amiens and in all the subsequent battles of the war ending his career of active service with the Army of Occupation across the Rhine. He was awarded the Military Cross for bravery on the field at Amiens and shortly before he sailed for home was invested by King George at Buckingham Palace. Our readers will be interested in the following from the London Gazette:—

"Lt. Douglas W. Macpherson, 16th Bn.—During an attack he behaved with extraordinary courage and steadiness. He was incessantly backward and forward on the battlefield, cheering on his men and getting them on in splendid order. On several occasions during the action he distinguished himself by his coolness and prompt action. He set the finest example to the troops he led."

Mr. and Mrs. Macpherson gave four sons to the Empire in its hour of need. One of them, Capt. J. Ross Macpherson, who was also decorated for bravery, made the supreme sacrifice. Two of the three, who have returned to Canada, were wounded. Altogether the family has achieved a war record that has rarely been surpassed in the annals of war.

Trooper E. D. Stinson, a son of Mr. J. H. Stinson, of Stonewall, Man., who returned to Canada from overseas a short time ago, arrived in town on Monday night of last week after spending a couple of weeks visiting relatives here and in Mono before proceeding to his home in the West. Trooper Stinson enlisted in Winnipeg with the First Contingent, Fort Garry Horse in Winnipeg on August 16th, 1914, a few days after war was declared. He trained at Valcartier Camp and went overseas with the First Contingent. After arriving in England he transferred to the Royal Canadian Dragoons, with which he went to France early in 1915. He went through the heavy fighting at Ypres, St. Julien and Langemark in the spring of the second year of the war. He was off duty for about a year with enteric fever but except for this was at the front continuously up to the signing of the armistice. The young soldier was the guest of his aunt, Mrs. Geo. H. Mills, during his stay in town. Trooper Stinson is a nephew of Messrs. W. J., Jas. M., and Samuel Stinson, of Mono.

Lance Corporal R. A. Annis, son of Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Annis, arrived home on Monday by motor from Toronto. Bert, as his friends all call the young soldier, enlisted in the West as a member of the Royal Northwest Mounted Police Cavalry Corps and later transferred to a British Tank Battalion as a Machine Gunner. While in training at Shorncliffe Camp last August he was severely wounded in the head during a German air raid in which a large number of the soldiers in the Camp were either killed or wounded. His injuries were sufficiently severe to confine him to the hospital for three months and prevented him from getting over to France to help run the Hun out of the country. Lance Corporal Annis still carries the marks of his wounds. Otherwise he is looking and feeling fine.

Gunner E. H. Glenn, a Grand Valley soldier and formerly Principal of the Grand Valley school, arrived home from overseas a week ago Saturday. Glenn went overseas as C. Q. M. S. with the 164th and was subsequently transferred to the 23rd Heavy Howitzer Battery with which he saw active service in France and marched into Germany after the signing of the armistice.

RICH, RED BLOOD MEANS HEALTH

Weak, Pale People Require a Blood-Making Medicine.

It took centuries for medical science to discover that the blood is the life. Now, it is known that if the blood were always abundant, rich and pure, very few people would ever be ill. It was not until the end of the 19th century that an instrument was invented for measuring the red part of the blood. Then doctors could tell just how anaemic a patient had become, and with medicine to make new blood the patient soon got well.

All the blood in the body is nourished and kept rich and red by the food taken daily, but when, for any reason, a person is run down and cannot make sufficient blood from the food to keep the body in health, then a blood-making medicine is required. The simplest and very best of blood-makers suitable for home use by anyone, is Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. When a course of these pills is taken their good effect is soon shown in an improved appetite, stronger nerves, a sound digestion and an ability to master your work and enjoy leisure hours. For women there is a prompt relief of, or prevention of ailments which make life a burden. Mrs. Thos. Kaake, Trenton, Ont., tells how she obtained new health and strength through the use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. She says: "The weakness came on me so gradually that at first it was hardly noticeable. But after a time it got so that I could not go upstairs without stopping to rest. Every particle of color left my hands and face, and the least exertion would tire me and leave my heart palpitating violently. I consulted a doctor who told me the trouble was anaemia and prescribed a tonic. I took this medicine for some time, but it did not seem to help me a bit. Then I read of a cure in a similar case through Dr. Williams' Pink Pills and decided to try them. The result was these pills made me feel like a new woman. I have regained all my former health and strength, and feel that I owe my present condition entirely to Dr. Williams' Pink Pills.

You can get these pills through any dealer in medicine, or by mail at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50 from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

CELEBRATED THEIR SILVER WEDDING

Friday, June 6th, was a gala day at "High Lea" the home of Mr. and Mrs. John P. McKim of Caledon Tp., when a large company of their relatives and friends foregathered to help in the marking of the Twenty-fifth anniversary of their marriage. About sixty people took part in the festivities of the occasion, some of them the friends of early youth, while others had been present on the wedding-day a quarter of a century ago. Luncheon was served in the spacious dining-room, where the tables were arranged in the form of a cross and beautifully decorated for the occasion. A three-storied cake handsomely graced the tables, which it goes without saying were loaded down with all good things. After the repast, the Rev. J. Burkholder, acting as Toastmaster, in fitting words briefly reviewed the progress of the past twenty-five years, congratulating Mr. and Mrs. McKim upon reaching the present milestone, and wishing them long life, health and happiness in the years to come. Mr. McKim very feelingly responded to the toast in honor of his wife and himself, assuring the guests of the day of his joy at their presence, and basing hopes for the future upon the happy experiences of the past. Among others who appropriately expressed the compliments of the occasion were Dr. Bowles, Dr. Thomas, J. Cornelius, F. A. Forster, Geo. Lee and George Cameron. After the speeches the assembly arose and heartily joined in singing, "For they are jolly good people." The evening was spent in the social joys of reminiscence and music. The honored hosts were the recipients of a large number of gifts both beautiful and unique.

HORSE THIEF ARRESTED

High Constable William Marshall did some smart detective work last week which resulted in the arrest of Wesley Willis, a 16 year old youth, wanted at Brampton on a charge of horse stealing. Marshall happened to notice an account of the theft in last Tuesday's Mail and Empire. Thinking that the thief might have come this way the Constable got busy on the telephone and late Wednesday night got a clue which caused him to make a trip to the home of John A. Somerville, a well-known Adjala farmer, early on Thursday morning. Here he was successful in apprehending Willis, and also recovered possession of the stolen horse and buggy, which was the property of a farmer named James W. Wiggins, living near Snelgrove. The lad is supposed to have taken the outfit from a church shed on Saturday night. He arrived at Somerville's place early in the week and hired with him as a farm hand. He told Somerville he owned the horse and buggy and the latter did not know there was anything wrong until the Constable appeared. Marshall brought Willis and the stolen outfit to town, put his prisoner in the lock-up and got into communication with the Brampton authorities, who had offered a reward for the arrest of Willis. Chief Herkes, of Brampton, and the owner of the horse arrived in town later in the day and took the prisoner and the outfit back to Brampton. Willis, who is mentally deficient, had just finished a term of 90 days in jail for stealing.

PALMER–LEE

The home of Mr. and Mrs. William Lee, of Ballycroy, was the scene of an interesting event on Tuesday, the 3rd. of June, at 2 p.m., when their daughter, Mary Edith, was united in wedlock to Mr. Wilmer Palmer, son of Mr. Jos. Palmer, of Tottenham, Ont. The ceremony, which was performed in the presence of immediate relatives and friends by the Rev. A. C. McCallum, took place upon the lawn under an arch of evergreens draped with flags. The bride was charmingly attired in a gown of white satin charmeuse and georgette, with bridal veil of tulle, adorned with orange blossoms, and carried roses and sweet peas. She was attended by her sister, Miss Ena Lee, in silver grey georgette and carrying white lilacs and sweet peas. Miss Inez Irwin played the wedding march and little Miss Patricia Lundy, of Toronto, was a charming flower girl, carrying a beautiful basket of roses and white lilacs. The groom was supported by his brother, Mr. Ralph Palmer, of Toronto. The bride received many beautiful and costly presents, amongst them a purse of $100 from her parents and family. The groom's gift to the bride was a gold pendant set with pearls ,to the bridesmaid and pianiste gold brooches set with pearls and to the flower girl a pretty little ring set with two whole pearls. After refreshments had been partaken of Mr. and Mrs. Palmer left by motor, the bride travelling in a navy blue suit and large white hat of fancy braid, gold lace and tulle. The honeymoon will be spent traveling via Toronto, Niagara and Rochester by boat. On their return the happy couple will take up their residence at 56 Galley Ave., Toronto, where they will settle down to the realities of wedded life accompanied by the hearty good wishes of their numerous friends.

SPEERS—HANSFORD

A very pretty wedding was solemnized at the bride's home on Wednesday evening, June 4th when Isabella J., eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Hansford, was united in marriage to Mr. Harvey M. Speers, only son of Mr. and Mrs. Jas. Speers, both of Caledon. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. J. A. Matheson, of Mono Mills, in the presence of a large number of guests. The bride entered the drawing room on the arm of her father to the strains of Lohengrin's wedding march played by Mrs. Matheson. She was prettily gowned in pearl grey duchesse satin with tunic of silk georgette and carried a boquet of carnations and fern. During the signing of the register Mrs. Matheson played very sweetly.

After a very enjoyable repast Mr. and Mrs. Speers left amid showers of confetti for their new home.

Sleswick, May 28th., 1919.

Pte. Ed. Killeen,

Dear Friend,—We, your friends and neighbors, have met here this evening to welcome you back after your three years service in the Great War for Right against Might and Wrong. Words will not express our joy when we received the news of your homecoming and we give God the thanks for bringing you safely thro' this terrible struggle. We, indeed, appreciate the part you have played in the efforts to crush militarism and we realize how much it meant to you to leave home and all that was dear to volunteer for service and face death itself that we might be spared the hardships of those over whose country the enemy held sway for a period. As a small token of our appreciation of the valuable service you have rendered us we ask you to please accept this small gift and trust that you may be long spared in the life which has been so nobly begun.

Signed on behalf of your many friends,—Neven McQuarrie, R. G. Jackson, John Marshall, John Irwin.

The address was read by Miss Coral Irwin and the presentation was made by Miss Olive M. Jackson. Afterwards a programme of instrumental music and short speeches was enjoyed. The rest of the evening was spent in games and dancing.

Pte. Killeen enlisted in the 248rd Batt. in Saskatoon with headquarters in Regina in 1916 and was in the fighting in Europe until the end. He was in some of the most desperate battles around Ypres, Loos and Hill 60 and was in the great final drive by the Huns last March, when the British were compelled to retreat before overwhelming numbers, but fought bravely against great odds until the Huns exhausted themselves by the magnitude of their effort.

Two more of our Camilla boys arrived home last week, Ptes. Lewis Burrows and Paddie Freeman. Both boys enlisted with the 164th Batt. They were both wounded but appear to be as well and happy as before.

A large crowd attended the Women's Institute last Wednesday at the home of Mrs. J. Little. After the usual programme the roll was called and each member answered by naming a "Time Saving Device."

Misses Florence and Ina Holmes were the guests of Mrs. A. Madill on Sunday.

TRADING IN THE BACKWOODS

Exchange and Barter in the Early Settlement—Stores and Taverns Meeting Place for Hospitality.

By Thomas McLaughlin.

Some years ago the writer received a letter from a Markdale correspondent, rending in part as follows: "In May, of 1850, my father's family passed through Mono Mills on their pilgrimage to the new country. I was then a child of seven years. There were many boys in the family, hence the quest for land, three of them being old enough to locate. My father, a man born and brought up in a city, did not know a thistle from a potato stalk, and when directed to follow a blaze to reach another place, returned and said he could see neither smoke nor blaze. What such pioneer suffered only those on the ground can tell And yet the new life had a charm, and men and women were optimistic, and the absence of social classes in those days made every one every other one's neighbor. What little enjoyment was going all shared in. I think my father knew every settler from Mono Mills to Owen Sound. As he went along the line on foot he would look into every log cabin to see who lived there, and how they fared. Settlers attended the Mono Mills Fair to replenish their live stock in the spring, for many cattle died during the first and second winters, because there was not enough feed grown to keep them alive. Perhaps it was one of a team of oxen, or a cow, upon which so much depended. I will never forget the frozen wheat, though Artemesia twp. was not as bad as Proton and Melancthon, but we had too much of it. And I remember well the good loaves that were made from the Mono Mills flour."

Pushing West.

That letter contains much material for serious thought. The references to the inexperience of the settler, his utter unpreparedness for life in the woods, are touching in the extreme. It is, too, interesting to note that as early as 1850 Mono was considered relatively an old settlement, and new home-seekers were pushing further west to settle in the direction of Owen Sound. The references to the frozen wheat grown on the swampy lands of Proton and Melancthon recall what was for many years nothing less than a succession of tragedies in the lives of the settlers in these townships. The land was level and swampy, the clearings small and far apart. Drains were unthought of. It might be June before the small field was dry enough to permit seeding, and when the first frosts of the early autumn appeared the crop was blighted, and in nearly every instance rendered unfit for human food. The poor farmer went through the process of harvesting just the same, but what he garnered was fit only for feed for his cattle. Some of the threshed grain, frozen though it was, would be toted east to Mono Mills and exchanged for its value equivalent in the best of flour, for no better or more wholesome flour has ever been made than was ground in the old mill at the head of the Humber from wheat grown on the dry, wind-blown hills of Mono.

Early Hardships.

It takes no great amount of reasoning to conclude that among the first settlers in all these townships the paramount problem was "how to obtain enough to keep body and soul together." All other considerations were minor ones. But strong arms and stout hearts won the battle and what were swampy bush lands seventy years ago in Proton and Melancthon are now among the best farms in Canada, clearing and draining making all this possible.

To come back to the settlers at the head of the Humber, they were exempt from all danger as to frozen wheat, for the land was hilly and consequently dried up soon after the snows of winter had melted. The seed was gotten in early, and the crop ripened early, and the quality of grain was the finest. It may be noted that when Mono first began to be settled land nearer Lake Ontario was procurable, but this land was level, heavy clay, and marshy. It is now worth much more money per acre than the higher, lighter lands of Mono, but the early pioneers passed it up, to reach the drier soil. By 1850, of course, nearly all the land through the Gore of Toronto and Vaughan and York had been located.

Logging and Clearing.

It was a long call from the day of the arrival of the pioneer at his allotted location to the time when there was much wheat to harvest on his homestead. The land was covered with a full grown hardwood bush, maple, beech, elm, ash, etc. It took weeks to build a little log house to shelter himself and family; and to fell the trees, cut them into logs, roll the logs into heaps ready for burning when the sap had dried out took months for only a tiny clearing, say an acre or two. Such was the beginning and he had to feed himself and family in the meantime. Truly did the writer of the letter quoted above say: "What such pioneers suffered only those on the spot can tell." The first season potatoes and oats or corn were the principal crop. The second winter saw several acres cleared and by the following spring perhaps ten acres or more would be ready to crop— that is, ten acres, including the space the stumps occupied, for at least a quarter of the cleared area was thus taken up. If the settler was fortunate enough to own a yoke of oxen his work was much lessened. Often one team of oxen did the work for several settlers. The whole long battle for existence and the almost hopeless struggle for something over and above a mere existence had to be fought inch by inch.

Fighting the Wolves.

There was no royal road to plenty for these heroic men and women, and there is no want of charity in saying that scant reverence has been paid the memory of these brave pioneers by their descendants, who have prospered as a result of the privations and unending labors of their fathers. Hunger and cold menaced them the long winter through, and they were not by any means safe from attacks from wolves and bears. To be chased by a bear was not an uncommon experience for an unarmed settler at work in the woods, perhaps half a mile from his home. One of these men, when he found his pursuer fast gaining on him, removed his only coat and threw it in the face of the bear, and this little trick saved his life, for bruin worried with the garment until it was in rags, and lost the race in consequence. A pack of hungry wolves would rush the door of the little house in which the mother and her children were crouching in terror, the man being off at work. On one occasion, failing to effect an entrance through the door, they climbed to the roof and were busy tearing open the bark and branches that composed it, when the man with a neighbor or two arrived and drove them off. All night long the barking of wolves, the cry of the wildcat or the wolverine might be heard at intervals. Cattle and sheep had to be housed in buildings as strongly built as forts, otherwise they would be carried off by bear or wolf.

CALEDON.

Services in connection with the Forward Movement will be held in Knox Presbyterian Church, Caledon, on the week beginning Sunday next, June 15th., when the Rev. Dr. Laird is to preach both morning and evening. This is a splendid opportunity to hear one of the most eminent divines in the Presbyterian Church, and doubtless large numbers will avail themselves of it.

On Wednesday evening last Dr. E. A. Lemon arrived home and was given a most hearty welcome. After hon; presented with a Medal the doctor gave a most interesting account of his experiences with the American army in France, and held the audience spellbound for over an hour as he unfolded in a modest way the story of his many thrilling exploits and adventures. Dr. Lemon is now a Major, is the possessor of The French Cross of War, a medal as an expert rifleman and brought with him a great number of souvenirs.

Mr. Jas. Glassford has opened an up-to-date ice cream parlor on the corner and will be prepared to cater to the wants of the public on Monday, Wednesday and Saturday nights. Success James.

MUST SUPPLY PHONES

Ontario Railway Board Says Telephone Companies Bound to Give Service Under Ordinary Circumstances.

At Parliament Buildings, Toronto, on Thursday the 22nd of May before the Ontario Railway and Mumcipal Board was heard an application by Mr. William Barrett, beekeeper, of Caledon, against the Consolidated Telephone Company for service.

The Applicant appeared in person whilst the Company was represented by its President, (Mr. McLeish); Vice-President, (Mr. Potter) and Secretary and Manager (Mr. Wilson).

The application arose in consequence of the Company refusing Mr. Barrett installation of a phone in his private residence at Inglewood unless he subscribed for $100.00 of the Company's stock. Asked for an explanation, Mr. McLeish said that if the Company put in the phone to all who asked for it unless they made some such stipulation, they would soon become bankrupt. Mr. Wilson followed on the same lines and went into the history of the Company and its financial condition.

A member of the Board then called attention to the Company's accounts from which it appeared from the balance sheet that there was a Reserve Fund of $200.00 and cash in hand of over $1700.00.

Mr. Barrett pointed out that the Company was paying a dividend of four per cent. and that they were also receiving an extra $1700.00 in addition in consequence of the increased rates which the Board granted them last year.

The Chairman pointed out that the Company had certain duties to perform to the public and under the Act of Parliament under which the Company was incorporated, they were bound to give service to all who asked for it unless it could be shown there were extraordinary circumstances to prevent it and that he thought the Board were bound to order the service asked for by Mr. Barrett. He also thought the Company was in a very fair position, they had the equipment and everything in working order to command success and if the Directors thought the system growing beyond them he advised the Company to municipalize the system.

Mr. Wilson then said that since the application, Mr. Barrett had removed his residence to Claude and was now served by the Chinguacousy system. Mr. Barrett admitted that was so and pressed the Board for a decision as there were a number of other people in the same position as himself. Moreover it was possible that he would shortly require a phone in the area covered by the Company's system.

The Chairman announced that the Application would stand adjourned sine die with leave to Mr. Barrett to apply to the Board if the Company refused to supply him with a phone in any place he might select.

My Limbs Would Twitch

And Waken Me—Unable to Rest or Sleep, I Walked the Floor in Nervous State — When Specialists Failed I Found a Cure.

This is the kind of cure that has got Windsor people thinking and talking about Dr. Chase's Nerve Food. The action of this food cure is so radically different to the usual treatments for the nerves that everybody wants to try it. Gradually and certainly it nourishes the starved nerves back to health and vigor and the benefits obtained are both thorough and lasting.

Mrs. M. Smithson, 27 Arthur street, Windsor, Ont., writes: "I was suffering from nervous breakdown, which was caused by a shock when fire broke out in the adjoining house. My nerves were in such a state that, after going to bed I could not get my nerves quieted down sufficiently to go to sleep. I used to get up and walk around the room, or go downstairs. Even when I would be dropping off to sleep my limbs would twitch and waken me. I used to have cold, nervous, night sweats, sometimes would become unconscious and lie that way for quite a little while. I was always cold and it seemed impossible for me to get warm or keep warm. When on the street I would see two or three objects at once, and did not want any person to speak to me or bother me. Any little noise irritated and annoyed me very much. I had consulted specialists and tried many remedies during this time, but could not gain relief. At last I tried Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, and before long could see that this treatment was proving of benefit. I am now feeling so much better that I can go out on the street without any difficulty, can go across the river and go about the same as usual. I sleep well at night, and am feeling more like myself every day. I am pleased to be able to write you to tell you how much good the Nerve Food has done me. It has strengthened and built up my whole system. I am recommending it to everybody I find suffering from nervousness of any kind."

Capt. Douglas McAlister, of the Canadian Veterinary Corps, son of Geo. McAlister, Dufferin's widely-known auctioneer, arrived home from overseas recently. Doug. was in France from the fall of 1917, and is quite satisfied to be back in good old Canada.

DIED IN MELANCTHON

Mrs Robert Stephenson, one of the old residents of Melancthon township, passed away at her home on con. 5, O.S., on Monday after an illness of several weeks. She was 75 years of age and was born in Glasgow, Scotland, coming to Canada with her parents when a young child. About 55 years ago she was married to Mr. Stephenson in Normanby township and shortly afterwards they moved to Melancthon. Then they moved to Luther where they remained about 15 years, returning to Melancthon 23 years ago. The deceased was highly esteemed and her death is regretted by a wide circle of friends. Besides her aged husband she is survived by seven sons and five daughters, namely: William in Dakota, George in Michigan, Robert and Peter at Bramptoon, James in Dundalk, Thomas and Charles in Melancthon, Mrs. Schell in Collingwood, Mrs. Myers at Arthur, Mrs. A. Acheson in Dundalk, Mrs. S.Rawn at Dunedin and Mrs. W. Rawn in Melancthon. The funeral took place Tuesday afternoon to Dundalk Cemetery, service being conducted by Rev. W. G. Blackwell of Dundalk. Among the friends present at the funeral from a distance were Peter and Robert Stephenson of Brampton, Mrs. Myers and Robt. and Jas. Jeffrey of Arthur.—Dundalk Herald.

LOSES ALL HIS RELATIVES IN WAR

Working in a Meaford facory is a young soldier named C. Protitsk, who has a sad story to relate in connection with the war. At the age of 16 years, he says, he enlisted for service in the Serbian army. While fighting in the trenches 15 miles from his home he had two brothers killed and one brother taken prisoner. He was wounded in the leg and taken to the hospital at Belgrade, capital of Serbia, where he lay for 3 months in an almost helpless condition. After recovering he returned to his home to find it all smashed to pieces by the Bulgarians, who, after completing their work of destruction, heartlessly made prisoners of his mother, three sisters and two surviving brothers, and from that day to this the lad has not heard tell of any of them. A kind-hearted lady doctor from Toronto, who treated him while in hospital, took pity on him and entreated him to accompany her on her return trip to Canada. This the boy consented to do but so determined was he to avenge the fate of his two brothers that he enlisted for service with the Canadian forestry battalion which was organized in Toronto early in 1916, going overseas with that unit and continuing on active service until the end of the war when he returned to Meaford.

MULMUR LOSES OLD CITIZEN

An old and highly respected resident of Whitfield passed away on Friday last in the person of James Ferris, at the age of 88 years. The deceased was born in the County of Fermanagh, Enniskillen, Ireland, and in the year 1852 he and his other brothers emigrated to Canada. The voyage, which was in a sailing vessel, was completed in 7 weeks and 3 days. After arriving in Canada he spent two years in the township of Benbrook, near Hamilton. In 1854 he came to Mulmur township, settling at Whitfield. At that time this section was a perfect wilderness with only one road, and a trail at that. There were no horses in the neighborhood and only a few yoke of oxen. The bush land had all to be cleared before any cultivation could be done and Brampton was the nearest business town. Deceased was forced to struggle hard for a scanty living. In politics he was a staunch Conservative and in religion a Methodist. He leaves to mourn his departure his bereaved wife, three sons and three daughters, namely: R. J. and John, and Arthur, on the homestead; Mrs. Jas. Rutledge, Primrose; Mrs. Geo. Irwin, Everett, and Agnes, at home. The surviving brothers are William of Masonville; Thos. R. and Matthew of Carman, Man. The funeral, which was largely attended, was held on Sunday last to the Methodist Church cemetery at this place.—Free Press.

THRIFT IN SCHOOLS

In the schools of Canada alone the War Savings campaign is fraught with great possibilities and already the returns show that splendid progress is being made. What has been done in the schools of the United States is a fair indication of what may be done in the schools of Canada.

In the schools of New York there is said to be a little over 750,000 children. During the period, December 1917 to January 31, 1919, no less than $5,446,000 worth of War Savings and Thrift Stamps were sold in these schools, which means slightly more than $7 for each child.

The Thrift campaign in the schools of the Dominion will produce 100 fold in results. Every child should be enrolled in the War Savings army. Parents should see to this. It will discipline the child in thrift, provide it with a good investment and benefit the country.

Reserve Seat Plan now Open at The Banner Office.

A screen classic that critics have placed in the same category with "The Birth of a Nation" and "Hearts of the World."

"The Heart of Humanity" is a motion picture history of woman's part in the great war, depicted in story form and built around the romance of a little Canadian girl who gave her husband to fight against Prussian autocracy and then went to France herself to care for the wounded and orphaned and homeless victims of German brutality.

The closing scenes of the fighting in Flanders form the red background for action that expresses the bravery of the Red Cross in working under the very mouths of German guns, to restore to normal physical and mental health the children of France and Belgium made fatherless, motherless and homeless by war. It is amid such scenes that Nanette, the little wife of John Patricia, an aviator with the Canadian Expeditionary Forces, labors night and day, and suffers the indignities of war-maddened, lustful Huns before she is reunited with her husband and decorated by the French government for her valorous services.

Love is universal, and for that reason "The Heart of Humanity" has an undeniable appeal to everyone. There is the love of the mother for her five soldier sons. There is the love of the mother for her babe. We see the love of the sweetheart. We witness the love of the wife for her husband who has answered the call: the love of the man for the wife left behind. But greater than all is the love that prompts men to leave home and loved ones, that prompts women to leave their own children in order to help the suffering—the great love which beats in the Heart of Humanity.

LATE WILLIAM RODGERS

In the death of William Rodgers of East Garafraxa on Tuesday, perhaps the oldest resident passed away. Born near Brampton on January 12, 1837, he came with his parents to East Garafraxa and lived for a time on the John Collins farm. For sixty two years he farmed on the 13th and 14th concessions of Garafraxa within two miles of where he spent his boyhood days. In 1862 he married Ann Maria Hill, who predeceased him 12 years. Of a family of 17 the following survive:—Thomas of Proton, Sarah of Meifort, Sask; Frank of Amaranth; William Henry of East Luther, Mrs. Wm. Cudney of Proton, Mrs. Joseph Fothergail, of Euphrasia, Jno., Robert, Jonathan, Edward, James, and Allison of Rodgers, Sask.; George of Brantford; Currie and Miss Annie at home. Three brothers and three sisters also survive:—James and Robt. of East Luther, John of Sauble Falls, Mrs. James Nixon of Lion's Head, Mrs. Margaret Cowan of Beaverdale, and Mrs. Alex. Petch of Amaranth. In politics he was a consistent Conservative, a member of Orange Order for many years and a member of the Anglican church. The funeral took place on Wednesday to Price's Corners cemetery.—Star and Vidette.

MRS. ROBERT COLWELL

A brief notice of the death of Mrs. Robert Colwell, an old and highly respected resident of the township of Mono, appeared in last issue of The Banner. The sad event took place on Sunday, June 1st at her late home, lot 16, 7th line, east, the farm by the way on which she was born 73 years ago. Deceased had been in delicate health for a number of years and had been confined to her bed for the greater part of the time since last autumn. The end came quietly and peacefully, as befitted the close of a long and useful life. Mrs. Colwell, whose maiden name was Jane Lindsay, was a daughter of the late James Lindsay, one of the pioneer residents of Mono. She was married to the late Mr. Cowell about 52 years ago. The union, which was an unusually happy one, was broken by the death of the husband some twenty-three years ago. Deceased was a kindly, sympathetic woman, who lived a useful life and whose kindness and readiness to help the unfortunate or suffering won for her the high regard and affection of the community in which her life was spent. She was a member of St. Paul's Anglican church and exemplified the teaching of her church in her everyday life. She is survived by two sons and four daughters, Messrs. James and Percy Colwell and Miss Martha Colwell, of Mono, Mrs. W. J. Holmes, of Caledon, Mrs. Thos. Laverty, of Orangeville, and Mrs. Herbert Waines, of Battleford, Sask. Mr. Geo. Lindsay, of Toronto, is a brother and Mrs. Thomas Beatty, of Meaford, is the only surviving sister. The funeral, which was by motor, was attended by a large number of friends and neighbors. The remains were laid at rest in the family burying plot in St. John's Church cemetery, 7th line, Mono, on Tuesday, June 3rd., Rev.A .C. McCallum conducting the services at the house and grave. The pallbearers were Messrs. Geo. Lindsay, W. J. Holmes, Thos. Laverty, James Colwell, Adolphus Holmes and William Lilly. Among the floral tributes were a beautiful wreath from the family and sprays from the grandchildren and the Women's Auxiliary of [illegible]'s church.

MRS. JNO. A. VANCE

In the Women's College Hospital and Dispensary 125 Rusholme Road, Toronto, at 5 o'clock on Monday morning, June 2nd, Mrs. Jno. A. Vance, of Mono Mills, passed away after an illness of some six months' duration. Deceased had been suffering from hemorrhages and consequent weakening of the heart and was taken to the Hospital for transfusion of blood, but lived only about half an hour after arrival there. Mrs. Vance's maiden name was Annie Elizabeth Potter and she was the second daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jackson Potter, 5th line, east, Caledon. She became the wife of Mr. Jno. A. Vance about six years ago and her untimely death marks the end of a useful and beautiful life devoted to those who were near and dear to her and to the interests of the Presbyterian Church where she was a regular attendant, a consistent member and a staunch and ardent supporter. For many years she had charge of the Primary Department in the Sabbath School. She was also secretary-treasurer and a Life member of the W. M. S. and sang in the Church choir, being one of those who took the training in Mr. J. E. Jessop's choral class. Only those who knew her intimately realize in the smallest measure the loss of one who possessed her sterling qualities, not only in her home but in the community. Besides her husband to whom the sympathy of everyone goes out, she leaves to mourn her loss her aged father ,two sisters, Margaret and Isobel, and one brother, David. The body was brought from Toronto on Monday evening to her father's home from whence the funeral was held on Tuesday afternoon. A large number of sorrowing friends and neighbors were present to pay their last tribute of respect.

Many beautiful floral offerings mutely testified to the loving affection in which the deceased was held, prominent among them being a beautiful wreath from a cousin, Dan Clark of Powassan bearing the following words "Recollections of your beautiful life will always be an inspiration to the writer." Others were a wreath from the husband, a wreath from the Potter family, a wreath from the members of the W. M. S., a wreath from the Methodist Church choir, a wreath from Misses Clara and Kathleen Potter, a spray from Cousin Liza Wallace, Brampton, a spray from Cousin Matilda and Aunt Margaret Clark, West Toronto, a spray from Mr. and Mrs. W. N. Allin, Toronto, a spray from Miss Jean Allen, Toronto, a spray from Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Mills, a spray from Mr. and Mrs. G. Lemon. The remains were interred in Forest Lawn Cemetery, Orangeville. Rev. J. A. Matheson assisted by Rev. AH. Laycock conducted the service at the home and grave. The pallbearers were Mr. W. N. Allen, Toronto, Mr. Frederick Ealin, Mr. Oswald Potter, Mr. Leslie A. McKinnon, Mr. Stuart Mason and Mr. James C. Taylor.

PURSE OF $200

Mono East Parishioners Give Striking Proof of Their Esteem for Their Rector.

The parishioners and other friends of Rev. A. E. McCallum, rector of Mono East Parish of the Anglican Church, demonstrated their esteem and affection for their rector in striking fashion by presenting Mr. McCollum and his bride with a purse containing upwards of $200 and the following address:—

Rev. A. C. and Mrs. McCollum,—

Dear Friends,—We, your friends and parishioners, have met here this evening to extend to you our congratulations and hearty good wishes, you having been united in the bonds of holy matrimony a few weeks ago. We hope that you may be spared to enjoy many years of happiness together and that you may be blessed with health and prosperity. May your pathway be strewn with everything that is good and lovely.

Mrs. McCollum, we welcome you into our midst. We feel it is a great pleasure to have you with us. With your kindliness of disposition and your spirit of cheerfulness we feel you will take an active part in every line of church work and will endeavor to co-operate with Mr. McCollum in helping in every work which has for its object the good of humanity.

Mr. McCollum, since you have come to our parish you have endeared yourself to us by your kindness of disposition, your cheerfulness and optimism, your honest integrity of character and your influence which has been exerted on behalf of what was right. Your field of labor is extensive making the task for you most arduous. But we are happy to say that, notwithstanding the difficulties in the way, every line of church work has prospered.

During your sojourn with us you have gone in and out amongst us and you have shared in our joys and sorrows. We fully recognize and appreciate your faithfulness as a minister of the gospel.

We want to express our heartfelt appreciation of what you have been to us, and as a slight token we ask you, dear Rector and Mrs. McCollum, to accept this purse of money, not so much for what it contains, but rather in the spirit in which it is given. We most earnestly hope and pray that both of you may long be spared in health and strength to carry on the Master's work.

Signed on behalf of the Congregations,—Geo. Patterson, E. Holmes, Wilson A. Irwin, Milford Cole; Sam. K. Stinson, R. J. Sunmerville, John C. Atkinson, James Williams.

Mono Mills, May 30th, 1919.

PRESENTATION TO MR. HILL

Wednesday night of last week the band boys presented their late leader, Mr. Roscoe Hill, with an appreciative address and a handsome fountain pen prior to his departure for Mitchell. The address was as follows:—

We gather here tonight in the Band Room as members of the Orangeville Citizens Band to bid you farewell before your departure from town. We have also met to express our high appreciation of your faithful and untiring efforts as our musical instructor during your term as bandmaster. Your regular attendance, your thorough and painstaking work with us as a Band and the individual interest you took in each member's musical advancement will never be forgotten. As an acknowledgment of your musical achievements and as a token of the high esteem in which we hold you, we ask you to accept this fountain pen as a slight memento of our gratitude and best wishes for your future success.

Signed on behalf of the Orangeville Citizens Band,—H. P. Marshall, Sec., G. M. Cruikshank, Chairman of Executive.

Harry Marshall read the address and G. M. Cruikshank made the presentation.

DWELLING HOUSE BURNED

The dwelling house on Mr. John Black's farm, lot 1, 7th line, Amaranth, was destroyed by fire about noon on Monday. The fire had made considerable headway before it was noticed and consequently nearly all the contents were consumed by the devouring element. The fire is thought to have started from a defective stovepipe. The house was at one time the dwelling place of the late Alexander McLachlan, the Scottish-Canadian poet. Much sympathy is felt for Mr. Black and family in their unfortunate loss.

Miss Kathleen Fleming, A.C.A.M., (honors); Teacher of Piano and Theory; Studio—Broadway, Orangeville, Phone 86.

THANKFUL MOTHER

Thousands of mothers throughout Canada—many of them your neighbors—speak with thankfulness of the use of Baby's Own Tablets. Once they have used the Tablets for their little ones they use nothing else. The Tablets are an absolutely safe medicine for even the youngest baby, being guaranteed by a government analyst to contain neither opiates nor narcotics or other harmful drugs. Concerning them Mrs. David McRobb, Divide, says:—"I have used Baby's Own Tablets and have found them very satisfactory I would not be without them." The Tablets are sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 25 cents a box from The Dr. Williams Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

To the Members, Present and Prospective

OF

Caledon Agricultural Society

Last year a number of changes were made in connection with our prize list, some of them being quite radical. Some were heartily approved while others were considered unsatisfactory.

Now we believe that if the rural fall fair is to serve the best interests of the community, there must be a greater co-operation of the members and exhibitors with the board of directors.

Therefore we are asking you, who contribute largely to the success of the fair, for suggestions as to its improvement. Or if you have a "kick" not yet delivered, let us have it so that we may remedy the matter.

Kindly let us have your ideas in time for the next meeting, May the 31st.

CALEDON AGRICULTURAL SOCIETY,

E. E. WILSON, Pres. W. J. ATKINSON, Sec., Caledon P. O.

CHINESE LAUNDRIES USE MOTOR TRUCKS

Perhaps the oldest customs and the most ancient traditions come from China, and yet in the past few years this historic race has made rapid strides in modern methods. The greatest turning point came when the vast empire disappeared in favor of a republic and with the old dynasty went the picturesque braided queue of the Chinaman. Their activity in this country is most noticeable in the Far West and especially in California, where they reside in large numbers and in many localities achieved high respect and notable business success. Chinese laundries are far more numerous than in the Eastern cities and in the matter of vegetables and garden truck the Chinese merchants have developed an elaborate business that feeds a very large part of the white population.

In this connection the Chinese merchants operating laundries in all parts of the country are right abreast of the Pacific Coast. They are rapidly abandoning old dobbin, according to statistics accumulated by Mr. L. Logie, salesmanager for Maxwell cars in Canada.

Chinamen, as a rule, are not seen at Auto Shows, but this year in Los Angeles the Oriental idea caught on with great response in the large Chinese colony and the number of browned visitors was one of the unique and surprising developments of the show. Oddly enough, the passenger cars are not of very much interest to these industrious people. Although there were no trucks exhibited at the show, every Chinaman who entered the gates immediately inquired for the trucks. Due to interest the show stimulated in the Chinese colony several laundries and a great many Chinese produce concerns purchased lightweight trucks. The Maxwell truck enjoys unusual favor with these people and a number of cross-country champions were sold during show week.

HOW SHALL WE HONOR OUR HEROIC DEAD?

A Delhi public meeting favored a $10,000 Public Hall.

Owen Sound is still undecided as to what form their war memorial should take.

In Philadelphia, Port Credit and Toronto substantial memorial halls will be erected.

Point Edward Council will submit a by-law for the expenditure of $10,000 for a memorial hall.

Middleton Township votes a by-law to provide funds to buy a memorial Tp. Hall.

The St. Thomas Times-Journal says that the hospital idea is the most comprehensive proposition that can be advanced.

Renfrew has under consideration the erection of highway bridges bearing suitably engraved bronze tablets.

Acton is erecting memorial gates with cut stone abutments, bearing the names of Acton soldiers, at the entrance of the town park.

The mass of correspondence in the Picton Gazette shows a preference for something of benefit to the living in the erection of a memorial.

Picton is committed to a soldiers memorial but owing to difference of opinion as to the form it should take has delayed taking definite action.

A vote of the citizens of Sarnia will be taken to decide what form the soldiers' memorial shall take, as soon as concrete propositions are ready.

The Sarnia Canadian says: "The movement to erect community halls as victory memorials has assumed nation wide, and in fact continent wide, proportions.

The erection of a nurses' home for the Barrie hospital as a mark of appreciation of the noble and heroic service of the nursing profession is suggested as a fitting memorial for the Barrie soldiers.

The Pembroke Standard says that "the movement for the town council to purchase a suitable building and grounds to be used as a club-house and meeting place for the war veterans and to be handed over to them at a nominal rental, is one that should meet with approval of the council and the town people."

Save the Money You Waste and Make It Earn You More Money

In May W-S.S. Cost $4.04

In June W-S.S. Cost $4.05

How much of your wages do you fritter away each week on trifles?

If you reckon it up you will probably find that at least five per cent. disappears thus "like snow wreaths in thaw."

If your weekly wage is $15.00 you spend easily 75 cents of that on "mere nothings" before you know it.

But suppose you said to your employer: "Each week I want you to keep 75 cents out of my pay envelope and invest it for me in War Savings Stamps. As you buy each War Savings Stamp put it in my pay envelope, and go on doing that for a year."

You will never miss that 75 cents. But at the end of the year you will have over $36.00 invested in Savings Stamps. By then they will be worth considerably more than $36.00, and by 1924 they will be worth $45.00.

War Savings Stamps are guaranteed by the Dominion Government. They have the whole resources of Canada as their security, the same as Victory Loans. And they bear an unusually high rate of interest. You can cash them at any time, however, if you need to.

War Savings Stamps can be bought wherever this sign is displayed.

WORLD'S RECORD IS BROKEN BY TANLAC

Bottles Sold In Four Years Would Reach From New York to Denver, Colo.

Four years ago very few people had ever heard of Tanlac. Today it unquestionably has the largest sale of any medicine in the world. In the brief period of only four years time this now famous remedy has leaped from obscurity to the very pinacle of success. Its fame in fact, has long since spread beyond the limits of the continent, and numerous inquiries regarding it are now being received from many foreign countries.

Very few people, however, fully realize what a really wonderful record Tanlac has made. Indeed, if it were not for the unquestionable facts and figures given out by the largest and best known drug firms of the country the story of its success would be hard to believe.

Up to January first, the total sales of Tanlac amounted to approximately twelve million bottles. The demand however increasing, for during the first ten weeks of this year over one million bottles were sold and distributed in the United States and Canada, the exact figure being 1,306,186 in three months.

At this rate, therefore, the sales for the present year will amount to more than five million bottles. This will mean that 17,000 bottles of Tanlac will be sold during every day of the year, or 2100 for every hour of the average working day.

These figures are too stupendous for the average mind to grasp, but one may visualize what twelve million bottles mean by imagining them laid out in a single file end to end. Thus laid they would make a track of Tanlac from New York through Chicago, and on to Denver, Colorado; or they would form a double track of Tanlac from the Great Lakes to the Gulf of Mexico. Piled end on end they would tower 135 times as high as Pikes Peak, or rise 13,333 times higher than the Woolworth Building in New York, the tallest building in the world.

The demand for Tanlac has become so great that its sale instead of being measured by the gross as other preparations have been, is now reckoned by the carload, and even by the train load. In proof of this it is a noteworthy fact that the leading druggist jobbers everywhere now buy Tanlac almost exclusively in car load lots. To supply the Pacific Coast trade alone requires from forty to fifty car loads per year. Jobbers of the Middle West are selling from seventy to eighty cars per year.

The well known drug firm of Hessig-Ellis Drug Company of Memphis, Tennessee, has sold over forty car loads since the introduction of Tanlac in that state four years ago.

Within the past ninety days, ten car loads of Tanlac have gone to supply the demand of British Columbia, Saskatchewan, Alberta and Manitoba, Canada.

The Owl Drug Company of San Francisco, the largest retail druggists on the Pacific Coast, state that they have sold more than 180,000 bottles at retail, which surpasses the remarkable record of the Jacobs Pharmacy Company of Atlanta, who have sold approximately 80,000 bottles at retail.

Tanlac is composed of the most beneficial roots and herbs known to science. The formula complies with all national and state pure food and health laws of both the United States and Canada; and absolute merit and merit alone is responsible for its phenomenal and unprecedented success.

"Tanlac is sold in Orangeville by C. V. Jeffers, in Grand Valley by G. E. Morrow, in Shelburne by J. E. A. White, and in Grand Valley by W. T. Edmonson."

Nursing Sister Ferguson, who returned to Teeswater recently from hospital work overseas, gives the following as the 'best' story: When about to leave England she decided to cable her father, Reeve Ferguson, and wrote the address "Teeswater, Ontario, Canada." The telegraph clerk said: "Excuse me, madam, but you have written two unnecessary words. You need not write 'Ontario, Canada.' There is only one Teeswater in the world."

Mr. Norman Hillgartner, his mother, sister and Miss Lorena Gerhardt, of Kitchener, who had been spending a few days with friends at Ayton, when starting to return home, had an accident with their car that might have been very serious. When going up a hill the car stalled and was turned over in the ditch. The car was slightly damaged but the occupants were not hurt.

POTATOES

Methods of a Successful Erin Township Grower.

Our farmer readers will be interested in the following account of the methods followed by Mr. R. D. Nodwell, of Hillsburg, a successful Erin township potato grower:—

He spreads his potatoes thinly over the barn floor and leaves them lying there for at least four or five weeks before he plants the tubers. In this way he claims that the potatoes have small short thick sprouts probably one-half inch long or less, and when these are planted the potatoes come up very much more rapidly than they otherwise would.

He does not plant his potatoes until about the first or second week in June; he grows only one variety and that variety is Irish Cobbler, and he claims that when the Irish Cobbler Potato is planted early that the hot dry weather comes in just at such a time that it reduces the yield considerably. This method is also adopted by many potato growers in Hillsburg district. Some potato growers there grow ten, fifteen and as high as twenty acres of potatoes.

Mr. Nodwell first then treats his potatoes for scab with Formalin. He then cuts his potatoes in such a fashion that each set weighs about one and one half ounces; he then plants these sets about eighteen inches apart in the row, and he has his rows about thirty-three inches apart. When he is planting his potatoes with the potato planter he also sows a Phosphatic Fertilizer. This fertilizer he claims helps the potatoes along, and brings them to maturity at an early date.

He works his potato ground thoroughly and cultivates the potatoes regularly, and always as soon after a rain as it is possible to do so, in this way conserving the moisture.

Mr. Nodwell sprays his potatoes with Bordeaux mixture. He commences spraying when the plants are from six to eight inches high, and keeps the foliage covered throughout the season. He is especially careful about the 15th of July as late blight begins about that time. He also adds a poison to the Bordeaux mixture, adding two pounds of Arsenate of Lead and one pound of Paris Green to each forty gallons of the Bordeaux mixture.

From three to seven applications are put on the potatoes, depending on the season. The wetter the weather the larger the number. He does not put off spraying because it looks like rain, because it is found that if the plants are sprayed one half hour before the rain comes that it will dry and sufficient of the mixture will stick to the plant to prevent infection which usually takes place after a rain.

Mr. Nodwell goes through his crop in the late season and marks out the best and strongest hills, and then when the potatoes are dug he preserves the best and strongest hills, and selects the best from them again and plants them in a separate part of the field the following year.

USED FOR SHAVING.

Many men are troubled, more particularly in the cold weather, with a sort of roughness of the skin or eczema caused by shaving. The application of Dr. Chase's Ointment after the shave soon cures the trouble and by using it after each shave you keep the skin soft and prevent irritation and soreness. Because of its antiseptic qualities this ointment prevents and cures Barber's itch.

A DEADLY BOLT

East Luther Woman Instantly Killed by Lightning.

Apparently looking out of her bedroom window for her husband who had gone to Mr. Crewson's, Mrs. Albert Campbell of East Luther was struck by lightning about 10 o'clock Wednesday night, and instantly killed. Mr. Campbell had gone to Mr. Crewson's to do some work during the latter's absence, and seeing a heavy electrical storm coming up he immediately returned knowing his wife would be nervous. On opening the kitchen door scattered plaster from the ceiling and wall and splintered boards told him the place had been hit, while a peculiar smell of smoke aroused his worst fears. Running upstairs to his wife's room he found her lifeless on the floor, with her night dress burning, and was met by his 3-year-old son lying in his cot with the pathetic words "Daddy, the light knocked mama down and she won't get up." Blessed innocence, the wee chap was too young to comprehend the tragedy, or realize what a narrow escape he himself had. The lightning bolt had struck the gable roof just at the window, tearing out the frame, blowing the glass across the lawn and sending the window shade, plaster and splinters of boards across the room into the one adjoining, passing within three feet of the child's cot. The unfortunate woman apparently never knew what happened. She was hurled back hitting her right temple against a bureau, and her right side was burned. The distracted husband called up neighbors and summoned a doctor but nothing could be done.

The lightning besides ripping off the cornice and shingles on the roof apparently ran along the water spout and jumping this bored an inch hole through the cement blocks and went inside of the room. At the front of the house where the telephone wires are fastened to the verandah pieces of cment blocks were blown out.—Star and Vidette.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

Here's to Alcock and Brown !

The successful flight of the Vickers-Vimy biplane marks another great advance in the struggle for the conquest of the air .

One cannot help regretting that the intrepid Hawker did not succeed. The gallant Australian held a high place in the admiration of Canadians.

There was no lane of ships waiting to assist Alcock and Brown in case of accident. No stopping places were provided to rest and refit. They took all the risks attending a great venture into the unknown and they are entitled to all the glory.

The successful flight of the Vickers-Vimy biplane means that the world is entering upon a revolutionary era in the matter of transatlantic travel. He would be bold indeed who would venture to prophesy what the end will be. It may be only a matter of a few years until the steamship and cable companies will have a formidable rival in mammoth air ships built to carry passengers and freight and capable of making the journey from America to Europe in twelve to fifteen hours.

Theatre parties to London may become quite the thing in a few years.

Lord Northcliffe foresees the time when London newspapers will be delivered and sold in New York a few hours after they are printed. What is practicable for the London newspapers will of course be practicable for the big New York dailies. Should the Northcliffe prediction materialize the people of the two continents will indeed be brought very close together.

There seems to be no limit to the annihilation of distance. Cutting the passage of the Atlantic from a matter of one hundred hours or over to a mere sixteen hours is assuredly some achievement.

The settlement of the world's multitudinous labor troubles and strikes is a question that calls for serious consideration and prompt, effective action. Thousands of workmen are idling through the summer months when they should be working steadily and making some provision to carry their households through the coming winter. Without passing any opinion upon the issues that have led to so many serious strikes, one may venture to express the fear that Canadian workmen may be sowing the wind and that they stand in danger of reaping the whirlwind during the coming winter.

Those who are doubtful about the possibility of commercial air traffic would do well to remember that only sixteen years have passed since Wright Brothers made the first flying machine, capable of rising by its own power and carrying a man.

Unfortunate though the usual lamentable record of motoring accidents. The number of these fatalities suggests the thought that means should be taken to teach all children the art of swimming. The mother who cannot swim always runs more or less danger when she ventures into the water. The swimmer is seldom in danger unless second by cramps whose legs and his depth.

The Globe is doing a public service by calling attention to the number of murders among foreigners in Ontario and emphasizing the need for measures to make it more difficult for foreigners to procure weapons. These murders are almost invariably committed with weapons as revolvers, stilettos and knives. Of such dangerous weapons the foreigners in Ontario seem to have a plentiful supply. Quarrels often over trifling matters are the most frequent cause of these deeds of violence. Unlike the Canadian, who is generally conservative use his hands to settle any difference he may happen to have with his fellows, the foreigner's when angered is to reach first impulse weapon he can lay his hands upon. It is therefore a matter of importance that he should not be allowed to possess or carry dangerous weapons. It is of course against the law for him to do so, but he seems to find no difficulty in evading the law. What is apparently needed is some special power of search. Officers of the law would seem to require wider authority in this direction than they now possess.

MISS RITCHIE IN DRAMA

Miss Ruth Ritchie, the daughter of Mr and Mrs. Fred W. Ritchie of 2506 Raymond avenue, is a popular Los Angeles school girl who has won an enviable place for herself in dramatic art.

When the Glee Club of Polytechnic High School recently presented "The Fire Prince," Miss Ritchie interpreted the role of "Lady Molinda," one of the leading parts. She is active in all school affairs and is an enthusiastic student. Los Angeles Examiner.

We understand that this opera was given three performances to crowded houses, and was a great success. Mr Ritchie, father of the young lady, is a well known Broadway merchant.

A BUILDER OF HEALTH

Nothing can be of greater assistance in building up the system than Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, for this food cures by making new, rich blood, and nourishes and restores the feeble, wasted nerve cells. Gradually and naturally the body and brain regain vigor and energy, and you feel again the joy of living which belongs only to people in good health.

FAX COMING TO CALEDON

The Presbyterian congregation of Knox Church, Caledon, has engaged James Fax and Duncan Cowen, two of the best known entertainers before the Ontario public, for their big Garden Party on the church grounds on the evening of June 24th. This is always one of the events of the season and some entertainment promised to be no exception to the rule.

G. W. V. A. NOTES

Who would have thought that these who had returned so recently from "the far-flung battleline" would be called upon to don their uniforms once more? But such was the case last Fair Day, when three autos, covered with flags and filled with soldiers, swept down Broadway in one grand charge. Did anyone stop and look? Oh, no, not at all. Why even the proprietors of the "Oriental Cafe" for the moment forgot their "savoury" dishes and essayed forth to see what was doing on "Gay Broadway."

Not content with this a tour was made of the town and loudly honked the auto-sirens as they sped up one street and down another. Once again Broadway was the objective and taking the street three abreast they halted half way downtown, and the occupants, leaping forth armed with tickets for the G. W. V. A. concert pushed the attack home.

Every branch of the service was represented including Infantry, Artillery and Royal Air Force. Consequently there was no escape. If the representative of His Majesty's Artillery failed to persuade the party to buy a ticket, the Machine Gun Corps was brought to bear on the situation. If the Gunner failed why the Infantry pressed home the attack "to its logical conclusion." Perhaps the most successful salesman was the young officer of the R. C. R.'s, who could with perfect ease persuade anyone who crossed his path that the thing he or she needed most at that particular time was a ticket for the concert. In about an hour's time the assembly was sounded and, less many tickets, the detachment retired from the scene of action.

Talking things over afterwards the conclusion was reached that Orangeville on Fair Day is about as popular as is Mecca on the anniversary of the birth of Mahomet. Fully ninety-five per cent of those encountered lived all the way from twenty to forty miles distant from the town.

The Concert on Friday night was all, and more than all, advertised to be. The Choral Society was at its best. Comrade J. E. Jessop was encored several times and is all the more popular since his return. The Chairman, Com. J. M. Aiken, gave a short talk at first on the Association, its aims and accomplishments. During the intermission Mr. C. R. McKeown, M.L.A., spoke on the work of the G. W. V. A. and pointed out that the Association was standing by law and order, and for established authority in the strike this is now being waged in Winnipeg. Just before the last number was give, the President, Col. J. A. V. Preston, moved a vote of thanks to the choral society and all those who had assisted in providing such a very enjoyable evening's entertainment, but expressed disappointment that more were not present to enjoy the treat. Com. F. I. Lewis seconded the motion, which was carried with hearty applause. The members realized that many who had bought tickets did not attend concert. The loss however was theirs. The proceeds were quite satisfactory and will go toward furnishing the Club Rooms.

The local Branch held its regular monthly meeting on Thursday evening, June 12th. Thirteen applications for membership were accepted. Afterwards the following returned men were initiated:—C. Morrison, R. B. Endacott, S. Cranston, E. A. Stuckey (Caledon) W. E. Scott, E. G. Macpherson, W. A. Matthews (Erin) F. I. Lewis, E. McCarroll, W. E. Nodwell, L. Arnott, A. Aiken, J. Martin (Toronto) J. C. S. Stoddart and G. W. Ford (Shelburne). These bring the total membership up to 59.

The Saturday night crowd was nearly a record breaker last night. There were some hundreds of strangers in town.

NEW TANLAC PLANT IS NOW COMPLETED

Magnificent New Laboratory Has Daily Capacity of 36,000 Bottles.

What is said to be one of the largest pharmaceutical laboratories in the United States has been completed at Dayton, Ohio, for the manufacture of Tanlac, the well-known medicine, which according to recent reports is now having the largest sale of any medicine of its kind in the world.

The erection of the new plant was made necessary by the rapid growth of the business ,as the older plant was found to be wholly inadequate to supply the ever-increasing demand which at the present rate of sale will amount to more than five million bottles for the present year alone.

By the erection of this plant the manufacturers of Tanlac are giving to the world just one more evidence of the remarkable growth and expansion of their business, and of their absolute confidence in its future.

This announcement will be read with interest not only by the many thousands of Tanlac agents scattered throughout every state of the Union and throughout Canada, but to the millions who have used it beneficially as well.

The new building occupies 60,000 square feet of floor space. It is six stories in height, practically fire-proof throughout, and is of striking architectural design. It also has private railway facilities.

This beautiful new structure now stands in striking contrast beside the older building where Tanlac was first made.

Visitors to the laboratories are strongly impressed with the extremely modern character of the equipment. Everything is provided and splendidly arranged to promote systematic and rapid production. The very latest machinery and devices known to invention and pharmaceutical science are here used.

The interior throughout is finished in spotless white, and all of the large force of employees wear white uniforms, which they are required to change daily. The main offices on the first floor are all finished in Carara marble and mahogany.

The entire process of manufacture is conducted under absolutely sanitary conditions. Even the bottles made expressly to contain Tanlac are washed and sterilized electrically by the ultra violet ray process. They are then filled by automatic machinery and the finished product is therefore never touched by human hands.

When Tanlac was introduced into Canada history repeated itself, and the demand which had been created in the United States was quickly duplicated in the Dominion Provinces. As a result, it was recently found necessary to establish another Tanlac Laboratory at Windsor, Canada which is on a somewhat smaller scale than this plant at Dayton, but is no less modernly equipped.

These new facilities give a daily capacity of 36,000 bottles, but as Tanlac is rapidly being introduced into foreign countries it is probably only a question of a few years before even large facilities will become necessary .

While the manufacturers are necessarily working for capacity production, it is a fundamental rule of the Tanlac Laboratories that the quality of the medicine shall never be sacrificed to secure quantity output.

Uniform quality is guaranteed by a series of careful inspections by expert chemists, from the time the roots, herbs, and barks are received in their rough state from all parts of the globe until their medicinal properties have been extracted by the most approved processes. The finished medicine is then bottled, labelled, and shipped out to the tens of thousands of druggists throughout the United States and Canada to supply a demand never before equalled for this or any other medicine.

The executive sales offices are located in Atlanta, Georgia, and occupy almost an entire floor of the Fourth National Bank Building of that city.

"Tanlac is sold in Orangeville by C. V. Jeffers, in Grand Valley by G. E. Morrow, in Shelburne by J. E. A. White, and in Grand Valley by W. T. Edmonson."

GILROY-PARSON

A quiet yet pretty wedding was solemnized by the Rev. G. W. Lynd of Rosemont at the home of Mr. J. Parson of Adjala when his eldest daughter, Effie, was united in marriage to Mr Clifton Gilroy of Adjala. The bride looked lovely in a dress of white crepe-de-chene trimmed with cut steel beads. Her veil, which was of tulle, was crowned with orange blossoms. She carried a large bouquet of bridal roses and were the groom's gift, a cameo pendant. After the ceremony all sat down to a sumptuous supper. The high esteem of the bride was shown by the many useful and beautiful gifts which she received. The happy couple will reside on the groom's farm in Adjala.

SOUVENIRS FROM EUROPE

While in the West a couple of weeks ago Mr. Jas J. Kelly became the possessor of two interesting souvenirs, one of them an Austrian crown banknote and the other a Polish mark note. The two bills were given to Mr. Kelly by William J. Rose, a Y.M.C.A. worker, who is spending a short time at his home in the West before returning to Europe. The year before the war commenced Mr. and Mrs. Rose were appointed by Dr. John R. Mott to do Student Y.M.C.A. work at the University of the Czeck people in the city of Prague. The war caught them in Silesia, where they were of course made prisoners. They now purpose returning to Europe to resume their work in Warsaw, the capital of Poland. It will interest our readers to know that there are 100,000 Protestants of Polish blood and language living in Silesia. Mr. Rose is hopeful that these will form the nucleus of a strong Protestant church of at least 1,000,000 members.

A NARROW ESCAPE

Fire Box Contents Hurled Into Railway Engine.

The engineer and fireman of Engine No. 2066 on the Toronto-Owen Sound branch of the C.P.R. had a narrow escape from a horrible death, coming up on the night train on Friday. The steam casing of the cylinders burst, letting the steam and water out into the fire box, and then the whole mass was hurled out into the cab of the engine. The engineer and the fireman got out by the window. The train was going about thirty miles an hour at the time and they were able to hang on the running board until the emergency brakes stopped the train The accident occurred between Holland Centre and Chatsworth, and delayed the train for almost three hours.

Rev. A. E. Lunau officiated. Groom was supported by Mr. Caldwell and the bride was given away by Mr. J. W. Curry, K.C. Mrs. Caldwell was matron of honor. The bride wore a dainty gown of ivory satin with panels of georgette and carried a lovely bouquet of lily-of-the-valley. Mr. and Mrs. McAllister will spend the summer in Meadowvale.

A FINE CONCERT

It was unfortunate indeed that the Concert given in the Opera House on Friday night in behalf of the local Branch of the Great War Veterans Association did not draw a larger audience. When we say unfortunate we are speaking from the standpoint of those who failed to attend for they certainly missed an opportunity to hear one of the finest programmes that local entertainers have ever given to an Orangeville audience. The extremely hot night undoubtedly affected the attendance, for many who had bought tickets failed to attend, doubtless believing that the hall would be uncomfortably hot. The Choral Society of twenty voices gave its numbers in a manner that reflected a great deal of credit on the singers and spoke volumes for the work of the Conductor, Mr. J. E. Jessop, who has recently returned to Orangeville from overseas. Those who formed the Society as it appeared on Friday night were Misses Bell, McGuire, Bessie and Mary Harshaw, Dorothy Wright, Ewing, McConnell and Darraugh, Mesdames Robertson, Green, Jackson, Robinson and Bowles and Messrs. Ewart and Arthur Macpherson, Connop, Falconer, Dr. Price and Harding. Variety and added charm was given the programme by solos by Mrs. Jackson, Miss Bessie Lewis, Mr. Percival Harding, Mr. J. E. Jessop and Mr. E. C. Connop, a duet by Messrs. Harding and Jessop, a quartette by Messrs. Harding ,Jessop, Falconer and Dr. Price, a cornet solo by Mr. Russell Morrow, a violin solo by Mr. Wm. Haslam and a piano duet by Misses Ewing and Kearns. The accompanists were Misses Ewing, Kearns, Hogg and Mr. Russell Morrow. During an intermission Mr. C. R. McKeown spoke on the objects of the G.W.V.A. Comrade Jack Aiken of the local G.W.V.A. performed the duties of Chairman in a happy manner. The ticket sales relaized between $80 and $90.

DUFFERINS WON

Downed Brampton Seniors by 7 to 5 in Fast Exhibition Game Wednesday Evening.

Last Wednesday evening the Dufferins demonstrated that they have a real lacrosse team this season by defeating the Excelsiors, of Brampton, by a score of 7 to 5 in a fast and snappy exhibition game. The visitors had practically the same outfit that played at Streetsville on Victoria Day and the way they jumped into the game left no room for doubt re their intention to win if they could do so. It was just about the snappiest, keenest lacrosse that has been seen in Orangeville for a great number of years. Both teams were on their toes, and while a few of the men were not in the best condition they went at top speed as long as they lasted. There were plenty of spares on both sides and when a man fagged he was pulled out and a fresh man put in his place. Each team made about three changes during the game. Dufferins drew first blood shortly after the face-off. The visitors evened a few minutes later and from then on it was a see-saw affair until the third quarter, when the green shirts pulled ahead and finished the quarter with a lead of two goals. This they managed to hold in the final period, which ended with both teams going strong. Six of the ten Dufferins were returned soldiers and two of the three substitutes they used were also returned men. The visiting team also included quite a number of returned men. Their experience overseas did not seem to have affected their efficiency on the lacrosse field. On the contrary they were if possible cooler and more effective in their work than in pre-war days. For the Dufferins Booth showed his old-time skill in the flags and those that got past him were shots of the hardest kind to intercept. Cushing and Cranston were cool and heady as ever at the two point positions and kept the opposing home players closely checked and covered. Black is a fine defence fielder and generally got the ball when he went after it. Dedrick's strength and speed made him a strong tower on the defence. He is a hard man to hold and hard to stop when he gets going. Stevenson did well at centre while he lasted, but has hardly rounded into championship form. Scott and Ewing, the two home fielders, played right through the game like the tried veterans that they are. In Vanwyck and Blythe Brown the Dufferins have two clever and speedy players at outside and inside home. They will both take a lot of watching ,if they are going to be kept from running in a big score. Vanwyck's forte is his coolness and the patience he shows in waiting for a good opportunity to pass or shoot. Brown is quick as a flash and can take a shot at the net from apparently impossible positions. Jimmie Dawson was easily the best of the three substitutes ,although Brawley and Wright both showed up well while they were on. Cook, of Brampton, got a crack on the "funny bone" in the last quarter that put him out for the remainder of the game. He was the only man injured and the blow was purely accidental. Charlie Morrison, who was pressed into service as referee, handled the game to the satisfaction of both teams. The players were:—

Orangeville— goal, Booth; point, Cushing; coverpoint, Cranston; 1st defence, Black; 2nd defence, Dedrick; centre, Stevenson, 2nd home, Scott; 1st home, Ewing; outside home, Vanwyck; inside home, Brown; substitutes, Brawley, Dawson and Wright.

A large and enthusiastic crowd witnessed the game. The gate proceeds amounted to nearly $100.

The same teams played another exhibition game on Idylwyld Park yesterday evening.

SETTLED THE CASE

Saksbury and Carver Simpson, East Garafraxa farmers, asked the Court for an injunction to restrain Albert J. Simpson and his son, Isaac Simpson, the owners of an adjoining farm, from diverting in another direction the water from a spring on their farm, thereby depriving the plaintiffs of the use of the water for their cattle. The case came up for trial before Judge Fisher in the County Court on June 10th. After hearing the evidence of one of the plaintiffs, the judge suggested an amicable settlement, which was finally agreed to by the litigants. The question of costs was disposed of by the plaintiffs agreeing to pay their own costs and advance $50 toward the costs of the defendants. The defendants on their part agreed to allow the plaintiffs to lay a pipe from the top of the trough to the road and down the road to the place where they had been in the habit of watering their cattle from the stream before the overflow was diverted. A. A. Hughson appeared for plffs. and C. R. McKeown and Geo. Robb for defts.

Letters of Captain Ball, Gallant British Airman, Are Poignant Documents

THE biography of the late Capt. Ball, V.C., recently published by Herbert Jenkins, Ltd., London, is one of the most poignant and personal documents which the war has produced. Capt. Ball was awarded the Victoria Cross, the Military Cross, and the Distinguished Service Order with two bars, by the British Government; the Croix de Chevalier de la Legion d'Honneur by the French Government. He was one of the most intrepid of Britain's air-fighters, and the spirit in which he fought was typical of the service of which he was a member. In the following article Mr. Elliott Dodds gives a selection from some of his letters:

I doubt if Albert Ball was familiar with the poets, for the simple, boyish personality revealed in these letters is not that of a book-lover. Yet no more fitting epitaph could be found for his twenty-one years of eager life than the brave words from "Prospice"—

I was ever a fighter, so one fight more, the best and the last;
I should hate that death bandaged my eyes and bade me creep past.

Ball was a fighter, and he went down fighting. In all, he destroyed 43 enemy airplanes and one balloon, and the bare record of his exploits is one to stir the pulses and fire the blood. On one occasion he brought down four German machines in less than ten minues. Another time, roving the sky for battle at a height of two miles, he came on four red Albatros scouts of a new type. He dived straight into the centre of the formation and broke it up. Then, slipping under the nearest machine, he fired at it until it dropped out of control, and its companions, thinking discretion the better part of valor, turned tail and broke off the fight.

Ball's name, indeed, was a word of terror to German airmen. In the weeks before his death he was destroying enemy machines at the rate of nearly two a day. He had all the qualities of a knight errant—and his repeated challenges to the famous Baron Richthoven to come out and meet him in single combat recall the days of chivalry.

A laughing way in the face of the world,
And a holy hunger and thirst for danger;

He had a tremendous zest in all his work. "I am so happy I can only just guide the pen along the paper," he wrote home, when he was still a novice. And, again: "I shall go mad the day I fly out to the front. I simply long to have a smack, but my turn is really a long time coming!" "Oh! it was fine," he declared, after a flight in the rain at 7,000 feet, with a 60-mile wind blowing. "I love flying when things are not exactly A1." And when his novitiate was finished, he excitedly wrote to his parents: "At last the sport is going to commence. I have just been told by the C. O. that I am the next for the E. F., so that in a few days I shall be flying in France."

This is how he described his first accident: "You really would be surprised if you were in a smash. I just felt ripping; I had heaps of time to think what was taking place; in fact, it made me laugh, although I thought it rotten to smash the machine. The air rushed past my face with an ever-increasing pace; the air rushed up to meet me, and then crash went the lot, and when I realized that the earth was reached, I got out of my box, walked round the machine, and, after then, had the machine carried on a trailer to a shed. It will be mended again by to-morrow night, so on Sunday I am going for a long cross-country flight, and I am going to try to get up to 12,000 feet, for I have not been up high yet."

And here is his account of one of his first adventures in France: "Oh, it was rotten, for I only just got back. Three of us were sent from this squadron. The first time we did no good, so I asked for another chance. We all set out again. I went for a balloon and set it on fire, but my engine was badly hit, and I had to come back all the eight miles over Hunland at half-speed, and only a few feet up. My machine was hit badly. I enclose one of the bullets. This bullet went through my induction pipe, engine bearer- plate, and three inches of wood. Not bad, is it?"

What a boy it is that reveals himself in these frank, brave letters! "What do you mean," he wrote to his father, "by saying that when I come back I shall be a wiser and sadder boy or man? I may be wiser, but I hope that I shall have no reason to be sadder. Also there is no need for the 'boy or man,' for I went a boy, and I shall return a boy, not a man. You next say that I shall have lost my boyhood. Oh, shall I? I don't think. I am younger every day, and it will take many years for me to lose my boyhood." "When am I going to get a letter from you?" he asks his mother. "They do seem a long time in coming. Do, please, let me have a long one, with heaps of news, and a big cake. You make me a cake, and I would like it all the more. I so love to have a huge piece of cake to go flying with in the morning. It is fine, and if made by you would be better still." "Dearest Love-Lumps," he wrote to his brother and sister at Christmas-time. "Thank you very much for the Christmas gift. Oh! it was nice to get so many ripping things. I had twenty-seven letters and twelve Christmas boxes, and I nearly went mad."

Ball took no delight in killing. He cherished neither hate nor malice, and it was only the sport of the "game" that appealed to him. "Oh! it was a good fight," he told his father; "and the Huns were fine

THE LATE WM. WIDDIS

William Widdis, an old and widely known resident of Caledon, passed away at his home on lot 21, 2nd line, east, in that township on Sunday after less than two weeks' illness. Deceased was stricken with paralysis while helping a neighbor to do some work about ten days prior to his death. Mr Widdis was 65 years of age and is survived by his wife, who is a sister of Mrs. Frank Marshall of town and a daughter of the late Geo. Harkies, of Mono. He also leaves a family of five sons, Lorenz, Fred, Edward, Norman and Cecil Widdis, and two married daughters, Mrs. A. McArthur and Mrs. Clinton Thompson, of Caledon; Jno. J. Widdis, Toronto, Thos. Widdis, Brantford, Adam Widdis and Mrs. Ben Price, Orangeville; Mrs. Shortt, Brantford; Mrs. Henry Allen and Mrs. G. Dermott, of Mono, and Mrs. Jas. Hammond, Toronto, are the brothers and sisters. The death of Mr. Widdis makes the first break in the family of nine. The deceased was a quiet, industrious man and had the reputation of being an excellent neighbor. Much sympathy is felt for the widow and family in their trying bereavement. There was a very large attendance at the funeral, which was held to the Forest Lawn cemetery on Tuesday afternoon. Rev. J. Burkholder, of Caledon, was the officiating minister. Deceased, who was an old member of L.O.L. No. 259, Mono Britons, was buried with Orange honors, W. Bro. Chas. Crombie, W.M. of the lodge, and Brs. Lorne White, Chaplain, reading the burial service of the Order over the open grave. The pallbearers were Messrs. Geo. Holmes, ,Wm. Allen, W. J. Holmes, T. C. Glassford, Wm. Scott and Jos. Chambers.

ALCOHOLIC SATURATION.

This condition is not brought about in a vast majority of cases by the use of whiskey. "Saturation" is generally a matter of time. Drinkers of whiskey, who drink freely during short periods ,are frequently found not to be saturated. Experts are of the opinion that long drinking of mild intoxicants will saturate a man though he does not consume a large quantity of alcohol at any one time.

This feature of the problem seems to have escaped the attention of advocates of the use of light wine and beer. It ought to be considered carefully by those men at Ottawa, the Provincial capitals and elsewhere, who urge that wine and beer be not included in a prohibitory law. Many writers in the newspapers, while pretending to stand for temperance, argue in favor of the milder drinks. One from Southern California, where the light wine theory is held so insistently, takes issue with the idea that light wines are harmless, and expresses himself as follows: "Surely you must have observed what alcohol does to the moral and ethical nature of man; how it kills out all decent principle and decent thought. If you haven't so observed, live critically in a booze community like Napa

You May Be Skeptical

About What Dr. Chase's Nerve Food Will Do for You But Here is the Evidence.

When the blood gets thin and watery, when the nerves become weak and exhausted, when your vitality is run down and you feel weak and tired it is because nourishment is lacking.

You may be eating as usual but your digestive system fails to obtain from the food you eat the elements from which new blood and nerve force is created.

Because Dr. Chase's Nerve Food supplies this element to the blood and nerves it is the most successful of restoratives.

While personal experience with a medical treatment is the only absolute proof that it will benefit you still we are all similarly constituted and what will help one will help another under similar conditions.

This is why it is so interesting to read the experience of other people and many will find in this letter their own conditions described.

Mrs. Thomas Williamson, Picton, Ont., writes: "For the last twenty years I have had trouble with my nerves. I suffered from sleeplessness, and, of course, my system was often in a run-down condition from nervousness. At different times when I would have severe attacks, I was under the doctor's care, but this only gave me temporary relief. Twice I was to a sanitarium in Toronto, where I secured some relief at the time. This past summer I suffered from another nervous breakdown, and it was then that I commenced using Dr. Chase's Nerve Food. I took a treatment of this medicine and can now get up in the morning and do my work, which was something I could not do previously, because I used to get strangely confused. My appetite is good, and I can sleep well, too. Generally speaking, I am so much better that I am proud of my improvement. I cannot speak too highly of the splendid results I have secured through the use of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food."

Maxwell

—a car having every luxury except one

THAT luxury is brutish bigness, which means weight, which means a large gasoline tank and filled often, and large tires, and several sets a year.

Maxwell is neither a big car nor a small car. The biggest car made is less than 4 feet longer, and costs around $15,000 to buy and $7,000 a year to run.

Most cars are just a foot or a few inches longer.

And others are some smaller—shorter, lighter, less roomy, and hence lack the luxury of a Maxwell.

Nor do they cost, on the average, less to run.

Gas mileage is very nearly the same. Tire mileage is very nearly the same.

But where Maxwell earned its crowning reputation has been its ability to run and run and never quit.

That means repair bills are amazingly low.

You therefore never get mad at a Maxwell—it's the best friend your pocketbook has. And when you stop to think of all those little points of luxury in a Maxwell you're almost sure to whip out your check book and write a check for one.

The 300,000-all-alike idea behind the Maxwell thus, you see, is sound.

TRADING IN THE BACKWOODS

Exchange and Barter in the Early Settlement—Stores and Taverns Meeting Place for Hospitality.

By Thomas McLaughlin.

In the earlier days of Ontario settlements there was very little money in circulation. Most of the trading was simple barter and exchange. A hundred acres of land in one instance was exchanged for a pair of cart wheels and a cow. The farmer had little to dispose of after supplying his home with food and other prime necessities, but his wants were correspondingly light. The whole list of expensive features that fill so much of the life of the present residents of Ontario were undreamed of. It has been said that a certain earmarked shilling in circulation about the year 1845 in Mono Mills was owned at one time or another by every grown man within miles of the village and was last paid to a peddler, who carried it out of the settlement.

Peddler's Pack

The peddler, that is, the first travelling merchant, was one of the institutions of the period. First, he was wont to come on foot, carrying a pack which contained all kinds of wonderful goods—beads, combs, pocket knives, Jews harps, French fiddles, ribbons, laces, colored handkerchiefs, a few lengths of cotton for dresses, and greatest wonder of all, the "makings" of one or two silk dresses. It is not too much to say that the latter were pretty sure to reappear with the peddler on his next annual trip, for buyers of silk were few and far between in the townships in the early days. But the housewife generally had a little money carefully put away with which to buy some trifle when the peddlar came around. More than one of these wandering merchants afterwards appeared with horses and wagons, with a goodly stock of merchandise and made this small peddling business the foundation for a prosperous and honorable trade in later years. Living in Toronto today is a retired merchant prince, a director of one of Canada's leading banks, who followed just such a peddling business in his youth and in those days, as indeed throughout his whole career, he was distinguished for his civility of manner and never-failing courtesy.

But there were stores a-plenty in Mono Mills from its earliest days. For over half a century there were four or five general stores that carried every conceivable article of goods, in smaller or larger quantities. Up till the sixties all these stores sold whisky as well as groceries, dry goods and hardware. The store that could not deliver liquor to the customer would lose his other trade, as all handled it. More than one storekeeper detested this branch of the business, but he considered conditions made it imperative that he carry it in stock.

Village Meeting Places.

Besides the stores, there were four and sometimes more taverns in the village. These places provided accommodation for "man and beast," as their announcements read, but they depended mainly on the bar trade for their profits. These taverns were the meeting places of the people in general. The farmer, after a day's hard work, would come to the village to trade and incidentally to "see a bit of life," and it was mostly in one or other of the barrooms he sought it. He met neighbors here and they exchanged experiences, and he met villagers who had the latest gossip, or whose greater knowledge of the world served to entertain him. It might be a new story or a comic song that someone who had been to the city had brought back in his memory. Some of these taverns were conducted by men who had a proper sense of the fitness of things and the places kept by them were carried on respectably and supplied a real need for local custom and for the travelling public. Mono Mills was a stopping place one day's travel from Toronto, on the way to the country north and west.

A Favorite Hostelry.

One tavern in particular was a favorite spot for the travelling trade. The walls of the old building are still standing, although it is nearly half a century since its doors closed as a public house. This hostelry was carried on for years by a young man and his sister, children of the original owner, and the traveller who arrived early enough to secure accommodation for the night at Dan's was deemed a lucky pilgrim. For the house was comfortable in all respects and the dozen and one items that only careful, competent housekeepers can provide were always available at Dan's. The table was voted the best "between the two lakes," the beds, the fires, the stabling likewise. Who, that ever saw the blazing logs in the big, open, stone hearths in that old-time tavern on a night when it might be twenty below outside, can ever forget the cheer the place afforded? The barroom had one such fireplace and across the hall there was another in the sitting room. The latter was set aside for the use of the female guests and for such among the male patrons as did not care for the more sociable ways of the bar, men who did not take a drink at all, or who, if they took it, liked it on the quiet. For there were such men even in those days. But the barroom called for no undue reservation. The spirit of conviviality predominated. After a hot supper, at which appeared all kinds of good things to eat, men sipped their toddy, smoked their pipe, listened to a song from Henry Fortune, an old southern nigger, the houseman of the place, who was a whole vaudeville show in himself, or a story from some member of the company. Politics were discussed, more or less intelligently, as in these latter days, a copy of the Globe or The Leader was read from, and their editorials argued over. Excessive drinking and objectionable conversations were banned in this establishment. So the long winter evening wore away, the travellers withdrew to comfortable beds, to awake long before the peep of day, partake of a hot satisfying breakfast and to resume by daylight in the keen frosty air their trip through the snow-covered country.

McKIM'S DIRECTORY

1919 Edition Shows Many Changes In Canadian Publishing Field.

The Canadian Newspaper Directory for 1919, just issued by the publishers, A. McKim, Limited, Advertising Agents, Montreal, Toronto, Winnipeg, London, England, indicates great activity in this field during the past year.

While the number of daily papers published in 1919 diminishes from 135 to 126,—due mainly to the effect of the high cost of newsprint, the total number of Canadian publications increased from 1,490 to 1,552. Fifty-five new weeklies have arisen during the past year.

Altogether, the situation warrants optimism of the soundest nature, reflecting, as it does, the healthy condition prevailing generally from East to West of the Dominion.

Whoever examines the pages of the McKim Directory with the care they deserve cannot fail to be impressed with the great labor involved in gleaning so many thousands of items of information. Not only is the entire field of Canadian publications covered, but the Directory is a complete gazetteer of every town and city in Canada and Newfoundland where a publication is issued. One may turn to it for information as to population, county seats, railways and waterways, telegraph, express and banking facilities.

Especially with the new conditions arising daily—Reconstruction, expansion, development—this book in its familiar green and red covers must earn a place on every office desk and in every business library.

MRS. THOS. M'KEE

Mrs. McKee, widow of the late Thos. McKee of Rouleau, Sask., formerly of Whitfield, died at that place on Thursday, May 29th, from pneumonia. Deceased, before her marriage to Mr. McKee, was Miss Maggie Robinson of Orangeville. She leaves to mourn, four step-sons, David of Winnipeg, Man.; Samuel and Albert of Willow Bunch, Sask., and George of Edmonton, Alta. Her remains were interred at Rouleau, Sask., on May 30th.

GAVIN J. LITTLEJOHN

Mr. Gavin J. Littlejohn, a widely known resident of this town, passed away at his home on Church St. early Thursday morning. About a year ago he was stricken with a paralytic stroke depriving him of his speech which he never regained, but in spite of this he bore his affliction with much patience until the last. The deceased, who was the eldest son of the late Samuel Littlejohn, was born at Downsview, County of York, 68 years ago. He was a member of the Methodist church and a man of retiring nature but one who won the esteem of all who knew him. Besides his wife to whom the sympathy of everyone goes out, he leaves to mourn his loss, one daughter, Mrs. A. B. Galbraith, Toronto. Also the following brothers and sisters survive, Mrs. John Watson, Alton, Mrs. John Rogers, Oshawa, W. D. and Thomas, of Orillia, Robert G., Lennoxville, Que., Mrs. T. H. Bull, Mrs. C. W. Smith and Bart. of Willowbrook, Sask.

Many beautiful floral offerings mutely testified to the loving affection in which the deceased was held, among them being a beautiful wreath from the C.O.C.F. of which he was a member, also wreaths from his wife, Mr. and Mrs. John Watson and family, Mr. G. Lemon and family, sprays from Mr. and Mrs. A. B. Galbraith, Mrs. Jos. Marshall and Clayton and Stella Limebeer. There was a large attendance of friends and neighbors at the funeral, which was held to the Forest Lawn cemetery Saturday afternoon, the Rev. John Dodds conducting the services at the house and grave. The pall bearers, all members of the C.O.C.F. were Messrs. Hugh Duke, R. J. McConnell, Jas. A. Patterson, E J. Arthurs, Jas. Wilson and John Bowers.

Friends from a distance who were present at the funeral were Messrs. George and Harold Bull, Brampton, Robert and E. W. Bull, Weston, Mr. A. B. Galbraith and little daughter, Toronto, Mr. W. D. Littlejohn, Orillia, Miss Jaffary, Bolton, Mr. and Mrs. Jas. Long, Mr. J. J. Still and Miss Maude McGill, Erin.

MRS. SAMUEL STUBBS

Caledon lost one of its old residents this week through the death of Mrs. Sarah Stubbs, widow of the late Samuel Stubbs, which occurred at her late residence in Caledon village early on Sunday morning. While by no means strong, Mrs. Stubbs had been enjoying fairly good health up to Friday before her death, when she was stricken with a paralytic seizure which left her in a hopeless condition. Deceased, who was a daughter of the late James Morrison a onetime resident of Caledon, was born in Churchville seventy years ago. She came to Caledon when a child and spent nearly the whole of her life in that township. She was married to Mr. Stubbs about 52 years ago. The happy union was broken by the death of her husband on Feb. 26th, 1915, a little over four years ago. The surviving members of the family are five sons, Messrs. Wm. J. Stubbs, and Albert W. Stubbs, of Caledon, Samuel J. Stubbs, of Detroit, Martin M. Stubbs, of Alderson, Alta., and Fred M. Stubbs, of Medicine Hat, Alta. Two daughters predeceased their mother. Mrs. J. J. Culp, of Ionia, Mich., Miss Cassie Morrison, of Niagara Falls, N.Y., Mrs. E. S. McEuen, of Royal Oak, Mich., Dr. T. A. Morrison, of Attica, N.Y., and Mr. Daniel A. Morrison, of Vancouver, are the brothers and sisters. The late Mrs. Stubbs was a quiet, retiring woman, whose great interest in life was the welfare and happiness of her home and family to which she was deeply attached. Her kindly, sympathetic nature made her a first-class neighbor and she was held in the highest esteem by the people of the community in which her life was spent. She belonged to a staunch Methodist family, but identified herself with the Anglican church after her marriage. The funeral will not take place until this afternoon, when the remains will be laid at rest in Caledon cemetery. The delay in holding the funeral was to give the sons in the West an opportunity to get home.

McKeown, and the neighbouring clergymen, and music by the Orangeville Citizens Band. Dr. T. A. Carson will occupy the chair. The Ladies will serve supper from 6 to 8 o'clock. ROSY CHEEKS AND GOOD HEALTH

Come Through Keeping the Blood in a Rich, Red and Pure Condition.

When a girl—or a woman—finds her color fading, when her cheeks and lips grow pale, and she gets short of breath easily and her heart palpitates after the slightest exertion, or under the least excitement, it means that she is suffering from anaemia—thin, watery blood. Headache and backache frequently accompany this condition, and nervousness is often present.

The remedy for this condition is to build up the blood, and for this purpose there is no medicine that can equal Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. They build up and renew the blood, bring brightness to the eyes, color to the cheeks and a general feeling of renewed health and energy. The only other treatment needed is plenty of sunlight, moderate exercise and good, plain food. The girl or woman who gives this treatment a fair trial will soon find herself enjoying perfect health. Mrs. Hiram Shook, R. R. No. 1, Lyndhurst, says:—"I cannot speak too highly of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, for I believe they saved my daughter's life. She was in a terribly run down condition, pale, wan, and despondent, and people who saw her considered her in a decline. The doctor who treated her did not help her any, and then I decided to give her Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. This decision proved a wise one, for before six boxes were used she was much better. I got six more boxes, and before they were gone she was in the best of health. When she began the use of the pills she weighed only 90 pounds and under their use her weight increased to 127 pounds. I strongly urge all mothers of weak girls to give them Dr. Williams' Pink Pills."

You can get Dr. Williams' Pink Pills from any dealer in medicine, or by mail post prepaid at 50c a box or six boxes for $2.50 from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

CAMILLA.

Again the people of Camilla and neighborhood realize how they have been favored during the war. It was with happy hearts young and old met at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Robert South on Wednesday evening to extend a welcome to their son, Sergt. Wilbert South, who arrived at his home in Elora on Monday and after a reception tendered him there, in company with his wife, arrived at his parents home. Several cars met him at Orangeville. A fine programme, including music by the Buchanan Bros, Mr. Sloan, Miss Norma Henry and the Curtis family, speeches by Messrs. Fred Thompson, Wm. Henry, and Harold Marshall was given, after which lunch was served, folowed by dancing. Sgt. South, who has been overseas for over three years, enlisted as a private in the 71st batalion and after a short training in England was sent to France where he took part in several notable engagements without having been wounded once. As he spoke a few words thanking the people for their kind reception and other kindnesses rendered during his absence, more than one was heard to remark how well the young soldier looked. Messrs. Percil, Edward and Manual South were home for the occasion.

Mr. and Mrs. Earl South and two children motored from Fergus Sunday and spent the day with Mr. and Mrs. Robert South.

The meeting of the Ladies' Aid will be held at the home of Mrs. Alex Buchanan on Wednesday, June 25th.

A large crowd, considering the busy time of year, attended the "Forward Movement" meetings on Thursday Friday and Monday evenings.

MONO COLLEGE INSTITUTE

A very large and successful meeting of the Mono College Women's Institute was held at the home of Mrs. Oliver Sproule, Centre Road, on June 5th. Considerable important business was disposed of, the sum of $25.00 being voted towards the Building Fund of the Lord Dufferin Hospital and $10.00 in aid of The Toronto Star Santa Claus Fund. It was then decided that the next meeting would take the form of a picnic to Canning's Falls on the afternoon of Thursday, July 3rd. Music consisting of a piano solo by Miss Gertrude Jackson, vocal solos by Mrs. Endacott, of Orangeville, Miss Elizabeth Sproule, and Master Bruce Sloan and recitations by Miss Mona Shirley and her two little brothers gave variety to the program. The hostess then served lunch and those present felt that they had spent a most enjoyable afternoon.

The meeting will be addressed by C. R. McKeown, and Col. J. A. V. Preston, of Orangeville. The redoubtable Jimmy Fax, of Toronto, and the Orangeville Male Quartette are being billed for the programme. Further particulars later.

KEEP CHILDREN HEALTHY

To keep children healthy the bowels must be kept regular and the stomach sweet. Nine-tenths of the ailments which afflict little ones are caused by derangements of the bowels and stomach. No other medicine can equal Baby's Own Tablets in guarding either the baby or growing child from the ills that follow a disordered condition of the bowels or stomach. They are a mild but thorough laxative and never fail to give results. Concerning them Mrs. W. B. Coolledge, Sarnia, Ont., says: "I have used Baby's Own Tablets for over three years and have found them the best medicine I have ever used for my children. I never have any trouble giving them to my little ones and they have saved me many a doctor's bill. My advice to all mothers of little ones is to keep a box of the Tablets in the house." The Tablets are sold by all medcine dealers or by mail at 25 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

I heard about 'Fruit-a-tives' and the wonderful results it was giving because this medicine is made from fruit juices, so decided to try it.

A NEW CHIEF

George W. Parks Now Head of the Maxwell-Chalmers in Canada.

The announcement that George W. Parks has been elected President and General Manager of both the Maxwell Motor Company of Canada, Ltd., and the Chalmers Motor Company of Canada, Limited, reveals what is perhaps the most significant development that has taken place this year in Canadian automobile circles. The great expansion of the business which will come under Mr. Park's direction will be along the lines of the past-formed policy of the company to be a dominant Canadian factor in Canadian business. Hundreds of thousands of dollars have been invested in Canadian plants. An increasingly large percentage of both the Maxwell and Chalmers cars has been manufactured in Canada. With the election of Mr. Parks as President of the Canadian companies the policy in making the Maxwell-Chalmers organization in Canada a separate identity will be further emphasized. At the same time the Canadian company will continue to enjoy all the advantages and facilities afforded by the nine large factories operated by the parent company in the United States.

Mr. Parks has had a broad and extensive business experience. In his younger days he gained valuable training in the sales department of a New England manufacturing concern. Later on he was junior partner and subsequently owner of a manufacturing business in Rhode Island. Withdrawing from this business, he organized the George W. Parks Company—a manufacturing concern which enjoyed splendid business until the outbreak of the world war. The "non-essential" character of this business prompted him to close down this factory and since that time he has been devoting his whole time to war work. Thus the career of Mr. Parks has included manufacturing, salesmanship, organization and management and should qualify him admirably for guiding the development of the Canadian institution with which he has become identified.

"I have faith in Canada—in its wonderful future," said Mr. Parks in the first interview he gave as head of the Maxwell-Chalmers Canadian institution. "I feel that there are great possibilities for any business in Canada, especially in the automobile field. That is the big reason I have for linking up my destiny with those of the Maxwell and Chalmers cars in Canada. I hope to see this business grow to one of the outstanding industries in the Dominion, buying its supplies in Canada, financing its operations and doing its banking in Canada, marketing its vast output in Canada."

Rev. Wm. Spencer, of St. Mary's, has accepted a very hearty call to the church at Glammis, Ont., and expects to begin his new duties on the last Sunday (29th) in June.

THE WARDEN'S ADDRESS

Financial Condition of County a Matter for Congratulation.

Warden Hilborn's address to the County Council at its meeting last week was worded as follows:—

Orangeville, Ont., June 18, 1919.

To the Members of the County Council.

Gentlemen,—It gives me great pleasure to meet you all again, and to welcome you to this the June session of the County Council.

I am pleased to note that notwithstanding the excessive amount of rain, which in some localities seriously interfered with the sowing of the seed, that the crops are in a healthy state and the prospects of a bountiful harvest look good at present.

The financial position of this County is in first class condition, there being $14,086.43 in the Treasury. It will be necessary to pass a by-law to equalize the assessment of the County and to levy the rate to cover the general expenditure, including grants for Roads and Bridges and County Good Roads.

Since our last session of Council, the Chairman of the Road and Bridge Committee, the County Engineer and myself have made an inspection of the Boundary Line Bridges ,and a report and estimate of the cost of rebuilding and repairs will be presented by the Chairman at this session of your Council.

The Road Machinery purchased by the County has all been delivered, excepting one crushing plant and seven road drags, which will be along in a few days. The Sawyer-Massey crushing plant, which was tested at Shelburne, proved satisfactory and was accepted by the Committee. The Scarifier, which was also tested at Shelburne, did not prove satisfactory and Committee ordered the same to be shipped back. The other two crushing plants will be tested out as soon as arrangements can be made. The Waterous Road Roller has arrived at Shelburne and will be tested out this week.

I would ask the Good Roads Committee to have all necessary arrangements made to have all County Good Roads repaired and to start construction work as soon as possible, and that arrangements be made to have the East Garafraxa-Amaranth Townline drained and have road repaired.

The Committee appointed to have a permanent bridge built across the Grand River east of Grand Valley, known as County Bridge No. asked for tenders, the highest being $27,000 and extra to do abutments and the lowest being for $21,500 for a completed bridge. The Committee awarded the contract to Mr. John Tilker, of Harriston, Contractor, at $21,000. It will be necessary for this Council to pass a By-law authorizing the signing of the contract by the Warden and County Clerk. The Contractor started work on June 10th and agrees to have the whole work completed by October 1st next.

Thanking you for your careful attention to County work, I am.

Yours Fairthfully,
H. H. HILBORN,
Warden.

ORANGEVILLE PRESBYTERY

The resignation of Rev. R. K. Fairbairn, of Cheltenham, was received and accepted by Orangeville Presbytery at its meeting in St. Andrew's church on Tuesday. Mr. Fairbairn has been obliged to undergo two operations for appendicitis and is resigning on account of continued ill-health. Rev. J. Lindsay, of Erin, who was appointed interim moderator, will declare the pulpit vacant the first Sunday in July. Mr. J. B. Skene, of Knox College, is supplying the pulpit in the meantime. Rev. Geo. Milne declined the call from Camila and Mono Centre churches. The interim moderator, Rev. J. A. Matheson, was given authority to call again whenever the congregations are ready. Messrs. Waddell, Reddon and McVicar, the Assembly Commissioners, gave excellent reports of the Assembly proceedings. A communication was read from Rev. J. H. Edmison bringing to the attention of the Presbytery the Assembly's action in increasing the minimum stipend of ministers. The matter was referred to a Committee consisting of the moderator, Rev. G. Kendall and Messrs. Thos. Watson, Hugh Ferguson, J. A. Marshall, R. McCulloch and Oliver Sproule. Rev. W. M. Morris, pastor of St. Andrew's church, Orangeville, was appointed Moderator of Presbytery for the ensuing six months. Four new members of Presbytery were present for the first time in the persons of Revs. H. Shannon, of McIntyre, and C. Sinclair Jones, of Priceville, and Messrs. Shook and Sproule, elders.

COUNTY COUNCIL NOTES

The County Council did not conclude the business of its June meeting held in the Court House here last week until Saturday. Good Roads was the most important item of business occupying the attention of the Council and a great deal of time was spent considering plans for the improvement of the leading highways throughout the County. The more important business of the session is noted in the following paragraphs:

A by-law was put through designating the following pieces of highway, mostly connecting links, as County Roads:—

1. The Hockley Road from the 4th line east to the 8th line, Mono, between Dufferin and Simcoe and the 8th con. of Albion-Mono townline, the latter for a distance of one mile.

2. 14th line, East Garafraxa, the entire width of the township.

3. 24 Sideroad, East Luther, starting at the 2nd line and continuing north to the 10th con. line.

4. 2nd line, old survey, Melancthon, from Reddickville to the north townline.

5. 260 Sideroad, Melancthon, from the 6th to the 8th Con. a distance of 2¼ miles.

6. 10 lots on the Prince of Wales Road from the south townline to 10 sideroad, Mulmur.

The Warden and Chairman of the Good Roads Committee were appointed a Committee to interview the Deputy Minister of Highways for the purpose of securing his approval of the newly designated county roads.

Lieut. Bird and Col. J. A. V. Preston addressed the Council in support of the application for a grant in aid of the work of the Navy League. The application was referred to the Finance Committee, which subsequently brought in a report recommending a grant of $1,000. Council declined to adopt the report and in Committee of the Whole amended it by striking out the grant. The division on the motion to adopt the report as it came from the Committee was:—

For—Brent, Hepton, Jeffers, Watson, Thompson—5.

Against—Barber, Brown, Bower, Duke, Hill, Moffatt and Prentice—7.

Council took Wednesday afternoon off and the members motored to Shelburne for the purpose of witnessing the test of the new steam road roller.

Two delegates from the Y.M.C.A. addressed the Council in behalf of an application for a grant of $4,000 for Red Triangle work. The application was turned over to the Finance Committee which reported against making any grant.

Rev. W. M. Morris, President of the Provincial Trustees Association, addressed the Council regarding the subjects discussed and the work accomplished at the Easter meeting of the Association in Toronto. A hearty vote of thanks was tendered Mr. Morris for his informing address.

The Education Committee recommended payment of $140.14 to Fergus High School for Dufferin County pupils. The Committee also recommended the usual grant of $50 for the County Promotion examinations.

The Finance Committee recommended a grant of $25 to the Dufferin Women's Institute. The sum of $100 was voted for the maintenance of Jno. Hubbard, the money to be paid in quarterly instalments and the grant to be for one year only.

The salary of the County Treasurer was raised from $1200 to $1500 a year and that of the County Clerk from $500 to $600 a year. Mr. G. A. Leighton was also granted an honorarium of $200 for his services.

Council authorized a levy of three mills in the $ for the improvement of County Roads. This will yield $29,698.64, apportioned as follows:—

Amaranth	$4747.32
E. Garafraxa	3566.29
E. Luther	2895.07
Melanothon	5605.65
Mulmur	4599.51
Mono	4774.20
Orangeville	2100.30
Shelburne	900.30
Grand Valley	525.00

The equalized assessment of the county is $9,899,554. The assessment of the municipalities is:—

Amaranth	$1,580,775
E. Garafraxa	1,185,433
E. Luther	965,025
Melanothon	1,868,550
Mulmur	1,533,170
Mono	1,591,401
Orangeville	700,100
Shelburne	300,100
Grand Valley	175,000

The Treasurer's statement set forth that after meeting all exanditures to May 31st and providing for an appropriation of $8,600 for County Roads, there still remained a cash surplus of $14,086.43. Estimated ordinary expenditure for 1919-20 totals $36,500, of which half is for school purpose. "If after deducting from this," the statement continued, "the amount of the estimated assets and the surplus carried forward, we add $25,600 for expenditure on boundary line bridges, $600 for special grants and a rate of three mills on the dollar for County Roads, the total to be levied at the present time would require a rate of 7 mills, which would be the same as levied in 1917 and 1¾ mills less than in 1918."

The statute labor on lands abutting on County Roads has been commuted and will be paid to the County Treasurer and credited by him to the respective townships for maintenance work on said roads. The amounts so commuted are:—Amaranth, $1180; E. Garafraxa, $646.50; E. Luther, $761.25; Mulmur, $1056.00; Mono, $1177.60.

The Treasurer's estimate of receipts and expenditure for 1919-20 is:

John Tilker, of Harriston, was awarded the contract for the new bridge over the Grand River on the boundary line between Amaranth and the village of Grand Valley. Mr. Tilker's tender was for $21,000. The bridge is to be a reinforced concrete arch structure, consisting of two eighty foot spans with centre pier. The construction work has already commenced and is to be completed by October 15th.

The Committee on Roads and Bridges recommended that plans and specifications be prepared and steps taken to have the following new bridges built:—

(1) A 24 ft. span between Amaranth and Mono opposite lot No. 24.

(2) A 24 ft. span between East Luther and Amaranth opposite lot No. 19.

(3) A 20 ft. span between East and West Luther, opposite the 13th Concession.

Authority was given to place a new plank floor on the small bridge between Mono and Amaranth opposite lot 1.

The Committee on Roads and Bridges reported that it had inspected the bridge over the Noisy River on the Melancthon-Nottawasaga townline, and found that the easterly abutment is injured by the water being diverted by an old concrete dam, which has partly collapsed. The Clerk was instructed to notify John Sinclair, of Creemore, the owner of the property, to remove a sufficient portion of the dam to allow the water to flow in its proper channel. Mr. Sinclair will also be notified that the Council will hold him responsible for any damage that may be occasioned by the water being diverted.

Council will hold its autumn meeting in the Orangeville Court House on Tuesday, Nov. 2nd.

Groves, the medical superintendent, had been called some sixty miles away, and on account of a terrific storm was unable to be present, the first time he had been absent in the seventeen years since the hospital was opened.

FATEFUL YEARS FOR ALL WOMEN

How Best to Overcome the Troubles That Afflict Women Only.

The most fateful years in a woman's life are those between forty-five and fifty. Many women enter this term under depressing conditions through overwork, worry or a neglected condition of the blood, and so they suffer heavily. Still, variations of health at this time can be relieved by home treatment.

Among the commonest symptoms are headaches and pains in the back and sides, fever-flushes, palpitation, dizziness and depression. Women stand in need of rich, red blood all their life, but never more so than in middle age, when the nerves are also weak and over-wrought. Now every woman can prove the prompt help afforded to her health by renewing her blood supply. It is a test that any ailing woman can make by taking Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, for these pills make rich, red blood, which in turn helps the appetite, strengthens the nerves and restores robust health. Thousands of women have found in Dr. Williams' Pink Pills the means by which new health and a brighter outlook of life were gained. In proof of this is the voluntary testimony of Mrs. H. S. Peterson, Milford, Ont., who says:—"I have suffered greatly from those troubles that afflict my sex, and I have found that Dr. Williams' Pink Pills in such cases not only do all that is claimed for them, but more. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills have done so much for me that I urge every weak woman to try them, and they will soon realize the great difference in one's health they make."

If you suffer from any of the ills that particularly afflict womanhood you should avail yourself at once of the health help of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. You can get them from any dealer in medicine or by mail post paid at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50 from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

McKellar was united in marriage to Mr. Kenneth R. Howard, of the auditing department of the C.P. railway, also of Brandon, formerly of Orangeville, Ont. The service was read by Rev. R. S. Laidlaw, of Knox Presbyterian church, in the presence of a few immediate friends. The house was prettily decorated with roses and palms.

ALTON.

The employees of the Beaver Knitting Mills met at the home of Mrs. W. R. Dick on Wednesday night, June 18th, and presented her with a handsome chair and an appreciative address. Prior to her recent marriage Mrs. Dick had been in the employ of the Company for several years.

The evening before her marriage, the girl friends of Miss Hazel Gooderham, of Alton, presented her with an address and a handsome living-room table.

Miss Edith Dods is visiting her sister, Mrs. (Dr.) Macdonnell, in Goderich.

Pte. Roy Dods and Pte. George Presley, the latter a son of Mr. and Mrs. Jas. Presley, have returned from overseas. They are both looking well.

Mrs. Wallace Randhill and her little son, of Toronto, have been visiting the former's parents, Mr. and Mrs. L. H. Lemon.

Mr. and Mrs. Wylie Houston have the sympathy of their numerous friends in the great loss they have sustained through the death of their infant daughter, Cora Jean, aged 9 months.

Mrs. Leonard Lovell, who was operated on in the Royal Alexandra Hospital, Fergus, a short time ago, is progressing favorably.

Mr. Fred Dowswell, who returned from overseas recently, has been visiting his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Dowswell for a few days before leaving for his home in the West.

Pte. Joe Palmer, son of Mr. and Mrs. Jos. Palmer, is another of our soldier boys who has arrived home from overseas. Pte. Palmer was with the colors upwards of two years. He is looking fine.

MELANCTHON STATION.

Notwithstanding the late season and cold, wet weather in the early spring, indications point to an abundant crop. Hay crops and pastures are exceptionally heavy. Fruit crop also promises to be good.

Our neighbors, Mr. and Mrs. Louis Hammond, have moved from Main Street East to the Gordon farm on the 5th line beside Gordon Lake where the speckled trout abound.

Our local horse dealer paid a visit to Mike Muldoon and Co. of nomadic fame, who compose a band of gypsies camped on the 2nd line corner in the suburbs of Shelburne, but didn't "make a dale" with Mike. The gypsies have a large number of horses of the trading class and their tents remind the historian of an Indian village of prehistoric days.

We are pleased to see our old friend, Mr. Joshua Thomas, walking around again although he is somewhat lame after a severe attack of rheumatism.

A big black bear is said to be prowling about through Geo. Shoaff's swamp and in Jim Hammond's sugar bush. Mr. Hammond thinks his bearship is last year's cub and is therefore only a yearling.

Mr. R. J. Woods, of Corbetton, was a visitor in our village the other day.

Mr. S. Sawden, of Toronto, paid our burg a brief visit last week. He brought up a party from the city who wanted to see his farm here with a view to purchasing it, and made the trip by automobile.

There are no less than seven vacant houses in Melancthon and its suburbs, and an effort should be made to repopulate our erstwhile prosperous and picturesque village.

A PRESENTATION

On Friday evening, June 20th, the members of Newton Robinson Methodist choir and congregation presented Miss Eva Holt with a silver biscuit jar and the following address:—

Miss Eva Holt,

Dear Friend:—

We, the members of the Methodist choir and congregation have gathered at your home to spend a social evening with you, for we believe this is one of the strongest bonds that can exist in a community. We have also come together that we may show our appreciation of your services in our choir. You have spared neither time nor talent in your endeavor to make our church services bright and inspiring. Therefore we would ask you to accept this silver biscuit jar as a slight token of our appreciation of your services. We trust you may long regard it as a memento of your association with this church. We unite in wishing you and Mr. Jessop prosperity in your new home.

Premier Nikola Pashitch Has Devoted His Career To Struggle for Liberty

MR. NIKOLA PASHITCH, Prime Minister of Serbia, the story of whose career is the story of his country, was born at Zvezdan, near Zajechar, and belongs to a family which migrated thither about 100 years ago from Tetovo in Old Serbia. In his native town his people still wear the long white coat with black braiding, which has been the national costume in those parts since the days of Kossovo. After completing his studies at the Gymnasium (secondary school) and afterwards at the Technical College in Belgrade, he went to Zurich, where he soon got into touch with the free-thinking academic youth of Russia, Switzerland and Germany. At the time of the Bosnian insurrection in 1875, the Serbian youth came itno collision with the German Socialist youth under the leadership of Gerlach, because the German Socialists refused to stand up for the cause of small nations. Directly after this a great discussion arose over the Serbian constitution between Svetozar Markovitch, the leader of the Serbian youth in Zurich, and the representatives of the Serbian Government of the day, which would not give full political freedom to the people. The young

PREMIER PASHITCH.

Serbs determined to work for the liberation of their people under the Turkish yoke, and in the Serbo-Turkish war of 1876 Pashitch and all his friends took an active part in the fighting.

Directly after the war the Radical Party was founded, its program being the liberation of the entire Serbian race, reforms on a liberal basis, and a Balkan Confederation (Kragiyevats 1881). Aided by Austrian diplomacy, the Serbian bureaucracy, which did not desire these reforms, prevented the party from making headway with the people. And Austria, which had a secret military convention with Serbia, permitting the passage of troops through Serbian territory to the east, sought by every possible means to preserve the old constitution of 1869, which, modeled as it was upon an Austrian pattern, did not permit the nation to realize its ideals and aspirations.

Then in 1883 the revolt of Zajechar broke out. The Government troops stifled the revolt and all members of the Central Committee of the Radical Party, of which Mr. Pashitch was the president, was arrested. Pashitch himself was one of 104 insurgents who were sentenced to execution, while more than a thousand persons were sentenced to long terms of penal servitude. Pashitch, however, succeeded in escaping to Russia through Bulgaria and Roumania.

In 1893 the King of Serbia seized the reins of government himself unconstitutionally and without the participation of the Radicals. The struggle for political liberty began anew and ended with the imposition of the constitution of 1888 and the establishment of an Upper House.

This was the signal for a fresh reactionary period under the auspices of Vladan Djordjevich, leader of the reactionary forces. In 1901 King Alexander married Draga Mahin, and on March 25, 1903, he again abrogated the constitution and superseded all the judges of appeal as well as all the councillors of state. This gave rise to a conspiracy, in which the Radicals had no hand, but of which the Austro-Hungarian Government was not ignorant; for although Count Goluchowski promised the conspirators that Austria would not resort to armed interference, two army corps were held in readiness to march on Serbia. In the meantime, when the blow fell, the Serbian people accepted the King's assassination as a fait accompli and unanimously elected King Peter in his place, while the Russian Minister, Charikov, at once established relations with the new Government, and thus deprived Austria of the chance of attaching Serbia. This completed Serbia's struggle for liberty, which has not usually been understood in Canada. Mr. Pashitch helped later in the formation of the Balkan League, and when the treacherous Bulgarians attacked their allies after the victory over Turkey, his strength assisted his country in weathering the storm. Then came the plot against Serbia by Austro-Hungary, which precipitated the great struggle of the past four years. In it the world has seen the spirit of Serbia embodied in Premier Pashitch, the man who fought Turkey in the war of liberation and acted as spokesman in interpreting his country's loyalty to the Allies. During the European war, Serbia has sacrificed more, relatively speaking, than any other Allied nation. She has lost about one-third of her population, and her loss in national wealth runs into one milliard pounds. Nikola Pahitch, who has been for the last thirty years the leader of the liberal and democratic movement in Serbia, has been throughout the whole struggle the faithful interpreter of Serbia's loyalty to her Allies. Several times did Austria offer Serbia a separate peace, which was staunchly refused with the words that all was lost save honor.

FRENCH ARMY DOGS.

Sentinel Dogs Can Hear Advancing Man at 400 Metres.

There are four classes of dogs used by the French army—ratters, Red Cross dogs, sentinels and liaisons.

In trench warfare, where men have to live in dirt and filth much of the time, the rat is a great danger to health as well as being a destructive element to army stores. So nearly every company has its rat catcher.

Because of the same trench life, however, the use of the Red Cross dog became less important. In a war of movement the dog who could find wounded men, trot back with some article of clothing, and then guide help to the disabled soldier, was useful; but in stationary warfare there is not, as a rule, this need for a search for wounded in out-of-the-way places.

Sentinel and liaison dogs are of greatest value. The former goes into advance posts with his master, and is trained to give the alarm by a low growl at the approach of any other person. These dogs can hear an advancing man at 400 metres, and are of great value at night. The liaison dog is trained to carry messages from one of his two masters to the other, and is used for despatching orders. It takes about three months to train dogs to travel as far as three kilometres in this work. Many can be taught to go in both directions. A liaison team consists of two dogs and their trainern, who always work together.

Real poilus they are, too; no, embusques among them! They share all the hardships of front-line life and all the dangers, and they share, too, the "wooden cross," or military honors. When their regiment gets the "Croix de Guerre," so do they, and often they have been mentioned in despatches.—Scribner's.

Analysis of Bolshevism.

It is possible to differentiate three elements in Maximalism, now turned into Russian Bolshevism:

1. The Bolshevism of the intellectuals, as represented by fanatical doctrinaires, the greater number of whom have appeared on the scene since the revolution, coming from alien countries, some of them, like Lenine, with the backing of the German authorities and totally ignorant of Russian affairs.

2. Popular Bolshevism, adopted by the soldiers and peasants, which recalls the many instances of rebellion and peasant uprising so long a bloody stain on Russian history. These peasants and soldiers are ever ready to take advantage of circumstances to stop working and plunder the estates. The unheard-of excesses which they have lately committed at the incitement of the doctrinaire Bolsheviki have so completely disorganized or destroyed the army, industry, commerce and agriculture, that nothing is left intact of all that constituted the strength and resources of the country.

3. The Bolshevism of the profiteers, represented by sordid individuals who endeavor to exploit the revolution, and immediately to draw therefrom the greatest possible personal benefits.

This general exemplification, and especially the facts upon which it is based, prove that Bolshevism cannot even be taken into consideration as a social theory. Like the hurricane it is but an agent of destruction. It has succeeded in destroying the economic and financial forces of Russia, which were the result of many centuries of upbuilding. It has brought misery and famine upon the industrial and peasant classes who were lured by the promise of social reforms, not a single one of which have they seen fulfilled. Bolshevism has established in Russia an anarcho-communistic regime of absolutism, whose watchword, "Take all you can got," has destroyed the work of generations. Certainly many decades must pass before the crumbled edifice can be re-erected.—"Asia."

Look at this!

Forehanded young Germans are apparently preparing for the time when the Allies will be dominant and are seeking to make friends with the mammon of unrighteousness, judging from a matrimonial advertisement in the Neue Zurcher Zeitung. The following is a translation: A doctor of philosophy, 27 years old, highly educated, dashing, impressive, masculine appearance, desires acquaintance, looking toward matrimony, with a wealthy daughter or childless widow, friendly to the Allies.

Overtime.

A certain manufacturer told his employes he would pay them their regular day's wages if they went to church the following day, which was Easter Sunday. They were all there and the manufacturer swelled with joy and pride at the sight. But after the service a foreman approached him and said: "Boss, the fellers want me to ask you if we come to church again to-night, do we get overtime?"

Mrs. Nothing — Yes, my husband bought [illegible] one day and brought it home in his car, and I never always suspected that he had engine trouble during the journey. — Pearson's Weekly.

IN MEMORIAM.

In loving memory of my dear sister, Alenia May Ritchie, who departed this life June 19th, 1917

Days of sadness still come o'er me,
Tears of sorrow often flow,
Memory keeps our loved one near us,
Whom God claimed two years ago,
Dear is the grave where she is laid,
Sweet is the memory that ne'er will fade.

Flowers will wither, leaves fade and die,
If some have forgotten, never will I
I think of you in silence,
And your name I oft recall,
But there's nothing left to answer
But your photo on the wall.

Women do not make good [illegible]. They shrink from the terrible onslaught. The Russian Battalion of Death was a failure. Madame Botchkarewa acknowledged it. [illegible] said when in America:

"I am keenly disappointed [illegible] men as soldiers. I do not [illegible] this because of physical endurance. My battalion had women as strong as men. Many of them came from peasant stock. But I say it because women will not stand discipline. They cannot forget personals enough to take commands implicitly for the sake of a common objective. When it comes to war it is only thing that counts is what [illegible] do, not who you are. I am going back to fight as a soldier, but never again will I undertake to drill and discipline a battalion of women."

Madame Botchkarewa did not think, and the real reason of failure. She gave the superiority [illegible]

It is true that women learned to work together [illegible] orders. But they are learning [illegible] They are beginning to organize for purposes of their own. They [illegible] value of collectivity. But [illegible] have become disciplined [illegible] still not be good soldiers. T[illegible] is fundamental. In their [illegible] bear new life. To abuse the [illegible] to abuse the child of the future [illegible] women live for the future [illegible] a good soldier one may live [illegible] present.

Temporarily Russian women have gone on the wrong track [illegible] magnificent creatures, but [illegible] not expressed themselves. They [illegible] copied men. This they must [illegible] men must give gifts of their [illegible] humanity they must express themselves. They must be warriors [illegible] spirit, not slayers of the body.

No one can doubt the [illegible] women. They have nurses at the front under fire. They have [illegible] death with a song and a smile. It requires greater courage to live life than to take it. But it is [illegible] way woman wins her victories. World's Outlook.

Australian Wool for Japan.

The negotiations between Japan and Great Britain over the sale of wool in Australia have been concluded satisfactorily. It is now arranged that 24,600 bales of wool will be delivered before the end of July, at the prices officially quoted in Great Britain last November. The Nippon Yusen Kaisha has consented to carry the delivered stock, assigning 14,000 tons of space to the job.

Recently the Government announced the reorganization of the Army Woollen Mill of Sanju with a view to making the factory more serviceable to the public, whereas so far it has been exclusively catering to the War Office. The reorganized mill will not only turn out woolen cloth but worsted yarns as well, at the same time undertaking for the general public the manufacture of woolen cloth or yarns, and for private woollen mills the training of experts or operatives.

A Friend in need

This illustrates an actual case where a K. & S. tube was used to pull a friend out of the ditch. While not advisable to use a tube this way, it can be done with a K. & S. tube—the tubes that are often known to outlast the car itself.

See this cross-section of a K. & S. tube. Note its construction.

Every K. & S. tube is LAMINATED—built up layer upon layer, and vulcanized in one piece.

Would Join the Church.

The American expeditionary force has won the reputation of being a highly profane lot of soldiers. But this predilection for swearing is not vicious. It is in the happy-go-lucky American fashion that the cursing is mostly done. A returned Y.M.C.A. worker tells us of a Yank who, as he was leaving a Y.M.C.A. hut in France declared with Americans emphasis: "When I get back home I'm going to join the church, and it's all on account of this (blank, blank, blankety blank) of a war."

New Zealand's Great Tunnel.

With the holding of the official ceremony in honor of the piercing of "the hole in the Southern Alps," the great Otira Tunnel of New Zealand took its place proudly as one of the world's longest subways. The tunnel is five miles and 35 chains in length, and the first shot at the Otira end was fired on May 5, 1908. Owing to scarcity of labor due to the war, it may be two years before the permanent way is laid through. By that time the water power available will have been harnessed in readiness to drive the electric trains that will run from Canterbury to the west coast.

Richest Woman In British Isles.

Emily Charlotte Talbot, the wealthiest woman in the British Isles, is dead at the age of 78 years. She was the owner of 13,600 acres in the lower peninsula Wales district, which includes the whole Rhondda Valley, where the finest steam coal in the world is mined.

Miss Talbot was the daughter of Christopher P. Mansel Talbot, who sat in the House of Commons for an unbroken period of sixty years. He was long known as the "father of the House of Commons." When he died Miss Talbot inherited real estate worth $7,500,000, besides being the beneficiary of trust funds for many more millions.

Magram Park, her country home, comprises 31,500 acres, and she owned as well Penrice Castle, which has been converted into a convalescent home for officers, she paying the expense of its conversion and maintenance.

Miss Talbot's Morgan Abbey residence is a magnificent estate, with a park running for seven miles around it. The park was famous for its orangery, which was planted as the result of a Portuguese ship with a cargo of orange and lemon trees being wrecked on the coast near the estate.

Miss Talbot spent a large portion of her income in philanthropic work, mostly donated anonymously. A few years ago she kept one of her collieries going at a loss of $500,000 to provide work for the miners.

PUBLIC NOW TOLD ALL ABOUT TANLAC

Authorities Now Show Just What This Medicine Really Is.

In a recent issue of this paper announcement was made that Tanlac now has the largest sale of any medicine of its kind in the world, and that more than twelve million bottles had been sold during the past four years.

These are unusual figures, and the question naturally arises in the mind of the reader why this phenomenal success and why has this preparation so far out-stripped all other medicines of its kind. It is only natural therefore that the manufacturers should offer some explanation to satisfy public interest.

In the first place, Tanlac is manufactured in one of the largest and most modernly equipped laboratories in this country. Its formula is purely ethical and complies with all national and state pure food and drug laws. Altogether there are ten ingredients in Tanlac, each of which is of recognized therapeutic value.

Many of these ingredients have been individually known and used since civilization first began, and some of them have been used and prescribed by leading physicians everywhere, but until they were brought together in proper proportion and association as in the Tanlac formula, humanity has not heretofore realized their full value and effect.

In referring to one of the more important ingredients of Tanlac, the Encyclopedia Brittanica says: "It has long been the source of the most valuable tonic medicines that have ever been discovered." In referring to others of the general tonic drugs contained in Tanlac the 13th Edition of Potter's Therapeutics, a standard medical text book, states that—"they impart general tone and strength to the entire system, including all organs and tissues."

This same well known authority in describing the physiological action of still another of the ingredients of Tanlac which is of value in treating what is commonly known as "a run-down condition" uses the following expression: "It is highly esteemed in loss of appetite during convalescense from acute diseases."

There are certain other elements in Tanlac which because of their influence upon the appetite, digestion, assimilation improve the nutrition and vital activity of all the tissues and organs of the body, and produce that state of general tonicity which is called health.

In discussing another ingredient the Encyclopedia Britanica says: "It is one of the most efficient of that class of substances which act upon the stomach so as to invigorate digestion and thereby increase the general nutrition. It is used in dyspepsia, chlorosis, anaemia and various other diseases in which the tone of the stomach and alimentary canal is deficient." Concerning still another ingredient this same standard authority says: "It causes dilation of the gastric blood vessels, increases secretion of the gastric juice, and causes greater activity in the movements of the muscular layers in the walls of the stomach. It also tends to lessen the sensibility of the stomach, and so may relieve gastric pain."

The United States Dispensatory makes the following comment regarding another ingredient: "It may be used in all cases of pure debility of the digestive organs or where a general tonic impression is required. Dyspepsia, atonic gout hysteria, and intermittent fever are among the many affections in which it has proven useful."

There are certain other ingredients described in the Dispensatory and in other standard medical text books as having a beneficial action upon the organs of secretion, whose proper functioning results in the purification of the blood streams passing through them. In this manner objectionable poisonous ingredients of the blood are removed, and the entire system is invigorated and vitalized.

Tanlac is designed primarily for the relief of disorders of the stomach, liver, and bowels. At the same time, however, it is a powerful constructive tonic and body builder, for it naturally follows that any medicine that brings about proper assimilation of the food and the thorough elimination of the waste products must therefore have a far-reaching and most beneficial effect upon the entire system.

Although Tanlac's claims for supremacy are abundantly supported by the world's leading authorities, it is the people themselves who have really made Tanlac what it is. Millions upon millions have used it, and have told other millions what it has done for them. That is why Tanlac has become the real sensation of the drug trade in this country, and that is also why it is the most widely talked-of medicine in the world today.

"Tanlac is sold in Orangeville by C. V. Jeffers, in Grand Valley by G. E. Morrow, in Shelburne by J. E. A. White, and in Grand Valley by W. T. Edmonson."

HE STARED, TOO.

"The biggest fire I've ever seen was at New York," said the American. "It was a very high building and the ladders were not tall enough to reach a window at which a lady was standing. We were just beginning to despair when a lucky thought seemed to strike one of the firemen. Catching hold of a hose, he took it alongside of the house and turned the nozzle upward so that a stream of water shot continuously past the window. Summoning up her courage the lady stepping from the ledge, and putting her arms and legs about the jet of water slid to the bottom and was saved."

"Oh, that's nothing," said the Englishman. "I saw an even more exciting rescue than that in London. A large hotel was burning furiously, when at the top storey of the building a girl appeared. I stared, the firemen stared, the policemen stared,—in fact we all stared so hard that at last the girl walked down the stares."

WEATHER LORE

Some Pointers For Those Who Want To Do Their Own Weather Forecasting.

Adam may or may not have tried his hand at weather production, but it is written that as far back as the time of Noah that gentleman prophesied a long, wet spell, and, unlike a lot of later weather prophets, he had such faith in his own prognostications that he took measures to meet the situation. Further than that, subsequent events proved that Noah was a 100 per cent. prophet. To many of his successors, however, showing a lower batting average, it became increasingly apparent as time went on that in view of the frequency with which the prognostications failed, the subject should be placed on a scientific basis in order to obtain accuracy in the results or at least to spread a sort of halo of learning and philosophy about it and thus minimize the curse, as it were, of possible errors. So weather bureaus were instituted, which same have been in more or less successful operation now for many years, with attendants on the government pay-roll and everything. Entirely apart from scientific weather observations, however, home-made weather forecasting has persisted as a pleasing pastime all these years, and on this very day there is a set of rules governing it, more or less recognized by all amateur weather prophets. For the benefit of those who may be unfamiliar with these rules the New York Sun has obligingly made a compilation of them and they are set forth as follows:

When standing on high ground and the horizon is unobstructed from all quarters, if the sky is absolutely cloudless, look for a storm within 48 hours.

If it starts to rain after 7 o'clock in the morning it will continue to do so all day, and very often it is the indication of a three days' rain.

When it is raining and it brightens and darkens alternately you can count on an all-day rain, with a chance of clearing at sundown.

When the rain ceases and the clouds are still cased in heavy blankets one sure sign of clear weather is the patch of blue sky that shows through the rift large enough to make a pair of "sailor's breeches."

Another sign of continued rain is when the smoke from the chimney hovers low around the housetops. When it ascends straight into the air this indicates clearing weather.

A foggy morning is usually the forerunner of a clear afternoon.

A thunder-storm in winter (usually in January or February) is always followed by clear, cold weather. It is not, as many think, the breaking up of winter.

People living near the seashore say a storm is "brewing" when the air is salty, caused by the wind blowing from the east.

A red or copper-colored sun or moon indicates great heat. A silvery moon denotes clear, cool weather.

The old Indian sign of a dry month was when the ends of the new moon were nearly horizontal and one of them resembled a hook on which the Indian could hang his powder-horn.

Many people troubled with rheumatism and neuralgia usually are excellent barometers and can predict changeable weather by "feeling it in their bones."

And the advice of the old weather sage is "never go out during April month without being accompanied by your umbrella."

And then, for the special benefit of those who never can remember anything they read in prose, but who have a faculty for retaining jingles, the following important formulas are set out in verse:

Red in the morning the sailor's warning;
Red at night the sailor's delight.

When you see a mackerel sky,
'Twill not be many hours dry.

When the seagulls inland fly
Know ye that a storm is nigh.

A ring around the moon
Means a storm is coming soon.

When it rains before seven
'Tw'll clear before eleven.

There Was No Other.

Shortly before the Americans entered the war a bunch of sailors gathered on a street corner in Hamburg discussing the Kaiser. "If it wasn't for the —— fool emperor this war wouldn't last a minute longer," said one of the jackies. At this juncture a German officer stepped up, placed his hand on the offender and told him he was under arrest. "Why are you arresting me?" asked the jacky. "Because you have committed lese majeste," said the officer. "You have insulted the emperor." "Why, how do you know; there are a lot of emperors," argued the jacky. "There is the Emperor of Japan, Emperor of Russia and the Emperor of Austria." "Ah, but you can't fool me," shouted the incensed officer. "There is but one damn fool emperor."

Illiterate Russia.

There seems little doubt that, with the exception of one or two of the Balkan states, Russia is the most illiterate country in Europe, over 60 per cent. of the inhabitants being unable to read or write. Yet the capital has the largest university in the world, one building of which has a frontage of nearly a quarter of a mile and possesses a magnificent library.

KILL ROADSIDE WEEDS

Cultivation Stores Water in Soil for Crops.

Grasshoppers Cheaply and Quickly Destroyed by Treating With the Poisoned Bran Mixture.

(Contributed by Ontario Department of Agriculture, Toronto.)

"A STITCH in time saves nine." This is especially true in the case of weeds. When one considers that a single specimen of many kinds of weeds may produce over 10,000 seeds, and that many of such seeds may be blown far and wide by the wind, one begins to realize just what a source of contamination is a weedy roadside, a fence corner or a waste place.

In Ontario it is too common a sight in the fall of the year to see a farmer busy with his fall cultivation, attempting to clean his field and preparing a good seed bed for next year's crop. At the same time on the roadside near the field or in the fence corners or some waste place near it such weeds as Perennial Sow Thistle, Canada Thistle, Milkweed and Wild Lettuce are maturing seeds by the thousands, to be blown on to his well tilled field and reseed it with enough filth to markedly lessen his crop and increase his labor next year.

When labor is so scarce and when the maximum quantity of grain should be produced from every acre under cultivation, no man can afford to allow weeds to seed anywhere in the neighborhood of his farm. A few hours spent now and again during the summer cutting weeds on roadsides, in waste places and fence corners is a good investment for the future, which will pay handsome dividends in labor saved and increased crop.—Prof. J. E. Howitt, Ontario Agricultural College.

Conserve the Soil Moisture.

Moisture is the most important soil property. Without it a crop is absolutely impossible, no matter how much fertility may be present. With the proper amount large crops are obtained, while on the other hand if moisture is excessive or deficient the yield is diminished according as the excess or deficiency increases. If all the water necessary for the production of a full crop could be collected on the surface of the ground at one time, it would be from 18 inches to 24 inches deep, depending on the crop and the season! During the growing season only 10 or 12 inches of rain falls in Ontario, and this is only half the amount required by the crops. Hence it becomes necessary to store up in the soil as much of the winter and spring rains as possible, while at the same time guarding against excess.

The amount of water a soil may contain depends on the pore space in the soil. Sands have least pore space, loams and mucks most, and clay is intermediate. The porosity of a coarse sand is about 35 per cent., of a loam or muck about 50 per cent., and of a heavy clay about 45 per cent. From these figures it will be seen that a soil may contain nearly as much water as soil grains. Since the plant roots require air it is not desirable to have all the soil pores filled with water; some free air space must be left, hence drainage becomes necessary.

There are three ways that water may be lost; first by run-off, secondly by drainage, and thirdly by evaporation. Of these three the greatest is evaporation. It may amount to half the total rainfall. As long as the soil is wet in the spring we want all these at work, but as soon as the soil is dry enough for cultivation we want the losses cut off. And cultivation is the only direct means by which this can be done in summer. Cultivation should begin just as early as the soil is dry enough. To delay one week may cause the loss of as much as 1½ inches of water, and this is as much as falls in the month of April, a very serious matter when the needs are so great and the supply so limited. In the fall of the year cultivation should be deep to increase absorption and retention of water; in the spring shallow, in order to produce a dry layer of soil on the surface to cut off evaporation.—Prof. W. H. Day, Ontario Agricultural College.

A Cheap and Efficient Method of Controlling Grasshoppers.

Grasshoppers may be easily and cheaply controlled by poisoning with the bran mixture, which is made as follows: 20 lbs. bran, [illegible] green, [illegible] molasses, [illegible] water, 2 or 3 oranges.

The oranges and Paris green are boiled [illegible] half an hour. This should be done the night before using, and the morning squeeze the juice of the oranges into the water, run the pulp and rind through a meat chopper and add the bran and the molasses [illegible] well as then pour the liquid [illegible] bran and [illegible] every pa[illegible] sawdust [illegible] The mash should be applied early in the morning between five and seven o'clock, by scattering along over the infested field, in the fence corners and on roadsides where the insects have been observed. The above amount will suffice for four or five acres. It will be well to make an inspection three or four days later, and if there are many survivors to make a second application.

It is important to attend to this matter as early in the season as the young grasshoppers are noticed, and not to wait till they grow big and have caused a considerable amount of damage.

The same means may be employed for the control of cutworms, making the application wherever the pests are observed just before dark in the evening.—L. Caesar, B.S.A., Provincial Entomologist.

The System is Poisoned

By Failure of the Liver and Kidneys to Purify the Blood Relief Obtained by Use of Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills.

Too much eating of heavy, highly-seasoned foods and too little outdoor exercise are the most frequent causes. The liver is upset, becomes torpid and inactive, the bowels are constipated, the kidneys are overworked in an effort to get rid of the accumulating poisons and breakdown. Headache, backache, aching limbs sound a warning note, and when this is not heeded the natural development is rheumatism, lumbago, and painful and fatal forms of kidney disease.

To best overcome this condition Dr. Chase worked out in his private practice a prescription which has come to be known as Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills, because of their combined action on these filtering organs. No treatment has ever proven so successful in awakening the action of the kidneys, liver and bowels, and thereby cleansing the system of all impurities. For this reason Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills have a world-wide reputation as the most thorough cure for rheumatism, lumbago, chronic indigestion and constipation.

Mrs. Alex. Gordon, Walkerton, Ont., writes: "A few years ago I suffered from kidney and liver trouble, with pains in my back. I had heard of Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills being good for this, so I commenced taking them. I had only taken a couple of boxes when the trouble was all removed."

Mrs. M. Nickels, 192 Milton street, Sarnia, writes: "I have found Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills an excellent remedy. I suffered considerably with kidney trouble and backache, but after I had taken five boxes of the Kidney-Liver Pills they gave me relief. Since then, which was about five years ago, I keep them on hand, and use them whenever I feel the need of them."

Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills, one pill a dose, 25 cents a box, all dealers, or Edmanson, Bates & Co., Limited, Toronto. Substitutes will only disappoint. Insist on getting what you ask for.

THE METHODIST CHURCH

Rev. E. R. Young was back in his own pulpit last Sunday. At the morning service he gave a resume of the Conference recently held in Toronto which he said was one of the most interesting, if one of the longest, ever held. The Rev. E. J. Adams, of Collingwood, was elected President and the Rev. W. J. Smith, of Toronto, secretary. In gathering the returns of the year it was found that the people had been more generous than ever. By this conference alone $218,594 had been given to Missions, an increase of 26½ p.c. And for all purposes there were raised $1,371,605 an increase of nearly two hundred thousand dollars. There were 515 churches in the conference, divided into eighteen districts.

Mr. Young's subject for next Sunday evening is: "The Great Commandment, No. II."

The Sunday School is planning to have its annual picnic to Stanley Park on Wednesday, August 27th. There was a good attendance at the Sunday School, both in the Adult Bible Class as well as amongst the juniors.

The Conference changes in Orangeville District are: Laurel, Rev. Wm. Scott, M.A.; Alton, the Rev. Captain John F. G. Morris; Horning's Mills, Rev. T. W. W. Lane and Mansfield, Rev. Charles J. Bailey.

Rev. E. R. Young, B.A., was elected again to be the Chairman of this District. His assistant secretaries are: Financial Secretary, Rev. W. W. Wallace, B.D., Shelburne; Secretary of Education, Rev. H. H. Eaton, Honeywood; Secretary of Religious Education, Rev. F. G. Stonesbury, Corbetton; Secretary of Evangelism and Social Service Rev. G. Burry, B.A.

DUFFERINS DOWNED

The Orangeville Excelsiors defeated the Dufferins by a score of 4 to 3 in a [illegible] exhibition game on [illegible] Wednesday night [illegible] visitors had on their [illegible] and showed [illegible] improvement on their form in the game of the preceding week. At first the Dufferins had their [illegible] the game, but the green [illegible] department was running [illegible] and luck, and while they [illegible] frequently the rubber was either [illegible] or else went wild. With the scores standing 4 to 0 in their favor half way through the final quarter it looked as if the visitors had the game on ice. Dufferins, however, made a whirlwind finish running in [illegible] goals in the last few minutes. A large crowd witnessed the game. [illegible] got an eye plugged early in the match and was obliged to retire. [illegible] Firth, who took his place, prov[illegible] a very capable goal tender and has the marks of a "comer." The juvenile spectators did not approve of the way Referee Dan Kennedy handled the match and handed him some hot [illegible] after the game. The boys are reminded that courteous treatment of visitors is a first requisite whether we approve of their actions or not. The good name of the town is more important than the winning of a lacrosse game.

CARD OF THANKS

The widow and family of the late John Haddock, of Mono, desire to express their thanks and gratitude to their neighbors and other friends for the kindness and sympathy shown them at the time of and since the death of the late Mr. Haddock.

MRS. THOS. BRYAN

Her neighbors and a large circle of friends in the district will be grieved to learn of the death of Mrs. Elizabeth Bryan which took place at her home, lot 2, 6th line, Amaranth, early on Tuesday morning after an illness of about two months duration. Her demise was due to a general breakdown rather than to any particular ailment. The deceased woman, who was 76 years and 10 months of age, was the widow of the late Thos. Bryan, who died in August, 1912, almost seven years ago. Her maiden name was Elizabeth Webb, and she was a daughter of the late John Webb, of Adjala Township. After their marriage about 55 years ago, Mr. and Mrs. Bryan lived in King and Toronto Gore townships a number of years. They came to Amaranth about 42 years ago, settling on lot 2, 6th line, which they cleared and by years of patient toil and industry converted into a fine farm property. The deceased was a woman of many excellent qualities and her loss will be keenly felt by her family and the people of the neighborhood in which the greater part of her life was spent. She is survived by a family of nine sons and one daughter, namely, John Bryan, Ex-Reeve of Amaranth, James, William, Charles, Robert and Hugh Bryan and Mrs. Thos. H. Keys, all of Amaranth, and Messrs. George and Richard Bryan, farmers in Erin twp. Her loss is also mourned by two brothers, Messrs. Wm. Webb, of Wingham, and John Webb, of Amaranth. The funeral will be held from her late residence to Greenwood cemetery at 2.30 o'clock this (Thursday) afternoon. Rev. J. A. Reddon and Rev. W. F. Roach, of Laurel, will conduct the services at the house and grave.

No Flour In Explosives.

Substantial saving of foodstuffs and feeding stuffs formerly used in making explosives for domestic purposes is indicated by replies received from manufacturers of the United States Bureau of Mines, which has been conducting an investigation of the problem.

Elimination of wheat flour from manufacture of high explosives other than "permissibles," which the bureau is about to request of manufacturers, will effect a saving of more than 16,000 barrels, computed on the basis of the 1917 consumption. This flour has been used in making dynamite and other explosives employed in mining and engineering operations in this country. "Permissible" explosives, some of which contain foodstuffs, are those that have passed official tests by the Bureau of Mines at Pittsburg, Pa., and are recommended for use in coal mining.

He Felt Safe.

While his mother was away little Willie didn't say his prayers. When his mother came back from her visit there was a reckoning. "Now, wh; didn't you say your prayers, Willie?" "Well, mother, it was like this. I forgot to say them first night, an' nothing happened. An' I didn't say them the next night, an' nothing happened; so I've made up my mind I'll never say them again if nothing happens." And then something happened.

CARD OF THANKS

I wish to tender my sincere and grateful thanks to our neighbors and other friends for the great kindness and consideration shown us during the long illness of my husband and for the sympathy expressed in such generous measure since his death.

HOW TO LIVE LONG

Many ailments find their beginning in a torpid sluggish condition of the liver, kidneys and bowels. As a matter of fact you can add years to the length of your life as well as comfort and happiness by using Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills to keep these organs regular and active.

A disastrous fire was narrowly averted in Dundalk when smoke was seen coming from the cellar of Russell Bros. hardware store. THE BANNER

ORANGEVILLE, JULY 10, 1919

EDITORIAL NOTES.

It is significant that not a single sympathetic general strike in the West has proved successful. The inevitable conclusion is that this class of strike is recognized as unnecessary and unfair even by many of the labor men themselves.

The R-34 is some airship alright. An aircraft that will carry thirty men, make a given point after crossing the Atlantic and then land in safety has surely passed the exerimental stage. The exploit of the R-34 illustrates the marvellous progress that is being made in the mighty task of conquering the air.

Willard made a poor showing in the prize ring the other day. Accounts of the fight agree that he was punished rather severely during the short time he lasted. Even if he was he has plenty of balm for his sores in the share of the big wad of prize money coming to him. Many a man has taken a worse licking for daring to stand up for his rights in what he thought a just quarrel, and has come out of the fray with nothing but bruises and humiliation of body and spirit. Boxing is advocated by many as a form of manly sport, but when it is made a matter of fighting for the money there is in it, with all kinds of side betting as well, it is hard to see where there is much manliness.

The appeal that is being made just now in behalf of the Picton True Blue Orphanage should meet with a hearty and generous response from all Protestants and especially from members of the Orange Order. In a sense the Orphanage has always been the child of the Orange Order, and now that the needs of the situation make a larger and a better equipped building an absolute necessity the Orange Order should see that the required money is forthcoming. It is a matter of first importance that the care and education of the children should be looked after in a thorough manner. Orphaned and friendless children born of Protestant parents should be reared in a home where they will receive instruction in the religion of their parents. The Picton Orphanage has provided such a home for many such boys and girls. It has done a splendid work in the past. Orangemen and Protestants generally have it in their power to greatly widen its sphere of usefulness by supplying the funds that are so urgently needed at the present time.

A correspondent to one of the Toronto dailies writes: "The birthrate is falling off; men realize that to have a family means a lifetime of anxiety and worry, and the fact is, they are really looked down upon by those who have none, because they are always poor, are often in debt, and are unable to put up such a good show as the man with none; which shows that there is something out of joint somewhere." There may be an element of truth in this writer's plaint, but it is surely an exaggeration to say that people with families are looked down upon by thoe who are without children. It would be a sad and disheartening reflection upon present day society if such were the case. Children may and do bring trouble and anxiety to their parents, but the brightness, the life and the atmosphere of love that they impart to the home is surely an abundant compensation. The married couples who are without children may be able to live more cheaply and may have more time for social and other outside pleasures, but there will come a time in life when these will no longer attract and satisfy. We may be wrong, but we have often thought that the childless home must be dull and oftttimes lonely when mature years come to a couple, who in youth preferred not to accept the burden and responsibility of rearing a family

The Banner respectfully suggests that the Town Council take a jaunt out to Greenwood cemetery one of these fine evenings. We are not attempting to convey the impression that our Councillors are dead ones, who should take the trip we have prescribed by the undertaker's route, for we believe that individually and collectively they are all quite alive and anxious to do whatever they can to further the interests of the people they represent. Nevertheless a trip to the cemetery might do a lot of good, for it would give our representatives an opportunity to see how much natural beauty these few acres of land possess at this season of the year. They would also be able to see how sadly this beauty is marred by the weeds, thistles, rank grass and other summer growth that has been allowed to spring forth and flourish without any let or hindrance. In many places the ground is covered with a tangle of rank grass and weeds that reaches well above the knees of the pedestrian who visits the cemetery. This unkempt condition detracts seriously from the appearance of this beautiful resting place of the departed. What is the use of having flowers, beautiful maples and stately pines and a lovely expanse of upland and dale if the appearance of it all is to be marred by neglect to keep the ground clean and free from unsightly weeds. At present the caretaker's duties seem to begin and end with the digging and filling in of graves, unless any of the plot holders make some private arrangement to have him care for their plots. This should not be, for even if every plot in the cemetery were kept in model order there would still be acres of land from which the grass and other growth should be cleared if the cemetery is to look as a well kept cemetery should. Perhaps the caretaker is not very much to blame, for he is only paid a paltry salary, which would ill compensate him for the time he would have to spend putting and keeping the cemetery in order. Let the fault be where it will, the present condition of the cemetery does Orangeville no credit and the Council should see that the necessary steps are taken to put the place in proper order.

WHO MAY VOTE?

It is now possible to state definitely particulars as to the women's vote in the coming referendum on the Ontario Temperance Act and the amendments thereto. This will be the first general Provincial vote at which the women will have a chance to voice their opinion on a public question. Those entitled to vote on the referendum will be all men and women who are British subjects resident in Ontario, who are over 21 years of age. The municipal voters' lists will not be used in this election, but an enumeration of all electors entitled to vote will be made within the next few weeks by enumerators specially appointed for this purpose. The enumeration will commence at once in the larger cities and a little later in the towns and townships. There will be more than the usual scrutiny of the lists prepared by the enumerators this time. Ordinarily the organizers of the political parties watch the lists to see that no one is left off, also that no one is put on who is not properly entited to a vote. In addition to the organizers of he political parties scrutinizing the lists, the temperance workers and representatives of the liquor interests will also scan the lists with great care. It is desirable that every woman entitled to vote should receive assurance from some reliable source that her name appears on the lists of the enumerators for her polling subdivision.

MILITARY NOTES.

The home of Mr. and Mrs. James White, of Whittington, is rejoicing in the return from overseas of their son, Divisional Signaller Ernest White, who arrived home on Monday morning. White had just completed his third year in Arts at Victoria University, when he joined the colors in May, 1917. He went overseas in December of the same year, but was retained in England, where he was engaged in office work at Headquarters in Bramshott Camp. He is looking and feeling well.

Pte. Roy Stinson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Hiram Stinson, John street, reached home from overseas on Monday night. Stinson enlisted in a Forestry Battalion in Toronto early in 1918, went to Halifax shortly afterwards and remained in that city for six months. He sailed for England in July and was stationed at Witley Camp where he was engaged in staff work until the end of the war. He made the home voyage on the Cassandra and arrived in Montreal on Saturday morning.

Arthur Willson arrived home from overseas on Saturday last and is spending a few days with Mr. and Mrs. D. Macpherson. Mr. Willson, who is a brother of Mrs. Macpherson, went overseas with an Alberta Battalion in 1916 and subsequently transferred to the Y.M.C.A. Headquarters in France. Arthur, as his oldtime friends still call him, attended High School in Orangeville a number of years ago. His former friends here are all delighted to see him looking so well after his overseas experience.

Gunner Gordon W. Mossop, son of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Mossop, John St., who reached Canada on the Mauretania a few days ago, arrived in town Monday morning. Mossop enlisted in Toronto with No. 5 Co. 48th Highlanders on January 3, 1918. He went to Halifax on January 20th and was stationed in that city until July 8th when he sailed overseas. Shortly after arriving in England he was transferred to a Battery which was training at Witley camp, where he was employed on staff work until the end of the war. An older brother, Gunner Harry Mossop, arrived home about three months ago.

Sergeant Alvin Scott, one of the three soldier sons of Mr. Chas. Scott, of Melville Cross, arrived home on Monday night of last week after doing his bit for King and Country in the late war. Sgt. Scott enlisted in, and went overseas with the 164th Dufferin-Halton Batt. He was subsequently transferred to the Divisional Signallers and reverted to the rank of private in order to get to the front, but regained his stripes on the battlefield in France. After going to the front he was transferred to the 38th Batt. with which he served until the end of the war. He was slightly wounded in one of the numerous actions in which he participated, but was only out of the line for a short time. He returned to Canada on the Olympic with the last of the 4th Division and received his discharge at Ottawa. A younger brother, Fred Scott, arrived home a couple of months ago and the third soldier of the family, Harold Scott, who was seriously wounded, is still in the hospital in England.

Driver Herb Laverty, younger son of Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Laverty, who was one of the soldiers who returned to Canada on the Caronia, arrived home on Saturday night. Herb. enlisted in the 71st Battery in Toronto in March, 1918, went overseas in April and was in training at Witley Camp until the end of the war. He has grown taller and heavier since leaving Orangeville and returns home in the best of health.

Pte. Leonard Cavers, who enlisted on August 14th, 1914, and went overseas with the First Contingent, was given a rousing welcome on his arrival in Alton, his home town, on Thursday evening. Pte. Cavers is looking fine and fit after his 49 months service in France. He was one of the first boys to join, who signed up with the 36th Peel Regiment after the commencement of the war. He went overseas with the 4th Battalion and crossed to France in February 1915, where he served with the First Division in the Ambulance Branch of the Canadian Army Service Corps. He was slightly wounded by a bursting shell on April 23rd, 1915, but was out of the line only a short time. Apart from this he had the good fortune to come through unhurt. Cavers, who formerly lived in Orangeville, has grown considerably stouter, and is looking the picture of good health. He was accompanied home by a winsome Scotch bride to whom he was married less than a year ago. The happy couple came over on the Grampian, arriving at Quebec last Wednesday.

SERVICE FOR ORANGEMEN

Orangemen to the number of seventy-five attended divine service in St. Mark's church on Sunday morning. The Brethren had the pleasure of listening to a very fine sermon by Rev. Mr. Dumas, the acting rector. Owing to the rain the parade was not quite as large as usual. The Brethren met and formed in order at L.O. L. 695 Hall. The lodge fife and drum band, led by Mr. Thos. Presley, headed the procession to and from the church.

GETTING BACK TO NORMAL

In the course of a letter to The Banner Mr. S. T. Newton, an oldtime Mono boy, who is now Director of Agricultural Extension Service in the Province of Manitoba, pens the following interesting paragraphs regarding the recent Winnipeg strike:—

Things are getting back to normal in the industrial world, but there are hundreds of workmen who will not get their jobs back by reason of a great deal of contemplated work not being proceeded with. All the firms, as well as the City and Government, have made a clean sweep of the agitator, and he will have considerable difficulty in again getting a footing in any line of work.

As an instance of the way the average Winnipeg Citizen looked on the strike, the President of the University and many of the Professors went into Barracks as Privates.

Harvey Bowles, formerly of Orangeville, Sand Hill, and other important places around Alton, was Secretary of the Citizens' Committee of 1000, and as he frequently forgot all about sleep, meals and rest, he would not stand anything like the chance he used to in a beauty show. However, he says it was worth it and was not any worse than what thousands of citizens were doing in guarding fire boxes all night in the rain and wind, or in manning the fire waggons, the water works, etc.

Winnipeg has certainly gone thro' quite an ordeal, but law and order won a decisive victory and one which may be of considerable benefit to other parts of Canada.

ERNEST E. M'PHERSON

The death of Ernest E. McPherson, only son of Mr. and Mrs. Matthew McPherson, West Broadway, occurred rather suddenly at the family residence about two o'clock on Friday morning. Deceased had been delicate from childhood, but for the past couple of years had enjoyed much better health than usual. Early last spring he was taken seriously ill with influenza, which further undermined his health and left him in a weakened condition. Although under constant medical supervision and given every care and attention that the loving solicitude of his parents could suggest he did not rally satisfactorily. Owing to his weakness he suffered a good deal during the recent hot spell and the extreme heat probably contributed to hasten his death. His end was calm, peaceful and free from suffering. Deceased, who was 26 years and 9 months of age, was of a quiet, retiring disposition and was deeply attached to his parents and home. He was an honorable, good living young man who enjoyed the respect and confidence of all who knew him well. He was well educated having taken a course in Orangeville High School a few years ago, and was also well versed in music, of which he was passionately fond. He had mastered the piano and violin and played both instruments with more than ordinary skill. His untimely demise is a cruel blow to his parents, who have the sincere sympathy of their neighbors, friends and the community at large in their great loss. There was a large attendance of citizens, friends and former neighbors from Amaranth at the funeral, which was held to Greenwood cemetery at 2.30 o'clock on Monday afternoon. Rev. W. M. Morris, the family pastor, conducted the services at the house and grave. The pallbearers were six young men, former neighbors and school companions, Wilfrid and Louis Grosskurth and Stanley McPherson, of Laurel, and Arthur Macpherson, Douglas Torrie and Horace McGuire, of Orangeville. A number of beautiful floral offerings bore mute but impressive testimony to the sorrow and sympathy of friends of the young man and the bereaved parents.

WEAK MOTHERS REGAIN HEALTH

Through the New Blood Dr. Williams' Pink Pills Actually Make.

No mother should allow nervous weakness to get the upper hand of her. If she does worry will mar her work in the home and torment her in body and mind. Day after day spent amid the same surroundings is enough to cause fretfulness and depression. But there are other causes, as every mother knows, that tend to make her nerves run down. A change would benefit her jaded system, and rest might im prove her blood so as to give the nerves a better tone. But rest and change are often impossible, and it is then that all worn out women should take a short treatment with Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, which make new blood, rich with the elements on which the nerves thrive. In this way these pills restore regular health, increased energy, new ambition and steady nerve. There is a lesson for other women in the case of Mrs. Harry P. Snider, Tweed, Ont., who says: —"Five years ago to my twin babies were born, and I was left very weak and very miserable, hardly fit to do anything. The doctor gave me medicine ,but it did not help me. Then I tried another doctor, but with no better results. One day I went home to my mother, telling her how miserable I felt, and that the doctor's medicine had not done me any good. Mother asked me why I did not try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, and as I was glad to try anything that might help me, I got three boxes when I went back home. By the time these were used there was no doubt they were helping me, and I got three more boxes. But I did not need them all, for by the time the fifth box was used, I was entirely cured, and never felt better in my life. Now when I hear people talk about feeling weak or miserable I always recommend Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, and tell what they did for me, and in similar cases I shall continue to recommend them."

At the first sign that the blood is out of order take Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, and note the speedy improvement they make in the appetite, health and spirits. You can get these pills through any medicine dealer or by mail at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50 from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont

MRS. R. G. SPEERS

On Friday of last week about 6 p.m. there passed away an aged and beloved pioneer resident of Battleford in the person of Mrs. R. G. Speers. Death came as a release from suffering which is rarely the lot of humanity. Notwithstanding her continued agony, however, she maintained that cheerfulness which was her characteristic, and which had won for her throughout her lifetime the love of all who came in contact.

To the aged husband and other relatives the sincere sympathy of the community is extended in their very deep bereavement.—Battleford, Sask. Press.

KILLED AT REGINA

Herbert Gibson, Former Caledon Man, Touched Wire Carrying a Voltage of 13,000.

Herbert Gibson, formerly of Caledon, died in the Regina general hospital on June 13th from injuries sustained through coming in contact with a live electric wire carrying a current of 13,000 volts. Some time during the night an electrical connection between the city and the pumping plant, of which Gibson was in charge, went out of commission. About seven o'clock in the morning Gibson climbed a rack to make the necessary repairs. He was working at a spark plug when his toe came in contact with the high voltage wire. The severe shock caused him to fall from the rack to the ground a distance of thirty feet. Gibson was a very heavy man weighing about 250 pounds, and consequently fell with great force His back was badly injured, he suffered internal injuries and he was badly burned about the right arm, shoulder and left leg by the electrical shock. The unfortunate man was rushed to the hospital, where he died a few hours later. Deceased was manager of the City farm at Boggy Creek, about 9 miles from Regina.

Gibson was a son of Mr. and Mrs. Alexander Gibson, Caledon, and was born on lot 11, 1st line, west, in that township. He was about 45 years of age. When a young man he learned the trade of blacksmith with James Maxwell, who ran a shop in Belfountain. He was an expert mechanic and later in life engaged in bridge construction work on a large scale. He had lived in the West for a number of years and built a number of large bridges on the C.N.R. lines. Some seven years ago he married Miss Bathgate, of 429 Runnymeade Road, West Toronto, his wife being a graduate nurse prior to her marriage. Besides his widow he is survived by one son, a bright boy of six years. He is also survived by his mbother, who resides in Alton, two brothers, W. S. Gibson, on the homestead in Caledon, and C. H. Gibson, of Fergus, and two sisters, Mrs. Sandy Gibson, of Wapella, Sask., and Mrs. E. Newstead, of Port Hope. It is unnecessary to state that Mrs. Gibson and little son have the heartfelt sympathy of the many friends of the family in Caledon in the great loss they have sustained. The remains were brought east for burial, the interment taking place in the family plot in Caledon Cemetery. There was a large attendance at the funeral, which was held from the C. P. R. station at Caledon to the Cemetery. Rev. J. Burkholder conducted the service at the grave. A large number of floral offerings bore silent testimony to the sorrow and sympathy of friends of the family. The pallbearers were James Warnock, John Warnock, J. H. Gibson, John Gibson, T. Murray and F. Johnston.

Deceased was a man who was highly respected by all who knew him. He was a very handy man, a skilful mechanic and took considerable pride in attempting to do tasks which had baffled other men. One of the best tributes to his ability is found in the fact that he generally got through with anything he undertook to perform. He was a man of considerable enterprise and was never afraid to spend money in order to make money. For a number of years prior to his unfortunate death he was a staunch member of Regina Presbyterian Church. Since his death his widow has received the following message of condolence from the Mayor of the City of Regina showing in what high regard Mr. Gibson was held by the City Council:—

Regina, Sask., June 14th, 1919.

Mrs. H. Gibson,
c-o. James Bathgate,
429 Runnymeade Road,
West Toronto, Ontario.

Dear Madam:—

I regret exceedingly that as Mayor of this City I am called upon to write this letter of condolence to you in your sad bereavement. The following resolution, passed by a standing vote, expresses the heartfelt sympathy of the Members of the City Council with you in your great loss:

"It was moved by Alderman Campkin that this Committee place on record its sincere regret at the most unfortunate accident which resulted in the death of Mr. H. Gibson, one of the most valued employees of the City, that the Mayor be requested to send a letter expressing the condolences of the members of Council with Mrs. Gibson and as a mark of respect this Committee do now adjourn. The motion was carried by the whole of the Committee standing."

As a Commissioner acting with Commissioner Thornton and knowing the work of Mr. Gibson I cannot speak too highly of his loyalty to the City. With him the interests of the City came first at all times and I know full well that in his death the City of Regina has sustained a great loss.

Assuring you of my deepest sympathy in your sorrow, I am

Yours sincerely,
H. BLACK,
Mayor.

CALEDON GARDEN PARTY

WOMEN PIRATES.

Strange Caroers of Anne Bonney and Mary Read.

Women have succeeded in passing themselves off as men not infrequently, but, so far as is known, there have been but two women pirates—Anne Bonney and Mary Read, who were captured something over a century ago in the Caribbean Sea, charged with "having piratical intentions." It was not known at the time that they were not men, and accordingly they were sentenced to meet death in the manner generally meted out to gentlemen of their profession, when they confessed their sex, and they were in due cours punished less severely.

The woman Bonney was the daughter of a Carolina planter, who had disowned her by reason of her marriage to a sailor. Even at that time Anne had a predilection for man's attire, inasmuch as at the hour of her elopement she employed it for the purpose of evading her angry parent. Eventually she shipped with her husband and shared in his piratical adventures. Among her shipmates, who were ignorant of her sex and also of her relation to the captain, Anne attained a reputation for courage.

Now, curious as it may seem, the ship wherein this female pirate practiced the arts of the freebooter was one day boarded by several strangers, among them another lady pirate of the name of Mary Read. It followed that the women became fast friends, though at first each was ignorant of the sex of the other. This discovery that each was a woman came about through the declaration on the part of Mary of a romantic attachment for the Bonney person.

The circumstances attending the early career of Mary Read were somewhat curious. She had been raised as a boy, made to wear boy's clothing, and, indeed, regarded on every hand as a real boy. Mary, on attaining the age of nineteen, became in turn a sailor, a soldier and in the end the wife of a pirate, just as had Anne Bonney. When Mary's real sex was discovered by the regiment to which she and her pirate-to-be husband belonged at the time, a wedding was celebrated, and for a while the two kept a hostelry known as "The Three Horseshoes."

Shortly after the two women met they became widows, and naturally enough cast their lots together in a buccaneer crew. Both were admired for the courage they evinced in their unusual calling and both were greatly loved by their seamen. Mary Read was an expert swordswoman and fought more than one duel. She died in prison. Anne Bonney was in due time restored to her family.

An Old Score to Settle.

There is in Paderewski a certain sunny malice, an irrelevant humor which spurs his own strength and strikes a laugh from the most weary war worker or associate, writes Caroline Dawes Appleton in Collier's Weekly.

There is a man in France who has fought with the silver eagle blazoned upon his scarlet shoulder strap, who has smiled in the face of danger at the memory of Paderewski's whimsical admonition as he bade him good-bye at the gate of a New York pier.

"Do something for me!" the master's voice rose over the din of motor trucks and the shrieking sirens of river traffic. The embarking Pole turned back, expectant, Paderewski was holding hard to the brim of his soft hat and cupping his voice against the wind and noise. "If you get a chance to pick your German, try to find the man who bought my 'Minuet!' He only paid me 200 marks for it, and he got all rights!"

It rankles, that forty odd dollars for the fairy creation of his youth. It was written in 1885, on a summer's holiday at St. Malo, in Brittany, in those far-off days when fame was a chimeric dream and his worldly wealth trembled beneath the strain of an extra coffee in a modest cafe.

1919 Eclipses.

Touching on the eclipses and comets for 1919, a writer in English Mechanic and World Science says:

"There will be two eclipses of the sun, in this year, and one of the moon. The first of the solar eclipses (on May 29) is interesting, for it will be total, and the totality will be unusually long, and visible from accessible places in Brazil and Africa. The second solar eclipse will happen on November 22, and will be annular. The path of central eclipse in this case also crosses the Atlantic, and the ring phenomenon may be seen from the West Indies to West Africa. A partial eclipse will be visible from the British Isles, but in not very favorable circumstances, as it happens near sunset. The Luna eclipse on November 7 is visible from Greenwich, but less than a fifth of the disk will be obscured. The return of three periodic comets is expected during the year—Kopff's, Holmes', and Finlay's, all in the autumn."

Monkeys Pick Nuts.

The intelligence of the pig-tailed macaque of the Malays is made use of by the natives to do various useful tasks. The monkey on a long cord is led to a cocoanut tree, which it rapidly ascends. It then lays hold of a nut, and if the owner judges the fruit to be ripe for plucking he shouts to the monkey, which then twists the nut round and round till the stalk is broken and lets it fall to the ground. If the monkey catches hold of an unripe fruit, the owner tugs the cord and the monkey tries another.

Roast Mutton.

More than 80,000 carcasses of sheep and lambs, for export, were destroyed by fire in refrigerating stores at Shepparton, Victoria, Australia.

Really?

Even a realistic writer sometimes realizes that he cannot realize on his realism.

FAX COMING TO CALEDON

The Presbyterians of Knox Church, Caledon, have engaged James Fax and Duncan Cowan, two of the best known entertainers before the Ontario public to-day, for their big Garden Party on Mr. Thos. Smith's grounds on the night of July 12th. This is always one of the big events of the season and this year's promises to be no exception to the rule.

IN MEMORIAM.

In loving memory of Charles J. and Johnnie McArthur, who died at Caledon, Jan. 8th and 10th, 1919.

Six months have passed, our hearts still sore,
Each day we miss you more and more
There is no link Death cannot sever,
Love and Remembrance last forever.

A bitter grief, a shock severe,
To part with those, we loved so dear,
Loving Brothers, true and kind,
Beautiful memories left behind.

We have to mourn the loss of those,
We did our best to save,
Beloved on earth, regretted, gone,
Remembered in the grave

Some day, some time, our eyes shall see,
The faces kept in memory,
Some day their hands, shall clasp our hands.
Just over in the morning land

Home to Jesus, Home to Glory,
Every wave of trouble o'er,
'Tis sweet to know, we'll meet again
Where parting is no more.
And that the ones we loved so well,
Have only gone before.

Mother, Sisters and Brother.

IN MEMORIAM.

Lines in loving memory of our dear daughter, Florence Pearl Cosoop, who departed this life June 25th, 1914:—

Days of sadness still come o'er us,
Tears of sorrow often flow,
Memory keeps our loved one near us,
Whom God claimed five years ago.

Dear is the place where she is laid,
Sweet is the memory that ne'er will fade,
Flowers will wither, leaves fade and die,
Though some have forgotten-never will I.

I think of you in silence,
And your sweet name I oft recall,
But there is nothing left to answer,
But your photo on the wall.

When Pearlie breathed her last farewell,
The stroke meant more than tongue can tell,
The world seems quite another place
Without the smile of our darling's face.

Father and Mother.

CONSTANT PAIN AFTER EATING

The Tortures of Dyspepsia Corrected by "Fruit-a-tives"

ST. MARTIN'S, N.B.

"For two years, I suffered tortures from Severe Dyspepsia. I had constant pains after eating; pains down the sides and back; and horrible bitter stuff often came up in my mouth.

I tried doctors, but they did not help me. But as soon as I started taking 'Fruit-a-tives', I began to improve and this medicine, made of fruit juices, relieved me when everything else failed."

CONSOLIDATED SCHOOLS

A meeting was held in the Hall at Corbetton on June 18th, in the interest of consolidated schools. Mr. R. C. Thompson occupied the chair. Dr. Sinclair of the Department of Education, Toronto, and Inspector Liddy of Dufferin were the speakers of the evening. Inspector Liddy spoke first and gave a very interesting address on consolidation and the local conditions which favoured it. Dr. Sinclair, who has made a study of consolidation, spoke next and illustrated his address with lantern slides. He stated clearly the advantages and disadvantages of consolidation and voiced the popular demand for a rural school which would give the country pupil the advantages of the pupil of the town or city.

The addresses were followed by a general discussion. Mr. Jas. Aldcorn spoke on the consolidated schools of Humiota, Manitoba, and was favourably impressed by their work. Rev. G. W. Rose, Mr. Woods and others took part in the discussion. A resolution was passed, unanimously, to have a general survey of the district made in the interests of consolidation. A committee consisting of trustees and secretaries of sections 14, 13, 6, and 15 was appointed, with Mr. Woods as chairman, to look after the matter. There were about one hundred and seventy five persons at the meeting, the majority of whom were ratepayers.—Dundalk Herald.

EARLY PERIODICALS

Leading Papers and Journals in This District Back in the Sixties.

It may startle the average newspaper reader to be told that away back in one of the little dreamy villages of Ontario, you will find the average reader a better informed man or woman than the city reader, who carries home two or three evening papers, skims over them all and gets but a surface impression of what he has read. Back in the sixties in more than one home in Mono Mills the Daily Globe or Leader was read every evening by the family, who would be loath to miss the joy of anticipation in watching the mail wagon with its limping horse come over the top of Henderson's Hill and rattle its way to the postoffice door, then getting the morning paper (about midday) and poring over the columns of news, views and reviews.

A Family Library.

Robt. Bonner's New York Ledger, the best weekly of the period; Harper's Monthly Magazine, and Godey's Monthly Magazine (the latter of interest to the ladies only), were diligently read. Year in and year out those issues were received. Dickens' novels were procured promptly as they appeared from the publishers and "Vanity Fair" was read and reread. The volumes the family library boasted were perhaps few in number, but they were priceless in their educative value, not only as affording a means of establishing a certain information, but as an influence in creating a taste for good reading, and literary style that different members of these families to a greater or lesser degree acquired. Goldsmith's Works, Macaulay's Essays and History of England, a copy of Addison, Leigh Hunt's Essays, Knight's "Half Hours with the Best Authors," these were some of the books read and digested. There were not in those quiet days the thousand exciting allurements at hand that divert the attention of young and old from studious life nowadays. The more intellectual among the people may have had fewer opportunities for self improvement than would surround them to-day, but they thought seriously and assimilated what they read; thus, unconsciously perhaps, moulding their own habits of thought as well as their general character along the most desirable lines.

Early Publications.

The two leading daily papers published in Upper Canada were the Globe, presided over by the Hon. George Brown, assisted by his brother, Gordon Brown; and the Leader, of which James Beatty was the owner and editor. About the only reminder to-day that such a paper was ever in existence remains in the name of Leader lane, off King street east, where the office of publication was. Both these journals were ably conducted, and no greater battles of wits have ever been carried on in Canada than raged between Brown and Beatty through their respective publications, and their arguments were loyally absorbed by their respective followers. Somehow, the very multiplicity of newspapers and magazines at the present day serves in a measure to defeat what is presumably the purpose of their existence.

SELF POISONING VERY PREVALENT

Auto-Intoxication, Or Slow Self Poisoning, Cause of Most Ill Health and Disease.

Advanced medical authorities assert that auto-intoxication is the foundation of most of the ills and diseases to which the human flesh is heir.

This condition is nothing more nor less than the slow self-poisoning of the vital organs produced by the excessive mental and physical strain which we are forced to endure, which renders the organs lame and inactive, and permits toxins—actual poisons—to be generated within one's own body.

Usually the trouble starts in the intestines; sometimes it starts in the stomach, liver or kidneys, but in any case the blame lies with the faulty method of living, and may be traced to over-eating, excessive nervous strain, lack of exercise, or other causes. At any rate it is the more important organs that suffer the final damage and when they falter or fail in their duties the body fills up with acids and poisons, and the victim often yields to their baneful influences. Bright's disease, heart trouble, high blood pressure, catarrhal affections, and other troubles are frequently the result of self poisoning or auto-intoxication.

A tired draggy feeling of the body, a sluggish mind, and dull memory, intense nervousness, headache, stomach and bowel troubles, poor circulation, imperfect digestion, constipation and despondency are common symptoms of auto-intoxication; and nine out of every ten of the American people are likely to be so affected.

Tanlac, the powerful reconstructive and systematic tonic was designed especially to overcome these very troubles. There is not a single portion of the body that is not benefited by the helpful work of this celebrated preparation, which begins its action by stimulating the digestive and assimilative organs, thereby enriching the blood and envigorating the entire system. Composed of the most beneficial roots and herbs known to science it enables the stomach to thoroughly digest the food, thereby permitting the assimilable products to be converted into blood, bone and muscle. It overcomes that great exciting cause of disease, weakness. It renders the body vigorous and elastic, it keeps the mind clear and energetic, and throws off the symptoms of nervousness and indigestion. It builds up the constitution weakened by disease or mental and physical over-work quickens convalescence of the invalid, and is a sure and unfailing source of comfort to those who are suffering from the effects of nervousness and overwork.

DEFENDED BOXING.

Lord Palmerston Was Fond of the Manly Art.

The fifty-third anniversary of the death of the great British statesman, Lord Palmerston, which has just been observed in England, recalls the celebrated Prime Minister's remarks on boxing.

In the 50's, when pugilism was being rigidly suppressed in Great Britain, a hot debate on the subject added interest to the proceedings in the House of Lords. In replying to one of the critics of boxing, Lord Palmerston said:

"There may be a difference of opinion, as a matter of taste, whether pugilism affords a spectacle one would wish to see, or whether it is calculated to excite disgust. Some people look upon it as an exhibition of manly courage characteristic of the people of the country. I saw the other day a long extract from a French newspaper describing a ring fight as a type of national character for endurance, patience under suffering, of indomitable perseverance in determined effort, and holding it up as a specimen of the manly, admirable qualities of the British race.

"All this is, of course, merely a matter of opinion; but, really setting aside the legal technicalities of the case, I do not perceive why any number of persons who assemble to witness a prize fight are more guilty of a breach of the peace than an equal number who assemble to witness a balloon ascent. There is no breach of the peace. They go to see a fight, and when that sight is over they return, and there is no injury done to anyone.

"As to the danger to those who perform themselves, I imagine the danger to life in the case of those who go up in balloons is certainly greater than that of two combatants who hit each other as hard as they can."

PREVENT POTATO ROT

Spraying With Bordeaux Mixture Proven Very Effective.

Machinery Must Be Kept Well Oiled If It Is to Work Efficiently—An Expert Discusses the Question From Every Angle.

(Contributed by Ontario Department of Agriculture, Toronto.)

LATE Blight and Rot of Potatoes can be prevented by spraying with Bordeaux mixture. Commence spraying when the plants are from five to eight inches high and keep the foliage covered with Bordeaux throughout the season. Take special care to see that the spraying is very thoroughly done if the weather is at all damp about the 15th of July, as Blight often begins about this time. Add a poison when necessary for potato beetles—arsenate of lead paste 3½ lbs. to each 40 gals. of the liquid spray, or Paris green 2 lbs. to 40 gals., or a mixture of 2 lbs. arsenate of lead paste and 1 lb. of Paris green to 40 gals. From three to seven applications should be made, depending upon the season—the wetter the weather the larger the number. Do not put off spraying because it looks like rain. If the spray is on the plants half an hour before the rain comes it will be dry and sufficient of it will stick to prevent infection, which takes place during or soon after rain. Such spraying should prevent not only Late Blight and Rot but also Early Blight and potato beetles.

Thorough spraying only is effective. If thorough spraying is to be done sufficient Bordeaux mixture must be used. From 50 to 150 gals per acre should be applied at each spraying, and when the plants are large not less than 100 gallons per acre should be used. Thorough spraying means the covering of every portion of the potato plant with Bordeaux mixture in the form of a fine mist. This can only be done when the solution is applied with good pressure, so as to insure covering every portion of the plant. The best results from spraying are obtained when potato sprayers are used which are fitted with a T-joint attachment so as to insure covering both surfaces of the leaves at each spraying. When the plants are large it has been found that it pays to go over each row twice at each spraying.—Prof. J. E. Howitt, O. A. College, Guelph.

The Importance of Keeping Machinery Properly Oiled.

The importance of keeping machinery properly oiled may be better realized when we try to compute, in dollars and cents, the annual sacrifice in machine efficiency through friction. Carelessness in lubrication may easily reduce the efficiency of a machine fully fifty per cent. At the same time the machine itself is wearing out faster, on account of the needless friction, than owing to the real work done.

The microscope reveals the fact that the surface of the most highly polished shaft ever made is as rough and untrue as a rough casting appears to the unaided eye. In practice it is not possible to make a metal surface that is absolutely smooth, incompressible, or even a true circle, hence inequalities of pressure at the bearings, grinding and tearing of the metal fibres, causing friction, producing factors of inefficiency and wear and tear. Though these faults of construction cannot be avoided, we can, in a great measure, overcome the effect in machinery, by judicious application of a lubricating agent.

The lubricant consists of minute balls or globules. These readily insinuate themselves between the faces in mutual contact forming a cushion, keeping the metals apart. Its use is not only to reduce friction, but also to carry away whatever excess of heat is generated. All liquids have not sufficient sustaining powers to be used as efficient lubricants. Some cannot be retained between the metals; others do not cling together persistently enough. To resist the tendency of the metal to tear the lubricating film apart, these globules must have a good deal of internal strength, and must stick together well. They must also cling well to the metal, or they will be squeezed out of the bearing.

The oils and the fats are the principal lubricants. The mineral oils are thin, and so are lard, olive, and sperm oils. Castor oil, neatsfoot, tallow and rape are thick. Nothing is better for high speed bearings and light spindles or shafts than sperm oil, but it is costly; for heavy bearings castor oil is superior to this, but it is also expensive.

But there is relatively little pure lubricant used in machinery, for it is usually more economical to employ a compound oil, compounded for special uses, than to use pure lubricants which, after all, are often heavily adulterated — gum, soap lime, alumina soda, and free acids have their own distinct purpose to serve in the composition of cheap oils. The chief advantage, however, pertaining to the use of compound oils is, that the objectionable qualities, of one kind of lubricant can be neutralized by mixing it with a lubricant of another kind. For instance, vegetable and fish oils are drying oils, that is, they oxidize rapidly, and cause gumming or clogging of the bearings to which they are applied, and if allowed to drop and accumulate upon dust, cotton waste, and timber are liable to develop an internal heat that will cause spontaneous combustion. Mineral oil does not oxidize, neither does animal. But mineral oils have what is termed a low flashing point; that is, they fire or ignite at a low temperature, some at 212 degrees Fah., or under. Animal oils develop fatty acids, and these corrode and pit the surface of the metal which they are used to lubricate.—Prof. John Evans, O. A. College, Guelph.

CALLAUGHER-BOWERS

The home of Isaac Bowers, Violet Hill, was the scene of a very pretty wedding on Wednesday, June 18th, when his eldest daughter, Ellen, was united in marriage to Gordon Gallaugher, eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. John Gallaugher of Perm, Rev. G. L. Gray of Rosemont officiating. The bride, who was attended by her sister, Margaret, wore a dress of white silk and bridal veil crowned with orange blossoms. Her bouquet was of white carnations and pink roses. While the wedding march was played by Mrs. Jas. Mitchell, the bride, who was given away by her father, took her place under an arch of evergreens on the lawn. The groomsman was Lewis Gallaugher, brother of the groom. After the ceremony a dainty repast was served in the dining-room, which was decorated with wedding bells and evergreens. The groom's gift to the bride was a pearl necklace, to the bridesmaid and organist each a brooch and to the groomsman a tie pin. The happy event recalled to the memory of the groom's parents that the date was the anniversary of their wedding day. The young couple were the recipients of many beautiful and useful gifts, showing the good wishes which follow them to their home near Perm.—Free Press.

FORAGE CROPS FOR PIGS

Raise All the Dairy Calves You Possibly Can.

We should Strive to Double Our Cow Population in the Next Ten Years—More Immediate, and Larger Cash Returns, Secured by Sale of Milk Than of Cream Where Location Is Favorable.

(Contributed by Ontario Department of Agriculture, Toronto.)

FOR the farmer who is raising hogs, one of the greatest problems is summer pasture. A new luxuriant growth of green grass is soon eaten off when the dry hot season comes and it is just at this time when the stockman needs some form of succulent feed for his stock. When the stock are running on pasture they are getting back to nature and there is nothing like good green feed as a conditioner for the animals.

As for forage crops in this country alfalfa and rape seem to give the best results, although anything that will produce a good green growth in a dry season is all right. Wherever alfalfa will grow it gives the best kind of permanent pasture for pigs, as there is no danger from bloat as is the case of sheep and cattle. Alfalfa provides pasture for a greater length of time than any of the grasses and is green and succulent even when red clover has become somewhat dried and woody.

Heavy pasturing of alfalfa is not good for it and consequently the number of animals allowed to pasture on it should be restricted and the plants should be allowed to grow up and be cut two or three times a season. Pigs, fed corn alone on alfalfa pasture, make fairly satisfactory gains since the protein in the alfalfa helps to balance up the deficiences in corn, although for best results a little of some nitrogenous concentrates should be fed. Red clover in the country gives very excellent results as a pasture for pigs, for the reason that it can be grown in a great many localities where alfalfa cannot be raised at all and consequently it's great value. At one of the Experimental Stations in the States, red clover was inferior only to alfalfa, while at another it was found that it was surpassed only by alfalfa and rape.

As an annual pasture for swine nothing surpasses rape. It can be sown both early and late in the season and as a consequence forage may be provided for at any time. To get the best results from rape, it should be sown in the spring and allowed to obtain a height of twelve to fourteen inches before turning the animals in. Care should be taken not to allow the plants to be eaten off too closely as the young plants do not get a chance to recuperate. To guard against this it would be wise to provide a second plot where the animals could be turned in for a time. Rape is also grown in conjunction with oats or with oats and field pease, and some authorities rank rape and oats next to alfalfa and red clover for pig pasture.

For young pigs in pasture it is not wise to force them to subsist on what they can get. They should be fed a little grain. Pigs that are being pastured for the purpose of fattening latter should have a limited grain ration, as this system of feeding has been found most economical. —J. C. McBeath, B.S.A., O. A. College, Guelph.

Shall I Rear Dairy Calves in 1919?

In brief, raise all the heifer calves for which there is feed, labor, and stable-room. More and better cows are needed in Ontario. The number of milk-cows in the province has remained stationary at about one million, for a good many years. There is no good reason why this number should not be dounled in the next ten years, but it can be done only by rearing or buying. Buying cows is expensive and risky. It is a far better plan to raise cows. This means that all the best heifer calves should be saved for future cows. As it requires from three to four years to change calves into cows, in order to double the cow population in ten years, making allowances for necessary discards, we need to begin right away, in order to attain the desired object.

The average number of cows per 100 acres of farm land in Canada is but two, whereas in Denmark it is fourteen, and in Holland sixteen. We have a long way to go in rearing cows, before we have anywhere near the number which are found in the best European dairy countries. There is but one economical way to attain this result, and that is by raising practically all the heifer calves dropped during the next ten years and as many pure-bred calves of excellent ancestry, as may be required for breeding purposes.

Shall I Sell Milk or Cream?

This will be determined to a large extent by the character of the farming operations. If the need for direct, quick cash in largest amount, is great, then selling milk will best "fill the bill." On the other hand, if the dairy farmer can afford to wait for the slower returns from cream and live-stock, and particularly if he desires to improve or maintain soil fertility, then selling cream is to be recommended.

Nearness to market is another factor. Where the dairyman is near a small town and had the time to "peddle" milk, he can make more money out of his cows than by any other system. At ten to twelve cents a quart, a good cow will return from $200 to $300 per year for her milk. When this is compared with $100 to $150 per cow, where cream is sold, or milk sent to a cheese factory or condensery, we see what a decided money advantage there is in selling milk to customers direct. — Prof. H. H. Dean, O. A. College, Guelph.

It Helps Others Will Help Me

With This Belief Many Thousands Have Learned the Exceptional Value of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food.

You hear people talking about Dr. Chase's Nerve Food. You read about it in the newspapers. You wonder if it would benefit you. And while you are hesitating others are using it to great advantage.

This treatment for the restoration of the blood and nerves is so different to most medicines that you may not realise why you can be so certain of benefit from its use.

In order to maintain the vigor of the nervous system an abundance of pure, rich blood is necessary. When the nervous system becomes exhausted and you are easily tired and suffer from headaches, sleeplessness, irritability or indigestion, it is because the blood is failing to supply proper nutrition to the nervous system.

By forming new, rich blood, Dr. Chase's Nerve Food naturally and certainly restores the vigor of the nerves. Since it works hand-in-hand with nature, it cannot fail to be of benefit, and there is no reason why it will not help you just as it has the writer of this letter.

Mrs. Stephen G. Thwaites, Box 306, Jordan, Ont., writes: "For about a year I was troubled with nervousness, and took doctors' medicine, but it did not seem to relieve me. I could not sleep nor content myself to do anything. I had severe headaches, was tired all the time, and afraid to stay alone. I also tried several nerve medicines until almost discouraged. At last I discovered Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, and found relief in this. I had only taken one box when I began to feel better. I continued using this treatment until my nerves were restored to perfect health. I think the Nerve Food splendid for nervous troubles of any kind, and cannot recommend it too highly."

(Rev. S. F. Coffman, Vineland, Ont., states: "This is to certify that I know Mrs. Thwaites, and her statements are correct.")

NEXT RICHEST WOMAN.

German Jewess Second Only to Bertha Krupp.

Next to Bertha Krupp, the richest woman in all Germany, is the only daughter of the recently deceased Friedrich Friedlaender-Fuld, known as the coal king of Germany, and who, during the Hausse period on the Berlin Bourse, following the successful war of 1870, as the result of a tip received from Henskell von Donnersmarck, whom in the latter's youth he had often helped out of financial "scrapes" when an officer of the Prussian Guards, laid the foundation of his immense fortune in speculating in the shares of the Koenigs and Laura colliery.

Miss Marie Friedlaender-Fuld married Jack Mitford, who had inherited the good looks of his father, the late Lord Redesdale, and who had previously been spending a couple of years in Berlin to acquaint himself with German business methods. The young couple parted company after their return from their wedding trip, the bride resuming her maiden name, while her husband returned to England. When the war broke out she took the necessary steps for the dissolution of her marriage bond.

Marie is of the Semittic type. It is recalled that she became engaged to Prince Alexander Romanoffsky, fifth Duke of Leuchtenberg, the son of a Russian grand duchess who characterized her husband, the fourth Duke of Leuchtenberg, as too ignorant to live with. The Leuchtenbergs are descendants of Eugene de Beauharnais, son of Empress Josephine by her first husband, and married to a daughter of the King of Bavaria. Fraulein Marie had a dowry of 60,000,000 marks, or $15,000,000. But Emperor Nicholas of Russia would only give his consent to the union on the condition that it was to be morganatic, declaring that he could not tolerate a marriage of his house to a daughter of the Jewish race. The late Mr. Friedlaender strongly and successfully resented this.

The tender of George Ferguson of $1620 for $1000 Public School Debentures was accepted by Arthur Village Council.

SELLING AND TELLING

Large Shoe Firm Uses Newspapers to Reach the Millions of Canada.

The old days of barter where a man would exchange an article of wearing apparel for somthng to eat, or vice versa, have been replaced by the wonderful system of modern commerce, where money is the medium of exchange.

Likewise the selling methods that attended the bartering of articles have been replaced by the modern system of advertising. In former days it was necessary for the maker and buyer to meet. Nowadays this is done through the retail stores, and the wise manufacturer is the one that realizes the power of his contact with the user of his goods, and who remembers that the burden of selling is upon the manufacturer.

Appreciating this powerful factor of modern business, the firm of Ames, Holden, McCready, Limited, who are Canada's largest shoe manufacturers, have, during the past two years, sent a direct message to millions of people in Canada through newspapers, magazines, farm publications, etc. This method of advertising embraces over 230 publications.

The surprising thing to advertising men and advertisers who make use of the daily newspapers, is that there should exist some firms to-day who will not realize the power of newspaper advertising. It is so very logical that if you have an article to sell you must convey this fact to the party who has the power to buy it. It is incredible that many manufacturers to-day will spend all their energies in making the article and then sit down and let it sell itself. Selling is inevitably linked up with telling.

As far as Ames, Holden, McCready advertising is concerned, it is unique in the fact that it does not attempt to stampede the reader into demanding the A.H.M. Brand. Each advertisement contain valuable pointers regarding the purchase of footwear, rules to follow and pitfalls to avoid. The public is naturally becoming convinced that the safest method is to buy shoes bearing the A.H.M. Brand, which is shown in every advertisement. To-day, over 5,000 shoe dealers are featuring this brand, and seven conveniently located branch warehouses are supplying their wants.

Moreover, Messrs. Ames, Holden, McCready have published, for free distribution, a most sensible and interesting booklet entitled "How to Buy Shoes." It is being sent free of charge to those requesting it from the head office of the company at Montreal.

HOCKLEY

On Saturday afternoon, June 21st, a union Sunday school picnic was held in M. J. Varey's beautiful grove. The day was all that could be desired, consequently the attendance was large, and everyone enjoyed the various sports, consisting of baseball, races, etc. One very pleasing feature was the presentation to Miss Christian, public school teacher, of a silver cake basket by her pupils, with the following address:

To Our Teacher, Miss Christian:

We have now come to the end of the school term, and the summer holidays will soon be ours, but before school breaks up we, your pupils, want to gather round you just to tell you how much we think of you and how much we love you. Sometimes we were slow to learn, but you were very patient with us; sometimes we were unruly, but you were ever good to us. We shall always remember you as a teacher who did more than teach—who sought by kindness to mould the character of her pupils. We hope you will be able to come back to us after the vacation. During the holidays, we shall often think of you, always with real pleasure.

Will you please accept from the hands of your scholars this little present, as something by which you can always remember them, as something which will in a small way show their love to you?

Signed,—Emily Sirrs, Rita Robins, Eleanor Beatty, Florence Parker.

Although Miss Christian was taken entirely by surprise, she made a very pleasing and suitable reply. Lastly, all partook of the good things supplied by the noted cooks of Hockley, after which all went home happy and well satisfied with the afternoon's sport.

STEVENSON'S GREATNESS.

When the famous and beloved writer, Robert Louis Stevenson, was twenty-three years old he wrote to a friend, "I am glad I shall never be a great man." "I set myself peacefully upon a smaller journey," he added.

That letter, giving up all hope of greatness, was a clear indication of the real greatness of the Scotch novelist, essayist, and poet. Humility is a marked characteristic of the noblest souls, and especially must it be a quality of those who would help mankind. The first must be last and the last will in time become first.

WHO WILL SHOW US ANY GOOD?

The times are out of joint. The restlessness, dissatisfaction and conflict of the world seem to increase rather than diminish, and the day of peace, toward which we have been looking for so long, seems yet to fade away into the far distant future. So the heart and hope of many seem to be failing them, but there are some things that we must not forget in a day like this. It is true there is much restlessness and strife, and yet in the midst of these there are great recreative and reconstructive forces at work. In the home life of the people, in the thonghts and plans of men and women, in earnest and honest effort to realize the great impulses that have come to us through the war, there is a mighty reconstructive movement going on all the while that does not reveal itself at all through the outward strife and turmoil We may cheer our hearts with this thought that even in a day like this the mighty Spirit of God is renewing Himself in righteousness and hope, and joy, in the lives and thought and ambition of the people.

A FAMILY RE-UNION

Members of the Stubbs and Limebeer families to the number of one hundred or upwards held a delightful Family Re-union and Picnic on the lawn of ex-Warden W. J. Limebeer, 1st line, West, Caledon, on Wednesday afternoon, July 2nd. The picnickers brought well-laden baskets and a sumptuous repast put everyone in the best of good humor for the other entertainment of the afternoon. Luncheon over a pleasant hour was spent in speechmaking, music and other amusements. A group photo was taken of the gathering which will doubtless be preserved and prized as a memento of the happy occasion. Among the friends present were Mr. and Mrs. W. T. Chantler, of St. John, N.B., the former C.P.R. divisional superintendent, Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Dunham and two children, of Wiarton, Mr. and Mrs. Geo. McCulloch and Mr. and Mrs. Will Graydon and Gordon Graydon, of Brampton, Mrs. Melville Scott and family, of Port Elgin, Dr. and Mrs. J. T. Thomas and Rev. and Mrs. J. Burkholder, of Caledon.

WHAT HUNS WANTED

PEACE TERMS IF GERMANY HAD WON THE WAR.

Teutonic Statesmen Are Wringing Their Hands and Talking About Brutality of the Allies, So It Is Interesting to Recall the Views Held by Leaders When They Hoped To Be Conquerors.

THOSE who can find anything to laugh at in the war should laugh now. This is the time. Germany's leaders, with few exceptions, are expressing their horror at the conditions of peace. They say this is not peace but an indefinite continuation of the war. They assure themselves and others that the terms are impossible, and that they will merely make certain a great German war of revenge in the future instead of ushering in an era of brotherhoods. It is interesting to contrast these lamentations with the exultations of two or three years ago and read what Germany's spokesmen declared would be the terms inflicted upon the Allies when the Central Powers had triumphed. There was no fear then expressed that the seeds of a future war would be sown; there was no apprehension that France would be undertaking another war of revanche. Of course, these were the views expressed by the Junkers and the army leaders. What the present outfit of supposed democrats would have proposed in the way of peace terms can only be conjectured, and since there were no democrats in Germany worth speaking of until Germany had been thoroughly defeated, we can only suppose that if Ebert, Schiedemann and Erzberger had been in control of affairs and were making a German peace it would have been just such a peace as the Kaiser would have desired.

Indeed, we have Erzberger's views on record, and the Herr Matthias is one of the loudest objectors to the Allies' conditions, he declared in 1914 for sovereignty over Belgium, possession of the Channel Islands, the mines of Alsace-Lorraine, and the founding of a German Empire in Africa.

"Germany, in the first place, cannot tolerate the presence on her frontiers of so-called neutral states insufficiently strong to preserve their neutrality, or which do not want to remain neutral," said Erzberger. "Her second aim must be to free herself from the insupportable leading strings of England on all questions of world policy. In the third place, she must break up the Russian colossus. Consequently Germany must have sovereignty not only over Belgium but the French coast from Dunkirk to Boulogne, and possession of the Channel Islands. She must also take the mines in French Lorraine and create an African German empire by annexing the Belgian and French Congos, British Nigeria, Dahomey and the French West Coast.

"In fixing indemnities, the actual capacity of a state at the moment should not be considered. Besides a large immediate payment, annual instalments spread over a long period could be arranged. France would be helped in making them by decreasing her budget of naval and military appropriations, the reduction to be imposed in the peace treaty being such as would enable her to send substantial sums to Germany. Indemnities should provide for the repayment of the full costs of the war, and the damages of war, notably in East Prussia; the redemption of all of Germany's public debt and the creation of a vast fund for incapacitated soldiers."

William Hohenzollern frequently gave his ideas of what sort of peace would be satisfactory to Germany, and his utterances may be used against him when he is brought to trial by the allies. His memorable first reference to the British army is worth recalling. He, in an order issued in Belgium to his commanders, said, "It is my royal and imperial command that you concentrate your energies for the immediate present on one single purpose—that is that you address all your skill and all the valor of my soldiers to exterminate first the treacherous English, and walk over Gen. French's contemptible little army." The word "exterminate" is worth noting. On Christmas, 1914, in a speech at German General Headquarters, the ex-All Highest said, "We are on hostile ground. The point of our sword is directed against the enemy, our hearts to our God. We say as once the Great Elector did, 'Down with all enemies of Germany, Amen.'" Addressing troops starting for the front he remarked, "Remember that the German people are the chosen of God. On me as German Emperor, the spirit of God has descended; I am His weapon, His sword, and His Vice-Regent. Woe to the disobedient. Death to cowards and unbelievers!"

In March, 1915, Rudolph Martin, former Minister of the Interior, declared that Germany would demand an indemnity of from thirty to thirty-seven billion dollars, absorb Belgium and her Congo colony, cut off a slice of France, hand over Serbia to Austria, and give Egypt and the Suez Canal to Turkey. Six great German associations representing farmers, merchants, mechanics and manufacturers urged the necessity of annexing Belgium and seizing all the coal and iron mines of France. For the sake of Germany's existence it was necessary to weaken France, both economically and politically. It also demanded that the Allies should pay the full costs of the war, "and provide for the renewal and further development of armaments." It insisted that the most important business undertakings of France should be transferred to German ownership. France to recompense the owners, and added "A peace that has not these results will render new struggles inevitable at an early date, but with the chances much less favorable to Germany."

AN INDUCTION

Rev. John Lennox Becomes Pastor of Temple Hill Presbyterian Church.

Yesterday marked another milestone in the progess of the Presbyterian church at Temple Hill, when Rev. John Lennox was inducted into the pastorate, in succession to Rev. W. M. Lee, whose resignation was accepted last April when he received a call to another field. A very large congregation was present to welcome the new minister. Rev. P. T. Pilkey, pastor of Knox church, Owen Sound, presided and conducted the ceremony of induction. The induction sermon was preached by Rev. Mr. Robins, of Walter's Falls, Rev. Mr. Barbour, of Meaford, delivered the address to the minster, and Rev. J. B. Fraser, Owen Sound, Clerk of the Presbytery, addressed the congregation.

Rev. Mr Lennox is a native of Scotland, where he was educated, and has been for some time in Western Canada. He is a man of strong and attractive personality, and has made an impression that augurs well for the success of the congregation during his pastorate His son, who only recently returned after three years' overseas, was present at the induction. It may be mentioned that he also is studying for the ministry.—O.S. Advertiser

NOMINATE DOHERTY

United Farmers Place Candidate in the Field in Peel County.

It looks like a three-cornered fight in Peel County at the coming Provincial election. At a meeting held in Brampton on Saturday the United Farmers nominated Mr. Manning Doherty, of Malton, to contest the constituency in their interests. Those nominated were Mrs. Harry Cashor of Cheltenham, H. J. C. Taylor, of Cheltenham, George M. Downey, of Albion, and Manning Doherty, of Malton. The first three withdrew, and the nomination was given to Mr. Doherty.

About one hundred and fifty delegates were present one-third of whom were ladies. The Conservatives have already nominated a candidate in the person of Major Kennedy and the Liberals have re-nominated the sitting member, Mr. W. J. Lowe

BLACK-MARTIN

A very pretty wedding was solemnized at Laurel Methodist parsonage on Wednesday afternoon, July 2nd, when Lena Mae, eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Martin, of The Maples, was united in marriage to Mr. Howard Black, youngest son of Mr and Mrs. James Black, of the same place. The ceremony was performed by Rev. W. F. Roach, of Laurel. The bride was becomingly dressed in white silk trimmed with rosebuds and carried a pretty bouquet of carnations, bridal roses and maiden hair fern She was attended by the groom's sister, Miss Edna Black, who was prettily dressed in white silk trimmed with pink and carried carnations and ferns. The groom was supported by the bride's brother, Mr. Wilfred Martin. After the ceremony the happy couple drove to the bride's home, where a bountiful repast awaited them. The only guests were the immediate friends of the young couple. The tables were tastefully decorated with roses and ferns. The bride received many beautiful gifts, evidences of the good will and esteem of her numerous friends. The newly wedded couple left on the evening train for Toronto and other points, the bride travelling in a pretty suit of navy blue serge with white panama hat trimmed with pink.

WEDDED IN ENGLAND

The following excerpt from Social Service, a monthly magazine published in London, Eng., will interest Banner readers:—

"Colony interest was aroused when it became known that Miss Greta Garland, daughter of Captain and Mrs. Garland, of Paton Cottage, was to be married on Easter Monday to Private W. J. Presley, of Alton, Ontario. The wedding itself was a delightfully pretty affair, and as the couple left Dorman' Church, the Girl Guides enthusiastically pelted them with primroses, while the Scouts smartly brought their staves into position, and formed an archway thro' which the newly-wed smilingly walked. The whole Colony unites in congratulations to Mr. and Mrs. Presley on such an auspicious occasion."

The groom is one of the soldier sons of Mr. and Mrs. Jas. Presley, of Alton. He is also a nephew of Mr. Thos. Presley, of this town.

INGLEWOOD

Fine Celebration for Returned Men on Dominion Day.

Ideal weather favored the citizens of Inglewood when they celebrated Dominion Day in a most fitting way. A memorial service was first held in front of the Methodist Church for the boys who had fallen in the war. After addresses by the Rev. J. R. Wilkinson and Rev. Dr. Spence and prayer by the Rev. R. Segsworth a bronze memorial tablet was unveiled by one of the oldest residents, Mr. David Graham. Before the sounding of "Last Post" by Bugler R. Dennis, Mr. Davidson sang "Sacrifice" most acceptably.

The Mount Forest Kilties Band, followed by the Inglewood returned soldiers, then led the way to the town park where a special programme was provided. The chief feature was the presentation of diamond brooches to two Nursing Sisters and diamond stick pins to thirty-five returned men. Dr. Burns ably filled the chair. Mr. R. J. McGregor gave a very fitting address before the presentations were made by the Rev. J. R. Wilkinson and Mr. Geo. Henry, Prof. DeWitt, of Victoria College replied on behalf of the boys. Special patriotic numbers were sung by a selected choir. Rev. J. Gordon Cheyne, of Morningside Church, Swansea, an old friend of this community who took a special interest in the boys, gave the closing address, which was greatly appreciated.

About 700 people then enjoyed a banquet prepared by the ladies of the district. The committees in charge are to be highly commended for bringing to a successful issue in such a unique and appropriate manner our national holiday which begins the new era of peace.

WON CROIX DE GUERRE

There has returned from overseas to the city, Lt. Frank Routley, who reached here on Wednesday evening when he was met at the G.T.R. depot by many friends and members of the special committee of citizens.

Lt. Routley has been in uniform almost four years. As known he went over with the 118th Battalion and since being overseas he has been with the first Canadian Division. He has seen much service at the front. For gallant service rendered he was presented with Croix de Guerre presented to him by the French military authorities.

More recently he has been with the army of occupation in Germany. Lt. Routley is looking fine and of course is also feeling as fit as when he left here. Needless to say he is glad to be home again.

Lt. Routley was the local manager of the Bell Telephone Company when he volunteered for service and enlisted.—Kitchener Telegraph.

In another column the Telegraph says: "Capt. Routley is looking well and has many interesting things to relate about the great war in which he did his part so bravely. Mrs. Routley, too, deserves great credit and great praise for her British spirit in always showing cheerfulness and bravery to her friends when all the time she was anxious, not knowing just what news she might receive."

Capt. Routley is a son-in-law of Mr. Thos. F. Reid, First St.

HOSPITAL NOTES.

The widespread interest in the work of Lord Dufferin Hospital is a source of great satisfaction to the Daughters of the Empire and they wish to extend their sincere thanks to the Women's Institute of Marsville for the donation of Pyjamas and to the young Ladies' Institute of Mono Centre for the contribution of $10.00 through the Secretary, Miss Norma Henry.

To each returning soldier the Daughters of the Empire send a letter of welcome accompanied by a bouquet of flowers, and thus in a small way attempt to express their appreciation of the noble sacrifice made by all those who went to fight for "The Flag."

Those having delayed sending in to Mrs. McLeod or Mrs. McKeown the records of the Dufferin soldiers will confer a favor by giving this matter early attention.

Subscribers to "Echoes" who are in arrears for their annual subscription will kindly get in communication with Mrs. Hogg that the list may be returned as fully paid. If your subscription is paid notify Mrs. Hogg to this effect.

Lord Dufferin Hospital has been filled almost to capacity during the past few months and several most serious and at the same time successful operations have been performed. Its usefulness is becoming more and more apparent and it is now looked upon as an absolute necessity in this community.

A MONO PRESENTATION

A very pleasant evening was spent at the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Dodds, 5th line, east, Mono, on Monday evening, June 23rd, when a large number of their friends and neighbors gathered for the purpose of welcoming home their son, Calvin, who has spent the last twelve months overseas. About 9 o'clock when all the friends had assembled Rev. Mr. Matheson made a short introductory address, after which Robert McEwan gave quite an interesting speech, followed by speeches by neighbours and others. Songs were then sung followed by the reading of an address by Miss Nesbitt. At the proper time Miss Greta Crozier stepped forward and presented the young soldier with a handsome locket and chain on behalf of his friends and neighbors. Lunch was served, after which the rest of the evening was happily spent in dancing and other amusements. It was well on in the wee hours of the morning when the happy gathering dispersed.

ACTION !

Don't tell us what you're going to do,
What you are doing to-day?
The credit will only come to you
For just what you do, not say.
Don't dwell too much on what you have done,
The past is forever dead,
You must put in work with each day's sun
Or you'll never forge ahead.

He who "lets" up in the race of life
Will certainly drop behind,
The battle is one unceasing strife,
Each day is a constant grind.
Action, and action alone is the key
To the problem of success,
'Twill open the door of mystery,
Will scatter doubt and distress.

Go at your work with determined will,
In yourself have confidence;
There's life and health in a dashing rill,
A stagnant pool gives offense.
"Procrastination's the thief of time,"
Have courage to act to-day,
The men who have made their lives sublime
Were never of sloth the prey.

With av'rage health of body and mind
And energy brought in play,
You've an equal chance with all mankind
To blaze for yourself a way.
If you fail to win the fault's your own.
You'll have no one else to blame,
If seeds of idleness you have sown,
The harvest reaped will be shame.

—Augustus Treadwell.

Caste In India

FOR many years it has been recognized, by those who know India well, that one of the chief obstacles in the way of that great country achieving unity and responsible government is the caste. There is nothing in any other country really comparable to this. Class distinctions are still common enough in all countries, but the caste system of India is much more than a class distinction. It constitutes the most complete social divorce which it is possible to imagine, for no amount of legislation will ever achieve unity in a country split up into sections, communication between which is laboriously difficult, and, between the highest and lowest, utterly impossible.

The pariah class in India, the "untouchables," as they are called, number at least 50,000,000. They are all, as far as the Hindu religion is concerned, outside the pale of humanity. They cannot enter a Hindu temple, they cannot draw water from wells used by people of the higher castes, and if any Indian, even unintentionally, touches a pariah he is obliged to purify himself. When this has been said, only a tithe has been told of the burdens which weigh upon the "depressed peoples," whilst nothing at all has been said concerning the social barriers, which no occasion is sufficient to obliterate, existing between caste and caste.

At the present time, when the question of responsible government for India occupies a large place in the field of urgent questions in the British Empire, the caste question makes a more insistent claim for solution than ever before. With things as they are, anything like a just system of elections would be almost out of the question. When it is possible for the Brahmins, on the eve of an election, to issue, as they did recently in the case of a municipal election at Nasik, a statement to the effect that if a Brahmin voted for a Maratha he would be considered an outcast, the position of affairs begins to be seen clearly. To be an outcast means that he would not only be ostracized by his fellows here, but, according to the Hindu religion, subject to the most terrible punishments hereafter. "Even the worst Brahman," declared a statement issued during a recent election for the Madras Presidency, "is to be preferred to the best non-Brahmin."

Fortunately, it is not only the non-Indians who see the great obstacles to progress which inhere in such a system. Indians themselves are at any rate beginning to see what its existence means to the country. When a few Brahmin priests, some years ago, took their courage in their hands, and determined, "in consideration of his exemplary character," to attend the opening ceremony of a great temple at Calcutta built by the "absolutely untouchable" shoemaker Dino Das, the act showed an awakening which was widely welcomed. When the recalcitrant priests subsequently defied their caste-fellows, and challenged them to show from the sacred writings that it was forbidden to "offer salvation to the lower classes and to hold communication with them," it was clear that the great system was no longer immune from question and attack. Since then, the Aryan Brotherhood, with its avowed object of "putting an end to the disabilities and restrictions of the caste system," has steadily continued its work, and more than one powerful voice has been raised against the bondage.

"To become a friend of the Empire," declared Sir Ramkrishna Bhundaker, the eminent Mahratta jurist, some time ago in Calcutta, "India must be one and one-hearted, and this can only be effected by the obliteration of caste distinctions amongst the Hindus and a good understanding between them and the Mohammedans." This growing sense of nationalism, this conception of India as an important factor in the great British Commonwealth, is one of the most vigorous opponents of the caste system, for the two ideas cannot exist side by side. In proportion as the caste system is abolished will the achievement of a true nationalism be rendered easier, but there must be no underestimating of its importance, and no neglect of any opportunity for securing its banishment.

Macaulay's Humor.

Macaulay's vein of humor is shown in an autograph letter recently offered for sale. He had received a present of some fine grapes, and writes to the giver: "I am afraid of overeating myself. You will be sorry to see in the Times that I have been taken off by cholera, and that my sad end is to be ascribed to the rash manner in which I indulged in some delicious grapes, a present from injudicious friends." Another letter in the same collection is from Samuel Rogers, the poet. His house had been robbed and a lurid account of the robbery had mentioned some of his silver as having been presented to him by the King. He says: "The vases presented to me by royalty were also the creatures of the imagination, for I must entirely acquit the royal family of having ever given me, or, I believe, anybody else, anything."

A Feminine Ship.

His ship to the sailor is a veritable sweetheart. His ship possesses a waist, collars, stays, bonnets, laces and a dozen other feminine accessories. Perhaps that is why a ship is called "she."

A DAMASCUS WEDDING

St. Paul's Church, Damascus, was the scene of a very happy event on Wednesday, June 25th, when Lillian Dorothy, eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Shaw, became the bride of Mr. William J. Stuckey, of Grand Valley, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Stuckey, of Erin, the nuptial knot being tied by Rev. H. G. L. Baugh. At twelve o'clock noon, to the strains of wedding music, played by Miss Pearl Fair, the bride entered the church, leaning on the arm of her father, her only attendant being little Miss Norma Shaw, who acted as flower girl. She looked more than charming, gowned in white silk crepe de chene and wearing a white hat, and carrying bridal roses. While the register was being signed "The Garden of Your Heart," was rendered very sweetly by Mr. Vincent and Miss Pearl Fair.

At the conclusion of the ceremony, the guests adjourned to the home of the bride's parents, where after hearty congratulations and best wishes were extended to the happy young couple, a wedding dinner was served. Mr. and Mrs. Stuckey left by motor for Grand Valley, where they took the train on a short honeymoon trip to Toronto, Niagara Falls and other points.

The popularity of the bride was evidenced by the many costly presents of which she was made the recipient. The groom's gift to the bride was a handsome piano, to the flower girl, a locket and chain, and to Miss Pearl Fair, a gold brooch set with pearls. Mr. and Mrs. Stuckey were the first couple to be married in St. Paul's Church and on this account, they were presented with a handsome Bible.

Mr. and Mrs. Stuckey will reside in Grand Valley, where they will have the best wishes of a host of friends.—Arthur Enterprise.

FAX COMING TO CALEDON

The Presbyterians of Knox Church, Caledon, have engaged James Fax and Duncan Cowan, two of the best known entertainers before the Ontario public to-day, for their big Garden Party on Mr. Thos. Smith's grounds on the night of July 12th. This is always one of the big events of the season and this year's promises to be no exception to the rule.

This is a Greater Maxwell

There have been many improvements made in the Maxwell since the war ceased. Some of them have made the car look better. Others have made it run better.

You will note a new type radiator, a further advance in body detail, an improved electrical system, a Hot Spot and a Ram's-horn, a superior development in upholstery, and a top more durable.

Any of these is well worth any man's time to look over, and the sum of all represent a decided value added to the car

But the fundamentals of the car are unchanged. 300,000 Maxwells on the highways of the world—all of the same model—have proved that a policy of never changing the base design is profitable in more ways than one to buyer and maker.

It means extra value at a lower price.
It means perfection in design.
It means perfection in workmanship.
It means you pay for no experiments, no engineering knick-knacks.
It means you pay for no mistakes.
It means a car of everlasting reliability.
It means a car of endless mileage.

You can easily pay $300 more and receive less. This Maxwell is old in antecedents but modern as far as sound engineering dare go.

There is no car of the day selling for so low a price to offer so many attractive inducements.

See this recent Maxwell, and bear in mind that despite the eight great Maxwell plants the supply is already running far short of the demand.

Will certainly drop behind,
The battle is one unceasing strife,
Each day is a constant grind.
Action, and action alone is the key
To the problem of success,
'Twill open the door of mystery,
Will scatter doubt and distress.

Go at your work with determined will,
In yourself have confidence;
There's life and health in a dashing rill,
A stagnant pool gives offense.
"Procrastination's the thief of time,"
Have courage to act to-day,
The men who have made their lives sublime
Were never of sloth the prey.

With average health of body and mind
And energy brought in play,
You've an equal chance with all mankind
To blaze for yourself a way.
If you fail to win the fault's your own.
You'll have no one else to blame,
If seeds of idleness you have sown,
The harvest reaped will be shame.

—Augustus Treadwell.

Caste In India

FOR many years it has been recognized, by those who know India well, that one of the chief obstacles in the way of that great country achieving unity and responsible government is the caste. There is nothing in any other country really comparable to this. Class distinctions are still common enough in all countries, but the caste system of India is much more than a class distinction. It constitutes the most complete social divorce which it is possible to imagine, for no amount of legislation will ever achieve unity in a country split up into sections, communication between which is laboriously difficult, and, between the highest and lowest, utterly impossible.

The pariah class in India, the "untouchables," as they are called, number at least 50,000,000. They are all, as far as the Hindu religion is concerned, outside the pale of humanity. They cannot enter a Hindu temple, they cannot draw water from wells used by people of the higher castes, and if any Indian, even unintentionally, touches a pariah he is obliged to purify himself. When this has been said, only a tithe has been told of the burdens which weigh upon the "depressed peoples," whilst nothing at all has been said concerning the social barriers, which no occasion is sufficient to obliterate, existing between caste and caste.

At the present time, when the question of responsible government for India occupies a large place in the field of urgent questions in the British Empire, the caste question makes a more insistent claim for solution than ever before. With things as they are, anything like a just system of elections would be almost out of the question. When it is possible for the Brahmins, on the eve of an election, to issue, as they did recently in the case of a municipal election at Nasik, a statement to the effect that if a Brahmin voted for a Maratha he would be considered an outcast, the position of affairs begins to be seen clearly. To be an outcast means that he would not only be ostracized by his fellows here, but, according to the Hindu religion, subject to the most terrible punishments hereafter. "Even the worst Brahman," declared a statement issued during a recent election for the Madras Presidency, "is to be preferred to the best non-Brahmin."

Fortunately, it is not only the non-Indians who see the great obstacles to progress which inhere in such a system. Indians themselves are at any rate beginning to see what its existence means to the country. When a few Brahmin priests, some years ago, took their courage in their hands, and determined, "in consideration of his exemplary character," to attend the opening ceremony of a great temple at Calcutta built by the "absolutely untouchable" shoemaker Dino Das, the act showed an awakening which was widely welcomed. When the recalcitrant priests subsequently defied their caste-fellows, and challenged them to show from the sacred writings that it was forbidden to "offer salvation to the lower classes and to hold communication with them," it was clear that the great system was no longer immune from question and attack. Since then, the Aryan Brotherhood, with its avowed object of "putting an end to the disabilities and restrictions of the caste system," has steadily continued its work, and more than one powerful voice has been raised against the bondage.

"To become a friend of the Empire," declared Sir Ramkrishna Bhundaker, the eminent Mahratta jurist, some time ago in Calcutta, "India must be one and one-hearted, and this can only be effected by the obliteration of caste distinctions amongst the Hindus and a good understanding between them and the Mohammedans." This growing sense of nationalism, this conception of India as an important factor in the great British Commonwealth, is one of the most vigorous opponents of the caste system, for the two ideas cannot exist side by side. In proportion as the caste system is abolished will the achievement of a true nationalism be rendered easier, but there must be no underestimating of its importance, and no neglect of any opportunity for securing its banishment.

Macaulay's Humor.

Macaulay's vein of humor is shown in an autograph letter recently offered for sale. He had received a present of some fine grapes, and writes to the giver: "I am afraid of overeating myself. You will be sorry to see in the Times that I have been taken off by cholera, and that my sad end is to be ascribed to the rash manner in which I indulged in some delicious grapes, a present from injudicious friends." Another letter in the same collection is from Samuel Rogers, the poet. His house had been robbed and a lurid account of the robbery had mentioned some of his silver as having been presented to him by the King. He says: "The vases presented to me by royalty were also the creatures of the imagination, for I must entirely acquit the royal family of having ever given me, or, I believe, anybody else, anything."

A Feminine Ship.

His ship to the sailor is a veritable sweetheart. His ship possesses a waist, collars, stays, bonnets, laces and a dozen other feminine accessories. Perhaps that is why a ship is called "she."

A DAMASCUS WEDDING

St. Paul's Church, Damascus, was the scene of a very happy event on Wednesday, June 25th, when Lillian Dorothy, eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Shaw, became the bride of Mr. William J. Stuckey, of Grand Valley, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Stuckey, of Erin, the nuptial knot being tied by Rev. H. G. L. Baugh. At twelve o'clock noon, to the strains of wedding music, played by Miss Pearl Fair, the bride entered the church, leaning on the arm of her father, her only attendant being little Miss Norma Shaw, who acted as flower girl. She looked more than charming, gowned in white silk crepe de chene and wearing a white hat, and carrying bridal roses. While the register was being signed "The Garden of Your Heart," was rendered very sweetly by Mr. Vincent and Miss Pearl Fair.

At the conclusion of the ceremony, the guests adjourned to the home of the bride's parents, where after hearty congratulations and best wishes were extended to the happy young couple, a wedding dinner was served. Mr. and Mrs. Stuckey left by motor for Grand Valley, where they took the train on a short honeymoon trip to Toronto, Niagara Falls and other points.

The popularity of the bride was evidenced by the many costly presents of which she was made the recipient. The groom's gift to the bride was a handsome piano, to the flower girl, a locket and chain, and to Miss Pearl Fair, a gold brooch set with pearls. Mr. and Mrs. Stuckey were the first couple to be married in St. Paul's Church and on this account, they were presented with a handsome Bible.

Mr. and Mrs. Stuckey will reside in Grand Valley, where they will have the best wishes of a host of friends.—Arthur Enterprise.

FAX COMING TO CALEDON

The Presbyterians of Knox Church, Caledon, have engaged James Fax and Duncan Cowan, two of the best known entertainers before the Ontario public to-day, for their big Garden Party on Mr. Thos. This is a Greater Maxwell

There have been many improvements made in the Maxwell since the war ceased. Some of them have made the car look better. Others have made it run better.

You will note a new type radiator, a further advance in body detail, an improved electrical system, a Hot Spot and a Ram's-horn, a superior development in upholstery, and a top more durable.

Any of these is well worth any man's time to look over, and the sum of all represent a decided value added to the car

But the fundamentals of the car are unchanged. 300,000 Maxwells on the highways of the world—all of the same model—have proved that a policy of never changing the base design is profitable in more ways than one to buyer and maker.

It means extra value at a lower price.
It means perfection in design.
It means perfection in workmanship.
It means you pay for no experiments, no engineering knick-knacks.
It means you pay for no mistakes.
It means a car of everlasting reliability.
It means a car of endless mileage.

You can easily pay $300 more and receive less. This Maxwell is old in antecedents but modern as far as sound engineering dare go.

There is no car of the day selling for so low a price to offer so many attractive inducements.

See this recent Maxwell, and bear in mind that despite the eight great Maxwell plants the supply is already running far short of the demand.

THE BOWLING TOURNEY.

Superb Weather, A Large Entry and Keenly Contested Games Were Outstanding Features.

Five Out of Six Sets of Prizes Captured by Toronto Rinks.

Orangeville Lawn Bowling Club held its Tenth Annual Tournament on the John St. greens last week. The event was favored with superb bowling weather and was the usual big success. Sixty-four rinks entered, and considering the fact that entries closed on Saturday night there were very few defaults. Play commenced at 10 o'clock Tuesday morning and proceeded without a hitch until nearly midnight. So satisfactory was the progress made that the final stage was reached in the Trophy event late on Wednesday afternoon. The Association and Consolation were also so well advanced that they were easily completed on Thursday. The Tournament was admirably handled by President C. V. Jeffers, Secretary T. S. Parkinson and the various Committees. Following their usual custom the ladies served refreshments in a large tent at the south end of the playing green. Orangeville Citizens Band was in attendance Tuesday night and large throngs of spectators watched the play Tuesday and Wednesday nights.

Toronto Clubs were represented by some 17 rinks and had the satisfaction of carrying home five out of the six sets of prizes. The Trophy final between Dr. Bowles, of Rusholme, and Scott, of Parkdale, was a fine exhibition of good bowling. The Rusholme rink won by a score of 22 to 20. J. C. Telford, of Owen Sound, had the edge on W. W. Hiltz, of St. Matthews, in the Association final and won out rather handily. The Consolation worked down to Bickerstaffe, of Parkdale, and Hogarth, of St. Matthews, who will play off the final game in Toronto. The scores follow:

A MEMORIAL BRIDGE

Editor of The Banner,

Dear Sir,—Allow me through the medium of your paper to make a suggestion to the people of Orangeville that a new cement bridge be constructed over the creek on Mill Street for a memorial to those who have fallen in the great struggle for Right and Justice in the recent war.

This would answer a twofold purpose by removing the dilapidated condition of present site and be a monument to the boys who have gone from this district beyond the great divide. The money for this purpose could be raised by public conaribution so as to give every individual an opportunity to help, or the municipal Council have full authority to levy under the head of general purposes. This structure would be an ornament and at the same time answer a very useful purpose and should be a credit to any town. Shield panels with the names to be placed on the parapets.

Yours sincerely,
CHAS. KING,
Town Engineer.

BARNS STRUCK.

W. H. Hunter, The Maples, Heavy Loser by Saturday Morning's Storm.

During the thunderstorm early on Saturday morning the large barns on the farm of W. H. Hunter, The Maples, were set fire by lightning and burned to the ground. The buildings were struck about five o'clock and the fire spread with almost incredible rapidity. Mr. Hunter and the other inmates of the household were unable to do anything to save the doomed building, which was literally a seething mass of flames. Neighbors who arrived hurriedly gave valuable assistance in the task of saving the dwelling house. A verandah roof caught fire several times, but the danger spots were deluged with water from a nearby cistern. The heat was intense and added greatly to the difficult work of saving the house.

The barns, which were the largest in the district, had been built at different times but were all under one roof. They covered a space of 100 by 200 feet. The main barn was of brick construction and the additions included hay and implement buildings, hog pens, slaughter house, and weigh scales. With the buildings went 60 tons of hay, about 30 tons of straw, practically all the implements and harness about the place, 400 bushels of grain, 10 hogs and a purebred calf. The total loss is estimated at $18,000 or $20,000. Insurance on buildings and contents amounts to $9,000 which means a net loss of perhaps $10,000. Widespread sympathy is felt for Mr. Hunter, and his mother in their misfortune. We understand that Mr. Hunter will not rebuild until next year. Word of the calamity reached Orangeville shortly after the barns were struck and the Fire Brigade was rushed out in autos to help fight the devouring element.

This is the second serious fire on The Maples homestead. Forty-one years ago the barns belonging to the late W. H. Hunter, father of the present owner, were burned. On that occasion it was strongly suspected that the fire was the work of an incendiary.

STOMACH TROUBLE

Comes When the Blood is Weak and Watery.

Thin blooded people generally have stomach trouble. But they seldom recognize the fact that thin blood is the cause of their indigestion, but it is.

Thin blood is one of the most common causes of stomach trouble; it affects the digestion very quickly. The glands that furnish the digestive fluids are diminished in their activity, the stomach muscles are weakened and there is a loss of nerve force. In this state of health nothing will more quickly restore the appetite, digestion and normal nutrition than good, rich, red blood.

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills act directly on the blood, making it rich and red, and this enriched blood strengthens weak nerves, stimulates tired muscles, and awakens to normal activity the glands that supply the digestive fluids. The first sign of returing health is an improved appetite, and soon the effect of these blood-making pills is evident throughout the whole system. You find that what you eat does not distress you, and that you are strong and vigorous instead of irritable and listless. You are on the road to sound, good health and care in your diet is all you need If your appetite is fickle, if you have any of the distressing pains and symptoms of indigestion you should begin to cure yourself at once by taking Dr. Williams' Pink Pills.

These pills are sold by all dealers in medicine or you can get them by mail at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50 from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

Maxwell

More miles per gallon
More miles on tires

These Have Made It a Greater Maxwell

300,000 who drive Maxwells of this very model will tell you that reliability plus, ability to endure, ability to stand the gaff of any going, is built into the Maxwell.

Reduced to a single word its story is—reliability.

But now this great car becomes even greater by five important improvements:

1. Hot Spot and Ram's-horn, which make the car run smoother, steadier, and with less wear, and give greater mileage.
2. Improved electrical unit, which cuts down battery wear.
3. New type radiator, which makes the car more pleasing to the eye.
4. New upholstery and seat springs, which produce a better riding quality.
5. A new top fabric, making the top more durable (tops so often are the first things to go in a car).

An important sum of money has been expended to make it a greater Maxwell. Yet the price is only $1395, f.o.b. Windsor.

Thus if you were hunting for nothing more than a bargain in a car you would not go further; but consider how superior a car you're getting when you buy a Maxwell.

THE TRANSFORMATION CONTINUES

All over Ontario, premises that were formerly used for the manufacture or sale of intoxicants are being changed into buildings for other useful purposes. Breweries and distilleries are being converted into factories or storage houses; bar rooms into drug stores or banks; liquor stores into groceries or bakeries.

This is occurring all over the Province with a resultant improvement in the appearance of many streets in the towns and villages, and the moral betterment of the community as a whole.

The same thing is already in progress in the United States. The National Advocate reports a brewery in Flint, Michigan, has become a Church; one in Aberdeen, Wash., has become a clam cannery; one in Spokane is making vinegar; one in Mobile is making syrup and stock food from watermelon; one in Iowa city is making butter; one in North Yakima is manufacturing by-products of fruit; one in Lansing is making auto parts; one in Peoria, Ill., is grinding corn meal; one in Rhode Island is producing moving pictures; one in Seattle is turning rice into syrup; one in Chicago is a hospital, and another is a soft drink factory; one in Salem, Ore., is now making logan berry juice; one in Washington, Pa., is making paints, oils and varnish; one in Wheeling is packing meat and several others are in the dairy business. The huge Anheuser-Busch brewing plant in St. Louis, acording to report, is to be converted soon into a packing plant establishment; one in Kansas City is passing into the hands of a food products concern. Many of these establishments now employ more workers than when in the beer busines.

If we add to these wonderful changes for the better the number of men who have been withdrawn from a harmful business and engaged in useful occupations, and add to that the food stuffs that were turned into poison, but now go to feed the people, we will get a glimpse of some of the blessings that follow prohibition.

The Bank of Toronto has opened up a branch in Feversham. D. McArthur, of the Stayner office, is in charge for a while.

FIREARMS ARE NOT FRAGILE

Shotgun Properly Cared For Is Said to Be Good for a Hundred Thousand Shots.

A question frequently asked is, "How long will my shotgun last?" or "How many shots can I fire from my rifle or revolver before it wears out?"

It is impossible for anyone to say just how long a firearm will last, because it is impossible to tell beforehand what kind of care it is going to get, and the care it receives makes all the difference between a few hundred shots and a lifetime of faithful service.

Assuming that they are cleaned carefully and consistently a good shotgun will show practically no falling off in pattern or penetration for probably well over 100,000 shots. A 22-caliber rifle and a revolver are both good for 30,000 or 40,000 shots. A high-power rifle is good for about 3,000 to 5,000 shots, usually the higher the velocity the shorter the life of the barrel.

Judging from these facts it would appear that the higher the pressure developed by the explosion the more wear on the barrel, for the shotgun develops the least pressure and the high-power rifle the most.

A rather interesting sidelight on this question of barrel life is a determination of the actual length of time to which a good shotgun barrel is subjected to the force and burning effect of the powder charge during its lifetime. If 100,000 shots are fired from a shotgun the inside of the barrel is actually exposed to the flame of the powder charge for about four minutes.

AMOUNT OF FOOD NEEDED

Committee of Experts Has Decided Just What Must Be Supplied to the Average Man.

As a basis for calculating the amount of food which must be provided for the human system the interallied scientific food commission has found that an average man of 154 pounds working eight hours a day requires food having an energy value of 3,300 calories.

The commission consists of representatives of the United States, France, Italy, Belgium and Great Britain, and its purpose is to consider the food problem of the allies from a scientific point of view, and in agreement with the interallied executives to make proposals to the allied governments.

The commission agreed that, in event it should become impossible to supply 3,300 calories of food, a reduction of 10 per cent could be suffered for some time without injury to health. The minimum ration of fat for the "average man" was determined upon as two and five-eighths ounces a day.

The commission recommended that a uniform average milling extraction of 85 per cent for wheat be adopted throughout the allied countries, but this extraction may vary from 80 per cent in summer to 90 per cent in winter.

The commission held sessions in London, Paris and Rome.

A Reel Treat.

"Ladies and gentlemen," began the manager of the Dillydally moving picture theater, appearing in front of the screen, "it affords me pleasure to assure you that we are about to present for your entertainment a unique departure in modern motion pictures—a 1,000-foot film, on which, after about 800 feet have been used in exploiting the title, the name of the author, the strike countenance of the famous star, Francis X. Mushman, the fact that it was produced under the personal supervision of a great genius of whom you never heard before, and the information that the photography, which is no better and no worse than common, was done by another total stranger, there will positively be nearly 200 feet of pictures given!"—Kansas City Star.

Epidemic Record of 1917.

Disease scourges took a great toll in the orient during 1917. Cholera prevailed in southern Asia from Asiatic Turkey to the Philippines, striking down 55,000 in the Indian region; there were 8,870 cases in the Philippines and many deaths in Burmah. Bubonic plague belted the tropical world from Peru to Hawaii and New Caledonia. In British India the largest mortality took place; there were 500,000 cases, with 360,000 deaths. The disease area extended as far north as Egypt and Senegal. Yellow fever appeared in Africa, Mexico and South America. The deaths were not above several hundred.

Surely Has "Done His Bit."

"I think this man is doing his bit," writes an army correspondent who sends the following dispatch to the Army and Navy Journal:

"George Borden, a negro, of Goldsboro, N. C., has furnished sons to the war in the sum of nearly two squads. He is the father of 35 children, 27 of them living and 14 of them in the United States army either in this country or in France.

"He has been married three times and on four occasions has been the father of quadruplets."

Many Feeble-Minded.

A complete census of the feeble-minded in the United States has never been taken, but it is estimated that there is one feeble-minded person to every 250 of the population, or approximately 400,000 in all, according to the secretary of one of the New York mental hygiene organizations. About 12,000 men have been rejected from the new national army on account of nervous and mental disorders; and one-third of these were rejected on account of feeble-mindedness.

SCALDED FATALLY

Last Wednesday night, before Fred Dick left Linders Limited, where he is employed, he followed his usual custom and drew a pail of boiling water for a friend. His twin children came toddling to the jam factory to "go home with daddy" as was their custom every day. Playing about their father's feet, as he talked to his friend, the little boy walked backward laughing and calling to his sister. Without a moment's warning, he dropped into the pail of boiling water and with a few spasmodic movements wedged himself in tightly. His father, stiff with horror at the tragedy that had happened before his very eyes, made every effort to extricate the little fellow, who screaming with pain, only wedged himself in the tighter. When he was finally taken from the pail it took four men to hold him while Dr. Edwards, who had been hastily summoned, did his best to deaden the terrible suffering with merciful anaesthetics. The litle fellow's temperature rose immediately to 106.3 degrees and he was taken as quickly as possible by motor to the Sick Children's Hospital. Everything that could be done to lessen the pain was tried, but death ended his suffering on Friday afternoon. The funeral took pace on Saturday afternoon to Brampton Cemetery, the services being conducted by Rev. Wm. Cullen. The deepest sympathy is felt for Mr. and Mrs. Dick in this sad trouble that has overtaken them.—Conservator.

G.W.V.A. CELEBRATION.

Orangeville Will Have a Big Day on August 4th.

As intimated in last week's issue of The Banner the Orangeville Branch of the G.W.V.A. and the Dufferin Lacrosse Club are joining forces for the purpose of holding a Big Celebration in Orangeville on Monday, August 4th. Citizens of the town are cooperating and are arranging to extend a hearty welcome home to all returned men from Orangeville and district. The programme for the day will include a Big Parade and a baseball match in the forenoon. In the afternoon there will be a lacrosse match between the Dufferins and a strong Toronto team, foot races and other sports. A big Garden party and Band Concert is planned for night and it is expected that the Band of the famous 48th Highlanders will be secured for the Concert. A half dozen committees are hard at work making the necessary arrangements and bills will be out in a few days giving details of the programme. As August 4th will be civic holiday in Toronto and a number of towns in this part of Ontario the Celebration is almost certain to draw an immense crowd. A special invitation is extended to all Great War Veterans in this district to attend. Watch for bills with full programme.

Had Her Hands Full.

An amateur mission worker ventured into one of the West side offices of the Associated Charities.

"Oh," she exclaimed, "I have the saddest case for you. Really, it is quite pathetic. A woman, who has been deserted by her husband, left five little children to support. She is too frail to work, and I'm sure there isn't enough in the house for their next meal."

"But what is to prevent you from taking charge of this case yourself?" asked the official.

"Oh," said the visitor, drawing herself up haughtily, "I couldn't think of it, you know. Why, I'm doing the Lord's work!"—Chicago American.

—Keep Monday, August 4th, open for Orangeville's Big Celebration.

SPENT A SMALL FORTUNE, HE SAYS

Chappell Suffered Fifteen Years Before Finding Relief.—Praises Tanlac.

Remarkable, indeed, was the statement made by W. D. Chappell, a well known painter and paper hanger, living at 311 South Franklin street, St. Paul, Minnesota, while in the St. Paul Drug Company's store recently. Mr. Chappell declared that three bottles of Tanlac have done him more real good than other treatment and medicines that have cost him a small fortune, which he has paid out during the past fifteen years trying to get rid of a bad case of stomach trouble and kidney complaint.

"For fifteen years," said Mr. Chappell, "I have suffered from stomach trouble and painful, disordered kidneys. My appetite was gone and the gas from what little I did eat would bloat me up terribly, causing intense pains in my left side and about my heart. My kidneys disturbed me so at night that I never averaged more than about three hours sleep and the pains in my back were so bad that it was agony for me to bend over and straighten up. I was also badly constipated and felt tired out all the time. I have spent a small fortune trying to get rid of these troubles, but only got worse. This spring I got in such a bad shape I was forced to quit work entirely.

"A man I know personally, one whose word I could not doubt, recommended Tanlac to me and, while I have taken only three bottles so far, the medicine has done me more real good than everything else I have taken combined, and I am still taking it and improving right along. My stomach feels almost like a new one and my kidneys are in much better shape. I am sleeping better at night than I have in years and I get up in the mornings feeling like work. My appetite is so good that I just want to eat all the time and since the gas has stopped forming on my stomach I am not troubled any more with pains in my side or about my heart. Tanlac commenced to build me up before I had finished the first bottle and I have been steadily improving ever since. I had about given up hope of ever finding a medicine that would help me, so you may know how thankful I am that Tanlac came my way, and I am glad to pass the good word along."

HYDRO SHOWS SURPLUS

Orangeville $470 to the Good.

The eleventh annual report of the Hydro Electric Power Commission of Ontario has been received and gives some very interesting details of the working out of its system thro'out Ontario. The report is divided into many groups based on the source of supply and this part of the country is, of course, listed with those which receive their supply of electric energy from the falls at Eugenia.

The following towns and villages showed surpluses: Markdale, $121.00; Owen Sound, $11,048.66; Durham, $504.17; Hanover, $2,165.25; Dundalk, $234.95; Shelburne, $47.60; Orangeville, $470.00; Alton Foundry, $376.62; Grand Valley, $90.34.

Deficits are shown by Flesherton, $148.93; Chatsworth, $48.33; Mount Forest, $1,362.21; Tara, $1,668.38; Holstein, $634.15; Chesley, $627.42; Hornings Mills, $186.95 and Arthur $1,053.96. Power supplied to companies and to the Severn River system showed a net surplus of $4,001.71, which was applied on reserve for contingencies. Rural lines from Markdale to Flesherton showed a revenue of $116.94, no surplus or deficit.

Owen Sound used 1007.6 horsepower on an average, and the next largest user was Hanover with 278.3 horse-power. Carlsruhe and Neustadt used 8.5 horsepower; Tara, 24.9; Holstein, 6.4; Elmwood, 27.5; Chatsworth, 31.1; Flesherton, 33.3; Markdale, 67; Durham, 69.8; Dundalk, 27.30; Shelburne, 123.7; Orangeville, 127; Alton Foundry, 90.9; Grand Valley, 51.5; Arthur, 102. The rate charged to the various municipalities varied considerably from $23.24 at Markdale to $45 at Arthur and Grand Valley. The following are the rates charged: Markdale, $23.24; Flesherton, $25.96; Chatsworth, $30; Tara, $37; Owen Sound, $31; Durham, $33.97; Holstein, $43.50; Mt. Forest, $40.51; Hanover, $35; Elmwood, $35; Chesley, $40; Dundalk, $27.30; Shelburne, $30; Orangeville, $35; Alton, $43.23; Grand Valley, $45.00; Arthur, $45.

The total revenue from the municipalities on the Eugenia system was $77,854.60 and from companies and sale of power to the Severn River system, $48,386.68, making a total revenue of $126,241.28.

The net deficit of the Eugenia Falls system since it was first put in operation over three years ago, was shown to be $25,143.05, though Owen Sound shows a net surplus of $9,091. Hanover and Hornings Mills are the only two other places to show a surplus on the operations for the full period of operations.

Dundalk, Durham, Chesley, Shelburne, Chatsworth, Orangeville, Arthur, Hornings Mills and Grand Valley all showed increase between October, 1917, and October, 1918, but Mount Forest, Flesherton, Markdale, Holstein and Owen Sound showed decreased consumption. The report goes on to say that:

"The quantity of power delivered to the municipalities at the Eugenia System was increased during the past year. Continuous service was assured as a result of a parallel operation of the generating station at the Falls with the big chute power house.

Certain additions and alterations were completed at the power house to facilitate paralleled operations and measurement of the power supplied over the Eugenia-Collingwood tie line to the Severn system. A number of changes were also made in the line entrance structure at the Eugenia Power House. Each high tension outgoing line to the Eugenia system and to the tie line is now individually provided with standard equipment. Other changes were made to accommodate operation pending the completion of the extension to this point."

In the Fight With Eczema

You Can Depend on Dr. Chase's Ointment to Bring Relief and Cure.

The obstinacy of eczema is well known. The fact that Dr. Chase's Ointment has been able to cure in even the most severe cases is the best proof of the extraordinary healing powers of this standard ointment.

Cures such as are described in these letters give you some idea of what you may expect from this treatment.

Mrs. Frank Wadge, Midland, Ont., writes: "One of my boys had an attack of eczema, and although I tried different preparations for this trouble, as well as medicines from four doctors, we could not get satisfactory results. Finally, I tried Dr. Chase's Ointment, and from the first I found it gave good results. We used a good treatment of this ointment, and in a short time the eczema was cured. I have also used the ointment with great success for a roughness and rash on my face, which caused me a great deal of trouble. After applying Dr. Chase's Ointment I found instant relief.

"I might also mention that Dr. Chase's Catarrh Powder has proven of great benefit to me. I had difficulty with a stoppage in my nose and head, but the Catarrh Powder relieved it, and I have not been bothered in this way since."

Mrs. P. H. Veale, 19 William street, Hamilton, Ont., writes: "I can highly recommend Dr. Chase's Ointment, having used it with splendid results where all others failed. My little girl, aged 3½ years, broke out in small yellow blisters, which turned into scabs. They came out in different places on her face, and although I tried a great many salves and ointments none of them did her any good. I got a box of Dr. Chase's Ointment, and after a few applications, I could see the effects of it. Whenever I saw a new spot appearing I would apply the ointment, and before the box was finished she was entirely cured of those horrid sores.

If you would like to try Dr. Chase's Ointment at our expense, send a two-cent stamp to pay postage and we shall mail you a sample box free. Full size box 60 cents, at all dealers, or Edmanson, Bates & Co., Limited, Toronto.

Perhaps this was your boy and you gave him a scolding. But it really wasn't his fault, he wouldn't be normal if he wasn't hard on stockings.

Because we knew boys, we designed Buster Brown Stockings. Made them to stand the strenuous use of the average boy.

We knitted them from extra-long yarn made by ourselves to ensure uniform quality. Our employees have had years of special training in knitting Buster Brown quality into hosiery.

The Council and Citizens of the Municipality of East Garafraxa are arranging for a big Civic Reception and Garden Party in honor of the returned soldiers of the Township. The event will take place on the Marsville school grounds, on Friday evening Aug. 1st. Duncan R. Cowan, of Toronto, Canada's premier entertainer, has been engaged for the evening. Mount Forest Highland Pipers will also be present, and there will be a baseball match between the oldtime rivals, Bellwood and Hillsburg, commencing at 6.15 sharp. Addresses appropriate to the occasion will be delivered by John Best, M.P., C. R. McKeown, M.L.A., Col. J. A. V. Preston, Warden Hilborn, and other speakers. There will be a refreshment booth on the grounds in charge of the Marsville Woman's Institute. Admission 25c.; children 15c.; Returned soldiers free. A cordial invitation is extended to all returned men to be present.

MILITARY NOTES.

Pte. G. Mountford, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ed. Mountford, of Camilla, was among those who returned from overseas on the Olympic a short time ago. He went over originally with the 164th Battalion.

Spr. L. S. Locke, son of Rev. John Locke, pastor of St. Paul's church, Brampton, and a former pastor of Orangeville Methodist Church, after two years service in the colors, returned home on the Belgic. He was a signaller with the 6th Brigade artillery in France. Spr. Locke had a hot time of it in the Cambrai battle but fortunately came through it alright.

Lorne Black, son of Mr. and Mrs. Jno. Black, of Amaranth Station, arrived home from overseas about ten days ago His brother, Norman, arrived home some weeks ago. The two brothers went overseas in March, of last year, and both saw service in France. Norman had the pleasure of being with the Canadians during the triumphant march into Germany after the armistice was signed. He was 160 miles into the enemy's country.

Capt. Henry, after two and a half years service overseas with the Canadian Army Dental Corps, arrived home early Monday morning and was given the glad hand by his many friends. He came over on the Royal George. Capt. Henry looks well and is feeling fit. During his absence he has been in England, France, Belgium, Italy and Austria, besides putting in two and a half months with the army of occupation in Germany. He can only remain a few days in Leamington as he has to continue on duty for eight or nine months longer and has to be in Victoria, B.C., by July 21st.—Leamington Post and News.

Capt. Henry is a brother of Township Clerk W. A. Henry, of Mono.

Gunner Stuart Porter, son of Mr. and Mrs. T. G. Porter, was accorded a rousing reception by the Band and citizens generally on his arrival home on Monday night. Gunner Porter enlisted with the 67th Battery in Toronto in September, 1916, and went overseas in November following. He trained in England for five months before going to France with the 6th Battery. He was gassed at Hill 70 in August, 1917, spent seven months in Hospital at Warrington and then returned to his Battey with which he served until the armistice. Gunner Porter spent two months in Germany and had the misfortune to contract diphtheria after returning to England. He is looking well considering his recent illness.

The many friends and acquaintances of Gunner Willard Scott, son of Mr. and Mrs. Isaac Scott, formerly of Waldemar, Ont., will be pleased to learn of his safe return from France on the last day of March, 1919. Gnr. Scott enlisted with the 31st Battery C.F.A. on July 2nd, 1915, and left for England after training here on February 3rd, 1916. On July 12th, 1916, he arrived in France and saw from that date until the day of the armistice continual service at the front except for a short time when his hearing required medical attention. One of the outstanding features of Gunner Scott's service of three and a half years in France was the fact of his never once allowing a note of complaint to creep into his letters to his mother. No matter what privations and dangers he underwent his letters seemed always to bring to his home the cheerfulness with which he did his duty. The day he arrived in Toronto he was met by a host of friends who took him to his gaily decorated home where his parents have once more the pleasure of seeing their son safe and sound after a strenuous time amidst appalling dangers.

Wax Ancestors.

Many ancient families in England have stored away life-sized figures in wax of their ancestors, made at the time of the original's death. The Duke of Norfolk has the figures of three wives of one of his ancestors, which are kept in a glass case at one of his country seats.

Police interpreters are stationed in the principal streets of Paris to assist allied soldiers.

W. S. Stamps give you a stake in Canada.

MRS. JOHN PRESLEY.

Mrs. John Presley passed away at her late residence, 17 Euclid Ave, Toronto, on Friday, July 18. Before her marriage deceased was Miss Caroline Carter, of Orangeville. Her husband, who is also a former resident of this town, was leader of the Citizens Band here about thirty years ago. She is survived by her husband, one son and one daughter. The funeral took place to Prospect Cemetery, Toronto, on Monday, following the death.

GEORGE G. SMITH.

George Gracen Smith, for thirty-five years postmaster and proprietor of the general store in Credit Forks village, died last week at the age of 71 years, at the home of his son, Edgar Smith, 170 Vaughan Rd., Toronto. Deceased, who is survived by a family of three sons and three daughters, had been living in Toronto only one year and a half. Mr. Smith was in charge of the Chisholm stores during the boom at Credit Forks following the building of the Credit Valley Railway. When the quarries failed he went into business on his own account. The deceased was a Conservative, and a member of the Orange Order. His wife died about five years ago.

MRS. HARVEY MATTHEWS.

The sincere sympathy of the people of Orangeville goes out to our former townsman, Mr. J. J. Still, of Erin, in the grievous loss he has sustained through the death on Friday night last of his only daughter, Mrs. Harvey Matthews, better known here by her maiden name, Evelyn Still. Mrs. Matthews, who was married less than a year ago, would have been twenty years of age had she lived until September. A week before her death she gave birth to a baby daughter. She was getting along nicely until Friday night, when she took a violent hemorrhage, which resulted fatally. She is survived by her little daughter, the young husband and her father. Her untimely demise was the cause of widespread sorrow and has called forth a feeling of the most profound sympathy for the bereaved father

The remains were brought here from Erin for burial, the funeral taking place to the Forest Lawn cemetery on Monday afternoon.

MRS. THOS. WHITE.

The death of Mrs. Isabella White, widow of the late Thomas White, of Glencross occurred at her home, lot 10, Con. 3, east, Mono, on Sunday at the age of 70 years. Deceased had been ill since early last spring with heart and stomach trouble and her demise was not unexpected. Mrs. White, whose maiden name was Isabella Hunter, was a daughter of the late Thomas Hunter, of Mono, and Melancthon. She was born and had spent her lifetime in Mono, where she was highly respected by a large circle of friends and neighbors. Her husband died seventeen years ago last June. Her loss is mourned by three sons, Hunter and Will J. White, of Glencross, and Joseph White, of Niagara Falls. Mrs. Thos. White, of Toronto, and Mrs. Jas. Slack, of Barrie, are sisters. Mrs. White was a member of the Presbyterian Church. There was a large attendance at the funeral, which was held to the Forest Lawn Cemetery on Monday afternoon. Rev. W. M. Morris was the officiating minister and Messrs John Still, Thos. H. Moffitt, Andrew Moffitt, Sam Roney, Joseph and John Pierson were the pallbearers.

MRS. BOWLES.

Mrs. Bowles, widow of the late Thomas Bowles, Sheriff of the County of Dufferin from 1881 until his death in August 1913, passed away at the home of her daughter, Mrs. W. Marshall Green, about five o'clock on Tuesday afternoon. Deceased, who was in her 86th year, had been in failing health for a considerable time. Mrs. Bowles, whose maiden name was Jane Lester, was a daughter of the late Isaac Lester, one of the early residents of Albion township. She was married to her late husband about 62 years ago and has been an esteemed resident of Orangeville for nearly 40 years. Mrs. Bowles was a staunch member of the Methodist Church and in her earlier years took a very active interest in the work of the various Church societies. In her home she filled the part of wife and mother in a most exemplary manner. Kindly of heart and generous in her sympathies she was an excellent neighbor and a useful member of the community. The memory of her pure and unselfish life will be tenderly cherished by her family of three sons and two daughters. These are Chas. Bowles, of Mono Road, Isaac Bowles, of Toronto, Dr. W. H. Bowles and Mrs. W. M. Green, Orangeville, and Mrs. (Rev.) E. A. Pearson, of Guelph. The funeral, which will be private, is to be by motor from the residence of her son, Dr. W. H. Bowles, West Broadway, to Providence Church Cemetery, Mono Road, 1.30 (Thursday). Service was held at Dr. Bowles' home at 9 o'clock last evening.

He experienced considerable difficulty in securing passage from England, but finally managed to book on a vessel sailing for Boston, Mass.

A GOOD SCHOOL

The Orangeville Business College has just completed the most successful year in its history, having had during the school year over one hundred students in attendance; this is a larger enrolment than most city colleges.

The interior of the College is being redecorated and considerable new equipment added for the re-opening on September 2nd. Every graduate is assured a good position and its old graduates are among the most successful in this province.

The Orangeville Business College is approved by the Military Authorities of Canada as a training school for returned soldiers, who are entitled to a free education, and a living allowance of Four Hundred and Twenty Dollars during the six months.

Many ambitious young people, who cannot attend now, are taking advantage of the Home Study Courses, thereby, shortening their term at college and cutting down expenses.

All interested should write now for information and thus get advantage of the old rate of tuition fees. The Orangeville Business College is affiliated with the Canada Business College, Toronto, and ten other colleges.

LACROSSE NOTES.

The Dufferins have taken a long stride toward the District Championship since the last issue of The Banner went to press. On Wednesday, July 23rd, they defeated Hanover on Idylwyld Park by the one-sided score of 21 to 3 Last Wednesday they scored another win in Hanover, score was 14 to 7. These two wins give the green-shirts a stranglehold on the District.

Dufferins put it over Young Torontos by a score of 11 to 3 in the exhibition game on Idylwyld park a week ago Saturday. The game was a peach from the spectators standpoint. A record crowd was in attendance.

Owen Sound defaulted the championship game advertised for Idylwyld Park on yesterday afternoon. Not to disappoint local fans the Dufferin management arranged to have Wodbridge come for an evening game.

The Dufferins are endeavoring to make arrangements for a special train to Durham for the schedule match in that town on Friday, Aug. 8th. This will be the last game in the district series.

BABY'S GREAT DANGER DURING HOT WEATHER

More little ones die during the hot weather than at any other time of the year. Diarrhoea, dysentry, cholera infantum and stomach troubles come without warning, and when a medicine is not at hand to give promptly the short delay too frequently means that the child has passed beyond aid. Baby' Own Tablets should always be kept in the house where there are young children. An occasional dose of the Tablets will prevent stomach and bowel troubles, or if the trouble comes suddenly the prompt use of the Tablets will relieve the baby. The Tablets are sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 25c. a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

Herbert Couch Wins the General Proficiency Gold Medal, One Year Ahead of Time.

In the results of the annual examinations of the Ottawa Collegiate Institute, just published, the name of Herbert N. Couch, son of Rev. Isaac Couch, M.A., B.D., pastor of the Quebec Methodist church, appears as the winner, of the "General Proficiency Gold Medal."

Herbert has attended this seat of learning for the past five years. He was successful during each of the first four years in carrying off the general proficiency medal in his class. One year ago he entered the higher work for scholarship matriculation, a further course of two years, and embracing some twenty examination papers, in company with others who had already spent one year in the upper form. He has now obtained the highest award in the gift of the Collegiate, one year before the completion of his term, and in a similar manner won the medal in Mathematics, and also in French and German; and stood first in English.

He will return to the Collegiate for another year before presenting himself for full honors or what is known as scholarship in matriculation at Toronto University.—Quebec Chronicle.

played by the band and silently sung by many whose hearts were too full to allow their lips utterance.

The veterans were the most prominent party in the audience gathered about the platform during this ceremony and among the boys were no less than six members of the Brampton lacrosse club, all of whom had "done their bit" in France and Flanders.

A most interesting program of sports and races was carried out.

The supper, aside from that provided for the returned men was a picnic of the happiest kind. The baskets gave never a hint as to the high cost of living. They were full, running over, with the overflow packed into a second and third basket in some cases. And what they could not bring from home, such as ice cream and soft drinks, they secured from the big tent.

"Three deep," one guest says the customers were packed around that counter all afternoon. It did not matter that the papers of late have been full of warnings to disregard soft drinks and the like. Caledon was out to celebrate so it disregarded the warnings and not the drinks.

Supper over, folks visited round and chatted, until the early evening brought the garden party. LeRoy Kenny, funny as ever, and keyed to the occasion got everybody laughing on the start and never let up. No finer singing was ever heard than that of the "Big Four" quartette from Toronto, consisting of Gladstone Brown, Albert David, Charles H. Leslie and Dr. Donald C. McGregor. Their selections were of a very high order, though containing the patriotic note and were of the quality that brings the heart to the throat with their sweetness and appeal.

During the evening the 48th Band continued the program started in the afternoon and were heard with delight to the very last. Short addresses were given by Major Burch and Captain Duncan during the evening, both of them well able to speak to the soldier and to others for the soldier.

No more glorious day has ever been in Caledon, no more glorious day can be expected of the future. It was a big day in happiness, in the touch of nature that makes the whole world kin and in the recognition in a big way of the big debt that Caledon owes her soldier boys.

The committee deserves the highest praise for the thoroughness of the arrangements which were followed by so well-deserved success. — Brampton Conservator.

SPECIFIC FOR BRONCHITIS

The turpentine used in Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine is not the ordinary commercial article, which is little used because of the unpleasantness of taste, but is specially extracted from tamarac and spruce gum and so combined with other valuable ingredients as to be at the same time pleasant to use and wonderfully effective in the cure of affections of the throat, bronchial tubes and lungs. An American genius has developed a pocket wireless by means of which conversation can be carried on over a quarter of a mile. The outfit weighs 12 lbs. and costs $15. This would seem to be a mighty handy thing for a modern farm. While driving his tractor in the field a farmer will be able to call up his house and ask if dinner is ready, and the wife, on her part, will find it possible to ring up her husband and ask him to get out the auto and hurry off for a bottle of paregoric to cure baby's colic.

SOLDIERS HONORED.

Caledon Returned Men Given Rousing Reception at Big Celebration Held Tuesday of Last Week.

Stirring Addresses by Major Burch and Captain Duncan — Aerial Flights — Athletic Games—Garden Party—Supper.

The weather man prepared a special brand of weather for the big celebration that was held in Caledon on Tuesday afternoon, when the township united in welcoming, with a genuine celebration, the boys who went overseas. All Nature smiled and lovely Caledon never appeared to such advantage as when she donned her summer garb for the occasion.

The site chosen for the celebration was the home of Mr. Geo. Laughlin, lot 15, first line west. This property is historic in the county. The present owner was born on the adjoining property, and when he took possession of his present farm twenty-nine years ago, found it covered with immense virgin pines, 100 feet in height. These he removed in clearing the land. On Tuesday, what had once been forest was the scene of one of the most remarkable gatherings ever held in Ontario.

Entering the grounds a large plot to the left was laid out as a lacrosse field, and on it later in the afternoon Orangeville engaged Brampton in a game, the latter team winning 7 to 6.

At the far side of the lacrosse field the ground dipped into a small but beautiful ravine, and to the right of this ravine the platform was erected where the speakers were surrounded at all times by a most attentive and interested crowd of listeners.

On the far edge of the ravine was a small grove of lovely trees, and in this grove were set the tables, from which the returned men were regaled with a feast that rivalled the famous feast of Nebuchednezzar. The ladies had vied with each other in setting the tables, and the competition in decoration and design was very keen. It would be a task upon which mortal man would dismally fail in trying to give a description of what these wonderfully spread tables looked like.

As for the food, the like was never seen nor known in the history of Caledon. It looked as if every housewife in the Township had busied herself with the latest word from the various women's journals, and then had gone far beyond that. Meats, and cakes and pies and salads. The Waldorf Astoria never offered any such bill of fare.

While the preliminary items of the program were under consideration, a flier sent by the International Aerial Transport Company did some fancy stunts and then offered his services to take passengers for short flights. Did he have any passengers? What do you know about James Barber taking a fly? He was the oldest man who went up and there were others upon whom he is not going to have anything in the way of adventure.

The oldest-timer present was lost in wonder at the title on the program. "Not so long ago," said he, "the steam cars were new, then the automobile, now the air-ships, what will Caledon see next?"

Alton is doing some crowing about having won the baseball game from Inglewood, a match that was closely contested, but in the friendliest manner.

When the grounds began to fill up and observers saw the cars being parked in ever increasing numbers along the sides of the road, the following celebrities were noticed: Major Burch, of West Toronto, Captain Duncan, of Port Credit, Clerk Willis and members of the Caledon Council, Rev. Mr. Burkholder, Major T. L. Kennedy, of Dixie, Major W. D. Sharpe, of Brampton, Capt. Dan McCaughrin, of Mono Road, and Lieut. Selwyn Judge, just returned from overseas.

It was a wonderful sight for the beholder just before the ceremonial event of the afternoon, for there was gathered some of the best of Peel's rural population, the men showing every evidence of prosperity and up-to-date business swing, the women in pretty and expensive summer clothes that would have graced a large city gathering. Among them strolled the returned soldiers, some of them in khaki, a color contrast that allowed no one to forget the reason of the gathering. Above all sounded the soft notes of the 48th Highlanders Band, which under the direction of Captain Slater played every patriotic air known to modern musicians. And hitch over everything, the drone of the flying machine constantly reminding those present of the reality of the new era that is before Canada.

The official welcome was given by Reeve Kennawin and Rev. Mr. Burkholder, and on behalf of the soldiers the responses were given by Major Burch and Captain Duncan. In their replies both emphasized the fact that now the war is over, those who never went across owe it to the soldiers to see that the fight for liberty shall have resulted in a genuine liberty and a real freedom, equally shared by all.

Lt. Selwyn Judge was flag officer of the day, and during the ceremonial recognition of the services of the "unreturnable dead," lowered the flag, while Rev. Mr. Burch prayed for those who mourn the loss of the sleeping heroes and for the harvesting of the sacrifice which they made in a better Canada. Captain Duncan, whose own two boys made the supreme sacrifice, fittingly spoke on this occasion.

On the conclusion of the prayer and address, the flag was slowly raised to the strains of the National Anthem

A war trophies collection belonging to Dr. Murray and now shown in Mr. J. A. Armour's window, in Owen Sound, is attracting wide attention as evidenced by the crowd that is continually viewing it.

The funeral of the three little daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Fraser, who lost their lives in the Sydenham river, took place from the family residence to Zion cemetery, Hepworth, and was the largest and saddest ever held in the community.

Fire destroyed the big grist mill owned by Wm. Knechtel and Son, of Hanover, and did damage amounting to between $100,000 and $150,000. About 22,000 bu. of new wheat was in the mill and it was totally destroyed. The fire is believed to have been caused by defective wiring.

Earl Ritchie, the thirteen-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Ritchie, of Metz, was the victim of an unfortunate accident. The lad was driving the team on the wagon and hay loader. One of the horses tie straps dropped down and the boy walked out on the tongue of the wagon and put it back in place. As he was going back to the load the horses began kicking and one of them struck him on the right leg breaking one of the bones just below the knee.

TRAVELLING MAN GAINS 20 POUNDS

Crull Eats What He Wants And Sleeps Like a Log Since taking Tanlac.

"My opinion of Tanlac is that it can't be beat," said F. H. Crull, a well known traveling salesman, living at 312 West 31st Street, Indianapolis, Ind., while discussing the medicine, recently. Mr. Crull has lived in Indianapolis for the past twenty years. He has represented the Taggart Baking Company on the road for twelve years and is one of the most popular "Knights of the Grip" traveling Indiana.

"I can testify to both the immediate and lasting results that come from its use," continued Mr. Crull. "A little over a year ago I got rid of a bad case of stomach trouble, from which I had been suffering for two years, by taking Tanlac, and do you know I haven't suffered a particle from indigestion to this good day. I had been having a world of trouble with my stomach and awful pains in my right side and was finally operated on for appendicitis. After the operation I still suffered with indigestion. I had no appetite and what little I did eat would sour, causing gas, bloating and intense pain. It looked like I would never get my strength back and I was as nervous as a cat. Many a night while out on the road I could not close my eyes for sleep. This condition kept up until I went down to one hundred and thirty pounds in weight and was almost a complete nervous wreck.

"About this time I read a statement about Tanlac that described my case so well that I decided to try a bottle of the medicine. Well, the first bottle helped me so much that I got another and it wasn't but a few weeks until I was free from all signs of stomach trouble and found that I had actually gained twenty pounds in weight. Besides, going up to one hundred and fifty pounds, I could go out and do a hard day's work and sleep like a log at night, and it made no difference whether it was at a hotel, on a Pullman, or home, I could sleep soundly just the same. The medicine gave me wonderful strength and energy and such a big appetite that I could hardly get enough to eat. Well, to make it short, Tanlac fixed me up in fine shape and I haven't had the least bit of trouble with my stomach since I finished my first bottle, more than a year ago. I just got another bottle of Tanlac the other day and my wife and I are both taking it. We had the 'Flu' this past winter and neither of us had gotten over the effects of it. But Tanlac is going to set us right, for I already see a great improvement, especially in our appetites. I am only too glad to recommend Tanlac for it is one medicine that can be depended upon for results."

"Tanlac is sold in Orangeville by C. V. Jeffers, in Grand Valley by G. E. Morrow, in Shelburne by J. E. A. White, and in Grand Valley by W. T. Edmonson."

GOD SAVE THE KING!

A ROYAL CELEBRATION

An Immense Crowd Attended Peace Day Sports in Orangeville.

Monday's Program Included Morning Parade, Lacrosse, Baseball and Races in Afternoon and Big Garden Party at Night.

Orangeville's Big Peace Celebration attracted an immense crowd of visitors to town on Monday. The town itself was in gala attire for the day, business places on both sides of Broadway and scores of private residences being gaily decked with flags, large and small, pennants and bright colored bunting. Orangeville Citizens Band and the local Reception Committee were astir early in the day making preparations to meet the morning trains. The Celebration commenced with the arrival of the trains from the north and west bringing Dundalk Citizens Band, Mount Forest Pipe Band and a good-sized crowd of holiday-makers. Elora Citizens Band arrived a little later in the day. The Toronto train brought in a big crowd, the majority of whom were former residents of Orangeville and district now living in the city.

The parade of the War Veterans, school children and decorated autos and floats was the important morning attraction and was the means of bringing in a big forenoon crowd. The parade was timed to leave the Public School grounds at 10-45 a.m. but it was perhaps twenty-five minutes later when the first band swung into sight at the top of the West Broadway hill. By this time the street was lined with autos and spectators afoot from the Post Office or even farther west as far east as Scond Street. The parade made an imposing spectacle as it moved down the slope and a score of amateur photographers spent a busy few minutes getting snaps. With three brass bands and the Highland pipers in the line there was music a-plenty and mighty good music most of it was. The War Veterans, while not out in anything like full strength, made a fine showing and marched with the military precision learned from years of military life in the camps and on the battlefields of Europe. They were under the command of Col. J. A. V. Preston and were heartily applauded by the spectators at frequent intervals along the route. The school children made a brave showing as they trudged along in a long column. Then came a long line of cars, a number of them beautifully decorated and nearly all gay with fluttering flags. The order of the parade was:—

Decorated auto carrying Mayor Lewis and members of the Parade Committee.
Jas. A. Patterson, marshall, on horse.
Elora Citizens Band.
Great War Veterans
Dufferin Old-Boys.
Dundalk Citizens Band
School Children.
Orangeville Citizens Band
Decorated Autos and Floats
Mount Forest Pipers
Autos and Comic Outfits.

The Parade came to an end in Alexandra Park, where the Bands gave selections ,after which Mayor Lewis formally welcomed the Returned Men home and extended the freedom and hospitality of the town to them and other visitors for the day. Short patriotic addresses were delivered by C. R. McKeown, M.L.A., John Best, M.P. and Rev. Capt. Stewart, a returned man who has recently been appointed rector of St. Mark's church.

Shortly after 1.30 p.m. the three brass bands and the pipers massed on Alexandra Park and paraded west on First Ave. and then east along Broadway before marching to Idylwyld Park. The three bands numbered over sixty musicians and their playing as they marched down Broadway was something to be remembered. Never before has Idylwyld held so large a crowd. There must have been between 4000 and 5000 people on the grounds. Two additional entrances were improvised for autos which were there in hundreds and the main entrance was reserved for pedestrians. Cars were parked two and three deep right along the east side of the Park and also well along the north and south ends. The west side of the field was crowded with spectators afoot and the grand stand was packed to overflowing. The spectators lined the fence surrounding the playing oval in an unbroken circle.

The opening afternoon attraction, a baseball game between Erin and Grand Valley teams, was late starting owing to a breakdown on the road delaying some of the Valley players. When they did get going the two nines gave a fine exhibition of fast, snappy base ball. Both teams had strong batteries and whatever hits were made were well taken care of by the fielders. There were very few errors and from the spectators' standpoint it was a game well worth watching. Owing to the delay in starting, the game was called at the end of the sixth inning to allow the lacrosse match to proceed. The other three innings were played after the lacrosse game had finished. It was a close go between the teams. Grand Valley scored two runs in the second innings, and annexed another counter in the third. Erin batted out three in their half of the third, tying the score. Neither team succeeded in getting another man over the plate until the sixth, when Grand Valley tallied two. Erin annexed one in the eighth and made a desperate effort to tie the score in the ninth but failed. Players and positions were:—

Erin—Horton, c; J. Bush rf; Trimble, lf; Woods, ss; W. Bush, 2b; Carmichael, 3b; Matthews, p; Saunders, 1b; Theobald, cf.

The lacrose match between the Toronto Maitlands and the Dufferins was the star attraction of the afternoon. The game was probably the best exposition of clean, fast, clever lacrosse witnessed in Orangeville this year. The green shirts secured the big end of a 15—5 score, but the score is by no means indicative of the character of the game. While outscored the visitors were by no means outplayed. They have a fast, clever home, which is always dangerous when anywhere near the flags. The only criticism we have heard of their play was the slowness which the home field brought in the ball. This gave the Dufferin defence time to get set for the attack. The Dufferin field moved much faster and in this respect the methods of the two teams stood out in sharp contrast. Maitlands tallied the first goal almost on the first rush down the field. They continued on the aggressive when play resumed, but the Dufferins were settling down and it was not long until they tied the score. A little later the green shirts took the lead and the end o fthe quarter found the score 4 to 2 in their favor. Play in the second quarter continued fairly even, but the fast scoring Dufferin home players were too clever for the visitors defence and succeeded in running in six goals, while the best the Maitlands home could do was two. The home team tallied four more in the third period, while the visitors were held scoreless. Each team got a single tally in the last quarter, making the score 15 to 5 when time was called. Ernie Menary, of Toronto, an oldtime Dufferin player, handled the game to the entire satisfaction of players and spectators. The line-up was:—

Maitlands — Goal, Sutherland; point, Stroud; cover-point, Rodwell; 1st defence, Robinson; 2nd defence, P. Sanderson; centre, Grainger; First home, Dowling; 2nd home, Wright; outside, Chapman; inside, Mitchell; spares, Wilson, Plummer, Sanderson, Johnson.

A number of foot races were run off before and during the rests between quarters of the lacrosse match. "Jimmie" Dawson, the fleet-footed secretary of the Celebration Committee, showed the way to the field in the 100 yds. dash, for the Great War Veterans, but was obliged to concede first place to Buchanan, of Grand Valley, in the quarter mile open. The Fat Men's race was the event of the day. Frank Crowe, an oldtime sprinter, surprised the crowd by his fine turn of speed and won the race, though hard pressed by Jim Torrie, who was a mighty close second. Torrie's trousers were unable to stand the pace and sought to part company with their owner in the last exciting yards of the sprint. As a result Torrie landed in a heap and is nursing a sprained ankle and a badly grazed arm. A ring of sympathetic spectators concealed the plight of the fallen sprinter until he was able to readjust his inexpressibles in their proper relation to the rest of his clothing. Jim avers that he would have trimmed Frank only for the accident and there is talk of a grand challenge race some of these evenings. The race results follow:—

100 yds, boys under 16—Ed. Morris, Chas. Rowan.

75 yds. girls under 16—G. Oliver, K. Hughes.

50 yds. boys under 12—R. Robertson, R. Barryme, W. Lick.

Babies' Race, under 5—H. Allison, D. Willoughby, Sadie Little.

100 yds. dash, Veterans only—Jas. Dawson, R. J. Sanders.

Elora Citizens Band, Mount Forest Highland Pipers and Dundalk Citizens Band took turns in furnishing music during the afternoon.

At night another large crowd gathered at Idylwyld for the garden party. The grand stand was again packed to capacity. Seats had been placed in the space between the stand and the playing enclosure and these were also crowded. Several scores of autos were accommodated on the playing oval at the rear of the entertainers' platform which was in this way completely surrounded by the audience.

The early part of the evening was given over to the baseball game between Alton and Grand Valley, winners of the afternoon game. This was also a well-played match, but Grand Valley was a little too good for the Peel boys and won by 7 to 3. The winners played the same nine as in the afternoon, Campbell doing the twirling instead of Piper. The Alton players were:—Lovell p; Myers c; Palmer 1b; McLean 2b; McIntyre ss; McClellan 3b; Dorrington lf; Dean rf; McLachlan cf.

For the Garden Party itself a very fine programme was furnished by Jules Brazil and Will J. White, musical and humorous entertainers, the Ionic Male Quartette from Brampton and the Orangeville Citizens Band.

The morning Parade prizes were awarded as follows:—

Best Decorated Car—1st Frank Crowe, Orangeville, "Welcome to G. W.V.A." 2nd E. H. Nicol, Creemore, "The Rose of No Man's Land." 3rd Recommended for Special Prize, Lord Dufferin Chapter I.O.D.E.

THE HANOVER STORY

Report of the Orangeville-Hanover Game From the Other Side.

Under the heading "Doubled the Score" the Hanover Post gives the following report of the recent championship lacrosse match in that town:

That's what Orangeville Intermediates did last Saturday when they defeated Hanover on the local field by a score of 14 to 7. Orangeville has the better team. That is the sum total of the game. Individually, Hanover has a number of excellent players but compared with the visitors, as a team, they made a rather poor showing. The Orangeville defence could not be drawn out, and when they made an attack they generally always had an extra man or two. Not so with Hanover. Many and many a time they got the ball, carried it down the field, but when they reached the Orangeville defence—well, it was like a high board fence—you couldn't get over it. As a result, most of the shooting was done from well out, and Booth was on the job then.

The game was practically won and lost in the first period. Hanover knew they were up against it, and although they were not over-confident till they couldn't get going and before the period ended Orangeville had a formidable lead, 5—0.

The second period was a bit more interesting. Orangeville eased up a bit, put on a few substitutes, and the teams were more evenly matched. Fred Beamish, altho' only 18 years of age, looked like a veteran when he secured the ball, and after a good deal of passing, he got inside the defence, took a pass and banged one past Booth. It was a neat bit of play and was a signal for the letting loose of much pent-up Hanover enthusiasm. Elmer Devlin, who played for the first time this year and whose brilliant shooting has thrilled many a local crowd in past years, was not to be outdone by such a new hand as Beamish so he slipped in 2 goals in succession, both of them nice plays as it was some job to get inside the visitors' defence. Hanover appeared to have a chance to win at the end of this period, the score being 6—3, Orangeville having added one goal during the period.

However, the little spark of victory that remained had but a brief existence. True, it tried hard to burst into a flame and when, during the third period, Oscar Wendorf and Elmer Devlin each secured a goal, the spark was flaming merrily but the fire was soon extinguished, the water in this case being five goals which Orangeville secured. "Babe" Dedrick and Stevenson, who had been recalled during the second period, were back on the job in the third—Orangeville was taking no chances—and the sight of Dedrick on the defence was enough to make any small man have a funny sensation down his spinal column.

The third period ended 11—5, and Orangeville secured three more goals in the last period while "Winnie" Wendorf secured one for Hanover and Elmer Devlin ended the scoring with his fourth goal.

Orangeville not only had Hanover beat as far as goals were concerned but they also had them beat in penalties, the visitors decorating the fence no less than seven times to Hanover's three. However, the game was not rough. Orangeville has a team that could not be improved on to any great extent. They have the size and weight, are fast, and work together in perfect harmony. Bert Brown, distinguished by his yellow-and-black sweater, was the strong man of the Orangeville home and he secured a large number of his team's goals. "Red" Esch played his position excellently and if his teammates had emulated his example the Orangeville home would not have had so much freedom. However, you need more than one man in order to have a proper defence. Everything considered Hanover played a good game.

CHANGE IN FREIGHT TRAINS

The Owen Sound and Teeswater way freight trains have commenced running out of Orangeville again and the moonlight has also recommenced. Some months ago a change was made and the trains were run through to West Toronto. The run was too big and the service too slow, so Orangeville was again made a terminus and the men who were laid off have got back their jobs again.

C.P.R. ENTERS ACTION

The Canadian Pacific Railway Company has entered suit against the Cataract Electric Light & Power Company, Limited, for an injunction restraining defendants from permitting an electric current to be conducted across the C.P.R.'s right of way at or about mileage 27.2, Orangeville subdivision. The Railway Company seeks to have the wire removed and are also suing the defendants for damages for trespass.

FUNSTON ACQUITTED.

In the Owen Sound Police Court on Thursday morning Jas. Funston, who was charged with wounding Charles Quesnel at the McQuay Tannery a few days previously was acquitted, the evidence convincing the magistrate that Funston acted only in self defence and that Quesnel, who was said to have attacked Funston with a shovel, was the one who started the fracas. Quesnel is still under the doctor's care. He will not be proceeded against as the magistrate felt that the injuries he received were sufficient punishment.

MONO FARM SALE

Mr. Frank C. Island, a well known young Mono farmer, has sold his fine 150 acre property, the e ½ lot 5, Con. 1, east, and the e ½ of the w ½ of lot 5, Con. 2, east, Mono to his brother, Mr. Geo. E. Island, of Mono Road, who will get possession next spring. We understand that the price paid is $12,000.

The deal was put through by Geo. Wilkins, real estate and insurance agent, of this town.

KEEP CHILDREN WELL DURING HOT WEATHER

Every mother knows how fatal the hot summer months are to small children. Cholera infantum, diarrhoea, dysentry, colic and stomach troubles are rife at this time and often a precious little life is lost after only a few hours illness. The mother who keeps Baby's Own Tablets in the house feels safe. The occasional use of the Tablets prevents stomach and bowel troubles, or if trouble comes suddenly—as it generally does—the Tablets will bring the baby safely through. They are sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 25 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

THE CAUSE OF SICKNESS.

Almost Always Due to Weak, Impoverished Blood.

Apart from accident or illness due to infection, almost all ill-health arises from one or two reasons. The great mistake that people make is in not realizing that both of these have the same cause at the root of them, namely poor and improper blood. Either bloodlessness or some trouble of the nerves will be found to be the reason for almost every ailment. If you are pale, suffer from headaches, or breathlessness, with palpitation of the heart, poor appetite and weak digestion, the cause is almost always bloodlessness. If you have nervous headaches, neuralgia, sciatica and other nerve pains, the cause is run down, exhausted nerves. But run down nerves are also a result of poor blood, so that the two chief causes of illness are one and the same.

This accounts for the great number of people, once in indifferent health, pale, nervous and dyspeptic, who have been made well and hearty by Dr. Williams' Pink Pills; for no other medicine ever discovered is so valuable for increasing the supply of rich red blood and giving strength to worn out nerves. Men and women alike greatly benefit from a course of the splendid blood builder and nerve tonic.

If your dealer does not keep these pills you can get them by mail at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50 from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

ELBA.

The Elba Branch of the Woman's Institute will meet at the home of Mrs. J. A. Fines, on Wednesday afternoon, August 13th. Members of the Violet Hill Branch will provide the program for the afternoon.

CHANGE AT QUEEN'S.

Mr. E. Crowe, landlord of the Queen's hotel since last New Year, has disposed of his interest in the house and business to Mr. H. J. Devine, of Toronto, who took over the management of the hotel this week. Mr. Crowe and family left for Toronto yesterday morning.

DISGRACEFUL OCCURRENCE

A most degrading and disgraceful occurrence took place at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Howard Black, Caledon Lake, on Tuesday night of last week. A gang of hoodlums, numbering probably a score, gathered at the place and created an indescribable din with tin pans, shotguns and mouldboards. During the uproar, which lasted about six hours, they completely wrecked every door, window and gate on the farm. All this was done amid cries for money, beer or "your life." The noise of the racket could be heard fo two miles or even farther. Much sympathy is felt for the young couple in the indignity to which they have been subjected. They are both highly respectable and are just starting out in life.

BROADWAY, ORANGEVILLE.

It is dollars and "sense" to buy what you NEED to wear right NOW !

After waiting many months we have secured $2,000 worth of the best values in Clothing that we have seen for years. When we bought these Suits they were clearing lines from five to fifteen Suits of a kind. This lot of Suits is made up of blues, plain greys, grey checks and browns, in plain, overchecks and stripes, all pure Worsteds, and good weight.

These Suits are absolutely unobtainable to-day at any price, and, as we said before, are clearing lines of a back order.

Don't miss this opportunity of securing one of these Suits while they last as there is no possible chance of securing anything like their value for a long time.

—but what Sugar?

MANY women, when they think of Sugar, are inclined to let their interest dwell upon the matter of price rather than upon quality. But we who make Sugar, and the grocer who sells it, know there is something more important about Sugar than the price. We want you to learn about Sugar Quality. The best way to obtain a realization of how good a sugar can be, is to try a dollar's worth of

DOMINION CRYSTAL SUGAR

Grocers will substantiate all we say about its quality—they will tell you it is a matter of pride with them to be able to offer a Sugar so good. Most grocers have it in the popular 20-pound bag, as well as in barrels. Specify "Dominion Crystal" next time you order Sugar.

We are sending samples of our sugar, together with a few Exceptional Recipes, to many of the homes in this vicinity. If you have failed to receive a sample, write our Chatham office, and one will be promptly sent to you.

More miles on tires

It is greater in many ways than any of the 300,000 of this very same model.

You give it a second look from the curb, for it is refined.

You sense more power, less effort from the engine, for it is equipped with Hot Spot and Ram's-horn.

You feel a delightful comfort in the seat, for it has better springs and better upholstery.

You go less often to the battery service station, for the improved electrical unit saves battery wear.

You register satisfaction when you examine the improved top, for the fabric is more durable.

And the one that comes last but should not be least in these dollar-counting days is the delight in the value you receive.

Although such improvements cost money, the price is $1395 f.o.b. Windsor.

Post war purchases for cash have saved you many a perfectly good dollar.

At Millbrook, six cords of hard wood, cut in short lengths, sold for $113.00. Twenty years ago the same quantity would bring about $20.

Congratulations are due to Miss Annie E. McKitterick, teacher of the Fourth Class in Shelburne Public School. Of the 14 pupils who wrote on the recent Entrance examination all were successful in passing.

One thousand dollars was the price received by W. J. Elliott, of Unionville, for his 17-months-old Holstein Friesian heifer from John A. Bell, of Cornopolosis, Pa., U.S.A. Markham township has not witnessed anything so spectacular in prices for many a year.

Mr. Justice Sutherland has dismissed the appeal of the Toronto Suburban Railway from the decision of a board of three arbitrators awarding the estate of the late William Russell, Esquesing, near Norval, $3,500 for 8.14 acres taken from his farm for right of way and station grounds for the Suburban Railway. The value of the farm was placed by experts as high as $15,000. It is hoped that this long-drawn dispute is now finally settled.

When the barn and contents of Jno. M. Barker, Erindale, were destroyed by fire, Gretta Barker, the 15-year-old daughter of Mr. Barker, and a friend, Marjory O'Hara, 13 years, had a narrow escape from death. The two girls were sleeping in the barn at the time—Mr. Barker's home is in the course of erection—and it was not until the flames had reached the bed clothes that Gretta awakened. Although sleeping on the second floor the two girls leaped down the stairs into the open. The feet of the Barker girl were slightly burned, and the other girl was scorched.

Shall We Humanize Women?

An eloquent lady, one of the leaders of the feminist movement, asked in thrilling tones the other day whether we were not all interested in the great cause of the humanization of women. "To which," says G. K. Chesterton in the New Witness of London, England, "the answer is that we are not; and it is possible that we preserve an equally detached attitude toward the doggifying of dogs, the elephantification of elephants, the gilding of gold, the painting of lilies, the transport of coals to Newcastle, and of water to the sea.

"Some of us have fancied that we would trace, even in the twilight time before the war, signs of something strangely human in the female appearance; an almost human look in the eyes, such as is so pathetic in the dog, or that almost automatic mimicry in the gestures which is so entertaining in the monkey. To these the humanization of women will come with less of a shock than it does to leaders of the woman's movement; especially the lady who dignified and glorified her sex by the remarkable phrase I have quoted.

"But without going all lengths with that lady, I should be prepared to propose a compromise; in the form of a prayer for the humanization of some women. It is especially, of course, the health visitors and baby welfare workers, now being discussed in a correspondence in the New Statesman, whom I should like to see restored to the human shape. We do not merely urge the health visitor to pray heaven for a human heart. We urge her, with yet more earnest gesture of entreaty, to pray heaven for a human head."

The Dogs' Bill.

The Hon. Stephen Coleridge, the able president of the National Anti-Vivisection Society in England, is certainly making a sturdy stand in support of "The Dogs' Bill," now before the British Parliament. Two of his most recent utterances are specially worth quoting. "The opponents of the bill," he says in a letter to the London Times, "seem to advance two objections to it. They begin by asserting that unless dogs are used for experiments physiology will cease to advance. Even if this hypothesis were a true one, we think it would be far better for the world to be without more physiology than without pity. It does not break our bones to be told that such opinions are manifestations of sentiment. There are worse things in the world than sentiment, and one of them is cruelty." And again: "The present position, therefore, is that there is nothing to prevent a cruel man from receiving a license and certificates under the present law. No one testifies to his humaneness when he applies for his license, only his scientific qualities are vouched for. And when a cruel man has got his license and certificates, nothing but his own taste prevents him from torturing dogs all day and all night." The bill, if passed into law, would render it illegal to use dogs for vivisection purposes.

FAVORITE PICTURE OF THE PEOPLE'S PRINCE.

When it became definitely known that H.R.H. the Prince of Wales would open the Canadian National Exhibition this year the management at once got into touch with the official photographers in London and requested a profile photograph of him for reproduction on the Victory Year Medal to be awarded to the winners in the Agricultural and other sections of the Big Fair. The photo shown above was received after considerable delay, and immediately a cable was rushed back to this effect:

"A mistake has been made. An official picture is desired. One you sent shows the Prince without hat or coat and with khaki shirt collar turned in. Charming deshabille, but hardly dignified enough."

Then came the answer:

"Sorry you dislike it. It's the Prince's favorite picture, taken with the Canadians in France and in every sense official."

And that is the reason why the People's Prince will appear on the Canadian National Exhibition 1919 medals, hatless, coatless and in the careless attire of the Fighting Man in France. He will open the Big Fair on Monday, August 25th.

One of the three barns on the farm of B. H. Bull and Son, first line east, near Brampton, was struck by lightning and destroyed with hay and nine head of horses.

Local doctors amputated both limbs in an attempt to save his life, but to no avail, as he died shortly after.

A GOOD SCHOOL

The Orangeville Business College has just completed the most successful year in its history, having had during the school year over one hundred students in attendance; this is a larger enrolment than most city colleges.

The interior of the College is being redecorated and considerable new equipment added for the re-opening on September 2nd. Every graduate is assured a good position and its old graduates are among the most successful in this province.

The Orangeville Business College is approved by the Military Authorities of Canada as a training school for returned soldiers, who are entitled to a free education, and a living allowance of Four Hundred and Twenty Dollars during the six months.

Many ambitious young people, who cannot attend now, are taking advantage of the Home Study Courses, thereby, shortening their term at college and cutting down expenses.

All interested should write now for information and thus get advantage of the old rate of tuition fees. The Orangeville Business College is affiliated with the Canada Business College, Toronto, and ten other colleges.

Here You Find the Proof

Of What People Have Been Telling You About Dr, Chase's Nerve Food.

There can be no question that everybody is in in need of some restorative treatment at this season of the year.

Particularly if your blood has a tendency to be thin and watery, the changing season is most trying on you and you suffer from tired feelings, lack of energy, failure of the digestive system and general depression of the feelings.

If you could only realize what a complete change you would experience with the use of a few boxes of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food you would not be long in making a trial of this treatment.

The best proof we can offer you is in such letters as the following. There is no reason in this world why you would not obtain just as much benefit from the use of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food as has the writer of this letter if your system is in a similar condition.

Mrs. M. A. Couling, 61 Stanley street, Kingston, Ont., writes: "For a number of years I suffered from a run-down condition of the system, due to overwork. I could not sleep and was restless and worried. I had pains through my back, buzzing in the ears and twitching of my nerves and muscles. I had indigestion and my appetite became poor. I would get drowsy after eating and frequently suffered from great weakness. My circulation was poor, my hands and feet always cold and my heart action weak. I consulted doctors, but they could do nothing for me. Whilst in this condition I decided upon a trial of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food. After taking eight boxes of this medicine I am relieved of all the symptoms from which I suffered before, and in general I feel like a new woman. I used to be very constipated, so I took Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills in connection with the Nerve Food and am completely cured of that trouble too."

It remains for you to test Dr. Chase's Nerve Food in your own case. You will then understand the enthusiasm of others for this great restorative treatment. 50 cents a box, 6 for $2.75, all dealers, or Edmanson, Bates & Co., Limited, Toronto.

Long-Wearing Stockings for Active Boys

THE rough and tumble games in the schoolyard are mighty hard on stockings. Boys will play hard, so we make a stocking specially for them—the Buster Brown Stocking.

This stocking has a two-ply leg and three-ply heel and toe. It is knitted from extra-long yarn—spun by ourselves to make sure it is right.

Special training is necessary to knit Buster Brown quality into hosiery. We have spent years training our employees to knit Buster Brown Stockings.

Because we do all these things, you'll find them longer-wearing. You'll be pleased to see how seldom they appear in the mending basket. You'll find the cost of clothing your boy lower.

And they're mighty fine looking too. Good looks are knit into Buster Brown Stockings. You'll find your boy will be proud of them.

Sold everywhere. Ask your dealer for "Buster Brown" durable hosiery.

R. L. MORTIMER.

Editor of Shelburne Free Press Succumbed on Saturday After A Long Illness.

Was Well Known Dufferin County Newspaper Man and Formerly School Teacher.

It is with deep regret that we this week chronicle the death of the dean of Dufferin journalism, Robert Lee Mortimer, editor and proprietor of the Shelburne Free Press, which sad event took place at his residence Main street east, on Saturday, August 2nd, after an illness of over ten months' duration. Deceased was in his 69th year. His death was not unexpected, as he had been in a very low condition for two weeks or more. When his illness first seemed of an alarming nature, last fall, he went to Mayo Institute, Rochester, N.Y., and then returned to Toronto, where he took treatment for some time in the Orthopoedic Hospital. Later he spent nine weeks in the Toronto General Hospital, where he underwent two serious operations. He returned to Shelburne early in the year, and for a time appeared to be getting stronger and was able to attend to part of his office duties. His trouble again took a serious turn, however, and he gradually became weaker, being confined to the house from June 1st.

Robert Lee Mortimer was born at Honeywood, March 28th, 1851, being the eldest son of the late Emanuel and Joanna Lee Mortimer. He graduated from Rockwood Academy, Collingwood Collegiate Institute and Ottawa Normal School, and after teaching for a few years at Cookstown, Phelpston, and other places in Simcoe county, came to Shelburne, in 1879, as principal of the public school here. In 1885 he gave up his principalship to take charge of the Free Press for the Shelburne Printing and Publishing Co., which company had taken the paper over from Mr. James Cameron, who had been running it from 1879, when he had purchased it from George Raines, who had founded it in 1875. In 1893 Mr. Mortimer bought the paper outright from the company that had been in control. In 1897 the plant was a complete loss in the fire which destroyed the Hannah-Berwick block, but a new plant was put in operation as speedily as possible, the paper in the meantime being printed on the press of the Economist

Mr Mortimer was for many years prominently identified with the public life of the community, among the potions he held at one time or another being the following: Secretary Dufferin Liberal-Conservative Association; Secretary Melancthon Agricultural Society; Secretary Shelburne Turf Association; Treasurer Shelburne Public Library; Secretary Shelburne School Board; President Dufferin Press Association. For the past fifteen years he had been treasurer of Court Shelburne Independent Order Foresters. He was also a member of Strathcona Lodge No. 326, I.O.O.F., and of L.O.L. No. 1321.

The funeral, which took place to Honeywood cemetery Tuesday afternoon, was under Orange auspices. It was a motor funeral. There was a good turnout of members of L.O.L. No. 1321 and visiting brethren. The service at the house and grave was conducted by Rev. Dr. McRobbie, of Vineland Station, formerly of Shelburne, a former pastor of deceased. The pallbearers were: Judge Vance, (Barrie), John Best, M.P., R. A. Riky, Hugh Falconer, Jas. Chalmers, John Mowat. There were many beautiful floral tributes.

Deceased was married in 1880 to Sarah McLean, daughter of the late Donald McLean, of Priceville, who survives. Three sisters also survive: Mrs. Geo. Tupling, Honeywood; Mrs. R. H. McMaster, Honeywood; Mrs. J. I. H. Devins, Kleinburg.—Shelburne Economist.

JAMES HASSARD.

The death of Mr. James Hassard, an old and greatly respected resident of the Mono Mills district, occurred at his home in Adjala township on Wednesday, July 23rd. While feeling the infirmities of old age, Mr. Hassard, who was 77 years of age, was able to be up and about until a short time before his death. Shortly before the end came he suffered a paralytic stroke, from the effects of which he failed to rally. Deceased was a son of John Hassard and was born in County Fermanagh, Ireland. He came to Canada when a lad of sixteen years and resided in the township of Caledon for many years. Some years ago he moved to his late home in Adjala township. He was married to Jane Snell, a daughter of the late John Snell, of Mono Mills. His widow and a family of two sons and two daughters survive, to whom the sympathy of the neighborhood is extended in their bereavement. The latter are John Hassard, who lives on the homestead; E. J., a druggist in Acton, Mrs. Webb, of Edmonton, and Miss Eliza at home. A brother, Robt. Hassard, is still living on the old homestead near Enniskillen, Ireland. Mr. Hassard was a faithful and consistent member of the Methodist hurch from his boyhood. The funeral which was quite largely attended, was held to Caledon East Cemetery on Friday afternoon following his death. Rev. Alfred Laycock, the family pastor, was the officiating clergyman.

UNION SERVICES.

The congregations of Orangeville Methodist and Presbyterian churches will hold union services on Sunday next and the following Sabbath. The morning service will be held in St. Andrew's church, and the evening service in the Methodist church both Sundays. Rev. E. R. Young, B.A., pastor of the Methodist church, will take both services next Sunday, and Rev. W. M. Morris, pastor of St. Andrew's church, will have charge of both services on the 17th.

MRS. CHAS. POWELL.

In the death of Mrs. Hanna Nichol Powell, widow of the late Chas. Powell, Orangeville loses one of its very old residents. The sad event took place at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Tomlinson Hepton, West Ward, on Saturday morning after a lengthy period of failing health due largely to her great age. Despite her growing infirmity the deceased had been bedfast only three weeks. During her last illness she had the constant care of her granddaughter, Miss Lottie Powell, a graduate nurse, who came from Barrie expressly to be with and nurse her grandmother. The late Mrs. Powell was born at Malton, England, on July 15th, 1829, and was therefore 90 years and 17 days of age when overtaken by death. She was married in England and three of her family were born in that country. The family came to Canada about 64 years ago and settled near Oakville, where Mr. Powell farmed for twenty years. Forty-two years ago they moved to Mono and settled on lot 14, 4th line, east. They subsequently moved to Amaranth, where Mr. Powell died about 31 years ago, while living on a farm on the 7th line. Since his death his wife has spent the greater part of her time with her two daughters in Amaranth and subsequently in Orangeville. Deceased was a woman of fin espirit and strong Christian faith. She was a staunch member of the Methodist church and until overtaken by the infirmities natural to old age took an active interest in the work and affairs of her church. She was a devoted wife and mother and her intercourse with her neighbors was marked by honesty and sincerity of purpose. She is survived by three sons and three daughters, namely Gorge Powell ,of Hamilton, Thomas Powell, of Elkhorn, Man., Wm. Powell of Creemore, Mrs. Tomlinson Hepton and Mrs. George Hepton, of Orangeville, and Mrs. John Claridge, of Toronto. The funeral was held from the home of Mr. and Mrs. Tomlinson Hepton to Laurel cemetery on Monday afternoon, Rev. E. R. Young, the family pastor ,conducting the services at the house and grave. The pallbearers wre Messrs. John Johnston, Edward Richardson and G. A. Groskurth, of Amaranth, and M. McPherson, M. Varcoe and William Gray, of Orangeville.

Among the friends here from a distance for the funeral were Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Long, of Walkerton, Mr. Wm. Powell and daughters, Lottie and Grace, of Creemore, Mrs. John Nance, Mr. and Mrs. Leslie West, Mr. and Mrs. John Claridge and Mrs. Alex. Hepton, of Toronto, and Mr. Leslie Moore, of Creemore.

MONO MILLS.

As we have not seen any items in your paper from Mono Mills lately, we were begining to wonder if the place had passed out of existence. We have taken The Banner for the last twenty years and we always look for the Mono Mills items with a great deal of interest. We would like to see your correspondent bestir himself, and give your reades in this vicinity more of the home news.

Mr. V. Armstrong has his new barn almost completed. Success Vernet.

Threshing has begun in this vicinity, and the grain is yielding well.

Mr. Sam. Benson says he has never worked in a better place than the one he has at present.

Mr. and Mrs. John Moon and son, Edgar, who have been touring in the West for the last six weeks, returned home on Saturday last. They were given a hearty welcome home by their friends and neighbors. Mr. Moon reports fairly good crops in Manitoba, but in parts of Saskatchewan there is not half a crop. He took in the Saskatoon Exhibition while away, and also visited the Exhibition at Neepawa, Man. Mr. and Mrs. Speers, who accompanied them to the West, decided to stay over for another month. Mr. and Mrs. Moon made the return trip by boat.

Mr. Jas. Hassard, one of the old residents of this district, passed away recently at the ripe age of eighty years. His death marked the passing of another of the sturdy pioneers who helped to lay the foundations for the present day prosperity of Ontario.

G. W. V. A. NOTES

The town is to be congratulated for so fine an attendance at the Celebration held last Monday, under the auspices of the G.W.V.A. and the Dufferin Lacrosse Club. The proceeds over and above the expenditure will probably amount to $900.00 or $1,000.00.

The attention of the members is drawn to the fact that the next meeting of this Branch will be held on Thursday evening, August 14, when a full roll call would be greatly appreciated. Those who have not yet made application for membership, and who wish to do so, should obtain forms from Comrade J. Dawson at C. V. Jeffers Drug Store, and hand them in at once.

THE CAVELL CASE.

So great was the interest taken in the series of motion pictures entitled The Cavell Case, that the house was filled to capacity three times to witness their production in the Gem Theatre on Thursday night. Those who saw them were very favorably impressed and we have heard nothing but good opinions of the performance.

CELEBRATION NOTES.

A Big Success was the general verdict.

Visitors for the day were well pleased with the programme.

The lacrosse match was easily the most popular attraction of the day. Caledon Lake campers made a big hit with their decorated float.

Harry Ainsworth, a returned soldier, handled the two baseball games in fine shape. Ainsworth is a clever ball player and knows the game thoroughly.

Auctioneer J. B. Irwin made a big hit as official announcer. Some of his friends are still asking where he got the silk hat.

The fine musical programme was an appreciated feature of the afternoon.

Great praise is due the ladies for the splendid manner in which they manned and handled the refreshment booths. We have not been able to get complete figures, but we understand that the Presbyterian ladies realized over $300 from their booth. The booth proceeds go into the general receipts for the day.

While complete figures are not yet available we understand that the total receipts, including booths and the sale of tags, will be between $2200 and $2300. While high, the expenses will be several hundred dollars less than this and a handsome surplus is assured. Gate and grand stand receipts for the day were in excess of $1500.

Twelve young ladies realized over $100 from the sale of tags. So pleased was the management of the Dufferin Lacrosse Club with their work, that they have been presented with complimentary tickets to the lacrosse grounds good for the remainder of this season. The names of the girls are Misses E. M. Budd, Mary Mills, Myrtle McCauley, Florence Watt, Kathleen Fleming, Mildred Forbes, Hazel Welch, Marvel Whaley, Marian McNaughton, Muriel Torrie, Gwen Sproule and Ruth Nightingale.

Durham defeated Hanover by 9 to 4 on Hanover grounds on Monday afternoon and if they can win Friday's game will tie The Dufferins for the district championship. GREENARD—M'KIBBON

The Presbyterian manse on Zina St., was the scene of an interesting event on Friday, July 11th, when Reveria Pearl, youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ed. McKibbon, of Orangeville, became the bride of Leonard Greenard, R.A.F., Camp Mohawk, formerly of Port Arthur. The bride was dressed in her travelling costume of blue silk poplin, white silk waist and hat to match and carried a bouquet of carnations. After the marriage service the newly wedded couple repaired to the bride's home, where a dainty luncheon was served. Later they left for their present home in Toronto. Mr. Greenard, however, expects to be transferred to Port Arthur in the near future.

VICTIMS OF HUN BRUTALITY

How Allied Soldiers Suffered When They First Experienced the Horrors of Kaiser's Poison Gas.

Suddenly a great cry rang out: "The gas!"

It was true. Over there from the enemy's lines, came great greenish balls, rolling close to the earth, rolling deliberately yet swiftly, rolling straight toward us. Emmanuel Bourcier writes in Scribner's. Gas! That horrible thing, still almost unknown, which had been used for the first time only recently on the Yser. It was coming with deadly surety amidst a tornado of artillery. Orders were shouted back and forth:

"The gas! Put on the masks!"

Each man spread over his face the protecting cloth. The shelters were closed. The telephone, whose wires ran the length of the communication trenches, gave the warning: "Look out! The gas!"

We did not yet know what manner of horror it was. None of us had experienced an attack of the sort. We ran to and fro like ants whose hill has been molested. Some fired their guns at random, others awaited orders. The frightful, vivid thing came on, expanded to a cloud, crept upon us, glided into the trenches. The air was quickly obscure. We were swimming in an atmosphere stained a venomous color, uncanny, indescribable. The sky appeared green, the earth disappeared. The men staggered about and rolled on the ground, stifled. There were some knots of soldiers who had been asleep in their beds when overtaken by the gas. They writhed in convulsions, with vitals burning, with froth on the lips, calling for their mothers or cursing the Germans. We gathered them up as best we could; we took them to the doctors, who, thus confronted by an unknown condition, found themselves powerless. They tried the application of oxygen and ether in an effort to save the lives of the victims, only to see them die, already decomposed, in their hands.

The masks had not yet been perfected and were a poor protection. Some ran about like madmen, shrieking in terror, the throat choked with saliva, and fell in heaps, in contortions of agony. Some filled the mouth with handfuls of grass and struggled against asphyxiation.

PROMOTION BY MERIT.

Taxicab Driver Became General In British Army.

In his last despatch—one of the most remarkable historical documents ever published, says the Manchester Guardian, Sir Douglas Haig pays a great tribute to the qualities which won the war for Britain, and which, as he indicates, were displayed by men of all ranks of society, from the humblest to the highest.

"The life of the British Empire generally," he says, "has proved sound under the severest tests, and, while giving men whom it is an honor for any officer to command, has furnished officers of the highest standard from all ranks of society and all quarters of the world."

"Promotion," he continues, "has been entirely by merit, and the highest appointments were open to the humblest, provided he had the necessary qualifications of character, skill and knowledge.

"Many instances could be quoted of men who from civil or comparatively humble occupations have risen to important commands.

"A schoolmaster, a lawyer, a taxicab driver and an ex-sergeant-major have commanded brigades.

"One editor has commanded a division and another held successfully the position of senior staff officer to a regular division.

"The undercook of a Cambridge college, a clerk to the Metropolitan Water Board, an insurance clerk, an architect's assistant and a police inspector became efficient general staff officers.

"A mess sergeant, a railway signaller, a coal miner, a market gardener, an assistant secretary to a haberdasher's company, a quartermaster sergeant and many private soldiers have risen to command battalions.

"Clerks have commanded batteries.

"A schoolmaster, a collier, the son of a blacksmith, an iron moulder, an instructor in tailoring, an assistant gas engineer, a grocer's assistant, as well as policemen, clerks and privates have commanded companies and acted as adjutants."

These remarkable facts show that no handicaps of birth or social environment can in the end prevent a man going forward and winning promotion, provided he develops those qualities which fit him to control others, to carry out responsible duties, and to fill efficiently positions of authority and command.

At the outset of the war, as Sir Douglas Haig states, our new troops, drawn as they were "from every sphere of life, from every profession, department, and industry of the British Empire, and thrust suddenly into a totally new situation full of unknown difficulties," were placed at a disadvantage "compared with the methodically trained enemy." "This disadvantage, however, was "overcome," and "young officers, whatever their previous education may have been," "learned their duties with enthusiasm and speed," and "accepted their responsibilities unflinchingly."

CHILDREN MUST BE PROTECTED

The children must be safeguarded, for, if they do survive the frequent coughs and colds, it is often with the lungs so weakened that they become chronic sufferers from bronchitis or consumption. Being composed of simple ingredients of undoubted value, Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine is admirably suited as a treatment for children. It is pleasant to the taste. So much so that children delight to take it on this account, as well as because of the quick relief it affords them.

Catarrhal Deafness Cannot Be Cured by local applications as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure Catarrhal Deafness, and that is by a constitutional remedy. HALL'S CATARRH MEDICINE acts thro' the Blood on the Mucous Surfaces of the System. Catarrhal Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, Deafness is the result. Unless the inflammation can be reduced and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing may be destroyed forever. Many cases of Deafness are caused by Catarrh, which is an inflamed condition of the Mucous Surfaces.

ONE HUNDRED DOLLARS for any case of Catarrhal Deafness that cannot be cured by HALL'S CATARRH MEDICINE.

SUMMER HEAT HARD ON BABY

No season of the year is so dangerous to the life of little ones as is the summer. The excessive heat throws the little stomach out of order so quickly that unless prompt aid is at hand the baby may be beyond all human help before the mother realizes he is ill. Summer is the season when diarrhoea, cholera infantum, dysentry and colic are most prevalent. Any one of these troubles may prove deadly if not promptly treated. During the summer the mother's best friend is Baby's Own Tablets. They regulate the bowels, sweeten the stomach and keep baby healthy. The Tablets are sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 25 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

THE REFERENDUM

Mrs. Blanche Read-Johnston Will Address Mass Meeting on Sunday.

So far as Orangeville is concerned the first gun in the Referendum Campaign will be fired on Sunday night, when Mrs. Blanche Read-Johnston, Travelling Secretary of the Woman's Department of the Ontario Referendum Committee, will address a mass meeting in the Methodist Church. The meeting will commence at 8.15 p.m., immediately after the close of the Church services. Mrs. Johnston is a gifted and interesting speaker who has done much useful work in the interests of social service. She has the distinction of being the first lady to preach in the Kingston Penitentiary and also in the Central Prison in Toronto. She has organized the League of Mercy in many towns and cities in Canada and the United States.

Mrs. Johnston is editor of the Dominion official organ of the W.C.T.U.; editor of the Dominion S.S. Teachers' Quarterly; one of the editors of the Woman's Century. She was chairman of the finance and advisory committee of the Equal Franchise Campaign Committee, which was largely instrumental in bringing to a successful culmination the efforts of years for the Ontario franchise for women.

Mrs. Johnston will also speak to a Mass Meeting of the women of the town in the Baptist Church at three o'clock on Monday afternoon. All women are urged to make an effort to be present at this meeting.

"THE GREAT LOVE"

Another Griffith's Production Coming to Orangeville.

The story of the play deals largely with the fortunes of a young Canadian, who, enraged by the German atrocities in Belgium, enlists in a Canadian regiment and is sent to the front from England. While training near London, he meets and loves a charming girl, who later falls heir to a vast fortune and then becomes the object of the strenuous attentions of a British baronet. This love affair is interrupted by international complications and the machinations of German spies, the whole combining to form a most interesting series of situations, which, coupled with the magnificent photographs, makes this picture subject one of the most attractive ever produced by Mr. Griffith.

The chief roles are in the hands of capable screen players. These include Henry Walthall, Lillian Gish, Robert Harron, and others, all of whose portrayals are essentially artistic and lend much to the verisimilitude of the scenes. That "The Great Love" as a superb picture spectacle, is destined to rank among his best productions, in no sense inferior to his great picture "Hearts of the World," seems a certainty.

"The Great Love" will be shown at the Town Hall, Orangeville, one night only, Wednesday, August 20th, with special orchestra and refined vaudeville. Plan now open at The Banner Book Store.

MEMORIAL SERVICE.

Last Sunday afternoon there was an intereting service in the Methodist Church. The school has raised money for a memorial shield commemorating the members of the school who had fallen in the Great War. There was a maple leaf for each name, six in number: Lieut. C. C. Henderson, Corp. D. B. Brown, Corp. H. E. Statia, Pte. H. A. White, Pte. H. E. White and Pte. I. Winterton. The meeting was conducted by Mr. W. R. Liddy and Dr. Price. Mr. Jessop sang a solo very effectively. Recitations were given by Mr. Wilson McConnell and Miss Ruth Coulter. The pastor delivered an address commending the spirit, service and heroism of the departed. The shield was unveiled by two returned soldiers, Messrs. Fred. Patterson and William Henderson.

A CORRECTION

Mr. Editor,—

I wish you to correct the item which I saw in your paper last week regarding me. I did not ask you to publish it, but some cowardly dog ashamed to sign his name did. On the right referred to in the item, there was no damage done whatever. There was a little noise, but I think the boys got a worse scare than I did. I have the names of most of the lads and can give them to the public should it become necessary. Will you please publish this in justice to all concerned.

Yours Truly,
HOWARD BLACK.

(The Banner has received two communications from other parties interested in the affair to which Mr. Black refers, but in view of Mr. Black's explanation we do not think it necessary to publish them. The communication that appeared a week ago was sent in over Mr. Black's signature and was accepted and published as a genuine letter. As Mr. Black has since assured us that he did not send the letter and did not know anything about it, we must conclude that some other person wrote the epistle and signed Mr. Black's name. We might state that there is a stiff penalty for this sort of thing and The Banner will see that steps are taken to impose the penalty if the identity of the writer of the letter can be established. Ed.)

Miss Beatrice Sawden, her bridesmaid, was in navy blue taffeta and georgette, with hat to match, and Mr. John Sawden, of Whitby, acted as best man. After the ceremony a reception was held before Mr. and Mrs. Arnold left by motor for a three weeks' honeymoon in Muskoka.

12 TO 7.

Dufferins Downed Durham in Great Game Last Friday.

Victory Brought Wearers of Green and White the District Championship.

The Dufferins defeated the strong Durham team by a score of 12 to 7 in a great game on Durham grounds last Friday afternoon. As a result of the win the Dufferins are now District champions and will go into the semi-finals for the O.A.L.A. Intermediate Championship. The locals have gone through the District without a single defeat either at home or abroad. The fact that the team was able to win all the schedule games away from home is conclusive proof of its strength and superiority over the other District contenders. Prior to Friday Durham had only sustained one defeat—in the game played in Orangeville early in the season. It was therefore possible for the home team to tie the Dufferins for the District championship by defeating them in Friday's game. Under these circumstances it was only natural that the game should attract widespread interest. An immense crowd gathered to witness the match. Durham was there en masse and gave the home team a most enthusiastic backing. Hundreds of enthusiasts were present from Hanover, Chesley, Mt. Forest, Markdale, Fergus and other neighboring places. The members of the St. Mary's team, which will meet The Dufferins in the semi-finals, motored a distance of 80 miles to witness the game and get a line on the playing methods of the two teams. Dufferins were not without their supporters either. Shelburne was represented by six or eight auto loads of enthusiasts and Grand Valley also sent over a few loads, whose sympathies were strongly with the green and white. Despite the sixty mile journey home supporters of the team were in evidence in considerable strength and cheered the boys lustily whenever opportunity offered. Nearly forty auto loads of Orangeville people saw the game and there must have been close to two hundred home supporters on the grounds. They made some noise whenever the Dufferins notched a goal, but their shouting was not to be compared with the pandemonium that broke loose whenever Durham tallied a counter

Durham lacrosse matches are played on the Agricultural park. The grounds are full of hillocks and holes and the ball is liable to bounce at any old angle whenever it strikes the ground. On top of all this the field is considerably higher at one end. Consequently one team is playing downhill, while the other is attacking uphill. These condtions are not conducive to the best brand of lacrosse and constitute a serious handicap to any visiting team, while they aid the home team which has always been accustomed to the rough, humpy ground. Dufferins, who play a fast, quick passing game, found the grounds a serious handicap on Friday and while the individual players worked hard and effectively the team play was not up to the usual standard. On a proper lacrosse field they would probably have won out by a larger margin. We do not say this to disparage the ability of the Durham players. The team is strong, fast and aggressive and the players put all kinds of pep into the game. Durham has always played to win at home and Friday's game was no exception to the rule. Even with the game lost the players kept at it hammer and tongs right to the end of the last quarter and the crowd cheered them right to the finish.

Durham started off with a rush that bade fair to carry The Dufferins off their feet. Twice they looked like scoring, but both shots were intercepted. Then the Dufferin home got a chance and a lightning rush culminated in a swift pass from Vanwyck to Brown and a neat shot by the latter for the first tally. Dufferins took another right after the face off. Then Stevenson was sent to the fence for a too vigorous check and Durham ran in two goals making the score a tie. A neat bit of combination work by the two Browns put the green-shirts in the lead again and a few minutes later Joe Cushing took an amble up the field with the ball, passed to one of the home men, took the return pass, and tallied the last goal of the quarter. During the rest period Durham constables created some excitement and no end of merriment by their zealous efforts to prevent spectators from crossing the playing field.

In the second quarter, Cranston, one of the cleanest players in the game anywhere, had the unusual experience of being ruled off twice. In neither case was he at fault, as he was simply checking a home man who persisted in attempting to get around him. Durham tallied during his first retirement, but Stevenson put things right a few minutes later by making a run in and beating the Durham goal tender with a sizzler. Durham got the next on a fast combination rush, which ended with a successful score from close in. When the quarter ended the score stood 5 to 4 in favor of Orangeville and the issue of the game was still in the balance.

Dufferin supporters cut loose in the third quarter when their favorites took two in succession. Stevenson tallied the first on a lightning pass from Bert Brown and Vanwyck and Blythe Brown combined effectively for the other. A momentary rally gave Durham the next, but the Dufferin home was not to be denied and the two Browns, Stevenson, Vanwyck and Ewing figured in brilliant combination plays that netted two more for the Duffs. This was Orangeville's quarter and the players were working much better now that they were becoming accustomed to the peculiarities of the playing field.

Up to the last quarter Referee Waghorne, who seems to have a strong respect for the good opinion of the home crowd, had visited all of the few penalties he imposed on The Dufferins. In the last period he evidently concluded it was time to pass his favors around and two of the Durham players were shooed to the penalty bench for five minute rests. Nick Burnside, who seemed to cherish the delusion that he could dodge Dufferin defence men at will, tried it once too often on Joe Cushing and a lengthy delay occurred while the erstwhile Markdale brave was undergoing repairs. When Nick came on again it was noticed that he did more passing and less dodging. Cushing went off as a matter of course, but his absence did not prevent Vanwyck and Stevenson from combining for a counter. The Durham crowd made the welkin ring when the home team scored a few minutes later. With one of the Durham men off, Stevenson tallied again on a well-judged pass from one of the Browns. Stevie scored another a little later getting the ball on the rebound, from a wicked shot by Bert Brown which the goalkeeper stopped but was unable to clear. Durham scored the last goal of the match about three minutes before time was up, making the final score 12 to 7. Dufferin supporters demonstrated their joy in vociferous style when play ended and the victorious players were given a rousing reception as they lined up in front of the ubiquitous camera man. Players and officials were:—

Durham—goal, E. McDonald; point, H. McDonald; coverpoint, Bert McDonald; 1st defence, A. Saunders; 2nd defence, J. McLachlan; centre, Alan Kerr; 1st home, Mercer; 2nd home, Cowan; outside home, M. Saunders; inside home, Nick Burnside; spares, C. Burnside, Zimmer and Pat Kelley.

Officials—Referees, F. Waghorne, Len Smith; timekeepers, S. McIntyre, Durham, and A. P. Knechtel, Wingham; penalty timekeeper, J. Black, Fergus.

THE BIG STORE, ORANGEVILLE

MILITARY NOTES.

Douglas Endacott, son of Sheriff and Mrs. Endacott, left for Vancouver on Tuesday of last week, after spending a month with his parents and other relatives in Ontario, following his return from overseas, where he had been on active service for one month short of five years. Upwards of four years of this time was spent in France.

Gunner Harold Wilcox, son of Mr. and Mrs. Austin Wilcox, of Toronto, formerly of Orangeville, is holidaying with Orangeville friends for a couple of weeks. Gnr. Wilcox returned from overseas a couple of weeks ago after upwards of three years service in the army. He enlisted with the 34th Battery in February, 1916, went overseas later in the year, and served on the Western front until 1918. On September 21, 1918, he sailed from Dundee, Scotland, with the 16th Brigade, C. F. A. for the Archangel front in Russia. Gnr. Wilcox states that campaigning in Russia was pretty strenuous work on account of the comparative smallness of the Allied Army. A sore of guerilla warfare was waged most of the time, and it was pretty hard to tell when the enemy was going to spring an attack or make an attmpt to cut off some of the Allied forces. The Russians had an unpleasant habit of deserting from one side to the other as suited them, and this added to the difficulties of the situation. While the climate of northern Russia is very severe in winter, the Canadian soldiers found it healthy and stood the winter campaigning very well indeed.

SOLDIERS' RECEPTION

Township of East Garafraxa Does Honor to the Returned Boys.

The Township of East Garafraxa held a Civic Reception and Garden Party in honor of its returned soldiers on Friday evening, August 1st. The event was held on the Marsville school grounds where about eleven hundred residents of the township and the surrounding municipalities assembled to share in the welcome. Reeve James Brown very ably presided while a most interesting program was rendered. Duncan R. Cowan, of Toronto, Canada's Premier Entertainer, was present and again proved himself a high-class entertainer and humorist. He took the audience by storm from the start and had the faculty of keeping them in good humor throughout the entire evening. The Mount Forest Pipers made their first appearance in this community and were most generous in providing the music for the evening.

A striking feature of the occasion was the presentation to each soldier of a ten dollar bill. Twenty-six soldiers were called to the platform where L. Boggs, clerk of the municipality, read the address of welcome and Jas. H. Simpson, the Treasurer, made the presentations. Col. Preston of Orangeville, made a very appropriate reply on behalf of the boys. Interesting addresses were also given by John Best, M.P. and C. R. McKeown, M.L.A., Mrs. Ahearn, Grand Valley, gave a recitation which was greatly appreciated. The residents of East Garafraxa are to be congratulated for the splendid manner in which they turned out to do honor to those who fought to uphold the liberty we enjoy. The evening was a great success and will live in the annals of the history of the township.

NEW TELEPHONE MANAGER

Mr. C. B. Robinson, who has been manager of the Bell Telephone Co. in Walkerton for the past eight years, has been appointed manager of the Orangeville office. Mr. Ed. Schnurr, the efficient manager of the local branch for the last four or five years, has been promoted to the responsible position of Plant Chief, and will have charge of all outside repair and construction work. During the war the Company combined the two offices and cut down its construction force. A great deal of construction work will now be undertaken, and Mr. Schnurr's staff will be increased from four to twenty-five or thirty men, as fast as the men can be secured. Mr. Schnurr is a thorough business man, has made a capable manager, and we are glad to learn that he will continue to reside in Orangeville. His sister, Miss Etta Schnurr, succeeds Mr. Robinson as manager of the Walkerton office. Mr. Robinson is prominent in social and Masonic circles, and will make a useful citizen. The changes in management take effect on August 15th.

MONO MILLS.

Miss Ethel Allen returned home on Saturday evening after over two years active service with a nursing unit in connection with the American Expeditionary Forces in the Great War. Miss Allen is a graduate nurse of Bellevue Hospital, New York, and volunteered for overseas service in April, 1918. She was quickly accepted and signed up with a Hospital Corps which was then mobilizing. She went overseas in June, was attached for a time to a base hospital in Dartford, England, and transferred a little later to France where she was in charge of a large hospital corps in Savenay until demobilization was completed. Needless to say Miss Allen's long service has resulted in many varied experiences.

Over one hundred pupils and teachers belonging to the Union Sunday School in connection with the English and Presbyterian Churches motored to Stanley Park, Erin, on Tuesday of last week and spent an afternoon at that well-known and popular picnic ground, that was highly appreciated and enjoyed by everyone. This summer resort, of which Mr. A. Catherwood is proprietor, covers about 40 acres, and is delightfully situated beside the River Credit. Almost everything that can bring pleasure to its patrons is to be found within its bounds. There is a fine bicycle track, baseball, lacrosse and football grounds for those who desire to engage in good healthy sport and spectators are given every facility for witnessing these games. Then there is the beautiful lake for boating and fishing, situated in the centre of the Park. A large uptodate boat-house contains a full supply of boats of all kinds. There is also a merry-go-round to amuse the children if they desire this good old-fashioned pastime. A large and well equipped dining hall, with kitchen attached, and a full supply of tables, chairs, dishes, etc. form an important feature of the resort. There are a number of cottages in the Park for rent, all fully furnished with everything necessary for camping and very comfortable. There is also a good piano in a large pavilion lighted with electric light for those who enjoy dancing. The Park is surrounded by a beautiful pine grove and is convenient to the village of Erin and within a few yards of the C.P.R. station.

Members of the Mono Mills Black Preceptory and a number of visiting Sir Knights attended divine service in the Anglican church on Sunday evening last. The service was conducted by Rev. Mr. Knight, of Bolton. During the offertory Miss Winnifred Hicks-Lynne, of Toronto, sang the well-known solo setting, "Come unto Me," which was very much appreciated.

Miss Winnifred Hicks-Lynne, of Toronto, and Mr. and Mrs. McFayden, of Orillia, are holidaying at the Rectory.

Sapper Fred Lee, adopted son of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Stork, arrived home from overseas service on Sunday evening last. Sapper Lee enlisted in April 1915 with the 34th Battery at Guelph, went overseas in October of the same year and served with an Engineers Corps until the battle of Vimy Ridge, where he was seriously wounded. After his recovery he again went back to the Flanders front and served until the end of the war, making about fifty-two months active service altogether. The young soldier is accompanied by his wife, formerly Miss Esther Clarke, of the Nursing Staff of Doncaster Hospital, who seems delighted with Canada.

Mr. and Mrs. Alverda Stork and little son, of St. Jacob's, and Mr. and Mrs. Mackie and little son, of Winterbourne, are the guests of Stork Bros., Mono Mills.

FULL OF INCIDENTS.

Durham-Hanover Game Was Rough and Supporters of Teams Were Always Ready to Scrap.

The Hanover Post is to hand with the following report of the recent Durham-Hanover lacrosse match:—

Durham beat Hanover to the tune of 9 to 4 on the local grounds on the holiday and are therefore still in the running for district honors—but take it from us their chances of defeating Orangeville and thereby getting the district are so small as to be almost nil.

Durham beat Hanover as stated, but they were in no sense the better team. They happened to score more goals—that is all. Both teams played the same brand of lacrosse, a very good brand too from a spectator's point of view but not nearly as effective as that essayed by the Dufferins who play the professional style of lacrosse.

The game was rough as was anticipated and as full of incidents as the taking of Vimy Ridge—but Durham needed the game and they had probably more supporters on the field than Hanover—supporters, too, who were ready to fight if necessary to bring home the bacon. We are not saying that Durham's whole outfit—players and supporters—were any worse than Hanover's—but believe us they were quite as bad. The result was that at one stage of the proceedings there was a pitched battle on the grounds in which both players and spectators "mixed it." As a result of this melee Constable Beamish sort of "swore in" five husky chaps from Hanover and Durham to keep their respective ardent supporters back.

One reason for this free-for-all stuff can be blamed on the O.A.L.A. who failed to get an official referee to Hanover. Where the fault lies, we do not know, but it would seem that the Association's moguls in Toronto don't care a cuss about these "bush-leaguers" up around Durham and Hanover; while, when their pets from Orangeville go out to play they see to it that a real referee is on the job. The teams stood around on Monday until after four o'clock and when it became certain that an official referee hadn't come, the teams agreed on Cavell of Chesley to handle the whistle. Cavell seemed a decent fellow and his rulings were impartial enough, but he let the teams get away from him and as a result the rough stuff was bound to crop up.

But, all in all, the game was good to watch, and anybody's game until well on in the last quarter when Durham secured a lead that was too large to catch up in a limited time. Hanover's team played better lacrosse in spots than they did against Orangeville but the Durham defence were, of course, very much easier to get inside of. Durham won the game but all we can say is that they were mighty lucky to get away with it, for Hanover was every bit as good a team and simply lost by some bad shooting and the fortunes of the game.

DRUMS AND DRUMMERS.

Instrument Was Known to Ancient Greeks and Romans.

It is said the drum was introduced by the Moors in Europe from the east after the Crusaders, but under various forms it was certainly known to the Greeks and Romans, for the tympanum is frequently alluded to in the classics, which probably included the tambourine and kettle drum.

In the modern orchestra three principal forms of the drum are to be found.

The common or side drum, the bass or Turkish drum, and the kettle drum.

The first is usually composed of a cylinder of wood or metal. Each end is covered with vellum or parchment, the tension being regulated by strings. It is worn at the side of the performer who beats the upper end, called the "batter head," with sticks, the under or "snare head," contains a set of cat-gut strings called "snares," which add to the sharp crisp tone of the instrument.

The bass drum is a large instrument of the same kind, the cylinder is of oak, while it is beaten on both ends with drum sticks that are furnished with leather pads. It is considered by the military bands to be one of its most useful instruments, though it is as usefully employed by the modern orchestra, while many recent composers have availed themselves of it in their compositions.

The most important form of drum is, however, the kettle drum in all orchestral as distinct from military music. This instrument is hemispherical in shape, its bason is made of brass or copper, the cover being of vellum attached to an iron ring, the whole is placed on an iron tripod. It is tuned by screws, though its limits are, of course, narrow. Kettle drums are always used in pairs, one being tuned to the key note, the other a fourth below.

These three drums are essential in every orchestra, while for any special music, the gang, tom tom, or some other similar instrument is used.

It takes years of practice, writes H. H. Kinzett, in the Montreal Star, to acquire the suppleness of wrist required by the side drummer if he wishes to excel, so it is necessary to commence the study early or the labor will be in vain.

A Town Crier.

In old days the town crier was a recognized institution throughout France. But when the art of printing came in, the newspapers drove the town crier out of business. There are parts of France, however, where the town crier still makes his announcements. In an obscure little village there is an old man who stands at the main street corner and beats a drum to attract the attention of the populace when there is news to be given out. There is no newspaper. When the armistice was signed, the people of that vilage learned of it from the crier.

A FORTUNE AT STAKE

The following is a synopsis of "A Fortune at Stake," a gripping story of English Sporting Life, which will be portrayed in realistic pictures at the Gem Theatre on August 27 and 28.

Possessed of ample means and being of a recklessly generous nature, Will Martindale, the gentleman rider, spends most of his time in racing and other sports. Fellows impose on him in the guise of friendship, others unscupulously try every means to rob him; until, at length, his fortune is seriously impaired.

Like many good men, he has a horrible neighbor, a vulgar, ostentatious fellow named Hardwin, who has, as bosom friend, a perfectly villainous creature known as Gustwaite. Unreasonable jealousy makes Hardwin cordially detest everything on the Martindale Estate, including Martindale himself. This dislike develops into hatred owing to an awkward incident. Martindale, out riding, catches a fellow ill-treating a young girl, goes up and gives the man a good slash across the head with his riding whip. Then he finds out that it is Hardwin, and the latter swears revenge.

In the neighborhood live Lord and Lady Launcelot—or rather, they exist. Years ago they married for "convenience," and found it very inconvenient ever since. They have absolutely nothing in common with each other, and have dragged-out a time of unhappiness and burden. Young and beautiful Lady Laura seeks more distraction than her husband can afford, for he is impecunious. The husband, not knowing Martindale's true financial state, suggests that his wife shall admit him into her society circle and try to find a means of getting money out of him. She consents, but, as Launcelot did not foresee, Martindale's advent gives life a fresh meaning for her.

The flirtation between Martindale and Lady Launcelot being a matter of local gossip, suspicion falls upon the former; but at the inquest the verdict is that Lord Launcelot met his death by some unknown hand. Martindale then discovers that Launcelot had no funds, and he is confronted with a bill he had backed to the extent of 10,000 pds. This, with his other accumulating debts and gambling and racing losses, nearly ruins him.

Determined to turn the tide of fortune he decides on one last venture, by staking everything he possesses on his favorite horse "Vendetta" which is to run in the forthcoming Devonsmre Grand Stakes. Banks, the crack jockey, is to ride, and odds are strongly in favor of the horse. On the evening before the race secret trials quite favorable take place, but at night Martindale is anxious. Persuaded that foul play is about, he gets up and puts "Vendetta" into another box. Sure enough, in the early hours Hardwin and Gustwaite, with their men, break into the staples and turn loose the horse which they take in the darkness to be "Vendetta." Day dawns and the stable boys raise the alarm, which the trainer and Banks take up, until Martindale appears and explains the mystery.

On the course later in the morning there is tremendous excitement. It seems as if all London had come down this time. There is much excitement when it becomes known that Martindale has staked everything on "Vendetta" whom Banks is to ride. Odds are in his favor, though "Rainstorm" the horse owned by Hardwin is quite in the running.

The hubbub increases as the hour of the race approaches, and Lady Laura and Martindale's sister are both in a state of painful nervousness lest anything unfortunate should happen. The enclosures fill rapidly as the sun burts forth in all its glory, and the horses assemble in the paddock.

Everyone is busy about something: Hardwin and his accomplice Gustwait are very much occupied. Under the staircase leading down from the weighing room crouches a dark figure, and as Banks descends, a stick is thrust in between the stairs and he falls and sprains his wrist. Martindale and others rush to pick him up, and in the excitement nobody sees what really happens. All they know is that Banks cannot ride.

The news causes a profound impression—and then a cheer goes up when it is learned that Martindale himself will ride "Vendetta". The excitement grows apace, and is so much for Lady Laura that when the race begins she has to look away. But Martindale's sister knowing what terrible consequences are attached to it, gazes petrified as the shot rings out and the horses start.

"They're off!" is the exclamation on every side—and indeed they are! First there is a bit of a spread, when they close in again. A little further on they spread again, and then "Vendetta" gets away closely followed by "Rainstorm". A few moments later the horses get bunched again, and two fall. Then "Rainstorm" swerves towards the palings just as the others catch up. Still "Vendetta" leads and the excitement is intense.

On! On! Faster and faster. Now closing, now spreading; "Vendetta" or "Rainstorm" always leading. On! On! 'Till at the corner something happens, nobody knows what, but "Rainstorm" suddenly plunges and throws his rider over his head. He is out of it—still "Vendetta" has not yet won. Martindale rides superbly; never has he ridden so well. Crowds shout themselves hoarse with excitement, it looks as though their favorite is going to win. But "Vendetta" is not much ahead and is very hard pressed.

On they go! Can they go faster? "Vendetta" does! It is wonderful! He's right ahead—only a few yards to the winning post—yet it seems miles, both to the rider and the spectators. On! On! Two of the others nearly catch him up. Will he be overtaken? On! On! Now it's neck to neck!.....A sudden hush seems to overtake the course and then up goes a tremendous cheer, "VENDETTA" HAS WON!

Lady Laura dries her tears and comes forward to meet Martindale as he leads "Vendetta" through an admiring crowd. Meanwhile Hardwin and Gustwaite, both penniless, steal more silently away than either of them have ever done before. Somewhere behind the pavilion lies a figure on a stretcher. Is is that of the jockey who had ridden "Rainstorm". Neither his master nor his master's friend dare stay to comfort him! A doctor bends over and catches the words: ".....at the Epsdown..... I hipped him.....that was why Martindale lost.....they made me..... Gustwaite?.....where is he?..... he shot Launcelot in mistake for Martindale.....I saw him....."

Over where the sun shines brighter stand Lady Laura with Martindale and his sister—who tactfully slips away. Martindale holds Laura's hand; she is almost in tears again. 'Fortune retrieved by a single stroke of luck is too much for each other's eyes and understanding.

Just then Martindale's sister returns. The situation is not lost on her. Smiling to Martindale she artfully says: "Promise me, Will, that you won't race again. You have won what you wanted haven't you?"

"I think I have," he says, as he holds the Lady Laura rather closer!

If this is to be your year get a Maxwell

THERE are untold numbers in Canada who have felt Old Man Opportunity slap them on the back in the last four months. This is to be their year.

If you are one of them let your mind turn to a larger, more luxurious car—a Maxwell, equipped with every modern device, better looking, better riding.

Give your pride the treat it has looked forward to. Get a self-starting, demountable rim automobile. Get a car that expresses yourself.

A Maxwell costs no more to run or maintain. It gives you many extras in comfort and ease of mind.

Many of the richest men in Canada drive Maxwells.

They appreciate the 300,000-all-alike idea behind the Maxwell. They know that a chassis which has withstood a manufacturing "run" of 300,000 in 5 years without a radical change means a perfection in motor car development.

If your pride could talk it would say:

"Get a Maxwell."

British Government Is Placing Returned Soldiers On the Land in England

THE British Government departments dealing with the plans for placing returned soldiers on the land have been lax in keeping the public informed of the progress of the resettlement plans. This reticence has been productive of an amount of adverse criticism which was not deserved.

Only a few days ago the monthly meeting between the local labor representatives and the Food and Food Production Ministries resulted in such a storm of protest against the supposed inaction of the Government that only the cleverness of the chairman obtained a hearing for the representative of the Board of Agriculture, which allowed him to explain the details and progress of work done.

The Government, it develops, has four plans. The first is the forming of a training colony. Here the men take a course in practical agriculture, which is considered necessary, as many soldiers going on the land have had little experience, principally in working an allotment or a kitchen garden only. During tuition the men are paid $7.50 a week, with a further allowance if married for their wives and children.

After completing the course of training men with capital are to be provided with plots under the small holdings act. The Government will grant on loan for the purchase of land or stock a sum equal to the capital of the applicant.

Under what is known as a tenant holding there is provided a cottage with sufficient land to keep a cow and a little small stock and to provide a kitchen garden for growing the family vegetables. This is for men who are skilled workers and is instituted with the idea that the man works the ground for his own needs and spends the greater part of his time working at his own trade.

For the man without capital the plan favored is that of an industrial colony. A large farm will be worked by these men under the direction of a skilled manager. The staff will be employed at a wage slightly higher than the minimum prevailing in the district, and will receive a percentage of profit after expenses have been paid.

The Board of Agriculture has acquired about 6,000 acres in four districts. At Patrington in Yorkshire, Holbeach in Lincolnshire, Heath Hill in Shropshire and Pembrey on the coast of Carmarthenshire colonies have been arranged.

Patrington, an estate of 2,363 acres, will be run as a single great industrial farm, the profits of which will be shared by those who do the work. Holbeach is to be a group of distinct small holdings of ten acres each organized on a co-operative basis.

The Patrington Crown Colony, which is about three miles from the village of that name, is not far from the Humber, and is known locally as "Warpe Land" — that is, land reclaimed from the sea. The deep alluvial soil is better suited for heavy crops of wheat and beans than for fruit growing, and market gardening, which are the staple products of the small holdings of ten acres. This is the reason for the profit-sharing system and the policy of working the crown colony as a single big farm.

The colony is easily distinguished by the identical pairs of red-roofed and red-walled cottages built for the settlers. Each house has a half acre of land for the resident's own use. The central homestead is a typical English farm of ancient type, suggestive of peace and prosperity.

A man and his family can earn a fair and healthy livelihood on the Patrington colony. The current rate of wages is $8.40, while the settler's rent amounts to only 72 cents a week. For this he gets a five-roomed house and a half acre of garden.

Holbeach is an object lesson in colonization on a technical plan. It consists of about 1,000 acres, 200 of which are reserved as a central demonstration farm, round which the eighty ten-acre holdings are grouped. From this central farm the colonists will get implements, seeds, fertilizers and everything they require on co-operative terms, and also free expert advice from the director. The centre will also undertake the distribution of produce on the most advantageous terms. Vegetables and fruit will be the staples of production, and will be marketed in the Midland towns and in London.

Swift Made Proverbs.

George Birkbeck Hill in his studies of Johnson and Boswell touched the insoluble mystery of Dean Swift. Here is one of his notes upon a saying attributed to Swift's grandmother. Whether the saying that Swift attributes to his grandmother was really hers may well be doubted. He used to coin proverbs and pass them off for old. One day when walking in a garden, he saw some fine fruit, none of which was offered to him by its stingy owner. "It was an old saying of my grandmother's," he said, "always pull a peach when it lies in your reach." He accordingly plucked one, and his example was immediately followed by all the rest of the company, under the sanction of that good old saying. Another day, seeing a farmer thrown from his horse into a slough, he asked him whether he was hurt. "No," he replied, "but I am woundily bemired." "You make good the old proverb," said Swift, "the more dirt the less hurt." The man seemed much comforted with the old saying, but said he had never heard it before; and no wonder.

AUTO-INTOXICATION OR SELF-POISONING

"FRUIT-A-TIVES" Absolutely Prevents This Dangerous Condition.

The chief cause of poor health is our neglect of the bowels. Waste matter, instead of passing from the lower intestine regularly every day, is allowed to remain there, generating poisons which are absorbed by the blood.

In other words, a person who is habitually constipated, is poisoning himself. We know now that Auto-intoxication, due to non-action of the bowels, is directly responsible for serious Kidney and Bladder Troubles; that it upsets the Stomach, causes Indigestion, Loss of Appetite and Sleeplessness; that chronic Rheumatism, Gout, Pain In The Back, are relieved as soon as the bowels become regular; and that Pimples, Rashes, Eczema and other Skin Affections disappear when "Fruit-a-tives" are taken to correct Constipation.

"Fruit-a-tives" will protect you against Auto-intoxication because this wonderful fruit medicine acts directly on all the eliminating organs.

A DOUBLE DROWNING.

Canoe Tragedy at Oakville on Civic Holiday.

A double fatality occurred at Oakville on Monday when George Edgar Fenton, of that town, and Harold Pocock, 520 Dufferin Street, Toronto, were drowned.

Four people and two canoes were involved in the accident. The Fenton family had moved to Oakville from Tornto a short time ago. There are five brothers and two sisters. Harold Pocock, a driver for the United Farmers, who was engaged to Miss Miriam Fenton, had gone from Toronto to Oakville on Sunday morning for the holiday. Monday afternoon he and George Edgar Fenton and Walter Fenton and his little boy of three years of age went canoeing on Sixteen Mile Creek. Edgar and Walter Pocock were in one canoe, and Walter and his little boy in the other.

Through some cause not yet plain even to those who saw the accident, Walter's canoe tipped, throwing his son and himself into the water. The creek is only 60 feet wide at this place, and as Fenton is an expert swimmer, he soon had the boy, who was unconscious, on the shore, and began to resuscitate him.

In the meantime Edgar Fenton, in the other canoe, while trying to right the capsized craft tipped his own. Neither he nor Pocock could swim; they floundered and sank. Leaving the child on the bank, Fenton jumped in to help his brother and Pocock, but the creek is very weedy, and he failed to recover the bodies until help had come, and it was too late.

Edgar Fenton was 38 years old. He had been 38 months in France, having gone overseas in the 14th Battalion, and having served afterwards in the 7th Railway Corps. All the five Fenton boys have served during the war. One of them, A. Fenton, resides at 69 Munroe Street, Toronto, Walter Pocock was only 20.—Acton Free Press.

DELICATE YOUNG GIRLS.

Need New Red Blood to Give Them Health and Strength.

Does your daughter inherit a delicate organization from you? The anæmia of young girls may be inherited, or it may be caused by bad air, unsuitable food, hasty and irregular eating, insufficient out-of-door exercise and not enough rest and sleep.

It comes on gradually, beginning with languor, indisposition to mental or bodily exertion, irritability and a feeling of fatigue. Later comes palpitation of the heart, headache dizziness following a stooping position, frequent headaches and breathlessness. In a majority of cases constipation is present. There may be no great loss of flesh, but usually the complexion takes on a greenish-yellow pallor.

Cases of this kind, if neglected, become serious, but if taken in time there is no need to worry. The treatment is quite easy and simple. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, which are free from any harmful or habit-forming drug, are just the tonic needed to remedy this wretched state of health. Though it is not noticeable, improvement actually begins with the first dose. As the blood is made rich and red, the pallor leaves the face, strength and activity gradually return and if the treatment is continued until the last symptom disappears, the danger of a relapse is very slight.

If any symptoms of anæmia appear, practise a suspicion that Dr. Williams' Pink Pills should be given at once, and the sooner they are taken the more speedily will the trouble be overcome. You can get these pills through any dealer in medicine or by mail at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50 from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

SINCE 1870 SHILOH 30 DROPS STOPS COUGHS

Confidence in the Cause.

The champion optimist of America is private B——, now on active duty with his regiment somewhere in France. The regiment, after a turn in the trenches, was whiling away its time in a rest camp, and the officers were seeking to get the men to use some of their spare minutes in the study of French. The men did not take very kindly to the idea, and one of the officers sought to chide them for their lack of interest. Private B—— cut him off with the following query: "What in h— do I want to learn French for? They don't speak that in Berlin, do they?"

His Opinion.

Willie—What do you think of this plan of turning all the clocks ahead an hour each day?

Gillis—Just another foxy scheme of the bankers to make a man's notes come due sooner, I think.—Judge.

Some Satisfaction.

"How did the shortage of gasoline affect you?"

"Well," replied Mr. Chuggins, "it was a kind of comfort to know offhand exactly why the old machine wouldn't run."—Washington Star.

To Prevent Appendicitis

Here is the Experience of a Man Who Escaped the Surgeon's Knife.

You hear almost daily of some one going to the hospital for an operation for appendicitis. Do you know of any one who was ever really well afterwards?

Besides the risk and expense of the operation, the results are usually disappointing. For this reason alone it is well worth while to try to avoid appendicitis by keeping the digestive system in healthful condition.

Many have written us about Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills as a preventive and cure for appendicitis. This letter is a fair sample of the cases described.

Mr. John Poole, R. R. No. 5, Dresden, Ont., writes: "I was taken very sick with severe pains and cramps in my stomach. I called in a doctor, who said I had appendicitis in the worst form, and my case was very serious. He gave me medicine, which relieved me at that time, but I was far from being cured. He said I would have to go through an operation before I would be well, but this I did not wish to do. One day in looking through Dr. Chase's Almanac I saw that Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills were recommended for appendicitis if taken in time, so I thought I would try them. I took them regularly for two years, and now I am perfectly cured. I can do all kind of hard work without any trouble. I would not be without Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills in the house under any consideration, for I can truly say that they will do just what is claimed of them."

Perhaps the one greatest rule of health is that which calls for daily movement of the bowels. With this program in effect there is no danger from appendicitis or similar dangerous diseases.

Chronic constipation of the bowels is cured by Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills because they get the liver in healthful working order. In other words, they get at the cause of the trouble and remove it, thereby effecting thorough and lasting benefit.

Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills, one pill a dose, 25 cents a box, all dealers, or Edmanson, Bates & Co., Limited, Toronto.

Hetherington—Rutherford.

A very pretty wedding took place at the home of the bride's father, George Rutherford, Shelburne, on Wednesday afternoon, July 30, when his daughter, Olive Margaret, was married to David Hetherington. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. W. W. Wallace, B.D., pastor of the Methodist church, in the presence of a few immediate friends. The wedding march was played by Mrs. J. R. Layton and the happy couple was attended by A. H. Corbett and Miss Eletha E. Rutherford. Little Miss Pearl Skelton was the ring bearer. Mr. and Mrs. Hetherington motored to Alliston and left by train for a two months' trip to the West. On their return they will reside in Shelburne. Our good wishes accompany them.—Free Press.

Lucky Photographer.

It is not always that things turn out so happily for the rash person who ventures to take snapshots on the east coast of England, as they did in the case of a young lady in the following story: She was seen photographing on a point of the coast, and was promptly approached by a special, who informed her of the enormity of her offense, took her name and address, and removed her camera. She heard nothing more of the matter for some time, but one morning she was amazed at receiving a check running into three figures, and a letter from headquarters informing her that her photographs were not only very good, but resulted in the capture of an enemy submarine.

MRS. JOS. H. HUGHES.

The death of Mrs. Jos. H. Hughes, a highly respected resident of Orangeville for the last thirty-five years, took place at her home on Wellington Street, late on Monday night after a long and trying illness. Mrs. Hughes, whose maiden name was Annie M. Boxall, was a daughter of the late Alfred Boxall, of Simcoe, Ont. She came to Orangeville about 1884 to take a position as law stenographer in the office of Myers and Robb and had the distinction of being the first stenographer in this town. She was married to Mr. Hughes in 1887. Besides her husband she leaves one son, Signaller S. Stuart Hughes, who has been overseas for two years or longer and is supposed to be now on his way home. Efforts were made to secure the son's release in time to allow him to reach home before his mother's death, but these unfortunately were not successful. One brother, Alfred Boxall, of Detroit, and a sister, Miss Louie Boxall, librarian in Simcoe, also survive. Mrs. Hughes was a devoted wife and mother and a kindly, warm-hearted woman, whose loss will be mourned by her neighbors and numerous personal friends. The funeral will be held to the Forest Lawn Cemetery at 2.30 o'clock this (Thursday) afternoon.

THOS. G. PORTER.

Citizens of Orangeville were shocked on Sunday by the startling news that Thos. G. Porter, a well known townsman, had died very suddenly at the home of his brother, Dr. Frank Porter, Waubaushene. Mr. and Mrs. Porter and family motored to Waubaushene on Wednesday of last week for a short holiday. Saturday night Mr. Porter, who had spent part of the afternoon fishing, retired in his usual health. Between 7 and 8 a.m. Sunday he was seized with a severe pain in the region of the heart and passed away inside of an hour. His sons and daughter motored home late in the day to look after the funeral arrangements and Mrs. Porter accompanied her husband's remains home on Monday. The late Mr. Porter was born at Sandhill, Peel County, sixty years ago and came to Orangeville about 35 years ago. He ran a carriage and woodworking shop on First St., where he had a prosperous business. He was an expert workman and could repair or make almost any kind of woodwork. For several years he had acted as Instructor in the Manual Training Department of the Orangeville Public School. He was a genial, companionable man, well liked by everybody and the news of his death was a great shock to a legion of friends. He was a devoted husband and father—a father who made companions and confidants of his children—and he will be sorely missed by the members of the stricken household. He is survived by Mrs. Porter, one daughter, Miss Ina, a member of Orangeville Public School staff, and two sons, Stuart, who arrived home from overseas only two weeks ago, and Will. Dr. Frank Porter, Waubaushene, Jas. Porter and Mrs. Wm. Stubbs, Toronto, are the surviving brothers and sister. Deceased was a member of the Methodist Church, a Liberal in politics and a member of Court Equity, I.O.F. There was a large attendance at the funeral which was held from the family residence on Little York St. to the Forest Lawn Cemetery on Tuesday afternoon. Revs. E. R. Young and G. W. Robinson conducted the services and Messrs. A. Firth, A. E. Annis, Dr. T. H. Henry, R. J. Barnett, Thos. S. Hewson and Thos. Henderson were the pallbearers. Among the numerous beautiful floral tributes were wreaths from the widow and family, Court Equity I.O.F., and Mr. and Mrs. D. T. Henderson, Morrisburg, and sprays from Mrs. J. A. Henderson, Montreal, the brothers and sister, Mr. and Mrs. R. J. Barnett, Boys of the Manual Training Class, Methodist W.M.S., Nurses of Lord Dufferin Hospital, Col. and Mrs. J. A. V. Preston, Mrs. G. H. and Miss May Niebel, Misses Muriel Laverty and Cora Rowan, Methodist Epworth League, Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Irvine, Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Connop and Mr. and Mrs. Jas. R. Duncan.

Friends from a distance included Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Stubbs, Bert Porter, Bert Stubbs, Stanley and Samuel Stubbs, Toronto; Robt., Mary and Moss Woods, Bolton; Mr. and Mrs. G. Patton and family, Laskay, Mr. Jas. O'Connor and daughter, Ella, Teston, Miss Mary Thomson, Elora, and Miss Lena Tasker, Mt. Forest.

IN MEMORIAM.

In loving memory of Jno. Haddock, who departed this life on May 30th, 1919:—

Two months have passed and still
I'm lonesome;
Never will thy memory fade;
Loving thoughts will always linger
Round the grave where husband's laid.

I loved him, yes, no tongue can tell
How much I loved him, or how well;
God loved him too and He thought best
To take him home with Him to rest.

His loving wife.

HERE'S ANOTHER FROG STORY

New Yorker's Experience Seems to Corroborate Tale Told by the Kaiser's Press Agent.

This is the time of the year when fish stories are permissible, so the kaiser's press agent cannot be blamed for pulling that one about the frogs croaking in such deafening fashion that they enabled the Germans to bring up their batteries without being discovered by the allies. Hank Newman, who invented the famous "snapper" elixir, partly bears out the statement made by the Hun war correspondent. He knows all the habits of the Johnny Crapands and he declares that they can make some noise when they begin to croak. "I don't know anything about those bloodthirsty frogs of the Chemin des Dames, however," explained Mr. Newman. "But down in Ozone Park, where I live, there is a frog pond, and hundreds of them live a quiet, peaceful life. In fact, the frogs down my way are musical, for they lull the native to sleep. There is one big fellow, however, who has a high pitched voice. I named him Caruso because he warbles louder than any in the flock. For some time Caruso and me were quite chummy. As soon as he heard my alarm clock go off at five in the morning, he would come to my window and sing a roundelay, which indicated that he was hungry. That was when I had daylight work. Now I'm on nights and don't get to bed until three in the morning. And for the past three weeks Caruso and his entire chorus made sleep impossible for me, so I found it necessary to move far from the frog pond."—New York Sun.

JUST SIMPLE COMMON SENSE

Really Nothing to Be Alarmed About When Speaker Uses Pretentious Word "Psychology."

One way to get an audience nowadays is to call the subject of one's talk "Psychology." A Harvard professor recently amazed a convention of clothing manufacturers and dealers by delivering an address upon this topic, in which he laid down several principles about the effect of clothing upon the wearer, and the surprise of his hearers was due to the discovery that what the learned man had dignified by a long word was nothing more than what more commonly passes for common sense. A good many of the things he said were already known to them, if they had stopped to think. When he placed them under the head of psychology they sat up and took notice, says the Oregonian.

He said, for example, that the well-dressed man is 10 per cent more efficient than the poorly dressed man. He said that clothes that do not fit prevent the wearer from doing his best. Cleanliness promotes self-respect. Self-respect is contagious, like confidence. The man who does not think well of himself is unlikely to win the good opinion of others. Comfortable clothing, made of good material, well brushed, was the foundation of the superstructure, he said. He was talking to hard headed business men, and they believed him, because their own experience showed his statements to be true.

Hapless Claribel's Encounter.

The sun was slowly sinking in the usual place. Claribel Skippenhop, over whose youthful head scarce thirty-seven summers had lightly flown, sat in a regulation-size hammock, idly swinging her foot to the tune of "Keep the Home Liars Squirming," played on a Hottentot bagpipe 42 miles away.

Suddenly a thought seized her. She tried to scream and break its hold. She succeeded in both. Probably one and fifteen eight-millionths of a cubic second was allowed to elapse between her scream and the time the thought was cowering at her feet.

"Avaunt," she cried. "Don't you know this is my thoughtless day? Now, doggone it, I'll have a headache."

Then she went back to swing her foot and the hammock.

First-Hand Earthquake News.

A volcologist of the Carnegie Geophysical laboratory reports that he has nearly perfected apparatus for recording upon wax cylinders the subterranean sounds of earthquakes, says the Scientific American. "The ordinary commercial cylinders are unsuitable for this delicate work, and accordingly the laboratory has secured a supply of cylinders of the old, pure wax type. The microphone used in this connection has also been greatly improved and a perfect little portable field outfit weighing less than a pound has been evolved."

Naughty Mamma's Boy.

My husband, who is at Camp Sherman, wrote home and told us this joke the boys played on a "mamma's boy" who was the goat of the whole company. One night while he was over to the Y. M. C. A. they fixed up the head of his cot with sticks and tied a string to them, then waited until he got sound asleep and pulled the strings, out came the sticks and down went the bed. He nearly exploded he was so mad and my husband said had you been listening you could have heard him swearing clear home.—Chicago Tribune.

All in Some Day.

One day at a Southern camp one of the negro soldiers was showing me a service pin with three stars which he always carried in his pocket. I asked him who the relatives were and he replied: "One is fo' maself an' the other two is fo' ma brudders; one is going to enlist an' the other is in the next draft."—Exchange.

HOCKLEY.

The garden party given by Mr. L. Swinton was a great success. Over 1000 people from far and near assembled and everybody was well pleased with the entertainment furnished. The baseball game between Alliston and Hockley was won by the former team. The program was one of the best ever put on in these parts. Duncan R. Cowan, of Toronto, proved to be an entertainer of the first magnitude and would be welcomed back again. Equally as popular was Miss Goode, elocutionist. Local talent assisted in the usual efficient manner. Addresses were delivered by Alex. Ferguson, M.P.P., Rev. Mr. Holdsworth, formerly of Hockley, and Rev. Mr. Lynn, of Rosemont. The chair was ably filled by Rev. A. C. McCollum. A nice sum was realized from the tags and will be devoted to charitable purposes. The people of this community owe a debt of gratitude to Mr. Swinton for an excellent evening's entertainment.

Doctors could do nothing for me, and I was almost desperate with suffering when I began to use Dr. Chase's Ointment. In one month I was completely cured and think that this was little short of a miracle.

How Long Is Five Minutes?

By BEN WINSLOW

(Copyright)

Every house in the little town of Ardeola had been wiped out by a "great conflagration." That a village so insignificant could be visited by a catastrophe of sufficient magnitude to warrant an application of the word "conflagration" may seem paradoxical, but, in view of the fact that every splinter of its thirty-nine buildings was consumed in the blaze, no other word would fit.

Therefore the newspapers of Westvalia chronicled the fire that wiped out its little neighbor across the river as "a great conflagration."

The facts, although given in painful detail in the columns of the press the day after the fire, were brought out more entertainingly during the legal proceedings that followed several months later.

The people of the late Ardeola blamed the Osage Valley railroad for the calamity, and they were so firmly convinced that the soulless corporation was the cause of their loss that thirty-eight of them brought suit against the railroad. The one ex-home owner who did not seek redress at the hands of the court was John Lester, although his home was among the first to go.

Lester was a lawyer and had been referred to by the press on several occasions as "promising." The other thirty-eight losers intrusted their case to him, and in order that he might go into the battle as the legal representative of the people, with no interests other than those assumed in that capacity he entered no claim against the railroad.

It was a very generous act indeed, considering that the people he represented, having lost their all, could pay no retainer; in fact, the amount he could recover, if any at all, being entirely problematical, no promises of compensation were given.

That it was to be a bitter fight was evident. The railroad company, not satisfied to let its legal representative at Westvalia defend it, sent down three of the shining lights of the law department to assist him. They were on the ground the second day after the thirty-eight petitions were filed, whipping their case into shape for trial.

The thirty-eight petitions were identical, with the exception of the name of the petitioner, and they set forth that the Osage Valley railroad owned a bridge extending across the Grand river from Westvalia to Ardeola, the said bridge being a drawbridge, and the said draw being operated and controlled by employees of the said railroad company.

On the day of the fire—in fact, at practically the instant the fire started—the draw of the bridge, having been opened by employees of the railroad company to allow the passage of a tugboat, also owned by the said company, became clogged, and by reason of the said clogging of the said draw the fire-fighting apparatus from Westvalia was delayed in reaching the scene of the fire, the bridge being the only means of communication between the two towns; and furthermore, that by reason of the above-mentioned delay the fire gained such headway that the Westvalia fire department was unable to check it.

It was upon the facts set forth in petitions like the foregoing that the thirty-eight inhabitants of Ardeola based their suit. The first move of the railroad company's attorneys was to [illegible] of the petitions [illegible] they lost the case [illegible]

When [illegible] first [illegible] the [illegible] and [illegible] fact [illegible] the [illegible] that the [illegible] side [illegible] were sure [illegible] mistake.

The [illegible] taken off [illegible] They expected to [illegible] members of [illegible] the stand to [illegible] recovered quickly [illegible] witnesses.

The only point that made a case was that the draw was open only five minutes. The operator of the draw testified positively [illegible] and he was followed by the bridge foreman with testimony equally positive. They both stated that they [illegible] the time by the arrival and departure of passenger train No. 95.

They testified that the train came into the bridge block at the Westvalia end at eight-twenty-five and crossed the bridge at eight-thirty, and the engineer, fireman, conductor and brakeman on No. 95 corroborated their testimony.

The petitioners were disappointed in the cross-examination conducted by Lester. The only questions he asked tended to establish more firmly the fact that the draw was open only five minutes.

"How much time do you desire for argument?" inquired the court.

"I am satisfied with what time the other side desires," replied Lester.

The railroad company's Westvalia representative thought he saw an opportunity to gain an advantage. He knew Lester's ability as a court orator, and even before the trial he had intimated to his assistants that to choke off Lester's talk would be a decided advantage.

A hurried consultation was held by the four railroad lawyers, and as a result the Westvalia representative stated that five minutes was sufficient.

"I am satisfied with that, also," said Lester, dashing the remaining hopes of the thirty-eight petitioners. They had counted not a little on Lester's argument to the jury, and they knew that it took him more than five minutes to get warmed up.

Mr. Stansbury was selected by the railroad attorneys to do their talking, and he devoted his five minutes to driving home the fact that the draw had been open only five minutes, and that five minutes was too short a time for the fire to gain enough headway to be beyond the control of the fire department.

Therefore the total destruction of the town must have been due to other causes with which the railroad company had no connection. Though short, it was a splendid argument, delivered in Stansbury's most captivating manner, and it carried conviction to the minds of the jury.

While the railroad lawyers were congratulating their orator the eyes of the petitioners were on Lester. It was his turn to talk. Stansbury's masterful argument would be picked to pieces and his laurels dragged in the dust. Lester rose from his seat, and with the customary "if the court please," and "gentlemen of the jury," he addressed them from his place at the table.

"My friend of the other side, with eloquence that would move an image of stone, has convinced you that the draw of their bridge was open only five minutes, and that in that short time the fire could not have gained sufficient headway to be beyond the control of the fire department when it finally reached the scene. Will one of you gentlemen kindly take out his watch?"

The juror on the left end of the first row produced a large silver timepiece.

"Now," continued Lester, "will you kindly call time when my five minutes is up."

He parted the tails of his Prince Albert and sat down.

The petitioners were panic-stricken. Was the man mad? He was wasting valuable time. Why didn't he pitch into Stansbury's argument and tear it into shreds as he did the arguments in the debate last year? Why didn't he say something? But Lester settled himself comfortably in his chair, closed his eyes and idly twirled his thumbs.

The juror holding the watch lowered his hand to rest in on his knee, and the court crossed and recrossed its legs. The railroad lawyers were nettled. They scented danger and put their heads together for a whispered consultation.

The other jurors craned their necks to see the watch. The juror holding it looked it in the face with a puzzled expression on his own; then he put it to his ear to see if it was running. The judge uncrossed his legs and tilted back in his chair, and Lester continued to twirl his thumbs.

The silence became oppressive. All eyes except Lester's and the timing juror's were fixed on the big clock over the bench. Surely the juror's watch must have stopped. He examined the second-hand closely to satisfy himself that it was turning. It was moving, but so slowly that he thought the watch must be running down.

He wound it industriously, and the noise, magnified by the deep silence of the room, resembled the clattering ratchet on a slacking-off windlass. The spectators began to get fidgety, piercing the silence with heavy sighs, nervous coughs and much nose-blowing.

Finally the juror called "time," and the court led a concert of sighs like escaping steam. Lester came to his feet.

"Now, gentlemen," he remarked dryly, "[illegible] how long the draw was open. I leave it to you to decide whether [illegible] five minutes was long enough for the fire to get beyond control."

[illegible] less than another [illegible] the jury was in with a [illegible] for the [illegible] awarding [illegible] Thus was silence [illegible]

Origin of Household Words.

Anyone interested in the history of dress might find amusement for many an hour by simply in searching out the meaning of many of the words used by dressmakers and haberdashers. Take the simple word corset. You will find that it is a diminutive of "corse," or body—a word which we still have in corpse and corps. And it was early used in the plural, as we do now, first to indicate an entire garment, and then merely the gay portion of such a garment. Similarly "bodice," which has recently been revived as a substitute for the overworked "waist," is merely a plural for body, the term originally being "a pair of bodies."

Ben Franklin's Advice.

"If you would be wealthy, think of saving as well as getting. Let us then be up and doing, and doing to the purpose. One today is worth two tomorrows. Never leave that till tomorrow which you can do today. We may make these times even better if we best ourselves. Industry need not wish and he that lives upon hope will die fasting."—Benjamin Franklin.

ONLY MEMORY OF TROUBLE IS LEFT

Mrs. Hatlem Was All Rundown For Many Years. — Tanlac Brought Relief.

"Tanlac has done me so much good that I am feeling more like myself than for a long, long time," said Mrs. Andrew Hatlem, of 3845 22½ avenue, South, Minneapolis, Minn., to a Tanlac representative, the other day.

"My trouble was a generally run down condition," continued Mrs. Hatlem, "and I had been suffering for a good many years. I had a very poor appetite and I never felt like eating any more than just enough to keep me alive and it just looked like the little I did eat soured and formed gas and this gas pressed so against my heart that I sometimes had difficulty in breathing. I was troubled with terrible headaches, too, and at times they were so bad that it just felt like my head would split and I had aches and pains all over my body and was so weak and in so much misery sometimes that I just dragged around the house at my work. I also suffered a great deal from constipation and dizzy spells and felt so tired and restless at night that I would simply lie awake for hours at a time not able to sleep a wink and my nerves were in a bad condition, too. I took a lot of medicine and treatments for my trouble, but nothing I did or took seemed to help me one bit until I began taking Tanlac.

"I had read about Tanlac and how it was helping others, so I decided to try it myself and I am certainly glad I did, because it began to help me almost from the beginning. My appetite got better and I commenced to pick up strength and my whole system seemed to be benefited and I kept on improving right along until now I have a fine appetite and can eat just anything I want and I never have a particle of trouble with gas any more. All I have of those miserable headaches is just the memory of them and those dizzy spells have left me entirely and I can sleep just like a little child the whole night through and am feeling so good every way now that I can do all my own housework and never feel any more tired than a person naturally would under the same circumstances. Tanlac certainly has helped me a lot and I am glad to recommend it to others for that reason."

"Tanlac is sold in Orangeville by C. V. Jeffers, in Grand Valley by G. E. Morrow, in Shelburne by J. E. A. White, and in Grand Valley by W. T. Edmonson."

A REGRETTABLE ACCIDENT.

Messrs. Fred Strother and Lester Hill Badly Burned by Gasoline Ignition.

A regrettable accident occurred on ten sideroad, Melancthon, on Monday evening of this week, whereby Messrs. Fred. Strother, son of L. C. Strother, of Hornings Mills, and Lester Hill, son of Rice Hill, of Whitfield, were most horribly burned by burning gasoline. The latter was returning in his car from a garden party at Hornings Mills and became stranded on the roadside owing to lack of gasoline. He was shortly overtaken by Mr. Strother, who naturally volunteered to let him out of the difficulty with a supply from the tank of his own car. It was while Mr. Strother was under his car getting the gasoline that someone unthinkingly struck a match in the darkness and instantly all was ablaze. Mr. Strother managed to get from under the burning car with difficulty but not before his chest, arms and face were terribly burned, while Mr. Hill also sustained severe burns on both hands while giving assistance to save Mr. Strother. The car was completely burned, only the metal parts remaining. The injuries of the two men were temporarily attended to by Dr. Gowan, of Hornings Mills, Mr. Strother being removed to a Toronto hospital on Tuesday morning for further treatment. He was accompanied by his parents and Dr. Gowan, and while his injuries are not expected to prove fatal, he is in a very painful condition. Both young men are returned soldiers, and the sad occurrence is greatly to be regretted. We trust they will have a speedy recovery. — Shelburne Free Press.

On the other hand, there's "Dominion Crystal"—the sugar that is always uniform in quality, always pure, always fine in granulation.
Most grocers carry this brand—They will substantiate all we say about its quality.

THE REFERENDUM.

Mrs. Blanche Read-Johnston Addressed Well-Attended Mass Meeting in the Methodist Church on Sunday Evening Last.

The Referendum campaign was opened in Orangeville on Sunday night by a mass meeting in the Methodist church immediately after the close of the regular church service. Upwards of three hundred citizens remained for the meeting and followed the address of Mrs. Blanche Read-Johnston, the Travelling Secretary of the Woman's Department of the Ontario Referendum Committee, with close interest. Fully half the audience was ladies, proof of the keen interest the women of the town are taking in the approaching vote.

Mrs. Johnston described the late war as a sucessful struggle to maintain the principles of honor and righteousness. Early in the war Lloyd George made the statement, "We have three enemies to fight, Germany, Austria and Drink. The greatest of these is Drink." The first two had been overcome triumphantly, and now in the radiance of this new and glorious morn of peace the third enemy had reappeared on the horizon. Mrs. Johnston discussed at some length woman's part in the coming campaign and expressed her joy that the women of Ontario, who had suffered so much from the strong drink evil in the past, had now the power to deal a death blow to the traffic. It was for this end that the women of this Province had worked in the past and it was a great delight to know that the first time they would cast their ballots would be for the purpose of making this a cleaner, a happier and a better country to live in. The speaker discussed the evils of the liquor traffic and the advantages of prohibition at some length and then proceeded to explain the ballot and the meaning of the four questions upon which the electors will be asked to pronounce. She strongly advised her audience to vote "No" on each of the four questions and made it plain that each person voting must vote on all four questions. If this is not done the ballot will be treated as a spoiled ballot. Her closing words were an earnest plea to the people of Ontario to realize their responsibility to prevent the reinstatement of the drink evil in this province. The eyes of the whole Dominion are centred on Ontario at the present time. Even in Britain the people are looking to Canada for leadership in the field of temperance reform.

Mr. A. D. McKitrick presided and the church choir led in the singing of a couple of well-known hymns.

Charters, M.P., Major Kennedy, W. J. Lowe, Manning W. Doherty and other speakers. Watch for bills giving full particulars.

FARMERS CONVENE.

Meeting at Shelburne on Friday Decided to Place Candidates in the Field in Dufferin County.

Convention Will be Held September 20th for Selection of the Men.

About two hundred farmers attended the United Farmers Convention held in Shelburne on Friday afternoon for organization purposes, also to consider the political situation in Dufferin. The meting was called by R. J. Woods, County U.F.O. Director, who occupied the chair.

The Banner was unable to have a representative at the meeting and is indebted to the Shelburne Economist for the following report of the proceedings: —

Mr. Woods explained the purpose of the meeting, which had to be held in order to properly complete the county organization in conformity with the constitution of the U.F.O.

Mr. S. C. McKee, of East Luther, was chosen Secretary of the meeting.

The following were chosen township members of the County Executive: East Luther, W. P. Bourne; Melancthon R. C. Thompson, Corbetton; Mulmur, Rice Powell, Whitfield; Mono, James White, Camilla; Amaranth, Wm. H. Gillespie, Fraxa Junction; East Garafraxa, Mack McCormick.

After the appointments had been made, the Chairman called on J. J. Morrison, Provincial Secretary of the U.F.O.

Mr. Morrison was sorry the ladies were not present. It was an oversight. In the next election it might be that we would be dominated by the ladies' vote. The ladies were very good advisers. No married man here who would not seek the advice of his wife when it came to important business. They couldn't make much more of a mess of things than the men sometimes did. He thought the meeting was a very good one, considering that it was harvest time. Many people wonder why the U.F.O. is in politics. No man who has not been a farmer understands the problems of the farmers at the present time and why it is necessary for them to go into politics. It was not the will of the Central Executive that the U.F.O. should go into politics but the will of the people. There are a great many reasons why we are in politics. One is to establish personal responsibility of the electors. He have not treated elections seriously but have treated them too much as a joke. We have looked on our responsibility as over the day after the election. There has been an attempt to carry an government by orders-in-council and not have elections. We read in the papers that Mackenzie King is to get Stengarry by acclamation and Finance Minister Drayton is to get Dufferin by acclamation while Mr. Best goes to the Senate.

Mr. Best rose at this juncture to say that as far as the newspaper report about this matter went he knew absolutely nothing about it. All he knew about it was what he had seen in the papers.

Mr. Morrison was glad to hear it.

The speaker resumed: A thing that should be insisted upon from politicians was the carrying out of promises. The responsibility was on the people. The people should insist on the pledges being carried out. We are in politics to secure equal rights and usage for the farmers. We have both a Dominion and Provincial platform. We have a right to representation for our industry. The Ontario Government report says the decrease in rural population in this Province in 1918 over 1916 was over 31,000, while cities during the same time had increased over 33,000. Agriculturists are working 15 hours while urban people are working 8, and asking for 6. "I have no fault with the laboring man getting all he can— that's his business. But you should also get all you can — that's your business. Our industry is on the bum and the population is leaving the farm." The governments have been spend-thrift. If municipal councils did this, they would be put out of office. Rural municipal debt per capita is much smaller than the urban municipal debt per capita—and yet they ask you to choose your legislators from the latter class. In the Provincial accounts of Ontario figure items of $265,000 and $111,000, marked "no audit." Do you want that sort of thing to be done with your money? The farmers must make a change if they are to settle down as mere producers. "Is it time you got busy—I think so. You should have got busy long ago. You have been so busy thinking in terms of Grit and Tory." We have been represented by the wrong class of people. In the Provincial House there are only twelve farmers, and half of them "joy farmers," who took up farming after they had made their money elsewhere. Yet people say we shouldn't stir up class feeling by calling for more agricultural representation. It is a characteristic of hogs that when they get into the trough they want to monopolize it. The other fellow has been in the trough a long time and when we ask him to get out and give us a chance, he says, "oh, that is class legislation!" The farmer has been blind to everything owing to party politics. The parties a couple of years ago said party government is no use, if you want to win the war we will have to have union government. Now they want to crack the party whip again. Are you going to let them do it? The speaker went into Provincial politics in some detail, starting back with the Mowat Government, and coming up to the Whitney Government and the centralization of all possible control in Toronto, re schools, roads, etc. The speaker told of how political offenders were sometimes punished Early in the war down in Nova Scotia, one De Witt Foster sold a horse to the government for war purposes. It was a good horse. It later came out that it had been rejected in the Boer war, and that Foster had paid a pair of ducks for it. Foster dropped out of sight—he should have been put in jail—but he has been located. He has been located by an advertisement in the Country Gentleman, an American publication—it is not surprising that these advertisements do not appear in newspapers in this country. In this advertisement in the Country Gentleman we find the name: "De Witt Foster, Superintendent of Resources, Dept. 8645, Marquette Building, Chicago, Illinois."

In answer to a query from Mr. G. R. McWhirter, the speaker said the U.F.O. had no connection with the Labor party and had had absolutely nothing to do with the strikes throughout the country.

R. H. Halbert, President of the U.F.O., entered at this juncture and was greeted with hearty hand-clapping.

Mr. Morrison took his seat immediately after Mr. Halbert's entry.

The Chairman called on Mr. Halbert to address the meeting. Mr. Halbert also expressed his regret that the ladies were not present. It did maybe seem a shame to call the ladies into politics now to help clean up after the men had been making a mess of things for the past fifty years. He had been delayed in getting to the meeting and would not attempt to make a speech at this time. Somebody had been writing letters to North Ontario about him and if anybody had anything to say about him, now was the time and place to say it. The papers said Mr. Drayton was to come to this county and become its member without the people having anything to say about it, as the result of a "swap."

Mr. Best objected to anybody saying he had arranged to make a swap over the matter of a Senate appointment. He had done no such a thing.

There were two or three minutes of fireworks at this juncture, in which John Duncan, of Black's Corners, also participated.

Mr. Halbert resumed. He spoke strongly in favor of the farmers' organization going into the political field. The U.F.O. would not stand for the organization backing a Grit or Tory. It is time the farmers got busy to look after their own interests in politics. Not a farmer who wouldn't be willing to pay his share of the war debt, but if they don't watch out they will have to pay more than their share. It has been said that the farmers are profiteers. A comparison was made of prices to refute this.

Chairman Woods said the great need of the farmers was for organization. There should be many more clubs in this county. Other classes are getting their demands because they are thoroughly organized. He had been a Tory all his life until he broke with the party about twelve year ago on principle, and came out as an independent. Principle must come first. The real secret of reconstruction was increased production. Political honors should not be made a life job but be passed around. It is for Dufferin to say whether Sir Henry Drayton is to have this position or not. It is for you to say whether you will place a man in the field for one or both houses or not.

Secretary S. C. McKee said it had come to the parting of the ways with him and he was out of the Tory fold. He would like to see independent men elected. When he attended party conventions the delegates had to pledge themselves to support the nominee of the convention.

Somebody in the audience asked if it was a fact that members of the Commons or Legislature took a pledge to support their party.

"Yes," said Mr. McKee.

Mr. Best objected. "I never knew of a man," he said, "who ever took a pledge to support his party in the House. I voted against my party different times at the last session."

"What do you do when the party whip cracks?" somebody called out.

"Well, I'll tell you this," said Mr. Best. "I don't know of any party member who had to write out a resignation that would be sent .. the Government if he didn't vote to please two-thirds or any other percentage of his supporters—and that's what your man will have to do if he's elected."

John Atkinson, of Melancthon, arose to remark: "Ididn't come here to hear Mr. Best, and I don't want to hear any more from him."

Considerable discussion then took place as to whether it was most advisable to select candidates at once or to hold a meeting for the purpose at a later date.

T. K. Slack Clerk of Melancthon Township, thought a meeting at a later date would be better for the selection of candidates.

J. A. Marshall, of Camilla, an ex-Warden of Dufferin, didn't think the meeing was fully representative enough to settle the question of political action.

G. R. McWhirter also thought an adjournment should be made.

The following motion was carried —That an adjournment be made to Saturday, Sept. 20th, or at an earlier date if the Executive sees fit, and that the ladies be specially invited to attend the meeting.

Mr. Morrison was extended a vote of thanks by the meeting.

The meeting closed with the singing of the National Anthem.

HAIL IN AMARANTH.

The drought was broken on Saturday afternoon by a heavy thunderstorm which drenched the parched land in fine shape. It places the rainfall assumed the proportions of a downpour, the flood of water washing the roads badly and wrecking culverts. A bad hailstorm is reported from the Arthur district and east toward Grand Valley. Hail also devastated a strip of country about five lots in width extending from a short distance north of Waldemar to Bowling Green and east as far as the 5th line in Amaranth. On some farms all uncut grain was beaten flat to the ground and many of the fields will not be worth cutting. In the aggregate the loss will run into many thousands of dollars. It is reported that a barn belonging to a farmer named Elgie on the Amaranth-East Luther townline was blown down during the storm.

IMPRESSIVE CEREMONY

There was a large attendance of members and friends of the congregation at the induction of the Rev. T. H. Stewart, M.A., the new Rector of St. Mark's church, on Wednesday evening, Aug. 13th. The Induction Service was of a most impressive character. Evening Prayer was said by the Rev. Canon Howitt, of St. George's Church, Hamilton, and the Lesson was read by the Rev. A. C. McCollum, of Mono Mills. The Induction Service proper was taken by the Ven. A. C. Mackintosh, B.D., Archdeacon of Halton and Wellington. A very impressive and suitable sermon was preached by Rev. A. H. Howitt, B.A., of St. Thomas Church, St. Catharines, a former rector of St. Mark's, who based his discourse on the text, "Watch ye, stand fast in the faith, quit you like men, be strong," I Cor. 16-13. The church choir provided special music for the occasion and the solos by Mrs. Meek and Mr. J. E. Jessop were very much appreciated. The chancel was beautifully decorated for the service.

Wake up, Ontario!

Let the Referendum Battle-Cry Be

"No!"-"No!"-"No!"-"No!"

SINCE the announcement in the Legislature last spring that a Referendum on the Ontario Temperance Act would be taken this fall, the different temperance organizations of the province of Ontario have met together to consider what attitude they should take. The result has been the formation of the Ontario Referendum Committee, which comprises representatives from the organized temperance forces of the province and the temperance sentiment of the province outside of these organizations. The new Committee will conduct the Campaign. We are asking the voters of Ontario to vote "No" to all questions submitted on the ballot.

The Referendum Ballot
AND HOW TO VOTE

	Yes	No
1. Are you in favor of the repeal of THE ONTARIO TEMPERANCE ACT?		X
2. Are you in favor of the sale of light beer containing not more than two and fifty-one one hundredths per cent. alcohol weight measure through Government agencies and amendments to THE ONTARIO TEMPERANCE ACT to permit such sale?		X
3. Are you in favor of the sale of light beer containing not more than two and fifty-one one hundredths per cent. alcohol weight measure in standard hotels in local municipalities that by a majority vote favor such sale, and amendments to THE ONTARIO TEMPERANCE ACT to permit such sale?		X
4. Are you in favor of the sale of spirituous and malt liquors through Government agencies and amendments to THE ONTARIO TEMPERANCE ACT to permit such sale?		X

By the Ontario Temperance Act, sale and distribution of alcoholic liquors for beverage purposes within the province were prohibited. For practically three years the province has experienced the good effects of this law. Its repeal would be a calamity. Any of the amendments would spoil it.

For the Temperance forces to win they must secure four "No" majorities. That is, a majority for "No" on EVERY question. The Temperance forces will be defeated if there is a majority for "Yes" on any of the questions. You must mark an X after each of the four questions, or your ballot is counted as spoiled.

A century of temperance progress in this province is at stake in the coming Referendum. The Ontario Referendum Committee earnestly and respectfully ask you to mark your X in the "No" column after each and every question, as indicated in the sample ballot reproduced herewith.

MONO MILLS.

A number of the Church people and friends gathered at the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Mills on Thursday evening last to welcome Miss Ethel Allen whose return from overseas service in the Great War was noted in last week's issue of The Banner.

During her two years' service she has collected a large number of scenes and views of places she has visited in Great Britain and the continent. Many of them are very beautiful and all are very interesting. Included in the number are scenes from historic England, Ireland, France, Switzerland, Italy, the Alps mountains, and the battlefields of Flanders and Belgium. Needless to say a few hours were very pleasantly spent and thoroughly enjoyed by all.

During the evening Rev. A. C. McCollum, Rector of the Parish, called on Mrs. Wilson G. Duke to read the following address, while Mrs. Oswald Potter presented Miss Allen with a very fine toilet set:—

To Miss Ethel Allen:—We, your fellow church members and friends, are assembled tonight to welcome you back to your home after an absence of nearly two years. We cannot say how pleased we are to greet you again; this is the proud moment toward which we have long looked forward. You have been so very often in our thoughts, and the prosperity of your work as well as preservation of your life have been frequent subjects of our prayers, both as individual friends, and as a congregation.

It was with deepest satisfaction we learned of your promotion to a most responsible position in your Hospital and we felt that the blessing that had attended your efforts in the humbler office would manifest itself in the day of larger things and greater opportunities. We feel proud that one of the citizens of our village and one of the members of our church should have had so much to do in helping win the war and in the most gracious and beautiful of all ministrations, that is, in the alleviation of pain and suffering.

We are met together, then, to show our appreciation of your sacrifice for our country and to ask you to receive this set of toilet articles, not for its intrinsic value, but as something which might serve to remind you in days to come of the esteem in which, we, your friends, hold you.

Mono Mills, Aug. 14, 1919.

Sapper Fred Lee who also returned from overseas service last week, has brought home many interesting souvenirs, including a German pipe measuring over three feet long, one end of which is supposed to be set on the floor while smoking. He also has some of the needle pointed shells which the Germans used against the dreaded British Tanks intending them to pierce the armor plate. There is also a sample of the sands of Egypt which by the way is very different from any sand we have here and many other curious and interesting things which make a valuable collection well worth seeing.

Mrs. Annie Wilson and Miss Margaret Potter returned on Saturday from a trip to visit friends in Hudson, Michigan.

The Round-Up

By ROBERT W. CREEL

(Copyright.)

How he came to be braking on the C. I. W. it would be impossible to say. It is doubtful if Legs Brown himself knew. He was a boomer brakeman, and, as such, he traveled by no schedule whatever. To ordinarily find him at any given time, you might inquire on any railway division in America with an equal chance of success.

He reminded you of that insect whose amiable disposition and attenuated appearance have won for it the sobriquet of "grand-daddy-longlegs." Hence, Brown's own nickname. Notwithstanding his fragile proportions, however, when occasion arose he could wield his huge fists with force sufficient to fracture a jaw-bone or drive a man's ear into the side of his head—a fact that had been demonstrated to the sorrow of more than one belligerent hobo.

As the long train of flat cars writhed in and out among the sand hills, Brown, stationed a short distance ahead of the caboose, was the only person visible.

At the last stop, Murphy, the conductor, had received a telegram warning him to be prepared for an attack when they entered Sandville. A large number of hoboes were gathered there and had taken possession of the town, explaining to the unhappy citizens the necessity of majority rule, if the republican form of government was to be maintained in the land.

Previous experience similar to this had detracted from the novelty of the situation for the few inhabitants of Sandville; but the hoboes were becoming bolder, and spoke of capturing the next train that came thither for the purpose of making their escape. Whereupon the station agent had grown alarmed and sent the telegram.

Among his other characteristics, Brown was intensely loyal to the road that chanced to employ him. Any action such as that contemplated by the hoboes was resented as a personal affront. Furthermore, at this particular time he knew that the president of the road was but a few hours behind in his special, and Brown deemed it his duty to do all in his power to prevent any unpleasantness when the great man should arrive.

Therefore as they drew near the little hamlet he returned to the caboose and conferred with the conductor.

"They's no use runnin' clear in, Jim. You better stop on the edge of this here metropolis while I go in an' reconnoiter the force of the enemy, as they say in the army."

"I wouldn't advise you to go alone, Legs. You can't tell what those boes'll do if they're drunk."

"Why, Jim, you know them fellers 're like sheep. The only reason I can see for 'em actin' like this is because they got a leader. If that's the case, all I got to is to sling him around like he didn't cost much, an' that'll take the fight right out of 'em. Besides, if a bunch of us go in, they'll git ready for trouble."

"All right, you can go while we stop for water. That'll give you time to see what they're up to."

So it was that, on foot and unaccompanied, Legs Brown ambled into the captured town. He had no doubt as to the location of the triumphant hoboes, for, though it was now almost dark, the only place that showed a light was the saloon, and to this he directed his steps.

At the bar stood a swarthy, well-set fellow, whose curly hair and high cheek-bones, together with the peculiar formation of his head, marked him as a native of Poland. This worthy was the most boisterous of the lot, but Brown thought it hardly likely that he was the leader, giving him scant attention, therefore, as he strode forward and ordered a drink.

"Here, ye rube, ye better ask me fer what ye want, 'r I'll brenk ye in two," said the tramp aggressively, pausing in the act of raising a glass to his lips.

Brown, reaching for his own drink, seemed not to hear the words, but his prodigious foot, as if released from a spring, suddenly swept up, and, striking the other's hand, threw the glass, with its contents, into his scowling face.

A storm of laughter arose from the onlookers, who swore, with mighty oaths, that it was the funniest thing they had ever seen. The victim, however, laughed not at all, but bellowed with rage and pain as the fiery liquid seared his eyes, and repeatedly yelled for Brown to come near.

Not desirous of being masticated, nor yet willing to move out of the way of the Pole, who was blindly groping for him, Brown chose the only alternative, and smote him squarely between the eyes, so that he crumpled up on the floor. Then, turning to the man's comrades, he broached the business of the evening.

"I want to tell you dirty bums that I'm going to take charge of this here city government from now till I leave. If any of you've got anything to say, why, you can step up and say it. You might be able to bluff these poor devils that live here, but I've seen too many boes not to know what you're made of. You're all under arrest, an' the first man that moves'll get plugged." The brakeman placed a hand in his hip-pocket, which, by the way, held nothing but his red bandanna handkerchief.

"Now, I want to see the man that's at the head of this outfit. Who put you up to this job?"

Following a sound of shuffling footsteps, the illustrious leader himself appeared in the doorway. Bully Hackett's visage was one of those of which the worst dreams are made. While it was rendered somewhat vacant by the absence of his nose, one of his eyes, and the major portion of his upper lip—unwilling sacrifices to the god of war—his expression lost none of its ferocity on that account, and his shaggy hair and beard gave him a look that was scarcely human.

Mr. Hackett had been engaged on a private foraging expedition, and knew nothing of the happenings within the saloon, nor saw the brakeman, as he came toward the bar.

"Wot's the matter?" he inquired savagely. "Didn't ye see that freight pull in?"

By way of attracting his attention, Brown struck him smartly on the part of his face formerly occupied by his nose.

"Yes, an' she'll lay there till she rots, if she waits fer you to take her out. By the time I git through with you, you'll be ready to crawl in your hole," said the brakeman. He had seen the train crew gathered in the shadows outside the door and now had little to fear from the other hoboes.

"Better take off your coat, because I'm not a-goin' to knock you out. I'll make you quit like a dog, so the rest of these gents'll see what you are," stated Brown, removing his own outer garment.

Hackett waited not for further advice, but lashed out so viciously with his right arm that Brown was taken unawares, and, had it not been for the bar at his back, he would have gone down ignominously. Even so, he was in an evil plight, for the tramp, seeing his opportunity, rushed in, raining blows on the face and body of his opponent.

Then, indeed, did it seem that the brakeman had been overconfident in his boasting. The other hoboes shouted encouragement to their champion, and the train crew were only restrained from joining in the fight by the conductor, who continued to voice his belief in Brown's prowess.

Veteran of a hundred battles, Brown's first move was to stop the flailing arms. This he did by the simple expedient of twining his own about them. Gradually, with the apparent sinuosity of a boa constrictor, he wrapped his limbs about those of the other, and for a moment lifted his own feet clear of the floor, making Hackett support the weight of both their bodies. Then, unmindful of his struggles, Brown as carefully freed himself, sending the hobo backward with a solid jolt on the spot where his first blow had landed.

Brown was intent on proving a theory that he had long held, namely, that a man, though inwardly a coward, may fight with seeming bravery so long as the blows of his adversary have not the appearance of being well judged or aimed with accuracy; but that a succession of blows, however light, on a sensitive spot will make him quit if he has the least vestige of a yellow streak.

During the next few minutes, so fiercely did Hackett assail him that the brakeman was almost entirely on the defensive. More than once he felt the impact of the tramp's horny fist on his face, but he still held to his purpose. When the opening offered, his hand flashed out, striking with invariable precision the spot he had selected for his attack.

Hackett manifested his displeasure at this mode of warfare, evidently thinking that Brown acted dishonorably in profiting by the absence of his nasal feature.

For a long time they fought, neither gaining the advantage. Brown was bleeding freely from the mouth, and one eye was fast swelling shut; but his antagonist was also badly bruised, the remnant of his nose being quite raw. Of the two, Hackett seemed the more fatigued. Excessive drinking had made him short-winded, and he breathed heavily. The brakeman now began to force the fighting, striking more often in the same spot. Hackett gave ground and once he glanced back, as if seeking a way of escape.

"Stand up an' fight, why don't you?" panted Brown. "You claim to be the champeen bo. Well, I ain't no kind of a champeen, an' here you're tryin' to quit before I git warmed up. What kind of fightin' do you call that? Come on an' mix it a little."

But Hackett had had enough. His spirit was gone, and he slunk back into the crowd, whimpering.

"Stop 'im, boys; stop 'im," he pleaded. "My heavens, my mug's broke in! I can't fight no more."

"You don't need to be scared. I'm satisfied," answered Brown. "I knew you was a quitter the minute I seen you, an' I wanted to show you up, so you couldn't lead these dubs into no more deviltry. What'll we do with 'em, Jim?" he asked, turning to the conductor.

"The best thing will be to lock 'em in a box car an' hand 'em over to the sheriff at Bennington," replied Murphy, who was guarding the door.

From the dark recesses of the caboose he had brought forth an old revolver. With it to uphold his authority, the erstwhile conquerors were placed in line and marched to the waiting train, escorted by the crew.

To Brown, this closed the incident. He marveled greatly, therefore, when there came a commendatory letter from the company's chief executive, together with a small package, which, on examination, was found to contain a gold watch.

"That business must've looked out some way or other," he remarked thoughtfully.

DELIGHTFUL MOTOR TRIP.

Mr. and Mrs. M. Varcoe, of West Broadway, have just returned home after a delightful motor trip to Rochester, N.Y., in company with Mr. and Mrs. H. G. Sturdevant in the fine Pierce Arrow car owned by Mr. Sturdevant. The first stage of the trip was from Orangeville to Toronto, where they remained overnight. On the following morning they left Toronto for Rochester over the Toronto-Hamilton highway, one of the finest auto roads in Ontario. Mr. Varcoe admits that it was pretty fast travelling at times. On one occasion the driver hit a 55 mile clip for a short distance just to show what speeding was like. Burlington was soon reached and left behind. Then came a fine run through the fruit district of the peninsula to Niagara where the party stopped for dinner at the Clifton House. In the early afternoon an hour or more was spent viewing the Falls. Shortly after leaving Niagara the party reached New York State's famous million dollar road. Rochester was reached about seven o'clock in the evening. While sightseeing in the city Mr. Varcoe ascended Cobb's hill, from which he obtained a beautiful view of the whole city. He also visited the city reservoir, a lake of eighteen acres, supplied from what is called Hemlock Lake, a distance of 30 miles away. From this Lake to the city there is a fall of 300 feet. On Saturday Mrs. Sturdevant took Mr. and Mrs. Varcoe to see some of the city's beauty spots. The first place visited was Durand Eastmann Park, which abounds in flowers, shrubs, trees, hills, valleys and roads of surpassing beauty. The Zoological Gardens were also visited, where numbers of buffalo, moose, deer, bear, wolves, mountain sheep and many kinds of birds were seen from all parts of the world. Mr. and Mrs. Varcoe were both most favorably impressed with Rochester, which they describe as a beautiful and prosperous city. They left the city on the 18th, returned to Buffalo, where they spent the night and then came on to Toronto by boat, having the unpleasant experience of a rough passage across the lake. Mr. Varcoe states that the rural parts of New York state, so far as he had opportunity to see, did not look any better than our own Ontario, if as good. There were plenty of fruit trees everywhere but no fruit of any account. Farm buildings are small, crops were short and potatoes and other field roots looked poor on account of the continued dry weather. Pastures were badly dried up and evidences of the ill effects of the drought were noticeable everywhere.

THE OLDEST DIPLOMAT.

Count Greppi of Milan Was Born In 1819.

"Born in Milan, Count Greppi entered the Austrian diplomatic service seventy-seven years ago under Metternich, and his first appointment was to Rome. Three years earlier he had witnessed the 'coronation' of Ferdinand I. and three years later he visited Vienna, where he stayed for a short time before being transferred first to Munich and then to Stockholm. He was at Stockholm in 1848, when Milan rose against the Austrians. He resigned from Austrian service and became a citizen of the Kingdom of Sardinia. After a short interval he entered the diplomatic service at Piedmont, and his career ended thirty-one years ago when he left the post of Ambassador in St. Petersburg on Signor Crispi's accession to the Premiership of Italy. In the interval he had been in posts in London, Berlin, Athens, Constantinople, Stuttgart, Munich and Madrid, where he went as Minister in 1875.

"He has lived in close touch with all the great events of the last eighty years, and has known personally most of the chief figures of the world of politics and society during this period. His memory of long-past events and of great figures that became shadows long ago is fresh and clear. Vienna in the '40s, London in the '50s, Constantinople in the early '70s, Paris and Rome through many decades—he will tell you the details of all. As a young man he knew Marie Louise at Parma, and he was already a mature diplomatist in the second stage of his career when he met the great Duke of Wellington. Statesmen and soldiers who died fifty, sixty, seventy years ago; kings and queens of a social world that is extinct—he has personal reminiscences of them all.

"He has taken no part in politics for many years, but he had not ceased to play a prominent part in the world of society. He never misses a first night at the opera or any big function, and he is an indefatigable diner-out.

"He was doubtful of the wisdom of Italy's entering the war, but when the decision was taken his attitude was no more doubtful and he never lost confidence. I remember very well how at a dinner last spring, when prospects looked dark, and the air was full of anxious questionings, he intervened with emphasis and declared his unshaken faith.

"A volume of Count Greppi's diplomatic memories has just been issued, written by the late Senator Raffaele de Cesare, and another volume of letters and memories is in preparation. The correspondence which it will contain will include letters from some of the principal makers of the Italian 'Risorgimento'."

Look to Africa for Food.

The world-wide shortage of food and the certainty that this shortage will continue in modified form for years to come has roused France to utilize more fully her great colonies just across the Mediterranean. Comprehensive plans are being formed—and started on the way to fulfillment—for refrigerating and packing plants in Algeria, so that the animals need not be shipped across the sea alive. These institutions, too, will give a much readier and steadier market than has been available hitherto, and that is probably all that is needed to quadruple the meat exports of North Africa.

THE CLOTHING MAN

BROADWAY, ORANGEVILLE.

It is dollars and "sense" to buy what you NEED to wear right NOW!

After waiting many months we have secured $2,000 worth of the best values in Clothing that we have seen for years. When we bought these Suits they were clearing lines from five to fifteen Suits of a kind. This lot of Suits is made up of blues, plain greys, grey checks and browns, in plain, over-checks and stripes, all pure Worsteds, and good weight.

These Suits are absolutely unobtainable to-day at any price, and, as we said before, are clearing lines of a back order.

Don't miss this opportunity of securing one of these Suits while they last as there is no possible chance of securing anything like their value for a long time.

AMARANTH'S CELEBRATION

Nearly 1000 people attended the Amaranth Peace Celebration on the School Grounds in the village of Laurel on Wednesday afternoon of last week. The event was a splendid success in every way. The complimentary banquet tendered to the returned men was one of the finest. The manner in which the tables were laden and served spoke volumes for the culinary skill of the ladies of the township and their interest in giving a fitting welcome home to the brave lads, who had offered their all in defence of their homes and loved ones. The main features of the afternoon programme, outside of the banquet, were a baseball tournament, in which Grand Valley, Alton and Erin teams competed for prizes valued at $60, a lacrosse match between Orangeville and Shelburne juniors, which the Shelburne boys won by the close score of 6 to 5, and a number of foot races and novelty events, which were nearly all hotly contested.

An even larger audience assembled at night, when a fine garden party was held in Maltby's orchard under the auspices of Laurel L.O.L. No. 330. John Best, M.P. for Dufferin, occupied the chair and addresses appropriate to the occasion were delivered by the chairman, C. R. McKeown, Rev. (Capt.) D. J. Lane, Col. J. A. V. Preston and Revs. Reddon, Ross and Scott. One of the finest programmes heard at Laurel for a considerable time was furnished by the Marr Family, of Toronto, Scottish Dancers and Patriotic and Humorous Entertainers. Orangeville Citizens' Band provided music afternoon and evening.

Early English Coffee Houses.

In an age when newspapers were unknown, or consisted only of official or strictly licensed prints containing only what the court desired to have known, the coffee house became the great exchange of news and politics, and so marked did its influence become that the government attempted at one time to suppress it. The attempt merely served to bring out the importance of the function this unique institution had attained to, for so widespread was the protest of all classes of business affected, and of opinion roused, that Charles II was forced to abandon it.

Foundation Must Be There.

A man can never be a true gentleman in manner until he is a true gentleman at heart.—Dickens.

William P. Turnbull, a Toronto lad aged 10, who was run down by a motor car while playing on the road near his home at 41 Redwood avenue, had his jaw fractured. He was taken to the Hospital for Sick Children in the car which struck him.

Talents Transmitted to Sons.

There are numerous instances in history in which parents possessing uncommon gifts are supposed to have passed them on to their children. This is especially the case in regard to musical talents.

The mother of Schurmann, for instance, had great musical ability. Chopin received his wonderful gift—and also his delicate constitution—from the maternal side; Gounod's mother was exceedingly fond of music, while the mother of Spohr, the German composer, was an excellent judge of music and a fine critic, without being herself a musician.

Sir Walter Raleigh declared that he inherited from his mother the politeness of deportment which ever distinguished him. Goethe pays frequent tribute in his writings to the character and culture of his mother, as does also the poet Wordsworth.

Sydney Smith believed that he inherited from his mother his rare conversational powers and quickness of repartee. It is well known that the mother of Edward Gibbon, the historian, was a great reader and cultivated the same taste and habit as her son.

The mother of Charles Darwin made herself acquainted with all the branches of natural history, and entertained a great fondness for animals. This record seems to show that maternal talents and tastes are frequently transmitted to sons; it is also claimed that the gifts of the fathers usually descend to the daughters.—Tit-Bits.

Chimney Sickness.

Chimney sickness is a complaint that few people are likely to suffer from, but anyone who found himself on a windy day at the top of the Saganoseki chimney in Chicago might get it.

The chimney of Saganoseki is the tallest in the world. The shaft stretches up 550 feet above the foundation pier, and as the base is 450 feet above sea-level to start with, the place where the smoke comes out is actually 1,000 feet up, and the wind up there averages about double the velocity of the wind down below.

Chimney sickness is due not to the height alone but to the swaying of the chimney. In a bad gale the Saganoseki chimney sways 15 inches from side to side. The most marked oscillation is at right angles to the course of the wind. Thus, in a driving north wind, it wobbles from east to west.—Tit-Bits.

Deaths Due to Blockade.

The Imperial Health Ministry of Germany has issued a memorandum on the results of the blockade. It says from 1915 to 1918, as a result of undernourishment, 763,000 persons died in Germany, and a further 150,000 died from influenza, owing to the loss of their power of resistance.

The fall in the number of births during the war exceeded 4,000,000 for the empire, and over 2,500,000 for Prussia. The memorandum calculates at 56,300,000,000 marks the damage inflicted by the hunger blockade, in which it includes such curious items as unborn people and the loss of wages due to reduced working capacity.

A Fashionable Resort.

The little island of St. Kilda, the most remote of the Hebrides—attacked by a German submarine a year or so ago, is one of the healthiest of all the British isles. It is only when the supply ship arrives there, as it does two or three times in the summer, that anything happens. Then the whole population catch cold and are ill for about four days.

"Poor, Crazy Hobo"

By EDWIN BALMER

(Copyright.)

One crime remained for No. 32—mixed freight, west bound. Short-handed and overloaded (five in the crew and eighty-three cars), she had "broken" twice, stopped for hot box four times, and had been forced to double over every hill from Crews to Stockton.

Therefore, at Benton she had "laid out" No. 17, east-bound passenger; at Jefferson she had held up No. 35, the fast freight of refrigerated perishables rushing to Chicago; at Evans she had delayed passenger No. 15 for half an hour; at Brunswick she had held back passenger No. 24; and last, at Lavern she had laid out, for almost an hour, the crack Transcontinental Express No. 9, east bound.

In ten minutes No. 32 would complete the calendar by laying out No. 10 also, the twin Transcontinental rushing up from behind. The siding at Stockton (which the freight had been allowed fifty minutes to reach from Lavern, ten miles back) was still eight miles ahead, and forty of the fifty minutes were gone.

The crew, out thirty-eight hours, were exhausted, exasperated, humiliated. They had freighted too long to mind the mere thirty-eight hours' exhaustion and exasperation, but this time the humiliation was overdone.

Their superiors had humiliated them personally and pointedly at the larger towns and by wire at the stops between. Their equals on the other trains had humbled them as they slunk into the sidings; but what was entirely intolerable, their inferiors and worse, the very hobos stealing rides on the train, had mocked them and rubbed it in.

Thirty hobos had boarded the train at the hill beyond Lavern, overborne the weak crew, broken into a car of foodstuffs, and, after eating what they wanted, had scattered the rest along the right of way till it had ceased to amuse them.

The crew had found it best to sulk very silently in the caboose at the end of the train till the volley of stones smashing through the windows told that the tramps had departed. Then, as one man, the crew of No. 32 sprang forward for revenge.

The object was still asleep in the "empty" at the middle of the train. The crew had come upon him some hours before; but that was before they had learned the personal advantages of enforcing the rule to eject tramps, and before they had laid out the last two passenger trains and the Transcontinental, and received the telegraphic comments thereon.

Harring kicked the object to consciousness while Kalvert and Bender, one on each side, picked him up. One of the others opened wider the big door of the box car.

"One," Harring remarked, with another kick, as Kalvert and Bender swung the hobo between them.

"Two," Harring kicked again. No. 32, in a last spurt to reach the siding before No. 10 could overtake it, put on speed and jumped ahead, but the men in the car did not heed it.

"Three!" The hobo, at the touch of Harring's foot, swung free from the hands on either side and dove out through the door in a low parabola. A howl! and for an instant a gray gap appeared in the flying hedge beside the track.

"He's hit the road," muttered Harring. "What do you want to hurt a man for?" He blamed it upon the others. "Why couldn't you let him go into the bush?"

Kalvert spat upon the floor, but turned his face away from the lantern.

"We're hitting it up," he observed carelessly. "The damned hobo."

Bender grunted gruffly.

The hobo drew himself up on his hands. He felt stunned and deadened all over, and was conscious more of a battered dullness than of pain. He had a numbed understanding that he must have been quite senseless after he struck—not for very long, but for a few moments anyway.

Yet as he dragged himself around and sat up, he saw that he could scarcely have lost consciousness. They had thrown him off half-way around a curve, and the red light of the caboose was still visible at the farther horn of the crescent.

He gazed at it stupidly and rubbed his eyes with his swollen knuckles, but still the red light persisted there, and it came to him slowly that the train must have stopped.

The wagon road the tramp had been thrown upon might lead to a town, but he couldn't tell how far off it might be, or in which direction. The train was there, and now that he was hurt the hobo thought he might get the crew to let him ride to the next station; if not, he might hide himself somehow.

He was wondering only whether he could catch them in time to ask them to let him on again; and if they wouldn't, he was planning where he might hide from them.

Then he saw that something was the matter with the train. The cars were not straight on the track, but were lying across it in every direction. The roofs had slid down and the sides bulged out. Big boards and barrels and boxes were thrown about, and as far as the tramp could see through the darkness, the wavy line of cars zigzagged crazily over both sides of the track. Some were rolled over on their sides.

But nowhere in the long line was there a sound or sign of life, although the little flaring wick in the red lamp at the rear of the train still burned. The tramp pulled the lamp from its fastening and walked along the wreckage, until, from under a pile of boards at his feet, he heard a groan.

The hobo kicked the boards and the groan sounded again. He leaned over, and, with a queer, silly feeling at his weakness, tugged ineffectually at the planking. His fingers kept letting go their hold and he sat back helplessly, but he knew the man underneath was conscious now, for the mutterings were audible, though still incoherent.

"Number ten . . . ten . . . ten . . . ten . . . damn . . . ten . . . ten . . . ten—" the man underneath was saying as the hobo tugged over him.

The tramp tore a board free and the man below shuddered and twisted his head in the ragged hole.

"Number ten, damn you," he gasped in pain from the weight of which his lungs were relieved.

"Stop ten . . . ten . . . you damned hobo," he gasped as the pain gripped him again, "stop ten—the express train behind us," he explained madly, "stop it . . . stop it . . . lantern there . . . run . . . run . . . run!—"

The hobo understood at last, and Harring sank back again unconscious.

The tramp was running mechanically, automatically, at the trainman's bidding. From far away the whistle of No. 10 came to him, half startled him from his automatism, and he raced on more consciously. His legs wobbled queerly as he forced them and he stumbled between the ties, sometimes staggering two or three steps backward to save his balance before he could lunge madly forward again.

The second screech from No. 10 echoed past him, and, as he looked fearfully ahead and did not see the engine, he suddenly recalled that he was on the curve and spurred on more desperately, throwing himself forward now as he stumbled and pressing himself up again with his free hand when he fell. It was quite two hundred yards to the beginning of the straight stretch which he must reach to signal the train.

Again No. 10 whistled, but now the sound, instead of coming around the crescent ahead, seemed to the tramp to come through the woods at his side, and, as he glanced aside, it seemed to come directly through the opening where a path ran through the trees. Spontaneously facing about to the direction of the shriek, the tramp raced into the cut-off.

The pound of the train now came to him clearly as he ran; but the smooth dirt of the path spread before him. Yet he lurched over it with high, strained strides, and, still feeling for the treacherous ties when they were no longer there to trip him, he slipped at first. But his stride soon adapted itself and he reeled on to beat the train.

To beat the train! The exhaust of the Transcontinental's great engine already hissed through the trees about him, yet he had to beat the train. He had to beat it, but he could hear it coming so fast that his little steps seemed nothing. He could feel the pain of his muscles and the beat of his feet upon the path, but compared with the tremendous rush of the train, he seemed held by a weight.

In the opening ahead he saw the track where it crossed his little path, and he had to beat the train to that track! Madly, thinking only to win the race, and to lighten himself, he hurled the signal lantern from him and seemed to gain a little.

The track showed plainly before him, almost at his feet, so plainly that he knew the headlight of the engine was almost over the spot where the path crossed it. To beat the train there—to beat the train. He didn't know where his strength came from or that it came at all till it stiffened his legs and steadied him. He was ten feet from the track, but the train was almost as near the crossing.

To beat it now—to win at the finish! The white glare of the headlight smote his eyes but he shut them and threw himself forward blindly, with his arms thrown out.

It was the end of the race, and wildly, madly now, the engine—the big, pounding engine beaten by the little man—roared to try to frighten him away and win after all; but the little man wouldn't be frightened or cheated. With the blind, reckless burst of his triumph, he gathered himself, hurtled forward—and beat the train to the track.

* * * * * * *

"The crazy, damned hobo," the engineer of No. 10 sputtered to the group which gathered about the pilot. "Suicide; suicide, that's what it is. Jumped right out of the bushes there and threw himself under the wheels. Heard me whistle, didn't you? But he was bound to kill himself.

"Thought he might be crazy and I gave her sand and reversed her; but he was under the wheels as soon as I saw him. Suicide; suicide . . . dove right under the wheels . . . and I'll get raked for killing him! Killing him? Lord!"

A man—Bender—blood-spattered and winded, burst through the group and clung, panting, to the engineer.

"Thank God y' stopped. Thirty-two' all over the track 'round the curve and . . . what stopped ye? Run over man? . . . Lord! It's the crazy hobo we swung off 'bout here. . . . Lucky f'r you he got on the right o' way . . . and f'r us, too—the poor, crazy hobo—"

But the engineer of No. 10 was kneeling and fingering gently the rough cloth of the sleeve of the man lying under the pilot.

"Poor, crazy hobo," he murmured very softly, "poor, crazy hobo."

THE MAN WHO WINS.

Is Always Full of Life and Energy—Failures Are Weak and Bloodless.

Some men seem to have all the luck. If there are any good things going these men seem to get them. They make other people do their will—they are leaders. If they are business men they are successful; if they are workmen they get the foreman's job. They have the power of influencing people.

The same thing is true of women. Some have the charm that makes men seek them out; others are always neglected. But this is not luck. It is due to a personal gift—vitality. Men and women of this sort are never weak, puny invalids. They may not be big, but they are full of life and energy. The whole thing is a matter of good blood, good nerves and good health. Everyone would wish to be like this and the qualities that make for vitality and energy are purely a matter of health. By building up the blood and nerves sleeplessness, want of energy, weakness of the back, stooping shoulders, headaches and the ineffectual sort of presence which really comes from weakness can all be got rid of. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills have made many weak, tired men, vigorous and healthy, and many pale, dejected girls and women plump, rosy and attractive, by improving their blood and toning up their nerves. If you are weak, ailing, low-spirited or unhealthy, begin to cure yourself today by the use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills.

You can get these Pills through any medicine dealer or by mail at 50c. a box or six boxes for $2.50 from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ontario.

WHEN AGE ARRIVES

Rules That One Man Promises He Will Observe.

Of Course There is a Proviso, but the World Would Be Sweeter If They Were Kept Generally in Mind.

When I am old I will observe the following items (perhaps):

I will not try to act nor dress nor talk so as to make people think I am younger than I am.

I will not pretend to be young, nor be angry when called old, nor ashamed of my age.

I will not complain of being old.

I will not continually remind people of my old age to secure their sympathy, or to hear them say I am not old after all, or do not seem so.

I will not form the habit of indulging in reminiscences.

I will be particularly careful not to repeat the same anecdotes over and over.

I will not complain of the present and claim the past was much better.

If I am deaf, weak-eyed, lame or otherwise afflicted I will not advertise my infirmities, but avoid obtruding them upon the notice of others as much as possible.

I will not talk of myself, my works, or my achievements, even of my mistakes, any more than is necessary.

I will speak cheerfully or keep still.

I will never indulge in cynicism, never sneer at youth, and I will try always to appreciate what younger folks do.

I will be as little bored as I can, and never say I am bored, nor, if possible, act as if I were bored.

I will not give advice unless it is asked, and not often then.

I will not be irritable.

I will not be a nuisance nor an encumbrance, so far as in me lies.

I will not be offended by neglect, but I will remember the words of the sage: "Those who come to see me do me honor; those who do not come to see me do me a favor."

I will be as little disagreeable as possible, and will never use my natural disagreeableness as a means of getting my way.

I will cultivate the friendship and companionship of young children, who alone understand old age.

I will learn to love to be alone. As Ibsen says: "The freest soul is the soul that is alone."

I shall try to show the world that old age is spiritual opportunity and not physical calamity.

Forced to become a by-stander, I shall try to be a hopeful one.

I shall try to sweeten like the pear Doctor Holmes describes that mellows and becomes full flavored before it drops from the stem, and shall try not to sour and dry and rot.

I shall conceive my life's triumph to be to grow triumphantly, victoriously old.

In a word, I shall try to adjust myself to old age, as to all other facts of life.—Life.

Using Stolen Goods.

The happy medium is proverbially difficult of attainment. But some "things seen" in Germany would certainly imply a distinct failure somewhere to strike the balance. In an industrial district of Germany the traveler, with an eye on the landscape, may see a large number of factory chimneys puffing smoke. On the other side of the frontier, in the Liege district, only one or two are to be observed with the furnaces alight. A Belgian, commenting on this fact, said: "Ten to one those German factories are working with our raw materials and our machinery, machinery stolen from our factories. Yet we are not allowed to take a thing from German factories, in territory occupied by our troops, which would help us begin again! It's soft to be so tender with the Boche."

The Iddy Umpties and Others.

Although the German is only too willing to do anything for the entertainment of the British troops in Cologne, the army of occupation has not been content to leave it in his hands. As soon as the British Tommy had got settled, he demanded something more native to his ways of amusing himself than those provided by the German cabaret or the German cinema. He bestirred himself, therefore, and others bestirred themselves for him, and, to-day, there are three picture houses in the city, accommodating over 3,000, an opera house, well supplied with first-class companies, and two other theatres where the inimitable soldier companies delight their fellows. And such names as they have—the Tabs, the Crumps, the Pedlars, the Irresponsibles, the Chequers and the Iddy Umpties—all drawing packed houses, such as would bring tears of gratitude to the eyes of the most phelgmatic of managers.

Irritations of the Skin

Are Soothed and Healed by the Use of Dr. Chase's Ointment — Two Interesting Cases Reported

The old method of treating eczema by means of internal medicines is too slow and uncertain of results.

The new method is by the use of Dr. Chase's Ointment. You apply the ointment and obtain almost immediate relief from the itching, stinging sensations. In a few days the sore spots are cleaned out and the healing process is set up.

As you apply the ointment from day to day you can see for yourself the splendid results obtained, and this will encourage you to keep on with this treatment until the cure is complete.

Mrs. Stafford Leason, Winchester, Ont., writes: "I can heartily recommend Dr. Chase's Ointment, as it cured me of a very severe case of eczema. After using several remedies without relief, I was about discouraged, thinking I could never endure the intense suffering. At last one evening when I felt I could not endure the pain another day or hour longer. I thought of Dr. Chase's Ointment which I had seen advertised, and decided to give it a trial. To my great surprise, after using it a few times, I obtained relief, and in a few days my affliction began to completely disappear. My husband and I often speak of the quick and lasting cure I obtained in such a short time. That was ten years ago, and we have kept it in our home ever since, and it has been a great healer for many other complaints. I never fail to recommend Dr. Chase's Ointment to my friends and neighbors.

"I might state that we have also used Dr. Chase's Nerve Food in our household, and I can recommend it as doing all that you claim for it."

In scores of ways Dr. Chase's Ointment is of use in every home. Applied after shaving it keeps the skin soft and smooth. Used for baby, after the bath, it cures chafing and skin irritation. It is so soothing and healing that it acts as a beautifier of the skin, keeping it soft, smooth and velvety. Sixty cents a box, all dealers, or Edmanson, Bates & Co., Limited, Toronto.

GOES FAR BACK IN HISTORY

French City of Montdidier Was of Importance in First Millenpium of the Christian Era.

The National Geographic society issues the following war geography bulletin on Montdidier, a few miles east of Amiens:

"This little town, whose history dates back to the first millennium of the Christian era, had a population of less than 5,000 at the beginning of the war, but it was rich in historic associations. It is said to have derived its name from the fact that Didier or Desiderius, the last of the Lombard kings, was imprisoned here in 774 by Charlemagne. It will be remembered that Charlemagne, having put aside his first wife, Desiderius' daughter, took up the quarrel of Pope Adrian I with the Lombard monarch, and after marching an army across the Alps, captured the erstwhile father-in-law's capital city, Ticinum, and took the [illegible] ruler back to France, where [illegible] in captivity.

"Montdidier is attractively situated on an eminence on the banks of the river Don. It is the capital of an arrondissement in the department of the Somme, and is 62 miles north of Paris by rail, and 23 miles southeast of Amiens. Its chief industries before the war were tanneries and the manufacture of zinc-white.

"When the tides of war finally recede it is probable that the three buildings in which the citizens of Montdidier took the greatest pride will be crumbling ruins. These are the church of St. Pierre, which was built before Columbus set sail on his voyage of discovery, and which contains a tomb and font of the eleventh century; the church of St. Sepulchre, a fifteenth century edifice, and the Palais de Justice, formerly the city castle. In the last named building visitors before the war were shown six unusually handsome Brussels tapestries of the seventeenth century. These were undoubtedly removed before the Germans entered the city.

"Montdidier's most famous son was Parmentier, the scientist, who gave impetus to the culture of the potato in France. A statue erected here commemorates his gift to the nation.

"For a number of years this little city was governed by its own lords, then passed under the dominion of the counts of Crepy and Valois. In the twelfth century it became a possession of the French crown and received a charter of liberties. In 1636 it offered a gallant and successful resistance to the Spanish invaders."

Avoid Grouch and Live Long.

Writing for the Minneapolis Journal, A. J. R. notes the demise of a Seattle citizen one hundred and three years old, and suggests that one of the reasons why he lived so long was that he never grouched at the breakfast table or elsewhere. Discussing this, A. J. R. writes

"The enjoyment of breakfast and of the sunrise always comes so easily to me that I sometimes wail in charity for persons who, I have been led to believe, start the generous day wrong by raising hades at the breakfast table. I will freely wager 75 cents that the Seattle centenarian who lived to be one hundred and three never insurged at breakfast, never complained of the food, nor sneered at his wife's cooking."

The aged Seattler ascribed his longevity to his own temper; he had not been angry since he was twenty, and had driven a yoke of oxen most of his life. Also, loved everybody, and everybody loved him.

He Hadn't Realized.

The custodian of an Indianapolis building recently hired a colored man, George, to work about the building. George had always worked as a "house man" and came well recommended. The first day of his employment, however, George was out for lunch the greater part of three hours.

The custodian was naturally annoyed. "Where in thunder have you been?" he inquired the minute he set eyes on the erring George. "Me? Why, I'se been home takin' a nap," George answered, in a surprised tone. "I always takes a nap in the middle of the day."

"Well, believe me," the custodian declared, "you don't do that any more. You're needed around here."

Was George aggrieved? Not a bit of it. A most appreciative grin spread over his face.

"Well, now," he said slowly, "you'll have to excuse me this time, boss. It's just that I didn't realize before how important I is around here."

Labor-Saving Harvester.

One thousand improved wheat-harvesting machines, known as combines, will be used in Washington state and other states of the Northwest this year, according to farm-help specialists of the United States department of agriculture, and will effect a great saving in labor. These machines, which cut the heads from wheat and thrash the grain as they travel across the field, can be operated by two persons, and each machine will harvest from 350 to 400 acres of wheat during a season. They are marked labor savers over the old type combine, which required about 20 men.

No Chance for the Old Man.

It was the first time that Richard's father had seen "her" and they were talking things over.

"So my son has proposed to you," he said, "and you've accepted him? I think you might have seen me first."

She blushed sweetly as she replied: "I did, but I think I prefer Richard."

Fate at Long Range

By SEWARD W. HOPKINS

(Copyright)

It was somewhere about midnight when a frantic ringing of my bell startled me into throwing the book I had been reading to the floor, and rushing to the great old-fashioned oaken entrance.

I had but recently moved into Trivorton, and had made no firm friendships, nor even acquaintances. My small, six-line advertisement was in the only paper published in the place.

My Great Dane growled, being unused to having his early slumbers thus disturbed.

With the exception of the Great Dane, I was alone. I had permitted my only servant, an old man, to go to visit his sister, almost as old, who was ill.

Opening the door, I saw in the clear, cold light of a winter moon, a young girl. She was pale, extremely agitated and decidedly pretty.

"Oh! Are you Mr. Bayne?" she asked.

"Yes, my name is Bayne—David Bayne," I answered. "In what way may I be of assistance to you?"

"You are a lawyer?"

"Yes, I am a lawyer."

"Then—let me talk to you a moment. We—I—my father—"

"Please take a moment to get your breath. You are excited. My office is rather chilly. Suppose I accompany you to your house. You wish to consult me, I suppose?"

"Yes, come with me. That is why I came here. My father is dying. Is there a printed form of will?"

"Ah! Your father wishes to make his will? I will be with you in a moment. But I know of no printed form of will. However, it will take me but a moment to write it."

"My father is Donald Redbagh," said the girl.

"He wants to make his will," went on the girl with a choking sort of sob, "but I don't want you to write it for him."

"You don't want me to write your father's will?" I asked in amazement. "Does he wish you to be left without inheritance?"

"No. He wants to leave me everything."

"And yet you don't wish—it seems to me there is something more to this than the mere desire of a sick man to make a will. Please explain."

"He has taken a violent dislike to my brother. He wishes to cut him off with a hundred dollars. I do not want that."

"How much is he worth?"

"More than a million."

"You see," she went on, "my brother Donald married—married a poor girl against my father's wishes. Yet I like her, and do not—you understand—I do not wish him cut off. You are a lawyer. You will know how to manage."

"But if he wishes to make a will, I must write it as he commands," I answered.

"Well—I suppose so—but it will be hard on Don."

As we entered the wide iron gateway the girl turned to me again.

"The doctor is with him now. Try to persuade him to be fair."

"The doctor?"

"Yes. My father. Don't let him die leaving a will that is unjust."

I had no time to reply, and I could not have framed an answer if I tried. A tall, thin old servant answered her ring, and I was ushered into a bedroom where a man lay huddled in a heap of bedclothes, and a grave, intelligent man I had seen driving about the streets sat close at his side.

"You are Byrnes?" he asked.

"Yes."

"Mr. Redbagh wishes to make his will. You will need to—"

He glanced at me significantly. He did not need to finish the sentence. I could see that but a spark of life remained in the shriveled old frame, and that spark was going fast.

"Write—write—" gasped the sick man. "Leave all to Edna. Just a hundred dollars to Donald."

Alone with him, and with a strange feeling of repugnance, I began writing as he ordered.

It was a brief will. He simply left one hundred dollars to his son Donald, and all the residue of his estate, after his funeral expenses had been paid, to his daughter Edna.

While I was writing, a young man entered. He was well set-up, a manly looking young fellow, and there was nothing in his appearance that was not pleasing.

"Father," he said in a low, well-modulated voice, "I am going. Will you shake hands?"

With a scream that seemed beyond his waning strength, the sick man half raised himself on his elbow.

"No!" he said sharply, although feebly. "Shake hands with you? Go. I thought you had gone."

"I know you ordered me out yesterday," said the young man. "I was not here all night. I am going for good now. I wanted to take your hand before I left."

"Go!"

The young man stood for a moment with bowed head. It seemed to me his lips moved. Then he stepped noiselessly to a large oaken cabinet, opened a drawer, took something from it, and thrust it in his pocket.

Again the sick man and I were alone.

I placed the will on a book and held it before the dying man. The doctor bent over him and lifted him. He took the pen and reached out toward the line on which I indicated he should place his signature.

Suddenly the hand that held the pen dropped. A sound, indescribable, came from him, and with a slight gush of blood from a bullet-wound in the right temple, he fell over—dead.

The doctor stared at me.

"Through the window," he said.

He bent himself to the task of holding back the end. It was useless.

"His son," said the physician. "We'll get him. You go—you two. I must do what I can."

The butler and I raced like two maniacs from the room and out into the crisp night air.

"He is not here, sir," said the thin old fellow.

"We can't let this wait," I said. "The police must be notified."

"Yes—the police," said Simmons in a bewildered manner. "Did you hear the shot, sir?"

"No."

This was the first thought that had struck me. I had heard no shot.

We went out through the iron gate and raced like two madmen along the street. The butler knew the way. I had not yet learned enough of Trivorton to be sure where to find the police.

It did not take us long to tell the story—what we had to tell.

The police officer in charge showed the eagerness characteristic of the sleuth.

I told how the son had asked his father to shake hands. How he had been ordered from the house. And how he had taken something from the cabinet and thrust it in his pocket.

"It's a clear enough case," said the officer. "He must have been watching at the window, and fired just as the old man was about to sign the will. We'll have him. There is no way out of Trivorton before six in the morning."

All the available force was at once put on the case.

I followed with a frenzied sort of fascination all the movements of the police.

Miss Redbagh by this time had been aroused, and sat, dry-eyed and half-stunned, at the bedside of her father.

There had been a way out of Trivorton that night. At half-past seven in the morning Miss Redbagh received a telegram.

"Dear Edna:

Millie and I reached Baldwin at three this morning. I borrowed your horse, and we drove over. I am sending the horse back in care of a man from the hotel here. Don't mind about the will. I am going to work.

"Lovingly,

"DONALD."

"Baldwin—three in the morning," said the police officer in charge of the investigation. "If that's true, he never fired that shot."

"Who did?" I asked helplessly.

"We must verify the telegram first."

Now thoroughly determined to know the end of it, I accompanied two detectives to Baldwin.

At the hotel we learned that Donald Redbagh and his wife did arrive there (twenty miles away) at three o'clock that morning. The shot that killed his father had been fired at half-past one.

"The girl—was she in sympathy with her brother?" asked the detective.

"Yes," I said hesitatingly; "but she never shot her father. The will was all in her favor."

Back we went to Trivorton. The doctor had probed for the bullet.

"You thought young Redbagh took a revolver," he said. "This is a rifle-ball. We heard no shot. It was an accident. I am convinced that no murder was committed. And since the man is dead, I am ready to admit that a great injustice was prevented. Donald married a poor girl, and Redbagh was always a—well—he's dead."

In a small town like Trivorton such a case becomes the main topic of conversation. Sleepless, I was in the police station at about five that same afternoon, when a boy came in, white-face, frightened, and carrying under his arm a small rifle.

"I'll give myself up," he said. "I think I shot Mr. Redbagh, although I didn't mean to do so. I was out after rabbits. It's fun on a bright, moonlight night. My dog had scared up several, and I guess I got to shooting wild. Do you think I'll have to go to prison?"

Everybody breathed a sigh of relief. The chief of police looked at me peculiarly.

"Redbagh was about gone, wasn't he?" he asked.

"He couldn't have lived through the night."

"The girl is true to her brother?"

"Yes, and Donald to her."

"What's your name?" asked the chief of the frightened boy.

"Tom Wynert."

"The doctor's son?"

"Yes, sir. My father was with Mr. Redbagh, and I was out on the old rye field. I might have shot my father."

"I don't know—I don't know but what we'll keep the rifle," said the chief. "As for you, if you are wanted, we'll send for you. It is not certain that it was your bullet, anyway. Still, the weapon is dangerous at night for a boy to handle."

As I look back, remembering the impressions made on me that night, the favorable light in which I looked on Donald Redbagh, the harshness of his father, the bitterness of fate, I wonder—I wonder if there was not something more than a boy's chance shot in it all. For I was always a believer in the justness of fate.

DUFFERINS WON.

Mary's Gave the Home Team a Hard Tussle in Friday's Game.

A large crowd saw The Dufferins defeat St. Mary's by a score of 6 to 4 in the first of home and home semi-final games on Idylwyld Park on Friday afternoon. The visitors were a big surprise and gave the locals the hardest game they have had so far this season. They had a strong, lucky team, which made up for anything it might have lacked in speed by its intimate knowledge of the strategy of the game. To do the Dufferins justice they seemed to have their off day and did not play anything like their usual game. This however does not alter the fact that St. Mary's is a well-trained, hard checking team, which is going to make a strong bid for the round. The visitors noted the first goal and when the quarter ended the score stood 2 to 1 in the favor. Dufferins did better in the second period, which ended with the score 3 to 2 in favor of the home team. Each team got a tally in the third period, making the count 4 to 3 for The Dufferins. The final quarter saw some strenuous lacrosse

DUFFERINS WON.

St. Mary's Gave the Home Team a Hard Tussle in Friday's Game.

A large crowd saw The Dufferins defeat St. Mary's by a score of 6 to 4 in the first of home and home semi-final games on Idylwyld Park on Friday afternoon. The visitors were a big surprise and gave the local the hardest game they have had so far this season. They had a strong, sticky team, which made up for anything it might have lacked in speed by its intimate knowledge of the strategy of the game. To do the Dufferins justice they seemed to have an off day and did not play anything like their usual game. This however does not alter the fact that St. Mary's was a well-trained, hard checking team, which is going to make a strong bid for the round. The visitors notched the first goal and when the quarter ended the score stood 2 to 1 in the favor. Dufferins did better in the second period, which ended with the score 3 to 2 in favor of the home team. Each team got a tally in the third period, making the count 4 to 3 for The Dufferins. The final quarter saw some strenuous lacrosse with the play rather in favor of the home team, which notched two goals, while a single tally was the best the visitors could do. St. Mary's played a strong defensive game throughout, the object being of course to hold down the score and then make a determined effort to win out in the second game. Doyle and Waghorne handled the game. Both teams wear green sweaters and Dufferins, as the home team, were therefore obliged to don another color for the game. The change was confusing and was responsible for some bad passing. St. Mary's will have to change uniforms for the second game and will therefore play under a similar disadvantage.

The second game of the series was played in St. Mary's yesterday. Players and some of the officers of the Club left here by auto about noon on Tuesday. This would give the players time for a good rest after the journey. Quite a number of our citizens went over to see the game notwithstanding the distance and the unsatisfactory connections. The team should be stronger than it was on Friday as the men will be in better shape and will have the assistance of Keith, who was unable to play on Friday.

Are selling a good High Class line of MEN'S and WOMEN'S READY-TO-WEAR CLOTHING in Orangeville to-day for less than you can buy the same class of goods for in city stores.

It's hardly worth while mentioning this fact because almost every person knows that they can buy goods much cheaper today in the small town than they can in the large city where the expense of doing business is so enormous.

However we know very well that it isn't always the price that people consider. They want a choice and very often they demand a better class of goods than they are able to get in their home town. This is just where we can please you we think, just as well as in the lower prices we mentioned in the first place. We cannot begin to tell you of all the beautiful new goods we will show for this Fall.

MRS. ANN ARMSTRONG.

In the death on Tuesday of last week of Mrs. Ann Armstrong, widow of the late Michael Armstrong, the township of Caledon has lost an old and greatly respected resident. Mrs. Armstrong was a fine type of the sturdy and vigorous pioneer settlers, who settled and cleared this part of Ontario. Always a strong, healthy woman, she retained her good health and activity in a measure almost to the last. On the morning of her death she arose as usual and partook of a hearty breakfast. To all outward appearances she was in the full enjoyment of her usual health. About nine o'clock she was seized with an unusual weakness. Everything possible was done for her, but unfortunately without avail and shortly afterwards she passed quietly and peacefully away. The late Mrs. Armstrong was a daughter of the late Edward Ellis, of Caledon, and was born on the 2nd line in that township 84 years and 8 months ago. She was married to the late Michael Armstrong, who in his lifetime was one of the best known residents of Caledon and who is still remembered for his sterling honesty and uprightness of character. The subject of our sketch was known in her home neighborhood as a devoted wife and mother, and a neighbor who was always ready to sympathize with and give comfort and assistance to those who were in misfortune or distress of any kind. Her memory will be long cherished for her noble, unselfish character and her devotion to duty. Her husband predeceased her by 17 years and she is survived by a family of five sons and five daughters. These are Mrs. Harry Davis, of Mono Road, Mrs. Richard Young of Caledon, Mrs. George Holmes, of Mono, Misses Maggie and Jennie, at home, Edward, of Kerrisdale, B.C., formerly of Orangeville, John B., who disposed of his farm in Amaranth and had left for a trip to the West only a couple of weeks before his mother's death, James, of Orangeville, ex-Warden of Dufferin, William E., of Hamilton, and Vernet, of Adjala. Mrs. G. S. Vanwyck, of Toronto, Mrs. George Graham, of Eugenia, Mrs. S. Darraugh, Mrs. M. Shaw and Miss Martha Ellis, of Orangeville, are the surviving sisters. There was a large attendance of friends and neighbors of the family at the funeral, which was held from her late residence, lot 26, 1st line, east, to the Forest Lawn Cemetery on Thursday afternoon. Rev. (Capt.) T. H. Stewart and Rev. A. H. Howitt, of St. Catharines, conducted the services and six grandsons, Vernet and Robbin Davis, Jackson and Eddie Holmes, Dave Armstrong and R. B. Young, were the pallbearers.

Wright and George Beswick were the pallbearers. Among the friends present from a distance were Messrs. B. C. Burroughes, T. W. Chapman, and Stewart N. Hughes, Mrs. Chas. Hall, Miss G. Paton, Mr. and Mrs. S. R. Hughes and daughter, Messrs. J. S., Hugh and Ransome Ferguson and Miss Pearl Ferguson, all of Toronto, Mrs. M. E. Tate, Mrs. A. Broddy and Mr. J. R. Humanity has lacked a practical rheumatic remedy since time began. Fortunes are spent yearly at hot springs, electric baths and hospitals to obtain relief, yet better results are achieved right at home by using T.R.C.'s "the common sense treatment." Early English Coffee Houses.

In an age when newspapers were unknown, or consisted only of official or strictly licensed prints containing only what the court desired to have known, the coffee house became the great exchange of news and politics, and so marked did its influence become that the government attempted at one time to suppress it. The attempt merely served to bring out the importance of the function this unique institution had attained to, for so widespread was the protest of all classes of business affected, and of opinion round, that Charles II was forced to abandon it.

DRUG OF WHITE MICE.

One of the Results of Ending of Great War.

The sudden ending of the war caused a panic in the mouse market. One large dealer, finding himself "long", 50,000 white mice, offered the whole lot for sale at half a cent apiece.

How cheap was this price may be judged from the fact that white mice a fortnight earlier were quoted at ten cents apiece in lots of 100 or more. White rats were then worth twenty-seven cents, but they dropped coincidentally to two cents.

The reason lay in the fact that the Government, which had been buying millions of white mice and white rats for medical experiments, and for use in diagnosing war diseases at base hospitals, withdrew from the market.

Just now it is monkeys that are in demand for such employment, in connection with "flu" and the new "sleeping sickness." They are obtained mostly from India and the Philippines.

White mice and white rats are mainly farm products. Farmers' boys breed them and sell them to city dealers, whose agents go about in automobiles, collect them and ship them in boxes from the most convenient railroad station.

One constantly sees these dealers' advertisements in the newspapers, offering to sell or to buy the little rodents in quantities. Under normal conditions there is a very active market. A good many are sold by fanciers as pets, "selected pairs" fetching as much as a dollar.

They are not bred in the cities for market. Dealers merely handle them as stock, like any other merchandise, keeping them in big boxes with wire-net fronts or tops.

White rats and white mice, of course, are typical albinos. They have been bred so long under domestication as to be quite tame.

This is one reason why hospitals and medical laboratories prefer them to the ordinary wild varieties; they are much easier to handle. Another reason is that they are less likely to be afflicted with diseases of their own.

Rabbits and guinea pigs are bred for the same market on farms, and are bought and handled in the same way, medical laboratories and hospitals requiring great numbers of them. They are fed by the dealers on oats, hay and whatever fresh vegetables may be cheapest.

The author of "Pigs Is Pigs", did not much exaggerate the reproductive powers of guinea pigs. Truly, they are not advocates of race suicide, and one pair might conceivably have seventy-five descendants in a year's time—an outside limit not likely to be attained. Rabbits are far more prolific, the mother bunny producing from eight to twelve young in each litter, whereas the lady guinea pig satisfies her maternal ambitions with five or six.

$12,000 FOR BULL.

Fergus, Aug. 6.—About two years ago Messrs. Peter and George Gerrie, farmers in Nichol township, near Fergus, attended a sale of thoroughbred Shorthorn cattle held by Mr. Watt, near Salem, Ont., and purchased a young bull from his celebrated stock, paying $1,600 for it. Since then they took it to a cattle show in Chicago, where it received first prize in its class, and they were offered $10,000 for it, which they refused. A few days ago a breeder from California arrived at their farm and offered them $12,000 cash for the animal, which they accepted. Some kinds of beef on the hoof is worth more than pork on the hoof, valuable as it is.

WILL PRAISE IT ALL OF HER LIFE.

Mrs. Edwards Has Gained Fourteen Pounds By Taking Tanlac.

"I weigh just foureen pounds more than I did when I commenced taking Tanlac a short time ago, and my troubles have been completely overcome," said Nancy Edwards, who lives at 5620 East 12th Street, Kansas City, Mo., while talking to a Tanlac representative the other day.

"About two years ago," continued Mrs. Edwards, "I began to have stomach trouble, and until I commenced taking Tanlac, my condition had gradually grown worse all the time. In fact, I had reached the point where I was so weak and run down that I was hardly able to get about. Everything I ate disagreed with me, and the gas that formed from sour, undigested food, would make me miserable for hours at a time. I would have raging headaches nearly every day, and was so nervous all the time that the least noise would upset me, and when night came on it was a hard matter for me to get off to sleep. I often had such bad dizzy spells that I could hardly stand on my feet. The different medicines and treatments I tried didn't do me any good at all.

"My daughter had been taking Tanlac, and it had done her so much good that I decided to give it a trial myself, and I can honestly state that by the time I had finished my first bottle I was feeling like a different person. Well, I just kept on getting better, and now since taking three or four bottles of Tanlac, I am enjoying the best of health in every way. I never had a better appetite, and what I eat agrees with me perfectly, and I never have a sign of indigestion or stomach trouble of any kind. The nervousness has left, and I get plenty of good sound sleep every night, and I have gained so much in weight and strength that I can do all my housework without the least trouble. Those awful headaches are gone, too, and that alone would make me praise Tanlac the longest day I live."

"Tanlac is sold in Orangeville by C. V. Jeffers, in Grand Valley by G. E. Morrow, in Shelburne by J. E. A. White, and in Grand Valley by W. T. Edmonson."

Character Indicated by Shoulders.

The latest terror added to life is through the assertion of a portrait painter that it is to the shoulders of his sitters that he looks for indications of character. A man, it seems, may disguise his tendencies in other respects; his shoulders will betray him infallibly—if the observer knows what to look for!

What a curious chart might be made of the various indications of character disclosed by different parts of the body. The eyes and the mouth are, of course, old subjects. Racial characteristics may be revealed in the feet. "Look at his feet," said someone when a friend was remarking on Disraeli's natural powers in the matter of playing the Sphinx.

There is a curious instance of heredity in respect of hands in the Cecil family, as an expression of excitement. When Lord Hugh Cecil is at fever heat in the House of Commons, interrupting and interpolating, he makes curious movements with his fingers. Someone who observed Lord Hugh as a young man acting in this way remembered how Lord Salisbury, when walking in the park, suddenly stopped and stood for a long time absorbed in thought, "twiddling the fingers of both hands" in exactly the same fashion.

Eyebrows can be extremely expressive and "penthouse" eyebrows with a lowering of them in anger are typical of a class of men of whom Thurlow was a good specimen. Gladstone had an arm motion which he tried in vain to get rid of when he was told of it. And what could be more expressive than Mr. Balfour's legs?—Tit-Bits.

German Samoan Islands In South Pacific Ocean Are Small But Interesting

THE German Samoan Islands, for which New Zealand is to hold the mandate, according to preliminary summaries of the peace treaty, are interesting.

Samoa, called by former geographers the Navigators Islands, from the skill in navigation shown by its inhabitants, consists of four principal bits of land lying in the South Pacific, nearly midway between New Zealand and Hawaii.

The number of islands in the group may, by counting the smaller, be increased to 11, or even 14, but only Savii, Upolu, Tutuila, and the three usually included under the general term Manua, are important.

All are verdure-clad and inhabited, and in appearance and shape resemble immense green hats, the interior representing the crown being mountainous, while the brim or shore is covered with cocoanut palms, breadfruit, banana, and other tropical trees, which furnish the native food.

At some prehistoric period the peaks of a submerged mountain chain running northeast and southwest have been lifted from the depths of the ocean by the upheaval of volcanoes now long extinct. Accumulations of soil brought by heavy rains from the mountains meet the evergrowing reef, which prevents easy approach to the land except in those places where fresh water streams, forcing their way through, form openings in the coral barrier.

Between reef and shore a lagoon, varying in width from 200 yards to two or three miles, provides a secure highway for coast and inter-island traffic. The entire length of the group, if Rose Island be included, is little less than 300 miles.

The native inhabitants of the islands are of Polynesian stock and are clearly related to the natives of both Hawaii and New Zealand. For practical purposes these natives may be divided into four classes. At the head stand the chiefs, who are heriditary in the sense that they must belong to certain families, but elective in that they exercise authority by virtue of titles conferred on them.

The Tulafale, talking-man, is their executive officer, who phrases their thoughts in eloquent language, and is frequently the central figure in the district and the source of authority. Below him and above the lowest class, composed of what are known as the "common people," are the native teachers and catechists, who wear more clothes and do less fighting than the rest of the population.

There is nothing in the dress or bearing of a high chief which enable a foreigner to distinguish him, but he is isolated from the rest of the people by a system of rigid etiquette. No one may hold up umbrella or do certain kinds of work in his presence, and a special vocabulary is set apart in which to address him. The common names for food, an ax, a pig, etc., are tabooed in his presence. His face, his anger, and other attributes are described in an entirely different set of words from those used for ordinary men.

Hedged about as he is, the chief, in his intercourse with persons of of his rank, has come to depend largely on his "talking man" who, like his chief, is elected from certain families in which the office is hereditary. As a rule, no one is elected who has not a gift for oratory, which is a common talent in Samoa.

The powers and duties of he "talking men" are considerable. They are men of much dignity of carriage, and as they stand leaning upon a staff of office with a "fue," or fly-flap cast over one shoulder, with which occasionally to emphasize their remarks, they compare favorably in appearance with the orators of a nation more civilized than themselves.

Soldiers to Emigrate.

Everything tends to show, says the London Chronicle, that when the boys get home many of them will not stay there. The war has bred in many love for an open air vigorous life, and hundreds of soldiers awaiting demobilization do not regard a return to the desk or the office with enthusiasm. A very large number are thinking of emigration, hoping to find a fuller, freer life, with perhaps a spice of adventure, in lands across the seas.

Miss Cheshire, who is in charge of the employment agency run by the Overseas Club in Aldwych, said that they are being overwhelmed with inquiries from young soldiers who are anxious to try their luck in the colonies or South America. "There are queues of them from morning to night," she said.

Most of them are young fellows who joined the army straight from school, and they want to strike out a new line, in a new land. Without having any definite aim they all seem to think there is a bigger life waiting for them in the colonies; and as they all possess the spirit of adventure they are keen to try new conditions.

"We are able to help them a good bit," said Miss Cheshire. "We have 11,000 corresponding secretaries scattered all over the world, and they are able to supply us with very complete information as to labor conditions and business openings. In many cases we feel justified in advising inquirers to go out and try their luck, particularly if they have a little capital. And we are able to tell them which places need a lot of capital and which do not."

Killing.

"Ever notice how old Mrs. Blunderly murders the king's English?"
"Yes; isn't it killing?"

NEARLY DROWNED.

Owen Sound Girl Fell Into Reservoir at Inglis Falls.

Thelma Flint, a young daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Flint, 128 8th St. E., had a very narrow escape from drowning at the reservoir near Inglis Falls on Sunday afternoon and had it not been for two boys, Earl Trotter and Bob Turner, there would have undoubtedly been a fatality. The young girl with two other girls, Louise and Betta Trotter, were on the cement wall of the reservoir and the former went to reach a stick from the water. To do this she slid down the sloping side and near the water this was covered over with a slippery substance. The little girl slid on this and having no way of stopping went into the water. The two Trotter girls screamed for assistance and Earl Trotter jumped into the rescue. But he took a cramp and came near drowning himself. Bob Turner then jumped in and rescued the two of them. A living chain was formed and the youngsters brought to the top of the wall to safety. The water was quite deep at the spot and had it not been for the act of young Turner there would undoubtedly have been a double drowning. But all is well that ends well and none of those in the water are much worse for their experiences.—Owen Sound Sun-Times.

SLEEPLESS NIGHTS WITH ECZEMA

Mrs. Link, 12 Walker street, Halifax, N.S., states—"After three years of miserable torture and sleepless nights with terrible eczema, and after trying over a dozen remedies without obtaining anything but temporary relief, I have been perfectly and entirely cured by using Dr. Chase's Ointment. After the third or fourth application of this grand ointment I obtained relief, and a few boxes were sufficient to make a thorough cure.

A Bargain.

Open-minded men of every race seem to enjoy hearing and telling stories that good-naturedly hit off the peculiarities of their own people. Here is a story told by a liberal-minded Jew about the supposed acquisitiveness of his race: Ike and Aaron were out fishing in Ike's rowboat when a squall struck them and upset the boat. The men floundered about in the waves. Aaron got on the bottom of the upturned boat. His friend struggled to reach it in vain. As he went down for the second time Aaron called out, "Say, Ikey, if you go down the third time can I have the boat?"

Want More Working Days.

The textile manufacturers of Zaragoza in Central Spain have petitioned the official cotton committee for permission to run their mills six days of the week for the reason that this is necessary to complete contracts made before the publication of the decree limiting working days.

GREEN–FRANK.

On Tuesday, August 12th, a quiet wedding took place at the home of Mr. and Mrs. John Frank, Cedar Grove Farm, when the marriage was solemnized of their younger daughter Bella May, to Mr. George A. Green, Grand Valley. The Rev. R. Segsworth, of Cheltenham, officiated. The bride who was unattended was given away by her father and wore a gown of white beaded crepe de chene with veil and crown of orange blossoms. She carried a bouquet of Columbia and Sweetheart Roses and wore the groom's gift a cameo and pearl pendant.

George Hamilton, of Lisgar, took a load of alsike to Streetsville the other day, sold it and went home with $1800 for the load.

The death occurred in Puslinch of Miss Isabella Smith, daughter of the late Alexander Smith, of 'Lyn Holme.' Deceased was 73 years old, and was well known and highly respected.

$12,000 FOR BULL.

Fergus, Aug. 6.—About two years ago Messrs. Peter and George Gerrie, farmers in Nichol township, near Fergus, attended a sale of thoroughbred Shorthorn cattle held by Mr. Watt, near Salem, Ont., and purchased a young bull from his celebrated stock, paying $1,600 for it. Since then they took it to a cattle show in Chicago, where it received first prize in its class, and they were offered $10,000 for it, which they refused. A few days ago a breeder from California arrived at their farm and offered them $12,000 cash for the animal, which they accepted. Some kinds of beef on the hoof is worth more than pork on the hoof, valuable as it is.

was hardly able to get about. Everything I ate disagreed with me, and the gas that formed from sour, undigested food, would make me miserable for hours at a time. I would have raging headaches nearly every day, and was so nervous all the time that the least noise would upset me, and when night came on it was a hard matter for me to get off to sleep. I often had such bad dizzy spells that I could hardly stand on my feet. The different medicines and treatments I tried didn't do me any good at all.

"My daughter had been taking Tanlac, and it had done her so much good that I decided to give it a trial myself, and I can honestly state that by the time I had finished my first bottle I was feeling like a different person. Well, I just kept on getting better, and now since taking three or four bottles of Tanlac, I am enjoying the best of health in every way. I never had a better appetite, and what I eat agrees with me perfectly, and I never have a sign of indigestion or stomach trouble of any kind. The nervousness has left, and I get plenty of good sound sleep every night, and I have gained so much in weight and strength that I can do all my housework without the least trouble. Those awful headaches are gone, too, and that alone would make me praise Tanlac the longest day I live."

"Tanlac is sold in Orangeville by C. V. Jeffers, in Grand Valley by G. E. Morrow, in Shelburne by J. E. A. White, and in Grand Valley by W. T. Edmonson."

Character Indicated by Shoulders.

The latest terror added to life is through the assertion of a portrait painter that it is to the shoulders of his sitters that he looks for indications of character. A man, it seems, may disguise his tendencies in other respects; his shoulders will betray him infallibly—if the observer knows what to look for!

What a curious chart might be made of the various indications of character disclosed by different parts of the body. The eyes and the mouth are, of course, old subjects. Racial characteristics may be revealed in the feet. "Look at his feet," said someone when a friend was remarking on Disraeli's natural powers in the matter of playing the Sphinx.

There is a curious instance of heredity in respect of hands in the Cecil family, as an expression of excitement. When Lord Hugh Cecil is at fever heat in the House of Commons, interrupting and interpolating, he makes curious movements with his fingers. Someone who observed Lord Hugh as a young man acting in this way remembered how Lord Salisbury, when walking in the park, suddenly stopped and stood for a long time absorbed in thought, "twiddling the fingers of both hands" in exactly the same fashion.

Eyebrows can be extremely expressive and "penthouse" eyebrows with a lowering of them in anger are typical of a class of men of whom Thurlow was a good specimen. Gladstone had an arm motion which he tried in vain to get rid of when he was told of it. And what could be more expressive than Mr. Balfour's legs?—Tit-Bits.

Soldiers to Emigrate.

Everything tends to show, says the London Chronicle, that when the boys get home many of them will not stay there. The war has bred in many love for an open air vigorous life, and hundreds of soldiers awaiting demobilization do not regard a return to the desk or the office with enthusiasm. A very large number are thinking of emigration, hoping to find a fuller, freer life, with perhaps a spice of adventure, in lands across the seas.

Miss Cheshire, who is in charge of the employment agency run by the Overseas Club in Aldwych, said that they are being overwhelmed with inquiries from young soldiers who are anxious to try their luck in the colonies or South America. "There are queues of them from morning to night," she said.

Most of them are young fellows who joined the army straight from school, and they want to strike out a new line, in a new land. Without having any definite aim they all seem to think there is a bigger life waiting for them in the colonies; and as they all possess the spirit of adventure they are keen to try new conditions.

"We are able to help them a good bit," said Miss Cheshire. "We have 11,000 corresponding secretaries scattered all over the world, and they are able to supply us with very complete information as to labor conditions and business openings. In many cases we feel justified in advising inquirers to go out and try their luck, particularly if they have a little capital. And we are able to tell them which places need a lot of capital and which do not."

Killing.

"Ever notice how old Mrs. Blunderly murders the king's English?"
"Yes; isn't it killing?"

principal bits of land lying in the South Pacific, nearly midway between New Zealand and Hawaii.

The number of islands in the group may, by counting the smaller, be increased to 11, or even 14, but only Savii, Upolu, Tutuila, and the three usually included under the general term Manua, are important.

All are verdure-clad and inhabited, and in appearance and shape resemble immense green hats, the interior representing the crown being mountainous, while the brim or shore is covered with cocoanut palms, breadfruit, banana, and other tropical trees, which furnish the native food.

At some prehistoric period the peaks of a submerged mountain chain running northeast and southwest have been lifted from the depths of the ocean by the upheaval of volcanoes now long extinct. Accumulations of soil brought by heavy rains from the mountains meet the overgrowing reef, which prevents easy approach to the land except in those places where fresh water streams, forcing their way through, form openings in the coral barrier.

Between reef and shore a lagoon, varying in width from 200 yards to two or three miles, provides a secure highway for coast and inter-island traffic. The entire length of the group, if Rose Island be included, is little less than 300 miles.

The native inhabitants of the islands are of Polynesian stock and are clearly related to the natives of both Hawaii and New Zealand. For practical purposes these natives may be divided into four classes. At the head stand the chiefs, who are hereditary in the sense that they must belong to certain families, but elective in that they exercise authority by virtue of titles conferred on them.

The Tulafale, talking-man, is their executive officer, who phrases their thoughts in eloquent language, and is frequently the central figure in the district and the source of authority. Below him and above the lowest class, composed of what are known as the "common people," are the native teachers and catechists, who wear more clothes and do less fighting than the rest of the population.

There is nothing in the dress or bearing of a high chief which enable a foreigner to distinguish him, but he is isolated from the rest of the people by a system of rigid etiquette. No one may hold up umbrella or do certain kinds of work in his presence, and a special vocabulary is set apart in which to address him. The common names for food, an ax, a pig, etc., are tabooed in his presence. His face, his anger, and other attributes are described in an entirely different set of words from those used for ordinary men.

Hedged about as he is, the chief, in his intercourse with persons not of his rank, has come to depend largely on his "talking man" who, like his chief, is elected from certain families in which the office is hereditary. As a rule, no one is elected who has not a gift for oratory, which is a common talent in Samoa.

The powers and duties of the "talking men" are considerable. They are men of much dignity of carriage, and as they stand leaning upon a staff of office with a "fae," or fly-flap cast over one shoulder, with which occasionally to emphasize their remarks, they compare favorably in appearance with the orators of a nation more civilized than themselves.

NEARLY DROWNED.

Owen Sound Girl Fell Into Reservoir at Inglis Falls.

Thelma Flint, a young daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Flint, 128 8th St. E., had a very narrow escape from drowning at the reservoir near Inglis Falls on Sunday afternoon and had it not been for two boys, Earl Trotter and Bob Turner, there would have undoubtedly been a fatality. The young girl with two other girls, Louise and Betta Trotter, were on the cement wall of the reservoir and the former went to reach a stick from the water. To do this she slid down the sloping side and near the water this was covered over with a slippery substance. The little girl slid on this and having no way of stopping went into the water. The two Trotter girls screamed for assistance and Earl Trotter jumped into the rescue. But he took a cramp and came near drowning himself. Bob Turner then jumped in and rescued the two of them. A living chain was formed and the youngsters brought to the top of the wall to safety. The water was quite deep at the spot and had it not been for the act of young Turner there would undoubtedly have been a double drowning. But all is well that ends well and none of those in the water are much worse for their experience.—Owen Sound Sun-Times.

SLEEPLESS NIGHTS WITH ECZEMA

Mrs. Link, 12 Walker street, Halifax, N.S., states—"After three years of miserable torture and sleepless nights with terrible eczema, and after trying over a dozen remedies without obtaining anything but temporary relief, I have been perfectly and entirely cured by using Dr. Chase's Ointment. After the third or fourth application of this grand ointment I obtained relief, and a few boxes were sufficient to make a thorough cure.

A Bargain.

Open-minded men of every race seem to enjoy hearing and telling stories that good-naturedly hit off the peculiarities of their own people. Here is a story told by a liberal-minded Jew about the supposed acquisitiveness of his race: Ike and Aaron were out fishing in Ike's rowboat when a squall struck them and upset the boat. The men floundered about in the waves. Aaron got on the bottom of the upturned boat. His friend struggled to reach it in vain. As he went down for the second time Aaron called out, "Say, Ikey, if you go down the third time can I have the boat?"

Want More Working Days.

The textile manufacturers of Zaragoza in Central Spain have petitioned the official cotton committee for permission to run their mills six days of the week for the reason that this is necessary to complete contracts made before the publication of the decree limiting working days.

GREEN–FRANK.

On Tuesday, August 12th, a quiet wedding took place at the home of Mr. and Mrs. John Frank, Cedar Grove Farm, when the marriage was solemnized of their younger daughter Bella May, to Mr. George A. Green, Grand Valley. The Rev. R. Segsworth, of Cheltenham, officiated. The bride who was unattended was given away by her father and wore a gown of white beaded crepe de chene with veil and crown of orange blossoms. She carried a bouquet of Columbia and Sweetheart Roses and wore the groom's gift a cameo and pearl pendant.

George Hamilton, of Lisgar, took a load of alsike to Streetsville the other day, sold it and went home with $1800 for the load.

The death occurred in Puslinch of Miss Isabella Smith, daughter of the late Alexander Smith, of 'Lyn Holme.' Deceased was 73 years old, and was well known and highly respected.

TRAGIC DEATH OF LITTLE GIRL.

Helen Quail the elder daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Quail, of lot 27, concession 5, Adjala, aged four years and ten months, was the victim of an accident on Saturday morning last which cost her life and cast a pall of despair over the neighborhood in which the child's parents live. The little girl was a lively child mentally and physically, and during the summer had lived every day out of doors absorbed all the time in what was being done around the place and always ready to take a seat on a wagon or a load or even on the back of a horse that she might get a ride. Saturday morning her uncle, James Quail, was going to what they know as the other place, which is a hundred acre lot adjoining the farm, for a load of coal for the threshing engine. He had a box and spring seat on the wagon. The team stood at a water trough which is filled by a gasoline pump and Mr. Quail had this pump going while he threw on the load, the little girl remaining on the seat of the wagon. When Mr. Quail shut off the pump the horses started, whether because of the flies or the altered noise made by the engine is uncertain. Mr. Quail followed the horses, but they soon increased their speed to a gallop. The little girl hung on while she crossed a hundred acres, but was thrown off, death being instantaneous. As soon as the uncle could reach the child he picked her up and ran home with her, but she was past all human aid. The shock to the parents was painful and the neighbors with all of whom Helen Quail was a favorite, were much grieved on learning of her death. The funeral took place on Sunday afternoon to St. Paul's church and cemetery, a large number of friends and neighbors attending as an expression of sympathy to the bereaved parents. Services were conducted by Rev. J. F. Kehoe. Mr. and Mrs. Quail have another little daughter about two years old.—Alliston Herald.

CREAMERY TO OPEN HERE.

Orangeville will have a modern and well-equipped creamery in operation next season, and probably for a short time this season. Mr. M. Saxe, of Acton, the prime mover in the matter, has already secured a site on Mill St. directly across the roadway from Watt's grist mill and began building operations yesterday. A one storey building, 32 by 50, will be erected this fall and an addition will be built next spring. Mr. Saxe who is already interested in the Creamery business in Acton, Georgetown and Creemore, intends to have the building rushed to completion as rapidly as possible and is planning to be ready to start business in a month's time. Mr. D. A. Gardner, an experienced buttermaker, will be manager of the business, which will be operated under the name of The Orangeville Creamery It has long been a matter of wonder why some person did not start in the Creamery business in Orangeville. The town is admirably situated for the purpose, being surrounded by an excellent dairying country and having good railway connection in all directions, making it possible to ship in cream from a considerable distance on all sides. The new industry should prove a good thing for the town and we wish the owners every success.

HEARST ON TEMPERANCE

Speaking at Brantford recently Sir William Hearst, Premier of Ontario, made the following declaration on the subject of temperance and The Ontario Temperance Act:—

"The Government of which I am the head were the authors of the Ontario Temperance Act. I have stood by it from its inception and will stand by it until its fate is decided by the free vote of the electors of the province. In our country's hour of peril, when the fate of civilization hung in the balance, the O.T.A., in my humble, opinion, added to the fighting strength of our province. In the days of unrest of turmoil and reconstruction through which we are passing the Act, I believe, is a source of safety and strength, and that its repeal or any weakening of its provisions would be unwise. What proved a source of strength in the days of war and is proving a source of safety in the days of reconstruction will, I believe, prove a boon and a blessing in the days of peace and prosperity to which we are hopefully looking."

FORMERLY CITY CLERK.

Ottawa Loses Highly Respected Citizen Through Death of John Henderson.

Mr. John Henderson, father of Mrs. (Dr.) T.H. Henry, passed away at his home in Ottawa on Wednesday of last week at an advanced age. Deceased who was formerly City Clerk had spent many years in public life, having served as alderman and also as a member of Ottawa school board. The following sketch of his career is from the Ottawa Journal:—

"By the death this morning of Mr. John Henderson at his home, 34 Alexander Street, Ottawa loses one of its best known and most highly respected citizens. Since 1857 Mr. Henderson was prominently connected with the social and civil life of New Edinburgh and Ottawa. He was perhaps better known to the preent generation as City Clerk of Ottawa, which position he resigned a few years ago to live a retired life among his books and flowers. Mr. Henderson was in his 85th year and his death was probably due to his advanced age. His memory remained clear until the end.

The late John Henderson was born in Duns, Berwickshire, Scotland, in 1835. His father was John Henderson, a solicitor of that town, and his mother, Elizabeth Smith. Mr. Henderson was a descendant of an old Scotch family, who for two centuries had shed lustre upon the pages of Scottish history in military, literary and professional circles.

He was educated in the Public Schools of Duns and later studied law, attending the lectures in Edinburgh University and qualifying for his examinations as a solicitor.

Mr. Henderson came to Ottawa from Scotland in 1857, and was employed as a bookkeeper with J. M. Currier & Co., lumbermen, later going to J. McLaren & Co.'s office in the same capacity. A short time after he was appointed manager and remained there till appointed City Clerk of Ottawa in 1891.

In 1873 Mr. Henderson became an alderman of New Edinburgh, then a separate municipality but now a part of Ottawa. From 1876 until 1887 he was reeve of the village. During much of that time he was Chairman of the Finance Committee in the County Council of Carleton.

From 1887 to 1891 Mr. Henderson was an Alderman of Ottawa. For over twenty years he was chairman of the School Board of New Edinburgh and later a member of the Ottawa School Board.

In church circles Mr. Henderson was a member of Knox Presbyterian Church from 1858 until a year ago, and for many years he was secretary and chairman of the management committee.

In 1863 Mr. Henderson was married to Miss Mary Hamilton, of Ottawa, who predeceased him thirteen years ago. Five children were born of the marriage, one son and four daughters, all of whom survive. Mr. John H. Henderson, auditor for the Department of the Interior, in the Western Provinces, is a son. The daughters are Miss Jessie, at home; Mrs. Elizabeth Campbell, at home; Mrs. (Dr.) T. H. Henry, of Orangeville, and Mrs. William Johnston, wife of the well-known Ottawa solicitor.

The funeral will be held from his late residence on Friday afternoon, at 2.30. A short service will be conducted at 2 o'clock, followed by interment in Beechwood cemetery."

CHOLERA INFANTUM

Cholera infantum is one of the fatal ailments of childhood. It is a trouble that comes on suddenly, especially during the summer months and unless prompt action is taken the little one may soon be beyond aid. Baby's Own Tablets are an ideal medicine in warding off this trouble. They regulate the bowels and sweeten the stomach and thus prevent all the dreaded summer complaints. They are an absolutely safe medicine being guaranteed by a government analyst to contain no opiates or narcotics or other harmful drugs. They cannot possibly do harm—they always do good. The Tablets are sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 25 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

Many ambitious young people, who cannot attend now, are taking advantage of the Home Study Courses, thereby shortening their term at college and cutting down expenses.

All interested should write now for information and thus get advantage of the old rate of tuition. The Orangeville Business College is affiliated with the Canada Business College, Toronto, and ten other colleges.

The Legacy of War

Canada's Dead and Missing	63,038
Canada's Wounded	149,709
Canada's National Debt	$1,670,263,691
Soldiers' Annual Pensions	$35,000,000

THE WORLD is staggering with debt. Some of the leading countries are verging on bankruptcy.

Five years ago Canada had never dreamed of the financial burden she carries to-day.

Canada entered the Great War with a National Debt of $337,000,000, or $42 per head of population. Canada emerges with a National Debt to date of $1,670,263,691, which is expected to approximate $2,000,000,000 by the end of the fiscal year—or about $250 for every man, woman and child in the country. Interest charges alone will eat up nearly one-half our present national revenue, and soldiers' pensions will have to be provided as well.

Can Ontario Afford to Spend $36,000,000 a Year on Booze?

PREVIOUS to the Ontario Temperance Act the drink bill of the Province approximated $36,000,000 per year, an amount about equal to Ontario's share of the Annual interest on our National Debt. In the face of our financial responsibilities alone, is this the time to repeal the Ontario Temperance Act or relax a single one of its restrictions upon waste of money and man power? To every question on the Referendum Ballot vote—

"No!"—Four Times—"No!"

No Repeal—No Government beer shops—No intoxicating beer in Standard Hotel bars—No Government beer and whiskey shops. Be sure you are on the voters' list. Be sure you mark your ballot four times—X—X—X—X—in the column headed No.

What Everywoman Knows

Every year, dress fabrics are becoming sheerer and sheerer—the colors more dainty. The ordeal of trusting the delicate garments to "soap and water", however, is done away with by the use of Lux.

Lux will not harm any garment, however delicate or dainty, that pure water itself will not injure.

You can wash any garment with Lux without fear of having it spoiled. The whole secret lies in the matchless purity of the little satiny Lux flakes.

There is no substitute for Lux. There is nothing like Lux. Lux is in a class by itself.

Lux is on sale at all Grocers, Departmental Stores, &c.

A handy little recipe booklet, entitled, "The Care of Dainty Clothes" will be gladly sent free on request.

DOMINIONS WERE EASY.

A good-sized crowd saw the exhibition lacrosse match between The Dufferins and The Dominions, a senior Toronto lacrosse team, on Idylwyld Park on Saturday afternoon. The visitors proved a little more than a light lunch for the Duffs, who won by a score of 9 to 1, and could have had a few more goals if they had seen fit to go out and work as hard as they usually do. The visitors had a peach of a goalkeeper and a fairly strong defence, but their home was completely outclassed. The home players fielded very well, but the Dufferin defence simply smothered them when they got in close. Any combination work they attemped was altogether too slow to be effective. The only goal they secured was from a long shot that did not look like a counter, but nevertheless slipped in. The Dufferin team played a fast, snappy game and are evidently keeping in good shape for the championship finals. It was noticeable that the home is combining much better than earlier in the season. Some of the combination stunts pulled off on Saturday were lightning fast and would keep the best defence busy. The home team was without the services of Keith and Blythe Brown. Jimmy Dawson and W. H. Hunter, two of the spares, were each on a quarter. The line-up was:

Dr. Campbell handled the game to the satisfaction of both teams.

MONO MILLS.

Mr. Mark Varey, who had the misfortune to have his barn destroyed by fire last fall, is building a fine new barn on his farm, 7th line, Mono. On Friday of last week about 150 neighbors gathered together to raise the frame work. Deputy Reeve Bowers, of Mono, and Mr. Jno. Vance, of Mono Mills, called sides and everything went along without accident or trouble of any kind. Mr. John Willarton, of Glen Cross, has the contract and is certainly putting up a first-class job. The barn is 54x94, and when finished will be one of the finest and largest barns in the County of Dufferin.

A number of the friends and neighbors gathered at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Patrick Garvey, 6th line, Mono, on Monday evening of this week to welcome home their eldest son, Private Eugene Garvey, who has been overseas since June, 1918. During the evening Mr. Geo. McManus was requested to take the chair and stated briefly that those present wished to show in some tangible way their gratitude to Pte. Garvey for the part he had taken in defence of his country, and called on Mr. Jno. A. Vance to read the following address, Master Hughie Crozier presenting a well filled purse:—

To Pte. Eugene Garvey:—

Your friends and neighbors are gathered here this evening to welcome you to your home, to your parents and to civil life, realizing that you no doubt have spent many lonely hours during the past fourteen months of your military life.

It is with sincere pleasure that we greet you on your safe return. We feel that we are indebted to you for the part which you were calledupon to take in the defence of our country and our homes.

We also congratulate you that you were one of the picked men physically fit to perform the duties pertaining to military life, and we believe that you have returned to us in the same state of physical and moral fitness to take up the duties of civil life in your home land. We therefore present you with this purse knowing that you will accept it in the spirit in which it is given, at the same time conscious of the fact that we cannot reimburse you financially, but as a recognition of the debt of gratitude we owe.

In conclusion we might add that we hope the experience which you have gained during those strenuous months may prove beneficial to you as you take up the duties of life as they present themselves.

Signed on behalf of your friends and neighbors,

Geo. J. McManus,
Wm. A. Donaldson,
George Crozier.

Pioneer in her Profession.

The first woman physicinn in the United States was Dr. Elizabeth Blackwell, who received the degree of M. D. at Geneva, N. Y., 70 years ago. Miss Blackwell was a native of Bristol, England, but came to the United States in her youth. When she was 21 she determined to become a physician, but her application for admission was refused by nearly all of the leading medical colleges of the United States and Canada. A little medical college in Geneva, however, accepted her, and she became one of the most brilliant students of the institution. She suffered, however, from social ostracism in the town, as the Geneva businesses regarded her either as insane or wicked. Miss Blackwell, after finishing her course, attended medical colleges in Europe and practiced in several continental hospitals. She then returned to New York, where she opened an infirmary for women and children and organized a woman's medical college.

WALDEMAR.

Harvesting is about over in this neighborhood. Crops are fairly good, except in the district to our north where they were badly damaged by the hailstorm of a couple of weeks ago.

McConachie & Sons, our energetic and widely known threshers, are preparing for a busy fall's threshing. They will have no less than four outfits on the road this season. Jos. McConachie, the senior member of the firm, will have one outfit, Robert McConachie has charge of two and another brother, Harvey, is operating the fourth outfit over in Luther township. Mr. Robt. McConachie has purchased a new separator, with self-feeder and blowing attachment.

Jos. McConachie is building a new brick veneer house, 26 by 28.

Mr. John Black has started on the foundation work for a new brick dwelling house on the old McLachlan place on the Amaranth-East Garry townline. Mr. Black had the misfortune to have his house destroyed by fire a couple of months ago. Alfred Bushby, a local builder, has the contract for both stone and brick work.

Mr. T. H. McDowell, our veteran shoemaker, has been laid off work for the last three weeks on account of illness. He is staying at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Will Tate, and is still very poorly. He is under the care of Dr. Gibson, of Hillsburg.

Mrs. Jos. Thompson, another of our well-known residents, is also in very indifferent health. She is under the care of Dr. Gibson.

Rev. J. A. Ross preached in one of the Presbyterian churches in the O.S. district last Sabbath. The pastor for whom Mr. Ross was supplying took the services here.

Mr. and Mrs. Robinson and family, of Kelton, spent Sunday with friends in town.

Mr. and Mrs. Jos. McConachie and Mr. and Mrs. John McLeod jr., the latter from Orangeville, sent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Harvey McConachie at their home in Luther.

Quite a number of our residents are taking in the sights at Toronto Exhibition this year.

Miss Parks, our new school teacher, entered upon her duties as school mistress on Tuesday. She comes to the section well recommended and we wish her every success in her new sphere of duty.

After waiting many months we have secured $2,000 worth of the best values in Clothing that we have seen for years. This lot of Suits is made up of blues, plain greys, grey checks and browns, in plain, overchecks and stripes, all pure Worsteds, and good weight.

These Suits are absolutely unobtainable to-day at any price, and, as we said before, are clearing lines of a back order.

PECULIAR ORIGIN OF BARN FIRE.

The barn on the farm of Robinson Holland at Sheldon was destroyed by fire in a peculiar manner one day last week. An automobile was standing on the floor and when an attempt was made to start it by means of the electric self starter a little blaze was noticed on the floor. The car was hurriedly run out to prevent an explosion and to afford a chance to stamp out the fire, but when the door was opened the wind caught the flame, carried it into the chaff and in a minute the barn was hopelessly ablaze with the result that it and the contents were entirely consumed.—Alliston Herald.

A well-painted Roof adds Distinction to the House

THE roof crowns the house—it may "make" or "mar" the whole structure. In shingle-roofed houses, shingle-stain plays a most important part in rounding out the harmonious appearance of the home exterior. We advise the use of either as a stain in which the shingles are dipped before being put on—or as a stain for application to the completed roof.

B-H Anchor Shingle Stain is made by the makers of B-H "English Paint" and Brandram's Genuine B.H. White Lead. Like these other famous products of a famous paint house, B-H Anchor Shingle Stain is "first choice" among people who know and appreciate good paint.

We have it in many beautiful shades—a shade for every conceivable color-scheme. The manufacturers of this stain describe it as "TOP quality for the house TOP" and that description is completely endorsed by ourselves. We know it over-tops all other similar products.

BETTER THAN ELECTRIC FAN

Punkah System Said to Have Advantages Not Possessed by Its More Modern Competitor.

Electric current for fans is not generally available in Aden, Arabia, and the old-fashioned punkah system is the only relief from the almost unbearable heat and closeness of the atmosphere which prevails at certain seasons of the year. A punkah is a large ceiling fan operated by a coolie, who pulls a rope attached to it. This rope generally passes over a small pulley through a hole in the wall, so that the coolie may work unseen by those in the room to be ventilated.

Often a series of fans is operated by one coolie, this system prevailing in hotels, clubs and other places where there is a large space to be cooled. The actual cooling effect is usually considered more satisfactory than that of an electrically operated fan in the respect that the air currents are more gentle and much more evenly distributed.

A punkah walla, as the coolie who operates it is called, receives in Aden an average wage of $3.50 a month for working from eight to nine hours a day. However, during the hot season, when it is desirable to have the punkah in operation night and day, a force of three punkah wallas, working eight hours each, is necessary.

FLED IN DISGUISE

Noted Men Who Escaped Captivity by Subterfuge.

In Hours of Grave Danger Soldiers of Proved Bravery Have Not Hesitated to Save Lives by Ignominious Flight.

Gen. Hans von Beseler of the German army is said to have escaped out of Poland in disguise as a stowaway on board a Vistula river steamboat. In the fall of 1914 Von Beseler was glorified as the conqueror of the city of Antwerp, the chief stronghold of Belgium and the chief port of continental Europe. Germany's conquering heroes of 1914 have been vanquished and Von Beseler is but one of a great company of notable fugitives who have saved their lives by fleeing in disguise. Judge Jeffries of English history, whose name is associated with the "bloody assizes," tried to hide himself and escape the vengeance his savage cruelty merited by donning the garb of a coal miner and hiding in a tavern at Woking, but he was recognized, captured, imprisoned in the Tower of London, where he soon died. Prince Charles Edward Stuart, pretender to the throne of Great Britain, escaped from Scotland in petticoats, disguised as Betty Burke, maid to Flora MacDonald. Louis Phillippe, the "citizen king" of France, fled to the coast of Normandy where he posed as "Mr. Smith," a British subject, in order to secure passage to England on a steamboat. Napoleon III, while a pretender to the throne of France, was imprisoned in the fortress of Ham. After several months of confinement repairs were begun on the fortress. Napoleon bribed one of the carpenters to smuggle in a workman's garb for his disguise. He dressed himself in the coarse overalls and blouse, shouldered a short plank, which he carried on edge so as to conceal his face, and walking past his guard he escaped to Belgium and thence to England. Porfirio Diaz was twice compelled to flee from Mexico and seek safety in the United States. He made one trip from New Orleans to Vera Cruz disguised as a stoker on board a steamship and was soon leading a new band of revolutionists. Empress Eugenie, disguised as a servant woman, was taken out of Paris by Doctor Evans, an American dentist, in whose house she had been hidden. Thus she escaped the blind fury of the French mob and gained safe asylum in England. Jefferson Davis, fallen president of the Southern Confederacy, is said by his enemies to have tried to escape out of the country and evade his pursuers disguised in woman's garb, but he was captured and imprisoned until the passions of some of the northern fire-eaters had cooled.

The General's Drop.

I have been told this story of a "flying" general, who has had experience as a parachutist, says a writer in the London Evening News. A few days ago he was a passenger in an airplane going north. After a while he picked up a village where he intended to stop for a day or two, and informed the pilot, who at once signified his intention of making a landing. "Oh! don't stop!" shouted the general, and he proceeded to attach himself to a parachute and his suitcase to another. He dropped the case overboard and then stepped off himself. General and suitcase floated down gently and safely to earth, while the airplane continued its flight.

Comfortable Beds.

Mattress and pillow used in the berths of sailors and firemen aboard government-operated merchant vessels are of the most approved type for sea use, for besides making good bedding, they are the best sort of life preservers. Their filling is a soft, resilient tropical fiber known as kapoc, which can sustain 25 times its own weight in salt water for 48 hours.

On each of the new merchant ships built under the direction of the United States shipping board, shower baths are provided for the crew, there being one for the firemen and another for the deck force.—Merchant Marine.

Kaiser's Thankless Dentist.

"Now that Doctor Davis has finished his revelations," says Nate Saulsbury, as reported by the Chicago Evening Post, "the kaiser may realize how sharper than an ulcerated tooth it is to have a thankless dentist. We should like to have held the doctor's job and, when it appeared necessary to draw the kaiserlische molar, warbled as we closed down on the forceps, 'The yanks are coming, the yanks are coming!'"—From Outlook.

An Awful Waste.

"When a senator dies at least eight thousand volumes of eulogy are printed and distributed by the government," said Professor Pate. "This is an appalling waste, and—"

"It is indeed," replied J. Fuller Gloom. "In most instances three cheers would be more appropriate.—Kansas City Star.

The Right Sort.

Two Aucklanders were talking about a mutual friend. Said one: "So Jim has gone into the navy and is now on a destroyer. I thought he was a pacifist."

"He is; a naval pacifist."

"And what is naval pacifist?"

"One who plants depth bombs for the purpose of spreading oil on the troubled waters."

Some Strange Duels.

In the latter part of the eighteenth century that prince of charlatans, Count Cagliostro, proposed a duel with poisoned pills. The trouble arose because he had called a physician a quack. Cagliostro, on the ground that "a medical controversy should be settled in a medical manner," proposed that two pills, one deadly, the other harmless, should be put in a box and shaken up. Each was to draw a pill and swallow it.

In due course the duel came off, Cagliostro lived. The other man died.

Some years before the war an American student in Paris, challenged by a Frenchman, chose baseballs as his weapon. There was immense jeering, and the American was accused of everything from insanity to cowardice, the latter on the assumption that no one could possibly be hurt by a baseball. But the American, taking his stand at pitcher's distance, threw with such force and accuracy that the flying sphere struck his opponent between the eyes and laid him out flat, though he recovered later on.

A duel with deadly germs was seriously proposed by a Chicago physician in 1916. The preliminaries were arranged, but at the last moment the challenged party shrank from the ordeal.

Uses of Sea Weeds.

A good many of us think of seaweeds as perfectly useless ocean growths, somewhat like our garden weeds. As a matter of fact, sea weeds have many, many uses. They furnish food for the fish, the same as grass and herbage do for our cattle and sheep. And many of the smaller fish build their homes—almost like our birds—in the floating island of sea weed. They also keep the water pure.

Sea weed of a certain kind used to be much in demand, as it contained an alkali used in the manufacture of soap, but this is now obtained from other sources.

Sea weeds are used by farmers along the coast for fertilizer, and in the fall it is interesting to see them gathering it, often driving their teams far out into the water, the horses plunging back with a load of the glistening stuff. If you have been in New England you have probably noticed this yourself.

Some of the hardy cattle of Ireland and Scotland thrive on dried sea weed as a winter fodder. There is a species of sea weed that grows along the coast of Japan, from which glue is made, and the Chinese use sea weed to glaze their umbrellas, lanterns, and screens.

Traditions of Islam.

The Bedouin tribes of North Africa are perhaps as impervious to the influence of modern civilization as any people in the world. Since the French took control of North Africa these wild tribes have been, supposedly, under military discipline and guardianship, but they have maintained their own tribal organizations and almost complete independence, so far as their actual lives are concerned.

They follow the traditions of Islam and their dwellings, their furnishings (which are few and far between) and their clothing date back to the days of the Bible.

A Warning.

The bride-elect had been showing her presents to a party of admiring friends. "And I've got such a good idea," she gushed. "I'm so afraid people will discover we are newly married that I've made Jack promise that when—when we go away tomorrow he'll treat me in public just as if he had no thought for anyone except himself." A middle-aged friend shook her head. "Don't," she said in tones of sad wisdom. "I tried that plan — and my husband never got over it!"

His Motive.

"How modestly she dresses, and how sensibly!" "Yes; that woman will go anything to attract attention."

HOSPITAL NURSE PRAISES TANLAC

Gains Eleven Pounds And Is Feeling Fine Since Taking Tanlac.

"Tanlac did so much for me that I feel it my duty to tell others about this medicine," said C. M. Rhamey, a professional nurse living at the Hotel George, on Sixth street, San Francisco, Cal., recently. Mr. Rhamey has been nursing patients in the hospitals for the past eight years.

"Last February," he continued, "owing to an accident in which my leg was broken I was confined to my bed for several weeks. I lost my appetite and could hardly eat anything to nourish me, consequently I lost in weight. I took several different kinds of tonics, hoping they would help build me up but they did me no good.

"One morning I read a statement by a lady in Los Angeles who said she had gotten such wonderful benefits from taking Tanlac that I decided to try it myself. By the time I had finished half of my first bottle my appetite returned and I felt hungry for the first time in weeks. From then on I started right in to pick up and my appetite got better and better and I slept better at night. I have already gained eleven pounds and am feeling just fine; even my doctor has remarked how much better I am looking. I would never allow my name to be used in connection with a medicine before, but I have had such excellent results from using Tanlac that I take great pleasure in recommending it to anyone needing a medicine to build up the system."

"Tanlac is sold in Orangeville by C. V. Jeffers, in Grand Valley by G. E. Morrow, in Shelburne by J. E. A. White, and in Grand Valley by W. T. Edmonson."

Kaiser Joke on the Hun.

A droll story comes from the Berlin newspapers. In the last session of the Workmen's Council at Rathenow, in Mark Brandenburg, one of the members drew attention to the way in which the farmers had been fleeced by a man who gave himself out to be a special messenger of the ex-Kaiser. Well dressed and driving a fine car, he appealed to the farmers to send through him parcels of food to their "starving Emperor." In touching words he described the short commons on which the Dutch, no doubt at the instigation of the Entente, kept his woebegone and hungry master. "The Kaiser begged his Mark Brandenburgers to send him a little food." The trick always worked, and the car drove off loaded with eggs, flour and ham in the direction of Amerongen.

One Was Enough.

"You love my daughter?" said the old man. "Love her!" he exclaimed, passionately. "Why, I would die for her. For one soft glance from those sweet eyes I would hurl myself from yonder cliff and perish—a bruised mass upon the rocks two hundred feet below." The old man shook his head. "I'm something of a liar myself," he said, "and one is enough for a small family like mine."

Venus' Flytrap.

That such plants as "Venus' flytrap" actually catch and squeeze to death flies and other insects alighting on their leaves has long been known, but the discovery is comparatively recent that the plants digest the softer parts of their prey by means of peptic ferment secreted by the leaves. These are real instances of plants feeding upon animals.

Bile is Useful in its Place

And by Using Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills You Can Prevent Biliousness and Stomach Troubles

Bile is usually thought of as a poison in the blood which causes biliousness, bilious headache and derangements of the digestive system. But, like most things in Nature, bile is of the greatest usefulness when found in its right place. It is the duty of the liver to filter the bile from the blood, where it acts as a poison, and to pass it into the bowels, where, by its antiseptic influence, it prevents the fermentation of the food, and hastens its passage through the alimentary canal.

Consequently when the liver is active in supplying bile to the intestines or bowels there is no constipation, no congestion of the kidneys, no clogging of the digestive system. By keeping the liver active Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills prevent and cure biliousness, constipation, chronic indigestion, as well as serious and complicated diseases of the liver and kidneys.

Mrs. Mishner, Thornhill, Ont., writes:—"Last January I was seized with a very bad bilious attack, which caused me to have trouble with my liver, kidneys and bladder. I suffered so much with pain that I became completely worn out. Fortunately I resorted to Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills, and the use of these pills has left me strong and able to do my work.

"Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills, as well as his other medicines, have been of great benefit in our household, and in fact the house is never without them. Please publish this letter for the benefit of other sufferers."

Mrs. John Dillon, 23 Pollock St., Galt, Ont., writes:—"I had been troubled with sick headache for some time, and also gas on my stomach. This was so bad at times that I felt I would suffocate before I could get relief. I got some of Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills, and after using these found I was completely cured of both the gas on my stomach and the headaches, and am now enjoying the best of health."

Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills, one pill a dose, 26 cents a box, all dealers, or Edmanson, Bates & Co., Limited, Toronto. You cannot expect such results from substitutes. Insist on getting the genuine.

MUST RETURN DOCUMENTS.

Stolen French Papers Were Valued by Bismarck.

There is one clause in the Peace Treaty to which no person will object. It is a curious tag-end to Article 245, and its execution will solve the mystery of the secret document of Cercay, which used to worry historians 40 years ago.

"The German Government shall restore to the French Government the trophies, archives, historic souvenirs and works of art taken from France by the German authorities in the war of 1870-71," reads Article 245, "and also all the political papers taken by the German authorities October 10, 1870, from the Chateau of Cercay, then belonging to M. Rouher."

One German history professor, Herr von Ruville, of the University of Halle, called those documents "the key to the foundation of the German Empire." But they have never been published; Bismarck and his successors saw to that.

Rouher was President of the Senate, and by that title Vice-Emperor of France under the regime which crumbled when the German armies made their steam-roller invasion in 1870. The Republicans who succeeded the Empire in France took more pains than have the Republicans of present-day Germany to publish all the interesting secret imperial documents which they could find, and they would have been delighted to publish the papers which M. Rouher had tucked away in a secret closet in his chateau at Cercay, southeast of Paris. They did seize the documents with which the Emperor's family tried to flee from France, but their publication proved a disappointment. The really important documents on French foreign policy in the years before the war were in the hands of Rouher. The Republicans searched his Paris house, but in vain.

It was a regiment of Mecklenburg troops which strayed into the Chateau Cercay on October 10, 1870, that found the much-sought papers. After a fashion which German troops seemed to have acquired even then, they poked about the desks and cubbyholes of the chateau, and, among other things, they discovered a great pile of papers which they started to burn. An officer with something which, in latter days, might have been called a "news nose," caught them just in time to save the documents and make Article 245 of the 1919 Peace Treaty a possibility. They were carefully boxed and sent to No. 14 Rue de Provence, at Versailles, where Bismarck was then installed.

Bismarck never told all of their contents. Once, in 1871, he published some extracts regarding the question of Belgian neutrality and Napoleon III's demands for compensation in 1866. Years later, when Prince Hohenlohe retired as German Chancellor, an extract from one of the letters of the French Charge at Munich was published, revealing that as early as 1867 Hohenlohe had been a partisan of the union of Prussia and Bavaria. But all the other documents dealing with the separatist ambitions of the South German States have been kept strictly secret. Even Treitschke and Sybel, most patriotic of Prussian historians, were not allowed to see them. A British correspondent at Versailles in 1870 sent a mystifying letter to the London Times declaring that among the documents were "a mass of things capable of exciting envy, hatred and malignity, revealing the most secret thoughts of princes and diplomats." But he evidently had not seen the documents.

One German correspondent saw the documents in November, 1870. His name was Wachenhausen, and he wrote to the Volnische Zeitung a preliminary despatch mentioning secret correspondence about the Mexican campaigns and a secret letter saying that the French, if they came, would be received with open arms. But a few days later he wrote another letter to his paper explaining the necessity of remaining mute upon what he had seen. He had evidently received orders to shut up.

Bavaria came very near to not joining Prussia in the founding of the German Empire in 1871; and Joseph Reinach among French historians, as well as von Ruville in Germany, believed that the possession of the secret documents of Cercay gave Bismarck the final whip which forced Bavaria to do his bidding. The Ministers of Bavarian and Wurttemberg and other South German States were not in love with Prussia in the years before the war of 1870, and there is no doubt that their impudent expressions of hate for Prussia were all too compromisingly revealed in the secret document which came into the Iron Chancelor's hands just at the critical moment when he was forging the German kingdoms into a single empire. They gave him the power to discredit, in the heat of victory, Ministers who still had political ambitions.

The secret documents of Cercay will return to France fifty years after their theft, and at a time when that German unity which they were instrumental in forging is once more in the scales.

The Calendar.

The month of January always begins on the same day of the week as October and the same is true of April and July, September and December. February, March and November also begin on the same day of the week. This, however, is only true in normal years of 365 days. A century can never begin on Wednesday, Friday or Saturday. Furthermore, the ordinary year ends on the same day of the week as that on which it begins.

Speedy.

"Yes, in teaching stenography, we are strong on accuracy," said the business college professor. "How are you on speed?" "Well, the last girl we graduated married her employer in three weeks."

McMILLAN'S

Are selling a good High Class line of MEN'S and WOMEN'S READY-TO-WEAR CLOTHING in Orangeville to-day for less than you can buy the same class of goods for in city stores.

It's hardly worth while mentioning this fact because almost every person knows that they can buy goods much cheaper today in the small town than they can in the large city where the expense of doing business is so enormous.

However we know very well that it isn't always the price that people consider. They want a choice and very often they demand a better class of goods than they are able to get in their home town. This is just where we can please you we think, just as well as in the lower prices we mentioned in the first place. We cannot begin to tell you of all the beautiful new goods we will show for this Fall.

Concerning Your Fall Shoes

IF you would secure service and satisfaction from your shoes this Fall, it is more than ever important that you should go to a reputable dealer in whom you have confidence, and see that the maker's trade-mark is on the shoes you buy. This for the reason that leather is now scarcer than at any time during the war, prices are higher, and some grades of leather are to-day almost unobtainable at any price.

¶ Millions of pairs of shoes, millions of feet of leather, have been bought for the Nations of Europe whose stocks of footwear were entirely wiped out by the war. This has more than offset the reduction in demand for army shoes. And coming upon a supply of material which was already scarce, it has resulted in a situation which, for the time being, is serious.

¶ Therefore, unless you have first-hand technical knowledge of shoes and leather, you must rely more closely than ever this Fall upon the reputation of the maker and of the retailer.

¶ The retailer who has a reputation to sustain will not endanger it for the sake of a little extra profit. And no established manufacturer will stamp his trade mark upon goods which do not represent good value at a fair price.

¶ The chances are that you do not feel any great interest in the leather market, or in the conditions which govern the manufacture and distribution of shoes. But you ARE interested—vitally interested—in securing for yourself and your family reliable footwear at fair prices. And the value which you receive for your hard-earned dollars is inexorably determined by those same conditions which govern what we call the shoe trade. You cannot control them, any more than we can. But you CAN control your method of buying, so as to get the greatest possible value for every dollar you spend.

¶ So we think it only just and proper to tell you, at the commencement of each season, what the conditions really are, so that you may base your buying judgment upon them.

To Buy Wisely This Fall:

FIRST: Go to a reliable dealer whose reputation you know and whose judgment you can trust: and SECOND: Make sure that the trade-mark of a manufacturer whose standing is known is stamped upon the shoes you buy.

Our booklet, "How to Buy Shoes," is gladly sent without charge to any address in Canada. Please address inquiries to our head office at Montreal.

WHY BEAUTY FADES

A Condition Due Entirely to Poor, Watery Blood.

The girl who returns home from school or from work thoroughly tired out will be fortunate if she escapes a physical breakdown, because this getting tired so easily is probably the first warning symptom of a thinning blood that must not be disregarded if her health is to be preserved.

When the blood becomes thin and impure the patient becomes thin, pale, haggard and angular. She not only tires out easily but suffers from headaches, palpitation of the heart, dizzy spells and a loss of appetite. This condition will go from bad to worse, until perhaps fatal consumption sets in, if prompt steps are not taken to increase and enrich the blood supply. To make the rich, red blood that brings the glow of health, no medicine yet discovered can equal Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. If given a fair trial their use brings rosy cheeks, bright eyes, a good appetite and good spirits. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills have made thousands of pale, languid girls active and strong. On the first sign of poor, thin blood mothers should insist upon their daughters taking a fair course of these pills. They will not only restore health, but will save further doctor bills.

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills can be obtained from any dealer in medicine or by mail at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50 from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

Rev. J. A. Cranston Presented with Purse on Leaving Fort William.

On Monday evening, August 18, a very large number of the members and adherents of St. Andrew's church, Fort William, and outside friends gathered in the church to take leave of the Rev. and Mrs. J. A. Cranston and family on the eve of their departure for Kew Beach Presbyterian Church, Toronto. Very kind words of appreciation were expressed in the addresses presented to Mr. and Mrs. Cranston by representatives of the congregation and the Ministerial Association for their devoted service both within the church and in the civil life of the community.

Mrs. Cranston was presented with a purse well filled with gold by the ladies of the congregation, a beautiful copy of the Presbyterian Book of Praise by the members of the Women's Missionary Society, and at Port Arthur by the members of the executive of the Superior Presbyterial with a gold ring.

Mr. Cranston was remembered by his congregation with the handsome sum of $500. The Ministerial Association presented him with a beautiful cut glass vase, and a committee representing the Fort William Curling Club, of which he had been a member and chaplain for nine years, came to his home and gave him a most commodious and valuable brown leather club bag.

Mr. and Mrs. Cranston were deeply moved by such manifestations of feeling on the part of their friends, and expressed heartfelt thanks for so many beautiful gifts bestowed upon them. They left Fort William on Thursday by the C.P.R. steamer Manitoba for the east, remaining a few days in Owen Sound with friends before going on to Toronto, where Mr. Cranston will be inducted into the pastoral charge of Kew Beach Presbyterian Church on Thursday evening, September 4th.

Rev. J. A. Cranston is a native of Caledon East, and well known in the County of Peel.

This dependable range has easy-working grates; porcelain enameled reservoir, which may be removed for cleaning.

The Pandora is the sort of range you have always wanted. See it.

NO CHANCE FOR THE GERMS.

Disease germs cannot live in rich, red blood. It is people in low vitality that fall victims to germ diseases. By using Dr. Chase's Nerve Food you enrich the blood, increase vitality and prevent disease germs from finding lodgment in your body. There's wisdom in prevention. It's easier to keep well than to get well.

WOULDN'T TAKE A FORTUNE FOR IT

All Her Friends Come to See What Tanlac Did For Mrs. Lynch.

"I wouldn't take a fortune for the good Tanlac has done for me," said Mrs. A. F. Lynch, of 164 Central St., Galesburg, Ill., recently.

"I suffered from stomach trouble for about five years," she continued, "and hadn't been able to eat a regular meal for several years and during this time I suffered awfully with cramps, dizzy spells and terrible throbbing headaches. I was often troubled with gas on my stomach that bloated me up so I could hardly breathe. I also suffered with my kidneys and was so constipated that my condition alarmed me at times, for I just didn't seem to be able to get any relief from this trouble. I was never free from a dull, aching pain across the small of my back and got so weak and rundown that I was laid up for as much as a week at a time.

"Tanlac has done me a wonderful amount of good; I eat three meals a day now and am never troubled with indigestion, bloating or headaches. My kidneys don't worry me and I am not constipated now. My condition has improved so I can do all my housework. I am perfectly well in every way and people who have heard about my recovery come to see if all they hear is true, and it don't take me long to convince them of the facts.'

"Tanlac is sold in Orangeville by C. V. Jeffers, in Grand Valley by G. E. Morrow, in Shelburne by J. E. A. White, and in Grand Valley by W. T. Edmonson."

DUFFERIN OLD BOYS.

Manitoba Association Holds Tenth Annual Re-union.

The Dufferin County Old Boys Association of Manitoba, after two postponements on account of bad weather and the Peace Celebration, held their tenth Annual Re-union in Kildonan Park, Winnipeg, on Saturday, August 30th, when about 100 turned out to renew acquaintances and have a general good time.

After refreshments had been served, brief speeches were delivered by J. J. Rooney, H. W. Watson, S. T. Newton, Mrs. Fisher, Mrs. Watson, G. R. Hannah, J. E. Lennox and Dr. W. J. Barber. The following officers were elected for the ensuing year:—

Hon. President—Geo. Clingan, M. D., M.P.P.; Hon. Vice President—E. August, M.P.P.; President — J. J. Rooney; Vice President—H. W. Watson; Secretary—S. T. Newton; Treasurer—J. S. Cumberland.

Committee—Mono, Mrs. J. C. McNabb, J. Braden; Grand Valley, Prof. D. Durkin, T. Bruce; East Luther, Rev. H. Crozier, Dr. F. W. Hamilton; Amaranth, Prof. G. A. Sproule, R. M. Neely; Shelburne, Mrs. J. J. Fisher, Mrs. (Dr.) J. W. Barber; Melancthon, Mrs. (Rev.) H. H. Gilbart, Mrs. H. W. Watson; Mulmur, Mrs. J. J. Rooney, J. A. Hand; Orangeville, Dr. McCarten, Mrs. H. N. Modeland; E. Garafraxa, Mrs. J. A. Hand.

It was unanimously decided that an effort be made to plan an excursion to Dufferin in July next year, and a Committee consisting of the Executive Committee and Messrs. J. E. Lennox, Ray Hannah, Dr. J. W. Barber, J. A. Hand and T. Bruce were appointed to make full arrangements for the trip.

March 17th was decided on as the date for the Annual Banquet and it is expected that the largest auditorium in the City will not prove any too large to accommodate those who will be present.

GEORGETOWN'S METHOD

The Board of Trade has sent out over five hundred letters to manufacturers in the United States, inviting them to Georgetown if they intend to open up a Canadian factory. We understand that a number of favorable replies have already been received. This is a method of attracting industries that Orangeville might copy with profit.

GRANTS TO RURAL SCHOOLS

The rural schools of Dufferin County will this year receive $4216.41 in special grants from the Province based on the salaries paid to teachers. The amount of the grant received by each municipality is: Amaranth, $562.92, E. Garafraxa, $440.10; East Luther, $454.26; Melancthon, $767.63; Mono, $1117.51; Mulmur, $874.00.

SHORTAGE OF SCHOOL BOOKS

With the re-opening of the schools a week ago Tuesday, book dealers found themselves confronted with a shortage of public school books. None of the Readers could be procured, neither were Public School Arithmetics, Geographies or Histories available. The trouble is that the books are being reprinted, and the publishers have been unable to get them off the presses in time to supply the school opening demand. The shortage is Province-wide, and everywhere the only supplies on hand were books which dealers had carried over from last term. A lot of inconvenience has resulted, but it is hoped that the situation will be remedied very shortly.

THE VOTERS' LISTS

The voters' lists for the referendum election have just been printed, and it is important that all electors see that their names are properly entered. Every elector must claim the franchise by making sure that the enumerator inserts his or her name; it is easy to lose or gain twenty thousand votes by negligence or vigilence. Any person may claim to be enrolled who is a British subject by birth, marriage or naturalization; 21 years of age; a resident of Canada on or before June 30th, 1918; residing in Ontario prior to April 1st, 1919, and domiciled in his electoral district prior to June 1st, 1919. Also the franchise belongs to nurses, sailors and soldiers who, when entering the service, were residents of Ontario, together with students resident and in attendance at institutions of learning.

AN EXCELLENT SHOWING

Orangeville High School pupils made an excellent showing at the Midsummer Examinations this year. Of the eighteen candidates, who wrote on the Lower School exams., thirteen were successful. Eighteen of the 22 who wrote on the Middle School exams. succeeded in getting through, and four of the eighteen secured honors. Fifteen out of eighteen candidates passed the Junior Matriculation exams. and the four Upper School candidates were all successful. This means that over eighty per cent. of the candidates who wrote passed their examinations. The average for the whole Province was about 65 per cent., Orangeville High School is therefore nearly twenty per cent. better than the average for all the High Schools and Collegiate Institutes of the Province. Principal Hackett and his assistants are entitled to hearty congratulations upon the excellent showing of the School.

Shareholders of Edgar Telephone System Given Opportunity to Organize Stock Company.

Last June R. J. Edgar, the owner of what is known as the Edgar Telephone System, operating almost entirely in the Township of Amaranth, sold out the entire System to R. J. Brooks for the sum of $5,000. Brooks had the transfer confirmed by the Ontario Railway and Municipal Board as required by statute, and then transferred the property to William McKinley and others, who are in reality trustees for the East Luther Telephone Co. McKinley made application to the Board for confirmation of this second transfer, but this application was opposed by Edgar and a large number of the users of the Edgar System. Eventually a petition, signed by some 358 of the 400 users of the Edgar Tel. Co., was presented to the Railway Board asking that it decline to confirm the transfer. Following the receipt of the petition the Board made arrangements for a Sitting in Orangeville for the purpose of hearing all the interested parties. Accordingly an all day session of the Board was held in the Orangeville Court House last Friday. At this sitting it developed that some of the shareholders of the Edgar System had made application for authority to form a joint stock company for the purpose of operating the Edgar lines. After hearing the representatives of the different interests the Board held that as between Edgar Brooks and McKinley the transfer was legal and could not in any way be impeached, but in view of the protest of the users they refused to confirm the transfer for sixty days in order to give the users of the system an opportunity to reorganize and carry on the system for themselves. If they fail to reorganize within the sixty days the transfer of the System to McKinley, which really means its sale to the East Luther Telephone Co., will be confirmed.

J. R. Layton, Shelburne, appeared for Edgar and the users of the Edgar system, C. R. McKeown for Brooks, McKinley et al and J. L. Island for incorporators of the proposed new Company. Members of the Board present were D. M. McIntyre, Chairman, and A. H. Ingram, accompanied by A. F. Dagger, the Board's engineer.

KEEP CHILDREN WELL DURING HOT WEATHER

Every mother knows how fatal the hot summer months are to small children. Cholera infantum, diarrhoea, dysentry, colic, and stomach troubles are rife at this time and often a precious little life is lost after only a few hours illness. The mother who keeps Baby's Own Tablets in the house feels safe. The occasional use of the Tablets prevents stomach and bowel troubles, or if trouble comes suddenly—as it generally does—the Tablets will bring the baby safely through. They are sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 25 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

LACROSSE ON SATURDAY.

The Dufferins and The Beaches, one of the best of the Toronto senior teams, will meet in an exhibition game on Idylwyld Park on Saturday afternoon. Interest in the visiting team and their ability to give The Dufferins a game that will be a real test of the mettle of the locals is heightened by the fact that two of their players are the Densmore brothers, Earl and Dobbie, who learned the game in Orangeville and figured on The Dufferin team some seasons ago. The visitors will undoubtedly line up a strong team and The Dufferins will likely have to play the best they know how if they are going to win. Ball will be faced at 3.30 sharp. Admission, 25 cents; children 15 cents; autos, free.

MELANCTHON STATION.

Harvest is pretty well advanced in this vicinity some having finished. Although the straw is short in some cases the crops generally speaking are fair.

We are informed that the potato crop is a failure in different parts of the province. In this locality some have a good crop while others say they have only half a crop.

That great annual event, the Toronto Exhibition, is again a thing of the past. Quite a number from our bury took in the sights in the provincial metropolis, but we do not think they made the usual large purchases at the big departmental stores, for they say they can buy at cheaper rates from the stores in their home town.

Mr. and Mrs. H. Stearns, of Lorain, Ohio, visited Mr. and Mrs. Ben. Wallace on the back line.

The Back Line School Section No. 7, opened last week with Miss Shepherdson in charge.

Our neighbor, Mr. Jas. Sawden, says he will buy a new Ford car as soon as he can afford to pay for it.

The U.F.O. of this district are very energetic and are determined to demonstrate the fact that they are a mighty force to be reckoned with.

We miss our old friend, Henry Marlatt, who moved from our burg to the Queen City some time ago. Of course George Barrett occupies the house that Henry did, but pshaw! George can't soothe our sorrows and inspire our hopes like Henry could. But when we want a big lift "George is strong!"

Mr. John Thomas, of Acton, visited his father, Mr. J. F. Thomas, of this place.

Another real estate deal is in progress in our midst.

—Wm. A. Johnston, of Scotsguard, Sask., has sold his fine 100 acre farm, the w½ lot 21, con. 1, west, Caledon, to Samuel Weatherall, the tenant on the place. We understand that the price paid was $6,000. The deal was put through by Geo. Wilkins, local real estate and insurance agent.

—A general meeting of the Orangeville Branch of the Navy League was held in the Public Library on Monday evening.

—$25.00 will be given as prizes for the best Draft or Agricultural four-horse teams. Tandem Hitch, by the Dufferin Agricultural Society at Orangeville September 17th.

FALL FAIR CONCERT

The officers of the Dufferin Agricultural Society have provided an exceptionally attractive bill of fare for the Fall Fair Concert in the Opera House, on Wednesday night, Sept. 17th., the second night of the Orangeville Fall Fair. The Maple Leaf Quartette, the most popular and certainly one of the very best Quartettes in Ontario, has been secured for the evening and will present a delightful programme of recitations, impersonations and humorous, patriotic and sacred songs. The singing by this Quartette will alone be well worth the admission price. The 2nd part of the programme will consist of the presentation of the wonderful moving Picture, "The Unpardonable Sin," said to be the finest and most elaborate screen production yet shown in Ontario. Music by a good orchestra. Admission, 75 cents, Plan of Hall opens at The Banner Office Saturday morning. Seats may be reserved without extra charge.

MONO EAST PARISH.

Harvest Thanksgiving Services will be held in the Parish as follows:

In St. Paul's Church on Sunday, Sept. 14th, at 11 a.m. and 7 p.m. Special preacher for both services Rev. Herbert Naylor, of Horning's Mills. A special offering will be taken for Missions. Rev. Mr. Naylor will also conduct divine service in St. John's church, Mono Mills, at 3 o'clock, p.m.

In St. James' Church, Hockley, Sept. 21st, at 3 p.m. and 7 p.m. Special preacher, Rev. A. L. Traverse, of Whitby.

In St John's Church, Mono Mills, Sept. 28th, at 11 a.m. and 7 p.m. Rev. Dr. O'Meara, Principal of Wycliffe College, Toronto, will preach

CALEDON.

Messrs. Sparks and Wilkinson, representing the Rennie Seed Co., loaded a car with Sweet Clover seed here on Monday. This was the first car of this valuable seed to be loaded here, but, judging by the broad smile some of the farmers wore who delivered the goods, it will not be the last, as most of the growers in this district will realize about $140. per acre for their crop. Messrs. Albert Smith, Norman Harrison, John McKim, Jas. Torrance, Wm. Moffatt and George Fines were among the lucky ones, and there are still quite a number who have not got their seed threshed.

The farmers have been busy of late getting their new scale installed and have also a fine building erected over it.

Miss E. M. Scarland, who underwent a rather serious operation for throat trouble, is home for a few days to recuperate.

Mr. Bavin Lemon, Jr., loaded the first car of potatoes on Wednesday and paid a good price to start with.

Mr. Ernest Stuckey has secured a lucrative position in the drug business in Toronto and left on Monday to fill the same. Success Ernie!

Miss Camilla McCormack was given a hearty reception here on Monday evening last on her return from overseas where she was a nurse for two years.

Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Warnock are visiting the former's sister, Mrs. Allen Vanwyck, in Detroit. We wish them a pleasant visit, but hope the Township Treasurer will not get too much taken up with the Stars and Stripes and will be back in good time to take the money in.

Mr. Homer Hillyard is a patient in Toronto General Hospital this week, having had his tonsils removed on Monday last. We hope for a speedy recovery.

President Wilson and Secretary W. J. Atkinson are busy men these days arranging for Caledon's big exhibition which is only two weeks away. Some special features are being put on this year, and this year's Fair promises to be bigger and better than ever. Remember the date, Tuesday and Wednesday, Sept. 23 and 24.

RIVERVIEW.

Sergeant David Martin, of our pretty little village on the Grand, has just returned from a four weeks' visit to Toronto where he took in the sights and pleasures of the great Exhibition, and incidentally received a fresh inspiration in military matters.

Our veteran villager, and old-time blacksmith, George Doney, J.P., has now entered upon his 83rd year and is still hale and hearty and able to walk about and chat with us every day. Mr. Doney still has his ancient violin that he brought with him from England over 60 years ago, and for which he has been offered a handsome price.

Special Prizes are offered by John E. Jackson, Mono Mills, for the best Pair of Ewe Lambs, short wool breed, exhibited by a farmer's son, 16 years or under, at the Orangeville Fall Fair. Mr. Jackson is to be complimented for offering such encouragement to the boys, who are interested in livestock.

HOSPITAL NOTES

The regular monthly meeting of The Daughters of The Empire will be held at the home of Mrs. Walker Kearns on Friday, Sept. 12th., at 3.30 p. m.

The following donations are thankfully asknowledged Pears, from Miss Caldwell, Hockley; vegetables, Mr. Wesley South.

MONO MILLS.

Rev. C. W. Holdsworth and Mrs. Holdsworth of Islington, are visiting friends here.

We are pleased to know that Mr. Wm. Jackson is able to go around again after his serious illness.

Mr. W. J. Mills has sold his fine property in the village here, to Mr. Jas. Arlow. The price realized is about $7000.00. We understand that Mr. Mills intends buying in Orangeville. Needless to say the village and community sustains a great loss in the removal of Mr. Mills and the members of his household.

The erection of a memorial for the boys of the community, who have laid down their lives in defence of their country in the Great War, has been in course of discussion and careful consideration for some months, and it has been decided to make an appeal to the residents of the polling divisions of Caledon, Albion, Mono and Adjala, adjacent to Mono Mills, for funds for the purpose. Committees have been appointed, and a general canvas will be made on or about Sept. 15th.

A CHILD CALLED.

The death of little Mary Margaret Williamson, the six year old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Nelson E. Williamson, of Toronto, occurred at the home of her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. John Leighton, Third Ave., on Thursday evening, following a severe illness of about two weeks duration. The little girl was taken ill unexpectedly while visiting here. Her parents were at once summoned and the services of a physician and nurse were enlisted, but the skill of the doctors and the best care and attention that love could devise were unfortunately unavailing to save the precious life. Little Margaret was a bright winsome child, full of laughter and sunshine, and was a general favorite wherever she went. Her loss is a cruel blow to the parents, who have the heartfelt sympathy of all their friends in the great sorrow that has cast its shadow over their lives. There was a large attendance or relatives and sympathizing friends at the funeral, which was held by motor to Greenwood cemetery on Sunday afternoon. The little casket was literally hidden by the mass of beautiful flowers, mute tokens of the sympathy of many friends and at the same time fitting symbols of the sweetness and innocence of the child life that had "gone before". Among these was a large spray of roses from Danforth Ave. Methodist Sunday School, which little Margaret attended regularly when at home. Rev. P. C. Howard, of Cardwell, conducted the funeral service and four cousins, Frank and Reggie Jackson, Harold Bracken and Fred Sproule, were the pallbearers.

WILLIAM A. CURRY

The death of William A. Curry, a lifelong resident of the Township of Mono, took place in Lord Dufferin Hospital on Sunday morning, Aug. 31st., following a difficult operation for an internal malady that baffled the skill of the physicians. Deceased, who was brought to the hospital only the day preceding his death, was a well-known and highly respected farmer, and the news of his demise came as a great shock to a wide circle of friends and acquaintances. Mr. Curry was born on Lot 10, Prince of Wales Road, and was the son of Mr. and Mrs. Thos. Curry, early residents of the township. Shortly after his marriage he removed to lot 15, close to Camilla village, where he resided up to the time of his death. He was 65 years of age and is survived by his wife and a family of two daughters, Mrs. (Dr.) A. E. Kyles, of Saskatoon, and Miss Birdie Curry, at home. Of a family of eleven two sisters, Mrs. Frank Galbraith, of Toronto, and Mrs. Alonzo French, living in Michigan, are the sole survivors. Sincere sympathy is felt for the bereaved family and relatives. There was a large attendance at the funeral, which was held to the Forest Lawn Cemetery on Thursday afternoon. Services were conducted by Rev. Mr. Coutts, of Camilla, assisted by Rev. W. M. Morris. The pallbearers were Messrs. Robt. Patterson, James Hand, G. H. Harshaw, Frank Galbraith, Thos. Turnbull and W. J. Curry.

STEPHEN WALLACE.

Orangeville lost one of its old and best known citizens last week through the death of Mr. Stephen Wallace, which occurred at his home on West Broadway about five o'clock on Wednesday afternoon after a severe illness of about two weeks duration. The late Mr. Wallace, who was 77 years of age, came to this town about fifty years ago and had been an Undertaker here for the last 24 years. He was born in Glasgow, Scotland, but came to Canada with his parents when only four years of age. The family settled in Guelph, where the subject of our sketch spent his youth. When a young man he settled at Camilla, but moved to Orangeville in a short time and was married here a few years later. He is survived by his wife and two daughters, Mrs. J. A. Armour, of Owen Sound, and Mrs. J. A. Raymond, of Toronto, who have the sympathy of the community in the loss of one who had always been a devoted husband and a loving, affectionate parent. As a business man the deceased was esteemed for his sterling honesty. He was a good neighbor and a law-abiding citizen, whose sympathies and support were always given to any movement for bettering the life of the community. Mr. Wallace was a staunch member of St. Andrew's Church, was identified with the Orange Order and was for many years Recorder of Orangeville Lodge of the A. O. U. W. The funeral was held from his late residence to the Forest Lawn Cemetery on Friday afternoon and was largely attended. The services were conducted by Rev. W. M. Morris, the family pastor, assisted by Rev. Major A. L. Burch, a former pastor. Messrs. J. A. Armour, J. A. Raymond, W. J. and A. R. Mills, W. A. Henry and J. J. Laverty were the pallbearers. The floral tributes, which were numerous and beautiful, included a Pillow from the family, a wreath from St. Andrew's Church, an anchor from Mr. and Mrs. E. A. Parsons, a wreath from Owen Sound friends and sprays from A. R. Mills and family, Mrs. W. J. Mills, Mr. and Mrs. T. K. Hall, Owen Sound, Mr. and Mrs. Ross, Owen Sound, Katherine Malcolm and May White, Owen Sound, The Busy Bee Club, Mr. and Mrs. F. Marshall, Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Wells, Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Henry, Mr. and Mrs. R. Goodeve, Mr. and Mrs. I. J. Murphy and Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Cowie.

Among the friends present from outside points were Mrs. (Dr.) R. M. Mason, of Fenelon Falls, Mrs. E. J. Cobean and Mrs. Harry Gillespie, of Toronto.

MRS. A. J. HUNTER.

Her many local friends were shocked and deeply grieved by the news of the death in Woodstock on Wednesday night of last week of Mrs. Hunter, wife of Dr. A. J. Hunter, formerly of Orangeville. Mrs. Hunter had been in her usual good health up to Saturday preceding her death, when she was taken suddenly ill. An operation was considered advisable and this took place in Woodstock Hospital on Tuesday night, but unfortunately did not avail to save the life of the stricken woman. The remains were brought to Orangeville for interment, reaching here on Friday morning accompanied by her husband and their daughter, Dorothy.

A large number of relatives and Orangeville friends were at the depot to meet the remains and to extend their heartfelt sympathy to the bereaved husband and daughter in their great loss. The funeral, which was by motor, was held direct from the depot to Greenwood cemetery, with a stop at St. Andrew's Church for the funeral service. This was largely attended and was of a solemn and impressive character. Rev. W. M. Morris, the pastor, and Rev. Maj. A. L. Burch, of Toronto, a former pastor of St. Andrew's and an intimate friend of the departed woman, were the officiating clergymen. At the close of the service opportunity was given the friends to view the remains, before the casket was removed from the church. A large number of beautiful floral tributes bore silent testimony to the sorrow and esteem of friends of the family. The pallbearers were Messrs. D. J. and H. A. Hunter, W. E. Armstrong, Jno. Norris, Jos. Cloughley and Isaac Reid.

The late Mrs. Hunter was a daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. John Curry, of Farmington. She had spent nearly the whole of her life in or near Orangeville, leaving here about five years ago with her husband for Allandale. Eight months ago they moved to Woodstock, where Dr. Hunter was appointed Resident Physician in the Provincial Hospital for Epileptics. During her residence in Orangeville Mrs. Hunter was a devoted and consistent member of St. Andrew's church and took an active interest in Ladies' Aid and W. M. S. work. She was a bright, cheerful woman, who made many warm friends and enjoyed the esteem of all who knew her. She was devoted to her family, and her loss is a cruel blow to the bereaved husband and daughter, to whom the heartfelt sympathy of all their Orangeville friends is extended in their time of sorrow. A brother, Mr. Franklin Curry, of Campden, Ont., and two sisters, Mrs. J. C. Limebeer, of Alton, and Mrs. Jos. Cloughley, Toronto, also survive to mourn her loss.

Among the friends here for the funeral from a distance were Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Foster, Mr. and Mrs. Arch. Campbell, Mrs. Snider, Miss Reid, Miss Curry and Mr. and Mrs. Jos. Cloughley, of Toronto, Mr. F. Curry, of Campden, and Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Armstrong, of Hamilton.

THE LATE WM. LINDSEY

After a lingering illness borne with patience and christian fortitude, Wm. Lindsey passed away at the home of his son at Fort Qu'Appelle, Sask. on August 16th. The late Mr. Lindsey was born in Albion township, near Tullamore, on May 14th, 1836. Before removing to the Canadian West over 28 years ago he resided on the 5th line, east, Caledon. The late Mr. Lindsey was married twice, his first wife being Miss Ann Morrison of Chinguacousy, and his second wife was Miss Rebecca Craig, of Toronto. Three daughters and three sons are left to mourn the loss of a kind and loving father:—Mrs. H. McDonald, of Weyburn, Sask., Mrs. J. Hunter, of Toronto, and Miss Margaret, of Mono Road, John J., Wm. A. and Sam. D., of Saskatchewan. Two sisters and two brothers survive him, Mrs. Harper and Miss Mary Lindsey, of Bolton, Joseph and Robert, of Toronto. A large number of friends followed the remains to Prospect Cemetery, Fort Qu'Appelle. Service was conducted by Rev. Mr. Cox, Anglican, and an address was given by Rev. Dr. Rolley, Presbyterian.

Hush! blessed are the dead
In Jesus' arms who rest
And lean their weary head
Forever on His breast.
O, tender hearts and true,
Our long, last vigil kept
We weep and mourn for you,
Nor blame us; Jesus wept.
But soon at break of day His calm
Almighty voice
Stronger than death shall say
Awake,—arise,—rejoice.

EDGAR W. JORDAN

The remains of the late Edgar W. Jordan, whose death in Detroit, was briefly noted in last week's issue of The Banner, reached Orangeville on Saturday morning and were taken to the home of the deceased's sister, Mrs. Lena Youmans, First Avenue. The funeral was held to the Forest Lawn Cemetery, Saturday afternoon, Rev. Capt. Stewart conducting the burial service of the Anglican church. Mr. Jordan passed away very suddenly on the morning of Labor Day while preparing to go off for a day's fishing. His death was caused by acute dilation of the heart. Deceased enlisted during the war and had only recently returned to the duties of civil life. He was a skilful and succesful printer and newspaper writer and at the time of his death held the responsible position of manager for the Frederick C. Matthews Company, a large Detroit publishing and printing concern. When the sad news of his demise reached his relatives here, a brother, Ernest, recently returned from overseas, left immediately for Detroit to take charge of the remains and accompany them home. The pallbearers on Saturday were Messrs. S. A. McCartney, Dr. G. H. Campbell, J. Foley, John Norris, Geo. R. Gray and W. C. Hopkins. Much sympathy is felt for Mrs. Youmans and the other relatives in their sudden bereavement.

THE WESTON GAMES.

The much discussed clash between The Dufferins and Weston's vaunted lacrosse team will take place in Weston on Saturday afetrnoon, Sept. 20, when the two teams will meet in the first of home and home games to determine which shall go into the final for the Intermediate O.A.L.A. championship. The 2nd game will be played on Idylwyld Park on Wednesday afternoon, Sept. 24th. The winners of the round will then meet Bracebridge in the final game, which will likely be a sudden death affair on some neutral grounds. Those who saw the Orangeville-Weston games in 1915 are looking forward to a warm time when these oldtime rivals meet again. The majority of the players on both teams participated in the two strenuous games played in1915.

IN MEMORIAM

Lines written by Mrs. Robt. I. Curry in loving memory of her father, Matthew Langtree who departed this life, Sept. 3rd 1909, at the ripe age of 80 years and 8 months. He was the oldest resident of Amaranth and the last of the township's pioneers.

Another loving father gone
To Join the Savior's band
Another faithful servant called
To obey God's great command.

One precious to our heart is gone
The voice we loved is still
The place made vacant in our home
Can never more be filled.

Sorrow comes to every circle
Whether great or small
But we know amidst our trials
That our God rules over all.

One by one we'll all pass over
One by one we'll cross the tide
To that blessed happy city
Over on the other side.

For we know our time is coming
We must labor here below
Till the Saviour bids us follow,
Heaven's gates will ne'er o'er flow.

Farewell Father thou did'st leave us
Peaceful be thy silent rest
Thou art only gone before us
Thou wilt meet us with the blest.

Men Blinded In the War.

Does blindness make the brain more acute?

Undoubtedly. That is the only conclusion one can arrive at after reading of the achievements of blind heroes told by Sir Arthur Peterson in his wonderful story "Victory Over Blindness."

Not only have the thousands of men blinded in the war, nearly every one of whom have passed through St. Dunstan's, the hostel for blinded soldiers and sailors, learned new trades and occupations and succeeded in overcoming their big handicap so successfully that they have been able to take up their old positions, but in some cases they have actually gained bigger appointments.

One blinded officer who has returned to his employer is now not only in entire charge of the correspondence of his firm, but is solely responsible for the buying of one of the largest departments. He has also started a new business himself and obtained a Government contract.

A brilliant example of the manner in which a man who has lost his sight can carry on in an important business position is afforded by a captain, who occupied the position of director of the foreign and colonial part of his firm's business. After studying at St. Dunstan's, he is now able to carry out his duties as though nothing had happened.

Furthermore, his fellow directors are dispatching him upon a world-tour to rebuild their foreign business, which has suffered from the war.

As masseurs, research chemists, solicitors, farmers, preachers, and writers, these blind heroes are, with indomitable courage and perseverance, competing with men who can see. Others are keeping shops, setting up as boot manufacturers and carpenters and joiners.

Never was a greater mistake made than to imagine, as many people do, that blindness means helplessness. After "learning to be blind," as Sir Arthur, who is himself sightless, so happily puts it, "they can do anything they think they can do."—Tit-Bits.

Mining Plumbago.

Plumbago, Ceylon's most important mineral product, is known all over the world for its lustre, lubricating, polishing, and binding qualities. In appearance it is a strong black crystalline. There are now about one thousand plumbago mines in Ceylon, including all the shallow pits, open works, and deep mines. The depth varies from a few yards to as much as seven hundred feet. Most of the mines are worked by natives, the only important one controlled by Europeans being the medapola. At the majority of the mines the only machinery used is the "Adabare." This consists of a long wooden barrel with handles at each end. Round this a rope is given two or three turns and a bucket fastened to each end. It is worked by seven or eight men turning the handle.—Family Herald.

A SIMPLE METHOD TO REMEDY RHEUMATISM

AGE DOES NOT INTERFERE IF TREATMENT IS PROPERLY FOLLOWED

Many persons contend that there is no sure remedy for Rheumatism, Sciatica, Neuralgia, Lumbago, Neuritis, or their kindred diseases, but don't be biased: draw your own conclusions from the proof submitted.

Over two years ago, William Nesbitt, of 113 John St., Toronto, Ontario, was attacked by Rheumatism. Mr. Nesbitt was 53 years of age at the time and he feared the worst. After trying many remedies and prescriptions without obtaining relief he took a friend's advice and used Templeton's Rheumatic Capsules. Result—to-day Mr. Nesbitt says, "He hasn't lost a day's work since nor fears Rheumatism any more."

Mr. Nesbitt gives the entire credit for his recovery to T.R.C.'S. Profit by his experience. Try them.

Ask your Druggist or write us for our new booklet; it is interesting and costs you nothing (Templetons, 142 King West, Toronto). We mail T.R.C.'s anywhere on receipt of $1.00.

Rathenau on the Kaiser

Of the abundant crop of confessions, revelations and apologies published by the former leaders of Germany few are entitled to more attention than Walter Rathenau's "Der Kaiser: Eine Betrachtung" ("The Kaiser: A Study"), just issued in Berlin. The author, son and collaborator of the founder of the General Electric Company, the world famous "A.E.G.," as it was familiarly known by its German initials, was, and is, one of the foremost chieftains of German industry and one of the organisers of German industrial mobilization. Although co-operating with the imperial government in the conduct of the war, Rathenau consistently opposed extremist aims and methods and favored the democratization of the empire. Before the war he distinguished himself as a progressive and scholarly critic of social conditions and an opponent of the Junker spirit. At an early date he discovered the fateful implications of German-English rivalry and advocated a peaceful adjustment. He was, finally, one of the closest friends and advisers of the Kaiser himself. He has thus all possible qualifications to speak with authority.

Especial interest attaches to what he has to say on the relation of the Kaiser to the German people and on the question of co-responsibility. Rathenau, a convinced democrat, has no patience with those who would fix a clear cut line between the German rulers and the ruled and absolve the latter of their share of guilt. Non-German critics of a different brand will have no quarrel with his view that the Kaiser, although not representative of the German people in an absolute sense, was representative of the German people of his day. In other words, he was a symbol of the shortcomings of a German people which abandoned the heritage of its fathers—thinkers, poets, idealists: "As little as he was an exponent of his people, as much was he the exponent of his age—of the age and the forgetfulness of his people."

And: "This people of this age, consciously and unconsciously, has willed him as he was and not otherwise, has willed its own self in him as he was and not otherwise. In the indescribable dramaturgy of her weaving of history Clio was pleased to link, in a great human fate, the German people with its own ephemerous being, its self-estrangement, its idolatry and its fall. Never before has a symbolic man mirrored himself more perfectly in his epoch, nor has any epoch mirrored itself more completely in one man."

Rathenau does not mince words in admitting the German people's co-responsibility in the events: "Not for a day could Germany have been ruled as she was without the consent of her people." In extenuation he pleads that the German people did not know any better and needed an external shock to awaken. Very unusual—from a German of his class—is his statement that in spite of all external splendor the last twenty-five years were really a period of decay for Germany:

"So powerful was the living energy of Germany that the empire was kept going by it for a generation. For him who was wont to see the sun only, all signs of death were hidden for a generation. Success only was visible. The spirit of history . . . willed that this people should annihilate its over-mechanized epoch through self-annihilation and the annihilation of its ephemerous idol. The German people had to mature in error."

Fat Men In History.

The general idea seems to be that fat and fame do not go together.

This is probably accounted for by the face that those of large bulk are inclined to be easy-going and therefore lacking in that push which is said to bring a man to the fore. The only great statesman one can recall who was really a fat man was Charles James Fox, as can be seen even by his effigy in the Palace of Westminster, where he would make three of his great rival, Pitt the younger.

Jamie Thompson, the author of "The Seasons," is probably the only really fat poet. He was a comfortable, lazy, slovenly man, of whom it is related that he would eat peaches off the wall, not taking the trouble to take his hands out of his pockets to pluck them. Yet, despite his lazy disposition, he managed to write one of the longest of English poems, as well as "The Castle of Indolence"—a castle in which he habitually dwelt.

G. K. Chesterton, one of the stoutest of living celebrities, has on several occasions made up in the character of the Saxe of Fleet Street with excellent success. It is a little remarkable, too, that one of his closest friends, Hilaire Belloc, is almost as noted for his bulk as he is for his criticism of military operations, his poetry, his history and his fiction.—Tit-Bits.

Cactus Is Vegetable Camel.

In the hot desert regions of Arizona and Mexico the cactus stores in its thick leaves every drop of water or dew that it can get, so that there is always a supply, not for a day, but for a dry season. In reality the spines of the cactus are the remnants of its leaves, and the so-called leaves are the modified stalks. In the waterless regions where the cactus grows it has very little use for leaves that would only wither away from the heat, so it reduces them to a very effective weapon against all enemies, and then swells the stalks to make the kind of watertank it can best use for its purposes. The best proof of the efficiency of its reasoning is in the fact that it exists where very little else can, except a few plants, which have similarly adapted themselves to circumstances.—Family Herald.

MUSEUM OF WAR TROPHIES.

Imperial Authorities Gather Relics of Past Struggle.

The remarkable progress which has already been made in the formation of the Imperial War Museum is described in the second annual report of the committee.

The report of the curator and secretary, Major Charles Ffoulkes, gives a comprehensive list of the exhibits which have come from the many theatres of war. Among the 470 in the naval section are relics of the battle of Jutland and of the attacks on Zeebrugge and Ostend, including a portion of the Zeebrugge Mole. Models were prepared immediately after the armistice to show the result of the Zeebrugge and Ostend operations, and a collection of six models has been acquired through the generosity of shipbuilding firms. The Admiralty have transferred to the museum the entire contents of the "Dazzle" Painting School, which includes some hundreds of model ships of all classes, each painted with a scheme of "dazzle" design. Special attention has been given to the surrendered German submarines and other craft.

Sir Roger Keyes' signal before the attack on Zeebrugge, "St. George for England," and Sir David Beatty's historic signal respecting the German flag after the surrender of the fleet are among the documentary exhibits of the naval section, which will include models of typical vessels and portraits by famous artists of officers and men who have distinguished themselves.

For the army section over 800 trophies have been received during the past year. One of the most interesting is the well-known "Lone Howitzer," of which a complete record is preserved from August, 1914, to September, 1917.

Owing to the system of collecting captured trophies from salvage dumps and forwarding them thence to England, it is difficult to attach any particular historical significance to a large number of trophies, but in the majority of cases they are claimed by certain regiments and deposited by them in the museum. A gilt wreath placed by the ex-Emperor William in 1898 on the tomb of Saladin, in Damascus, and sent to the museum by order of the Emir Feisul, a periscope 30 feet high, and Oriental weapons from Palestine and Egypt are among the acquisitions.

The Royal Air Force is represented by airplanes, models, and bombs (including a British missile weighing 3,000 lbs.), and there are many exhibits illustrating munitions, medical, women's and religious work.

The library owns 14,000 items, and the publicity records over 21,000, these including enemy proclamations respecting the executions of Capt. Fryatt and Nurse Cavell. Mr. J. S. Sargeant's "Gassed" is to form part of the collection of paintings and sculpture, and other sections are those for medals, photographs and models.

Figures Never Lie.

In January, 1910, there were in the United States 62,683 single men insane and 26,047 married men insane—which shows that the crazy men stay single. At the same time there were 37,115 single women insane and 25,975 married women insane—which proves that in January, 1910, married life made more women crazy than it did men. And the more you study these figures the crazier it makes you.—The Journal of the American Medical Association.

Missed the Vital Points.

Everybody who has used a telephone knows exactly what is meant by the following description of the way a certain person talked over the wire: The man at one end had become thoroughly exasperated and asked his friend if he were losing his hearing. His friend was an Irishman and replied: "I can hear you all right till you begin to talk, and then I can't understand a word you say."

There is a False Modesty

Which Causes Many People to Suffer Agony for Years From Piles—Dr. Chase's Ointment Cures.

Rather than consult a doctor or in fear of an operation, which so many doctors recommend, many people live in almost constant misery from piles or hemorrhoids.

There is not only the distress from the stinging, burning, itching sensations, but there is also a strain on the system which undermines the general health.

Many thousands find relief and cure in the use of Dr. Chase's Ointment. Slowly the good word has been passed along until Dr. Chase's Ointment has become known throughout the civilized world as the most effective treatment obtainable for the cure of this distressing ailment.

This letter will give you some idea of what difficulty many people are experiencing in obtaining cure until they find out about Dr. Chase's Ointment.

Mr. F. M. Craig, 29a Shannon street, Toronto, Ont., writes: "A few lines in regard to the merits of Dr. Chase's Ointment may be beneficial to many people who are suffering like my wife did with itching and protruding piles. For seven months she suffered untold agony with itching and protruding piles, bleeding at the least movement she would make. I spent dollars and dollars on different remedies, but to no purpose, having sent to Chicago, Cincinnati, New York, Cleveland, Detroit and many other cities, but met with no success.

"While talking to a friend one day, he told me that he had tried everything for the same trouble, and the only thing that cured him was Dr. Chase's Ointment. So I secured some of this for my wife, and can safely and truly say that within two months not a sign of any could be seen. She used four boxes altogether, and we cannot speak too highly of its merits. I would not be without it in my house, as I also find it valuable for lots of minor complaints which no other ointment will touch."

Dr. Chase's Ointment, 60 cents a box, at all dealers, or Edmanson, Bates & Co., Limited, Toronto. There are no rivals to Dr. Chase's Ointment as a treatment for piles.

RATIFYING TREATIES.

Great Democracies Have Different Methods.

The British method of ratifying treaties differs from that of the other democracies that took part in the war. It may surprise some persons to learn that the French and the Italians have a more representative system than either Great Britain or the United States.

According to British custom a treaty may be proclaimed by the Government without the approval of either House of Parliament. In 1911, discussing the same questions raised as to an international treaty amending the rules of warfare at sea, known as the Declaration of London, Sir Edward Grey told the House of Commons: "I have already stated in answer to a supplementary question, asked on 18th November, 1910, that the consent of Parliament is constitutionally not necessary to the ratification of the Declaration of London." He added, however: "But, as is well known, no Government would advise his majesty to ratify a convention against the declared opinion of the House of Commons.

In the House of Lords, in 1911, Viscount Morley of Blackburn, speaking on the same subject, said:

"There is a great state in which the treaty-making power is divided between the executive and the Legislature, but I am not sure that those who have to deal with that great and most friendly community always find that an advantage, and I think you will be introducing a very dangerous principle or maxim into our constitution if ou impair the treaty-making right now vested in and practiced by the crown."

Lloyd George nevertheless submitted to Parliament both the Treaty of Versailles and the tripartite alliance treaty recently signed by France, Great Britain and the United States. They were both approved, although they could have been proclaimed without such action.

The French constitution requires treaties of peace and certain other classes of treaties to be laid before the Senate and the Chamber of Deputies for action. The lower House, which is by far the more powerful branch of the French Parliament, will take the lead in discussing the German treaty. A majority in either branch may amend or reject.

The Italian constitution also provides for the approval of treaties by both legislative branches. The lower House at Rome greatly overshadows the Senate. Much more than the French Chamber it is the Government. The Italian Parliament will probably delay action on the treaty with Germany until after the Austrian, Hungarian and Turkish treaties are completed. Italy's interests are only slightly affected by the settlement with Germany. They will be vitally affected by the terms of the later settlements.

In Japan, as in Great Britain, the treaty-making power is vested exclusively in the crown. If the Japanese Parliament is allowed to pass on the treaties ending the war it will be only as a matter of imperial courtesy.

The treaty-making power in the United States is vested in the President and the Senate. The popular branch of Congress—the House of Representatives—has no voice in the ratification of conventions with foreign powers. But, on the other hand, it can annul them in whole or in part by refusing to pass legislation carrying them into effect or by passing legislation in conflict with their provisions.

The Senate is the only check on the President in the United States scheme of treaty making. And the Senate's influence on the process is enhanced by the fact that the draft of a treaty submitted by the executive must be approved by two-thirds of the Senators present instead of by a mere majority.

Frozen Lake In Africa.

It is a wonderful lake far off in the heart of Africa, where the sun blazes sublimely and causes the water to evaporate so quickly that an outlet is considered by nature to be a superfluity — a lake like our Great Salt Lake, where the inflowing waters have unloaded common salt for so long a period that the saturation point has been passed.

But there is a difference in the material deposited. The soil through which the African streams flow is different from ours, and hence, instead of finding common salt or sodium chloride in the Magadi Lake, a chemical test shows us the presence of sodium carbonate (kitchen soda). Moreover, the sodium carbonate is crystallized into a solid mass—or in other words, is frozen.

Different substances solidify or freeze at different temperatures. Think of a lake sixteen miles long and four miles wide, frozen under the torrid glare of the African sun. Wonderful, isn't it—and yet, absolutely true.

It is a wild, uncivilised country in which this lake is located. Here and there may be seen the three-toed footprints of a stray rhinoceros that has labored through the alkaline soil. The country is being improved, however. The lake is in British East Africa, 252 miles west of Mombassa. —Popular Science.

Burglar's Mascot.

Seldom will a burglar proceed to "crack a crib" without a mascot of some sort in his possession, says an exchange. Some burglars will not break into a house that bears a number they dislike—it is generally that of the policeman who effected their arrest on a previous occasion. Others will not undertake a midnight job if there is a new moon. This has been regarded as a bad omen, but a hale around a full moon gladdens the heart of Bill Sikes. Pickpockets, too, are highly superstitious. The light-fingered fraternity seldom pick the pockets of a cross-eyed or a club-footed person. To do so would mean courting disaster. Finding a twisted coin among the contents of a stolen purse will often induce a pickpocket to throw the purse away. The keeping of it is supposed to signify early arrest.

Actual Experience

The Ontario Temperance Act is Emptying Ontario's Jails

Jail Commitments Before and After Passage of the Act.

ALL CRIMES	DRUNKENNESS
1915—20,337	1915—6,235
1918—13,242	1918—2,595

From Annual Reports of Inspectors of Prisons 1915 and 1918, and Schedule H. Report of the Board of License Commissioners for Ontario for the year 1918.

ONTARIO'S experience with prohibition under the Ontario Temperance Act since September 16, 1916, has been all the argument any fair-minded man or woman wants, to prove that the Act should neither be repealed nor weakened by Amendments.

Jail Commitments for crimes and offences of all kinds have decreased more than one-third since 1915.

Jail Commitments for drunkenness alone decreased from 6,235 in 1915, the year preceding the Act, to 2,595 in 1918.

Jail Commitments for drunkenness decreased despite the fact that the Act makes drunkenness in public places a "prima facie" offence, punishable by fine or imprisonment, whether accompanied by "disorderliness" or not. A drunken man on the street has become a rare sight.

The number of commitments for drunkenness in Ontario in 1918 was the lowest in seventeen years, although the population of the Province increased by over 500,000.

Some jails received no drunkards in 1918 at all. Others show well nigh unbelievable decreases, notably in the cities and larger towns.

Do you want to see the taste for alcoholic beverages revived, and the population of Ontario's prisons, jails and lock-ups restored?

If you are convinced that drunkenness is undesirable in this Province mark X in the "No" column after each question.

"No!"—Four Times—"No!"

Each and every one of the four questions on the ballot paper in this Referendum must be answered or your ballot is "spoiled." And unless you mark X after each question in the "No" column, the Ontario Temperance Act will be spoiled, and years of Temperance progress lost.

Eyeless Fish.

The inhabitants of the ocean differ in many respects, according to the depth at which they live, but almost all in their powers of vision.

Fish that live at very great depths have either no eyes at all or enormously big ones. There are two methods of getting about in the gloomiest abysses—by delicate organs of touch, or by sight, that collects the few rays of light due to phosphorescence or other accidental sources.

Fish which live near the top of the ocean have smaller eyes than those, say, eighty fathoms down. One hundred and twenty fathoms deeper, where daylight disappears, the eyes are bigger still. Beyond the depth of two hundred fathoms, small eyes prevail, with long feelers to supplement them.

At this depth, in fact, sight is practically useless. In the greatest abysses the fish are usually blind, feeling their way about solely by means of their sensitive bodies. Some, indeed, show signs externally of having once possessed eyes, but that is all.

In others — the oldest and most confirmed abysmal species—the eye has disappeared altogether externally, though traces of it are still to be recognized, embedded deeply in the tissues of the head.

Many deep-sea fish have a curious system of hollows in the skull or about the body which hold a kind of phosphorescent slime. Others have round or oval shining opalescent spots, placed on the head or along the body or tail.

All of them are abundantly supplied with nerves, and they are apparently organs for the production of phosphorescent light. If so, such a fish must swim about surrounded by a faint glow, somewhat like that thrown off by luminous paint.

One scientist even suggests that these fish may have the power of directing their rays in any direction, like a searchlight.—Tit-Bits.

Navy Vegetables.

Admiral Simms said at a dinner in New York.

"It's no wonder that the Turkish navy failed to do much in the war. The Turks were never a maritime people.

"The story goes, in fact, that when they came to set up a navy in Turkey they were very much embarrassed by the shortage of naval words in their language. They had no word for mainsail, no word for fore-top-gallant, and so on.

"To get over the difficulty, the Turks tied different vegetables and the like to the different sails and ropes, and the men learned their duties to such commands as:

"'Hoist the potato!'

"Now, then, my hearties, let go the tomato with a will!'

"'All hands aloft to reef the beefsteak!'"

THE REFERENDUM.

Official announcement was made on Monday that Monday, October 20, had been fixed as the date for taking the Referendum vote on the Ontario Temperance Act.

ORANGEVILLE PRESBYTERY

Orangeville Presbytery had a very heavy day's business at its meeting in St. Andrew's church here on Tuesday. Arrangements were made for the induction of Rev. Samuel Lundie, who has received a unanimous call to the pastorate of Knox church, Grand Valley. Provisional arrangements were also made for the induction of Rev. Geo. Milne, of London Presbytery, who has received a call to Everett and Mansfield, at a stipend of $1500, and free manse. The congregations of Mount Pleasant and Cheltenham have extended a call to Rev. T. Dodds, of Sonya, offering a stipend of $1650 a year, and manse. Arrangements were made for the prosecution of the call at the next meeting of Peterboro Presbytery. The resignation of Rev. J. McCartney, pastor of Keldon and Levendale churches, was vigorously opposed by a representative delegation from the two congregations. As a consequence the Presbytery refused to accept the resignation.

DONALDSON-MacKELLOW.

A quiet wedding took place in St. Mark's Church, Orangeville, on Monday evening, September 1st, at 5.30 o'clock, when the Rev. Capt. T. H. Stewart, rector of the Church, united in marriage Miss Edith MacKellow, late of Guildford, England, and Mr. Charles William Donaldson, of Orangeville, son of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Donaldson, of Chippewa Hill, near Southampton, Ont. The only attendants were Mr. and Mrs. Fred A. Knaus, of Orangeville, cousins of the groom.

COURTNEY-PORTERFIELD.

A very pretty wedding was solemnized at the home of Mr. and Mrs. John Porterfield, of Amaranth, on Wednesday, Sept. 3rd, at 5.30 o'clock, when their eldest daughter, Lena Pearl, became the bride of Mr. Samuel Earl Courtney, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. M. Courtney, of Margville. The ceremony was performed by Rev. W. M. Morris, pastor of St. Andrew's church, Orangeville, on the lawn, the bridal couple taking their places under an arch of evergreens and maple leaves. The bride, who was given away by her father, looked charming in a gown of white net and satin and wore the customary bridal veil, caught up with orange blossoms. She carried a bouquet of white carnations and sweet peas with smilax and maiden hair fern and wore the groom's gift, a pretty gold wrist watch. Miss Gertrude Courtney, sister of the groom, was bridesmaid and wore a pretty gown of champagne silk. She carried a bouquet of pink carnations and sweet peas with maiden-hair fern. The groom was supported by a cousin of the bride, Mr. Cecil Menary. Miss Willa Trimble, who played the wedding march, was prettily dressed in white silk crepe de chine. The groom's gift to the bridesmaid was a brooch set with diamonds, to the planiste a brooch and to the best man a set of gold cuff links. After the ceremony the happy couple led the way to the dining room, where a dainty lunch was served. This room was very prettily decorated in pink and white. After the wedding breakfast the bride slipped away, returning in a short time attired in a pretty holland blue silk crepe de chene dress. The young couple received a large number of beautiful and costly presents, indicative of the high esteem in which they are held by their many friends. Among these were a handsome buffet from the groom's father and brother and a number of cheques for substantial sums. There were about one hundred and sixty-five friends and relatives present at the wedding. The evening was pleasantly spent in dancing and other amusements. The Banner joins the many friends of the young couple in wishing them every happiness in their new home.

A SKATING RINK.

A well-attended meeting was held in the Public Library on Thursday night to consider the question of the erection of a modern Skating Rink. The need of a Rink has been badly felt in Orangeville for some years, and it is felt in many quarters that it is high time steps were taken to construct a rink that will fill the want. The meeting practically decided to go ahead with plans for the construction of a rink having an ice surface of approximately 105 by 65 feet, with a 15 ft. space for spectators along each side and at one end. A Committee was entrusted with the duty of obtaining tenders for the erection of the building and another committee was appointed to consider the best plan of raising the necessary funds. This will probably be done by organizing a joint stock company. It is estimated that the Rink will cost close to $10,000. Another meeting will be held in the Library at 9 p.m. to-night. All citizens who are interested in the project are invited to attend.

FREQUENT HEADACHES

A Sure Sign That the Blood is Watery and Impure.

People with thin blood are much more subject to headaches than full-blooded persons, and the form of anaemia that afflicts growing girls is almost always accompanied by headaches, together with disturbance of the digestive organs.

Whenever you have constant or recurring headaches and pallor of the face, they show that the blood is thin and your efforts should be directed toward building up your blood. A fair treatment with Dr. Williams' Pink Pills will do this effectively, and the rich, red blood made by these pills will remove the headache.

More disturbances to the health are caused by their blood than most people have any idea of. When your blood is impoverished, the nerves suffer from lack of nourishment, and you may be troubled with insomnia, neuritis, neuralgia or sciatica. Muscles subject to strain are under-nourished and you may have muscular rheumatism or lumbago. If your blood is thin and you begin to show symptoms of any of these disorders, try building up the blood with Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, and as the blood is restored to its normal condition every symptom of the trouble will disappear. There are more people who owe their present state of good health to Dr. Williams' Pink Pills than to any other medicine, and most of them do not hesitate to say so.

You can get Dr. Williams' Pink Pills through any dealer in medicine or by mail at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50 from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

Cards in War Service.

Having helped many a soldier through weary hours in trench and hospital, playing cards are now being pressed into active war service, says the London Chronicle. You may have noticed the new and neat little cloth badges on the sleeve of our men from the front, but possibly have failed to understand the designs. They are nothing but the familiar club, spade, heart and diamond of the playing card. Under the new scheme regiments are divided into packs, each company having its own symbol in a certain color to serve as an identification mark, all other badges being removed before going over the top.

DECORATED BY THE PRINCE

Sergt. Elgin Wansbrough was invested with his Military medal in Toronto on Wednesday afternoon of last week by the Prince of Wales. About two hundred other investments took place at the same time. While there is nothing of distinctive honor in winning the coveted decoration, in these cases there is the unusual honor of having the medal pinned on by the future King of the Empire. Quite a few from town including Mr. and Mrs. Wansbrough, Misses Nellie and Marion were present at the function. With characteristic modesty Sergt. Wansbrough refrains from explaining how he won the honor, but in due time it is hoped that government or military records will make public his gallant conduct. In passing it might be added that Sergt. Wansbrough comes from real fighting stock, his great grand-father being given a tract of land in Erin for his services rendered at Waterloo, while his grand uncles fought in the American civil war. In the late struggle every Wansbrough of military age sought admission to the ranks, and more than one came back with honor and preferment won on the field.—Star and Vidette.

BURN BOULETS.

A Cheaper Fuel That Gives Better Results Than Coal.

Boulets is the name of a cheaper Fuel that gives better results than the best Hard Coal. It is made from the fine Screenings of the best Anthracite Coal and about Five per cent of Fuel Oil pressed into lumps a little larger than Chestnut Coal.

There is no Clinker or Slate when burning this Fuel, and consequently no trouble with the Grate, as Boulets burn into dust. It can be used with the best of satisfaction in Ranges, Direct Draft Heaters or Furnaces.

From the best information I can get from the mines, coal is going to be very hard to get this winter. Be wise and put in a supply of this Fuel while it can be had.

I have also hard and soft Coal, Cannel Coal and Wood at reasonable prices.

Highest prices paid for Grain and Potatoes.

Customs of Ancient Inns.

Abroad, where many quaint and curious hotels, taverns, and inns of respectable antiquity abound, it is natural to find numerous odd customs. For instance, there is an inn in a town on the Rhine wherein whenever a patron is heard to swear he must place a coin equivalent to the bar on the counter.

Until recent years there was a most respectable old inn in Warwickshire, the proprietor of which was accustomed to invite all his patrons to accompany him and his wife on Sunday morning to a church directly opposite the inn. On returning from service each customer was expected to partake of refreshments offered by the hospitable landlord free of charge.

Those who put up at one hotel in Edinburgh obtain, if they are accustomed to the ways of the place, a first-hand knowledge of the Scottish disposition. Patrons of this hotel must remember to keep their shoes or boots in their rooms overnight, otherwise their footgear will be blacked, regardless of its original color.—Tit-Bits.

Humanity has lacked a practical rheumatic remedy since time began. Fortunes are spent yearly at hot springs, electric baths and hospitals to obtain relief, yet better results are achieved right at home by using T.R.C.'s "the common sense treatment." Just compare cost and results with any other treatment and you will be convinced. Ask your druggist or write us for our new booklet; it is interesting and costs you nothing (Templetons, 142 King W., Toronto) We mail anywhere on receipt of $1.04.

One of the world's richest men was the son of a poor Scotch weaver. He early learned the advantages of economy. At the age of 10 he saved a few shillings—enough to buy a box of oranges—which he quickly peddled at a profit of 100 per cent. While yet a young man, he managed through thrift to accumulate $500, which he invested. His first dividend inspired the remarkable achievements of later years.

DISTRICT MEETING

Methodists Aim at $11 Per Member For Forward Work.

The Financial District Meeting and Campaign Conference of the Orangeville District of the Methodist Church was held in Shelburne, Wednesday, September 10. It was well attended by both the ministers and laymen. Rev. E. R. Young, B.A., of Orangeville, occupied the chair; Rev. W. W. Wallace, B.D., of Shelburne, was elected Secretary, and Rev. T. W. Lane of Horning's Mills, Statistical Secretary. An interesting address upon financing missionary work within a district was given by Rev. W. W. Prudham, B.D., of Wiarton. Mr. Prudham also gave an illustrated lecture upon Japan, where he served for some years as a missionary. Rev. Geo. Burry spoke of "The Church of To-day, its Faith and Mission;" Mr. D. E. Dean, of Shelburne, dealt with "Life Stewardship" in the afternoon.

Rev. S. W. Dean presented the great scheme that is now before the Methodist Church to raise four million dollars for special purposes. The District adopted the objective of $11 per member, and recommended that each circuit try to reach such an aim. A Special Committee, consisting of Rev. E. R. Young, Chairman; Rev. Geo. Burry, Secretary, and Messrs. D. E. Dean, Shelburne; John M. Dods, Alton, and Inspector Liddy, was appointed to press the District Campaign. Along with this financial campaign there is to be a spiritual campaign for church workers and recruits for the ministry and mission fields.

In the evening Rev. Thos. Scott, M.A., of Laurel, spoke on "Leadership of the Spirit in Prayer," and Rev. S. W. Dean conducted an evangelistic service.

HOME FROM OVERSEAS.

Mr. and Mrs. Geo. A. Leighton, Zina St., received a joyful surprise the other day, when their older son, Staff Sergt. J. M. Leighton, arrived home quite unexpectedly after an absence of between three and four years overseas. The young soldier reached New York on the Celtic on Sept. 4th and arrived in Orangeville two days later, coming home by way of Montreal. Staff-Sergt. Leighton was on the staff of the Canadian Bank of Commerce in Danville, Que., when he signed up with the 87th Bn. as a Private on Nov. 11th, 1915. He went overseas in April of 1916 and to France in August of the same year with the 4th Division. He served at the front with the 87th Batln. until March 1917, when he was sent to the Base Hospital on account of an injured knee. After coming out of the hospital he was given a category and attached to the Y.M.C.A. with which he served in the capacity of chief cashier until demobilization. In this capacity Staff-Sergt. Leighton accompanied the Canadian Army of Occupation into Germany and spent last Christmas and New Years in Bonn, the great University centre of Germany. He also had the interesting experience of visiting Italy for a few weeks while on leave. Our townsman is looking well and is quite frank in declaring that Canada is dearer than ever after his prolonged absence overseas. He says that this country is attracting great interest in Great Britain, on the continent and even in Germany, where many of the better class people express a desire to settle in Canada once settled peace conditions obtain. When interrogated by some of these Germans, who expressed a desire to come to Canada, Staff-Sergt. Leighton told them frankly that he did not think they need expect a very warm welcome for awhile as the people of Canada were not likely to forget the war and German ruthlessness for some years to come.

SCOTCH DOUBLES TOURN.

43 Pairs—12 local and 31 from outside Clubs—competed in the annual Scotch Doubles Tournament held on the Orangeville Greens on Wednesday of last week. The day was favorable for bowling, although a trifle chilly, and some really good bowling was witnessed. Dr. McNichol and partner from the St. Matthew's Club, Toronto, won the main event, T. A. Thauburn, of Brampton, figuring as runner-up. The second event was also won by the St. Matthew's Club, Alderman Hiltz and his partner being the successful players. Dr. Bowles and W. J. Gillespie, of Orangeville, were the runners-up.

DIED IN CHURCH.

Rev. Father Finegan Stricken by Apoplexy on Friday Afternoon.

The sad and altogether unexpected death of Rev. Father T. E. Finegan, parish priest of St. Peter's church, occurred on Friday afternoon last, was a distinct shock to the community. The circumstances attending the death of the priest were unusually sad. As nearly as can be ascertained he left his residence and went to the church about 1.30 p.m. He was last seen alive by Mr. Robt. Henderson about 3.30 p.m. Two hours later a small girl named Adams, who chanced to enter the edifice as she was passing, discovered the lifeless body of the Father lying across one of the seats. The child hastened to her home and gave the alarm to her parents. The news spread rapidly and in a short time quite a number of parishioners and townspeople had congregated at the church. Dr. T. H. Hess, who was summoned, expressed the opinion after making an examination of the remains that death had occurred about two hours previously. He also expressed his belief that Father Finegan had been stricken by apoplexy while engaged in the performance of some duties in the church. As soon as the necessary arrangements could be made the remains were removed to Hulse's Undertaking Rooms, where they were prepared for burial.

On Sunday at 7 p.m. the body was taken to St. Peter's church, where Rev. Dr. Treacy, of Toronto, held service and extolled the virtues of the departed priest in an eloquent sermon. A large congregation was present, including many prominent friends and acquaintances of the deceased. At 11 o'clock on Monday morning requiem High Mass was held in the church. Rt. Rev. Monsignor Whalen, V. G., of Toronto, was the celebrant, Rev. Dr. O'Leary, of Toronto, officiating as Deacon, Rev. E. McCabe, of Toronto, as sub-Deacon, and Rev. J. Sheridan, of Port Credit, as Master of Ceremonies. In the Sanctuary were Rt. Rev. Monsignor Kidd, D.D., and Very Rev. Dean Hand, of Toronto. Thirty other priests from the Archdiocese were present for the service.

At 5 o'clock Monday afternoon a last service was held in the church, when prayers for the dead were offered. At the close of this service the funeral procession formed and proceeded from the church to the depot, where the remains were placed on the train. Interment took place at Syracuse, N.Y., where the departed priest was born 49 years ago. Two brothers, Geo. W. Finegan, of Syracuse, and John C. Finegan, of Boston, Mass., and Chief of Police Cadin, of Syracuse, were here for the services and accompanied the remains to their last resting place.

Father Finegan came to Orangeville about four years ago from Toronto as successor to Father Egan. He was a graduate of Manhattan College, N.Y., and St. Michael's College, Toronto. He was ordained in December, 1897, and for a time was Curate of St. Michael's and St. Paul's of Toronto, and was afterwards priest at Grimsby, Barrie, Dixie and St. Joseph's. He was a very large man physically, and a warm, generous hearted Irishman, who was beloved by his parishioners and enjoyed the respect and good-will of the community at large.

AN AUTO FATALITY.

Olive Bremner, Six Year Old Daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. S. Bremner Struck by Car and Fatally Injured on Thursday Evening Last.

Orangeville had its first automobile fatality last week. Shortly after six o'clock on Thursday evening little Olive Bremner, the six-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Alex. S. Bremner, First St., was struck by the fender of a car driven by Robert Marshall, of Mono, and sustained injuries which caused her death late on Saturday afternoon. The child was running from her home on the east side of the street across the roadway to a point on the west side of the road where her brother, Donald, and some other children were gathering maple leaves on the roadside. She crossed directly in front of the car and was not seen by the occupants until too close to either stop or swing to the side. The fender struck the child, hurling her to the ground, but fortunately enough to one side for the wheels to miss her body. Mr. Marshall, who was accompanied by Township Clerk W. A. Henry, of Mono, and Rev. A. J. Fowlie, was driving slowly at the time and was able to stop the car almost in its own length. The sad occurrence was purely accidental and no blame attaches to Mr. Marshall, who is an experienced and careful driver and feels very keenly his part in contributing to the death of the child.

The little victim was rushed to Lord Dufferin Hospital in an unconscious condition and was given every possible care by the nurses and Dr. Kyles, the family physician. Drs. Rooney, of Orangeville, and White, of Shelburne, were also called in consultation. Pressure on the brain from her injuries had caused partial paralysis and on Friday the doctors decided to attempt a trephining operation to relieve the pressure and as the only chance of saving the child's life. This was performed on Saturday morning by Dr. Moorefield, of Toronto. The operation was apparently successful, but the strain and shock of her injuries had been too severe for the little patient and late in the afternoon the heart collapsed.

No death in Orangeville in recent years has created keener sorrow or awakened such heartfelt sympathy for those bereaved. The innocent victim of the unfortunate accident was a bright, attractive child, whose sunny nature and winsome ways quickly won the hearts of all who knew her. In the circle of her acquaintances she was beloved by all and the news that the bright, young life had gone out created a feeling akin to consternation. The sympathy so generally felt for the heartbroken parents found one form of expression in the large number of beautiful floral tributes and another in an unusually large attendance at the funeral on Monday afternoon. Citizens of all walks and classes united in paying a last mark of sympathy and respect. Many of the neighbors and friends of the family from their old home near Camilla were also present for the services at the home and grave. These were of a particularly solemn and impressive character and were conducted by Rev. W. M. Morris, the family pastor, assisted by Rev. E. R. Young, pastor of the Methodist church, Rev. Capt. Stewart, rector of St. Mark's church, Rev. John Dodds, pastor of the Baptist church, Rev. Wm. Coutts, of Camilla, and Rev. A. J. Fowlie, a former pastor at Camilla. The pallbearers were four uncles, Ernest and Emerson Little and Peter and Cecil Bremner.

Among the floral tributes were the following:—Pillow from the parents and brother, Donald; Sheaves, from Grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Little, Nurses of Lord Dufferin Hospital, Mr. and Mrs. Jas. Trimble and family, and St. Andrew's Sunday School; Anchor, Mr. and Mrs. Robt. Marshall; Cross, Mr. and Mrs. E. A. Parsons; Wreaths, Mr. and Mrs. R. J. McConnell, Rev. A. J. Fowlie, W. A. Henry and family, and Schoolmates; and Sprays, Methodist Epworth League, Little Playmates, Mrs. and Miss Elizabeth Mann, Ralph and Hazel Bremner, Dr. and Mrs. Kyles, Postmaster and Mrs. G. H. Harshaw, St. Andrew's Ch. Bible Class, Mrs. Gordon Hayes, Mr. and Mrs. John and Miss Alice Patterson, Mr. and Mrs. A. Fuller, Miss Ethel Arkell, Helen and Jean Sanderson, "Dear Wee Olive's Sunday School Class", Mr. and Mrs. W. Cowie, Agnes Babe Ewing, Bertha Lemon and Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Whaley.

Friends from a distance included Mr. and Mrs. Robt. Steele and Mr. Lindsay, of Malton; Mr. and Mrs. W. McLaughlin, of Chupleau; Mr. Thos. Little, of Cheltenham; Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Densmore and Mr. James Wiggins, of Claude; Mr. Isaac Little, Mrs. E. Little, Miss J. Little and Mrs. C. A. Overland, Inglewood; Mrs. J. J. Nesbitt and family, Caledon; Wm. and Miss Sarah Gracey, Mr. and Mrs. Geo. McCabe, Miss Lottie McCabe and Miss Mary McCabe, Shelburne.

AN AUTO FATALITY

Mrs. Margaret Keetch, wife of Mr. Wyndham Keetch, a prominent jeweller in Sault Ste. Marie, was instantly killed in an auto accident on Thursday afternoon of last week. Mrs. Keetch was visiting at the home of Dr. Jones, of Webbwood, Ont., about 150 miles from her home. On Thursday afternoon, Dr. Jones had occasion to make a motor trip some miles into the country. Mrs. Jones and Mrs. Keetch decided to accompany him for the drive. While they were descending a steep hill some part of the machinery of the car broke and it plunged over an embankment and turned upside down. Mrs. Keetch was killed instantly. Mrs. Jones had a couple of ribs broken and Dr. Jones escaped with a few bruises and scratches. The body of the unfortunate woman was taken to her home on Thursday and the funeral was held on Friday afternoon. The bereaved husband is a brother of Mrs. J. R. Lathwell of this town.

HAS GOOD WORD FOR SNAKE

New Yorker Points Out How Unpopular Reptile Aids the Farmer in Growing Crops.

The pretensions of the snake, as a domestic animal of great value, were advanced by Allen B. Williams, president of the Reptile Society of America, at New York.

The society, of which Mr. Williams is the head, middle and end, has undertaken a campaign of education on behalf of the snake, claiming that as a destroyer of rodents and other small pests on the farm he is the friend and benefactor of man. For the poison-bearing snakes Mr. Williams holds no brief and concedes the necessity for their obliteration from the earth; but of the nonpoisonous ones he had this to say at the banquet while you could have heard a pin drop:

"To the lay mind, the idea of the black or the garter or any one of a thousand varieties of harmless snakes being of any service to mankind may appear preposterous and unworthy of discussion. But the facts are otherwise. The snake has a very important bearing on the question of food production, a matter which, even since the signing of the armistice, grows more important daily. The snake is the great small-pest destroyer of the American farm. Every person who kills a nonpoisonous snake might just as well destroy one hundred times the snake's weight in wheat."

Mr. Williams proposes that the value of the snake be taught hereafter in the farm schools and agricultural colleges and says he intends to become the editor of a publication devoted to snake conservation and culture. He advocated the introduction of a small snake or two into every household in the land, saying that the snake, contrary to popular belief, made an ideal household pet, and in the course of every year represented many times over a saving of his weight in mousetraps.

NITRATES.

South America Is the Chief Source of Supply.

During the great war one often heard the alarming cry about the shortage of nitrates. What if we should be cut off from the nitrate fields of South America? was the question often raised.

For the time being, we receive practically all of our nitrate supply from the great lake in Chili. Sodium nitrate, also called Chili saltpetre, is found in natural deposits in desert regions along the west coast of South America, especially near the boundary lines between Peru, Chili, and Bolivia. The territory is now chiefly owned by Chili. The deposits extend about 220 miles in length, and the average width about two miles.

There is practically no rain in this nitrate district. Water and fuel are both very scarce; so much so, in fact, that they are employed as economically as possible in refining the crude ore. The sodium nitrate crystals are only partially pure when they are drained and dried in the sun, and then packed for shipment as crude Chili saltpetre.

The formation of the nitrate beds or lakes is attributed to the decomposition of sea plants under such conditions of temperature and humidity that the ammonia produced was converted into nitrate by the action of the nutrifying bacillus, an organism found in the soil. The region being rainless, the sodium nitrate was not washed away.

The chief use of this material is in making gunpowder and explosives, matches, fireworks, and in certain metallurgical and analytical operations. It is even employed for curing meat. It can be prepared into excellent chemical fertiliser. Still nearer home to most of us city folk, it can be used in making "laughing" gas, which is what the dentist gives his patient to put him to sleep preparatory to pulling out a troublesome tooth.

Alcohol is Poison

Doctors Say It Is a Menace in Any and All Forms

FIVE ounces of alcohol will kill a full-grown healthy man within ten hours. Taken in smaller but repeated doses alcohol lets him live longer but gets him in the end. All alcoholic beverages are poison, slow or swift.

Medical science has established that alcohol is a poison and a narcotic chemically related to ether and chloroform, and not a stimulant. A man was once brought out of ether who had taken eight ounces, and a man was once brought out of chloroform who had taken 22½ ounces, but no man ever revived who swallowed five ounces of alcohol at a single dose. The unconsciousness or coma produced by alcohol if not broken within ten or twelve hours is followed by practically certain death.

Alcohol as medicine has been expelled from the American Pharmacopoeia by the American Medical Association.

2.51% Alcohol in Beer Makes it Poison

THE beer of the ballot contains 2.51% alcohol by weight—over twice as strong as the beer of the Ontario Temperance Act (2.50 Proof Spirits). The Beer of the Ballot is intoxicating. Three glasses of the Beer of the Ballot contains as much alcohol as a glass of whiskey.

When you are asked are you in favor of beer containing 2.51% alcohol by weight—in shops, bars, or anywhere else, vote

"No!"—Four Times—"No!"

Save yourself, save your family, save your country for the destiny God intended unhandicapped by "booze."

Be careful—mark your ballot after each question with an X under the column headed "No," or your vote will be lost to Temperance.

Only a GOOD White Lead can hold World Supremacy for 200 Years

TWO hundred years ago—when the sign-painter was an artist of every high standing—the best white lead for any kind of painting was Brandram's Genuine B.B. Today, the most fastidious painters still choose this world-famous white lead for their most particular work.

Brandram's Genuine B.B. White Lead

The reason is not far to see. Most white leads are produced by one process of corrosion—such as the so-called "Old-Dutch" process, "Chamber" process, or some more or less mechanical process. But Brandram's Genuine B.B. White Lead is a combination of different processes. Thus, particles of different shapes and sizes are merged so as to form a product of wonderfulsmoothness, capacity and covering power.
